INTRODUCTION

All Wightmans should be very thankful for the tremendous amount of work done by the talented genealogist, Mary Ross Whitman, in her research, travels, and efforts to compile the Wightman ancestry, GEORGE WIGHTMAN OF QUIDNESSETT, R. I. (1632-1721/2) AND DESCENDANTS. We will be indebted forever for the genealogical foundation that she has established for our family name.

Mary Ross Whitman was born on 27 Apr 1872 in Omro, Winnebago Co., WS and died on the 26 Mar 1938 in Chicago, IL, unmarried. She graduated from the University of Michigan in 1903. Mary accepted in 1905 the position of head of the Department of Modern Languages in the Northern Illinois State Teachers College at DeKalb, IL where she taught Latin and French continuously until 1930 when she was automatically retired on a pension with the title of Professor Emeritus. For several years she had classes in the teaching of English Grammar. She eagerly renewed her studies of the French, German, and Italian languages in preparation for summer trips of European travel between 1910 and 1928. She was able to conduct large parties of her friends successfully upon these European journeys.

She feared that some time her manuscript might fall into the hands of someone whose reverence for the absolute truth might not be as commanding as her own. She kept her secretaries busy until the last days of her life, and when she died, she left in her will a bequest for the purpose of completing her work. The manuscript, George Wightman of Quidnessett, R.I. (1632-1721/2) and Descendants, was published in the exact form in which she left it.

I have strived to build on her compilation of the descendants of George[1] Wightman and also identify the ancestry of the other Wightmans who migrated from England, Scotland, and Ireland to America.

We have a fabulous and distinguished Colonial and Old English heritage. All Wightmans should be very proud of their ancestors. The Wightman name is unique, distinctive and quite special. All the Wightman immigrants seem to claim the same heritage in the Old Country which makes all of us cousins.

I have tried to go beyond the recitation of names and dates. Anecdotes on family members, as well as education, occupation, religious affiliation, and even the thoughts of our cousins and ancestors gives us a better feeling of the family to which we belong. Close family ties by the Wightman\Whitman members are indicated by the naming of children after well-loved relatives.

Please contact me for any corrections or additions. These will be put into Volume II. Any person named WIGHTMAN/WHITMAN or who is associated with this names, please contact the compiler with your family information at the following address:

Church Affiliation: Many correspondents listed Methodist as their choice. Pastor Raymond[11] Wightman of the First United Methodist Church, 190 North Cedar Street, Manistique, MI 49854 offered the following information. "In 1968, the then Methodist church merged with the Evangelical United Brethren Church to form the United Methodist Church. The Methodist Church, as a name, no longer exists in the United States. Furthermore, as there are 26 denominations stemming from the Methodist movement, it is improper to refer to a person or congregation as a "Methodist," when referring to a time since 1968."

INTRODUCTION

The genealogical data concerning the first four generations of Wightmans as found in the following pages are based almost entirely upon original town records in Rhode Island and Connecticut. Not many families of the kindred removed from New England until the fifth generation, although a few of earlier date did go to Dutchess County, New York, or to Berkshire County, Massachusetts. The original records in the town books of New England, especially during these earlier years, are remarkably full, consisting as they do of vital statistics, wills, land records, and town meeting records, and these can be supplemented by church and military data and, in a few instances, by Bible records. Most of the Wightmans of these early generations left wills, and where one source of data was lacking others were usually found to check and supplement. For these reasons it was not difficult to establish an almost complete account upon which to build the record of succeeding generations.

Beginning with the fifth generation there was in most lines a marked migration to the region of the Hudson River and especially to Renssalaer County and about Albany, New York, following the war experiences of the young men who had seen service in those parts. A few went to Pennsylvania. As the country westward was soon opened up, especially in the region of German Flatts in New York state, great numbers of New Englanders took up land there. Among these were numerous Wightmans from both Rhode Island and Connecticut.

The children of these early pioneers generally moved again and very frequently made several successive migrations searching for better location. Records were not well kept, vital statistics of the period are absolutely lacking, and definite data of the fifth and sixth generations have had to be secured very largely from living descendants scattered all the way across New York state, the Western Reserve, and into Michigan and other states of the Middle West. This has been done in a great number of cases by the compiler who has traveled and visited these families, and the number of family Bibles which has been brought forth to yield up valuable data has been astonishing. Beginning with the seventh generation many individuals sought the far West. From these, data have been secured most largely through correspondence. A very few have failed to respond.

As to the relationships established in the following record, all except a single instance are fully proved by definite authentic record or by circumstantial evidence which, checked and rechecked, supports the conclusion. The single instance referred to is fully discussed in its proper place in the text. So much cannot be claimed for the accuracy of details such as dates, places of birth, etc. Such sources as Bible records, family papers, tombstones, official town records, and genealogies are found to disagree in numerous instances. Mistakes in names also may occur due to illegible writing or the use of misleading nicknames. Such mistakes, regrettable but unavoidable, will undoubtedly be found.

The compiler is indebted to a great number of the family kindred who have shown a lively interest in the undertaking and furnished much valuable material often going to the trouble of compiling a record covering their own collateral branches. In some instances the inquiry has aroused an interest in family history not previously felt, and the data sought have been graciously hunted up and supplied. In innumerable cases a personal visit has resulted in not only valuable gleanings of data but in delightful personal acquaintance.

A complete list of all those who have graciously furthered the enterprise by supplying material cannot be given here. In most cases, acknowledgment has been made in the text to those who have made extensive contributions. To the following persons, however, the compiler is especially indebted, either for the very full record contributed, for particularly valuable items supplied, or for the considerable and persistent effort made to seek out exact data:

THE WIGHTMAN GENEALOGY

GEORGE WIGHTMAN

GEORGE WIGHTMAN, born 4 November 1632 in England; died between 25 January and 1 February 1721/2 in Quidnessett, situated within that part of Kingstowne which is now called North Kingstown, in Washington Co., R. I. He married probably in Kings Province (later called Kingstowne) about 1663, ELIZABETH UPDYKE, baptized 27 July 1644 in the Dutch town of New Amsterdam; died between 25 December 1712 and 26 April 1716 in Quidnessett, daughter of Sieur Gysbert and Catherine (Smith) op d(en) dyck (Updyke).

George Wightman's birth date, 4 November 1632, is recorded in his family Bible, which is still extant.* He was without doubt a native of England. In his will he bequeathed to his eldest grandson, George Wightman, "my chest also which I brought out of England and my great bible"; and he bequeathed to his son Valentine Wightman "my silver drinking cup and my chest which I brought out of England." There is, however, no clue to his exact birthplace.

It is assumed that he came more or less directly to Newport; but no ship's list or other record giving the port of his departure from England or fixing the place or date of his arrival in America has been found. It seems probable, considering the above recorded equipment which he brought with him, that he was no stripling when he came. Besides he was a tailor, and one would suppose that his apprenticeship was served in England prior to his departure for a new land.

A Valentine Wightman (Whitman), undoubtedly an older brother,† was already here in 1653, the date of his first child's birth in Providence (Prov. rec.). Assuming that Valentine married in Rhode Island about 1652, it is fair to suppose that he had been known in the community for a few years previous. Furthermore Valentine's activities as an Indian interpreter recorded as early as 1654 suggest his arrival possibly by 1648 or earlier, and as George in 1648 would be but a lad of sixteen years, it is not likely that they came together.†† It seems altogether probable that George came between 1653, the year of his legal majority, and some years previous to 1663, the assumed date of his marriage.†††

It is likely that like most of the early colonists in Rhode Island, our young English settler soon became interested in acquiring land, although no record of land transactions in this early period has been found; and the Narragansett Country on the mainland to the west across from Newport offered opportunities. This region, about twenty-five miles in extent from north to south, comprised all of the country lying south of the present towns of Warwick and Coventry, and extended westward to Connecticut. The Narragansetts were a friendly tribe estimated at from 8,000 to 10,000 souls, with 1,500 to 2,000 fighting men.* The main road south from the settlements of Providence and Warwick passed through this Indian country, keeping a line not far inland by way of the Indian village of Cawcamsqussick (Cocumscussuc), southwesterly to the present town of Westerly, and so on into Connecticut. In the early records it is called "the country road" and the Pequid (Pequot) path.

††Savage says that Valentine Whitman was "much employed as an interpreter" (Gen. Dict. of N. Eng.). Winthrop Papers, Vol. XVI, p. 24 (Mass. Hist. Soc. Lib., Boston) record that "Val. Whitman," interpreter, on 8th mo. 18th Day 1654, witnessed the agreement of Ninigret, sachem, to the surrender of the Pequot captives to John Winthrop. Subsequent data show him to have been employed by Roger Williams and by the early land companies as witness to various transactions between them and the sachems in the Narragansett Country.

The first white man to settle permanently in this region was Richard Smith, in 1640 or 1641. Years later, a question having been raised regarding the right and title of Richard Smith's heir, Richard, Jr., to the domain they had acquired, Roger Williams issued a "Testimony" in favor of the family claim in which appears the following:

Nahiggonsik 24 July 1679

I Roger Williams of Providence in ye Nahiggonsik bay in N. Engl. being (by God's mercie) ye first beginner of ye mother Towne of Providence and of the Colony of Rode Island and Providence Plantations, being now neere to Foure Score years of age Yet (by God's mercy) of sound understanding and memorie doe humbly and faithfully declare y^{t} Mr. Richard Smith Sen., who for his conscience to God left faire Possessions in Gloster Shire and adventured with his Relations and Estate to N. Engl. and was a most acceptable Inhabitant and prime leading man in Taunton in Plymouth Colony: For his conscience sake (many differences arising) he left Taunton and came to ye Nahiggonsik Country where by God's mercy and the fave of ye Hahiggonsik sachems he broke the Ice (at his great Charge and Hazards) and Put up in the thickest of ye Barbarians ye first English House amongst them (Potter's "Narragansett," App., p. 166; R.I. Col. Rec. Vol. III, 57).

Richard Smith's first tract, "secured on friendly terms," probably with the assistance of Roger Williams himself, lay just north of the Indian village of Cocumscussuc on a cove of Narragansett Bay. To this wilderness he brought wife, children and servants, "being courteous to all straingers passing y^{t} way." In 1643/4 when Roger Williams himself built a trading-post nearby, his only neighbor was Richard Smith, whom he calls "hospitable and intelligent"; and for more than a decade it remained a "lonely situation" (Letters of Roger Williams). Later, Smith made additional purchases until he possessed all of the land between Narragansett Bay on the east, the Indian Road (Pequot Path) on the west, the Cove (below Quidnessett) on the north, and the Annaquatucket River on the south.

Meanwhile, this whole Narragansett Country became contested domain, both Massachusetts Bay on the north and Connecticut on the west coveting and conniving for its possession. In January 1657, a Company composed of four members from Newport and one from Boston, secured from the Indians a large tract in what is now South Kingstown, called the Pettiquamscutt Purchase. Two years later the Humphrey Atherton Land Company was organized, composed of speculators from Massachusetts Bay and from Connecticut, together with the local proprietor Richard Smith and his son, Richard Jr. On 11 June and 4 July of that year (1659) the latter Company obtained from the sachem Kachanaquant two large grants: one lying north of Richard Smith's tract, the other south of his trading-post at Cocumscussuc. The upper tract was Quidnessett, bounded on the north by the Potowomut River, west by the Indian road (Pequot Path), south by Richard Smith's land, and east by Narragansett Bay. The extreme length of this tract was six miles, the width about three.† On 13 October 1660 the Atherton Company secured from the sachem Ninigret and other Indian chiefs a mortgage upon all of the remaining unoccupied lands of Narragansett. To this transaction, Valentine Whitman, brother of George Wightman, was a witness.†† Since this powerful group favored the political jurisdiction of Massachussetts Bay or Connecticut rather than that of Rhode Island, it was with a sense of alarm that Roger Williams and other leaders viewed this acquisition of Narrangansett lands. Furthermore, in 1662 Connecticut obtained a royal Charter giving her all the territory eastward to the "Narragansett River."††† At this crisis, the men of Rhode Island sought a new Charter; and in 1665 a Commission appointed by the Crown visited Rhode Island, declared the mortgage annulled, restored the authority of Rhode Island and ordered the whole domain organized as King's Province (1674).*

In the midst of this turmoil in 1660, the Assembly ordered the Atherton Company to open up for sale to private individuals the Quidnessett tract, north of Richard Smith's. Buyers came from Providence, Warwick and Newport, about twenty in number, and among them was Valentine Whitman, brother of George Wightman. The tract "set off" to him at this time comprised somewhat over a hundred acres, a choice allotment, with an outlet on Narragansett Bay (No. Kings. Deeds, ii, 146). This land was soon to become the possession of his younger brother, George Wightman, to be handed down intact through six generations of his descendants and to be known for more than two hundred years as the Wightman homestead in Quidnessett. At the time of the purchase, however, George was still unmarried. Valentine was a married man with four or five children, living in Warwick.

II

The following details concerning the Smith and Updyke families with whom George Wightman soon became allied by marriage, are presented as pertinent to the record of his descendants.

Until the opening up for sale of the large tracts held by the land companies about 1658 to 1660, individual proprietors were very few in the Narragansett Country. To those eager for land, conditions were more favorable farther afield at this early period. In 1642 Richard Smith himself, with others, received a patent to a large grant of land about Maspeth on Long Island, subject to the sovereignty of the Dutch West India Company; and Richard Smith later established a trading-house in New Amsterdam on Manhattan Island. For several years he dwelt much on his plantation at Newtown (Maspeth), living winters in New Amsterdam, his son, Richard, Jr., who remained in the Narragansett Country developing their interests about Cocumscussuc. His summer journeys to and fro between his block house in the Narragansett Country and his Dutch possessions were made overland by the forest road, or following the water-way of Bay and Sound in his sloop, "Welcome." In 1643 his daughter, Catherine Smith, married Sieur Gysbert op d(en) dyck, officer of the Dutch West India Company in New Amsterdam.

Sometime previous to 1638 Gysbert op den dyck, of an ancient Westphalian family, had come probably from Amsterdam. He was a native of Wesel on the Rhine and had been baptized there in the old Church of St. Willibrod, 25 September 1605, son of Lodowigh op d(en) dyck and Gertrudt Van Wesek, his wife; but following the Spanish occupation of Wesel, the family is believed to have removed to Amsterdam.† The year 1630 is given as the date of his arrival at Lloyd's Neck, Long Island, whence he soon appears at New Amsterdam. If this is the correct date, he arrived during the directorship of Peter Minuit (1626-1632), who was himself a native of Wesel.

In 1638 Gysbert became Commissary of the Dutch Fort of Good Hope to the east on the Fresh River, a large tract called Connittecock having been obtained there embracing the present site of the city of Hartford. This was disputed and contested territory, and only a competent man would be put in charge.†† Two years later (1640) harassed by natural and political conditions on his frontier post, he resigned and according to the record "returned to the Fatherland." By 1642, however, he was back again in New Amsterdam (Opdycke Genealogy).

*Richman, "Rhode Island," (1902) Vol. II, 241. This action failed, however, to settle the dispute, Connecticut asserting and reasserting her claims until 1728 (ibid.).

Doc. Col. Hist. N. Y., XIV, 38; Opdycke Genealogy (1889), p. 70.

Opdycke Genealogy, p. 71.

†The following lineage of Gysbert op den Dyck is taken from Opdyck Family by C. W. Opdycke: Henrie, b. ca. 1297; Deric, b. ca. 1340; Johan, b. ca. 1380; Johan, b. ca. 1420; Gysbert, b. ca. 1447; Lodowick, b. ca. 1492; Gysbert, b. in 1528; Lodowick, b. ca. 1565, who mar. Gertrudt Van Wesek.

He has been called a physician, especially by descendants of Updike name, who thus interpreted his recorded title of Doctor. The Opdycke Genealogy offers some doubt of his having been a physician. He was a man of education and probably university-bred (Opdycke Genealogy, p. 47).

††Opdycke Genealogy, p. 59.

The settlement on Manhattan Island was from the start a commercial enterprise. Established by the Dutch West India Trading Company, with Peter Minuit as Director, the colony had prospered. By 1628 its inhabitants numbered 270 souls, and in the next dozen years the number reached about 1,000.* The fort, erected near the water front, enclosed a considerable area. Nearby, a row of warehouses, five in number, constructed of Manhattan stone, with quaint "crow step" gables, were a reminder of the home land. A mill, the governor's house within the fort, and some two score or more cottages along the East River, were built, and a "fine stone tavern" near the Stadthuis was a popular gathering-place.

Here Gysbert op d dyck appears from 1642 on, filling positions of responsibility and respect. In 1642 he was made Commissary of Provisions. He was a member of the Town Council. And that same year, when Gov. Kieft sponsored the building of their first regular church building, Gysbert was a signer to the building contract, together with Domine Bogardus, his intimate friend. This church, built of stone, was erected within the fort enclosure. Its curious double-gabled roof overtopped the earthworks of the fort, and the roof was surmounted by a squatty tower and spire which arose between the gables. The next year the parish register of this quaint stone church within the fort was inscribed as follows:

> Sept. 24, 1643, married Gysbert op d dyck, a bachelor from Wesel, and Catharina Smit, a maiden from Old England.

At this time he was thirty-eight years of age; she was probably not over twenty.†

The newlyweds set up housekeeping in Gysbert's house on Brower (later Stone) Street, and here their eldest child, Elizabeth, was born. The record of her baptism in this same old Dutch church of New Amsterdam indicates that it occurred there July 27, 1644, in the presence of Gov. Wilhelm Kieft, Secretary Cornelis van Tienhoven and Hendrick Huygen, witnesses.††

It was a Dutch community, and both Gysbert and "Katrina" were a part of it. On 29 Sept. 1645 Catharyn op dyck was a recorded witness to a baptism in the Church; and here the next year her oldest son, Lodowyck Opdycke, was baptized. Richard Smith, also, through his property interests, both in the town and on Long Island, was a subject of Dutch rule, and he appears taking a prominent part in affairs. In 1645 he and Gysbert were among the "Eight Men" of the town who were selected to devise methods of protection against the Indians and on 20 August that year both signed the important Treaty of Peace between the Dutch and the Indian chiefs (Opdycke Genealogy).

Meanwhile Gysbert had acquired land and was a patroon with extensive holdings. He owned a tract at Hempstead on Long Island and another at Cow Neck. He possessed all of Coney Island, then three islands, the most easterly of which was long known as Gysbert's Island. In 1656 he was appointed Tithe Commissioner for Long Island by Gov. Stuyvesant and held this position two years. During the same period, keeping his residence in town, he was made Marshall of the Council at New Amsterdam, called also "Court Messenger." At this time his activities were also further engaged as innkeeper, being licensed to sell beer, wine, etc., "having taken a house near the Town Hall " (Opdycke Genealogy).

But the Smiths and the Updykes made frequent migrations back and forth between Stone Street in New Amsterdam and the big "Block House" in the Narragansett Country, Rhode Island. They traveled with children and servants; and the six young Updykes must have come to know the old Block House at Cocumscussuc very well.††† In 1659 Gysbert Opdycke witnessed deeds in Narragansett, and it is probable that the family spent more and more time in the growing colony in Rhode Island. Richard Smith was aging; in 1660 he was spoken of as "old Mr. Smith." Richard Smith, Jr., was already a man of affairs, but he had no children, and was looking upon his sister's son, Lodowick Updyke, as heir. It was doubtless during these visits to the grandfather's house in Narragansett that the young Dutch maiden, Elizabeth Updyke, made the acquaintance of the English settler, George Wightman. They were married probably in 1663 at Cocumscussuc. Kings Province (later Kingstowne), he being about thirty-one and she nineteen.

It is fair to suppose that George and Elizabeth located in Quidnessett following their marriage, as there is no record of an earlier residence; and Valentine, to whom the tract had been originally set off, continued to live in Warwick until his return to Providence.* The formality of a deed to the Quidnessett land was, however, neglected until 1686 (infra, p. 6).

In 1666 Mr. Richard Smith died at Cocumscussuc. "There in his own house with much security of soul and comfort (he) yielded up his spirit to the Father of Spirits" (Williams). A tablet in St. Paul's Church at Wickford is inscribed as follows:

Memorial Tablet
to
Richard Smith
He lived near Wickford at Cocumscussuc, commonly called Smith's Castle, and where Roger Williams often preached to the Indians and William Blackstone held the first regular services in the Colony of Rhode Island
Also in memory of his daughter
Katharine
Wife of Gysbert op Dyck or Updyke
Of Wesel in Westphalia and of Narragansett
She died about 1664

No record of the death of Gysbert op Dyck has been found. He was still a subject of the Dutch regime when, on 10 April 1662, calling himself "an old servant of the Company," he petitioned the Council of New Amsterdam to be appointed Sheriff of Flushing, Newtown, and Jamaica. He won a suit as plaintiff in the following Spring in New Amsterdam (1663). It appears probable that on the surrender of the town to the English in 1664, he left New Amsterdam, and it is very likely that he returned to Rhode Island, especially as he seems to have sold his tract on Long Island and to have disposed of Coney Island. Furthermore, his two oldest children, at least, Elizabeth Wightman and Lodowyck Op dyck were in Narragansett.

By the terms of the will of Richard Smith, his only surviving son, Richard, Jr., received the extensive domain in Narragansett. To his daughter Elizabeth, wife of John Vial of Boston, he gave his "share in the Great Neck of land"; and directed that his "share of land of last purchase" and all his private property be divided as between his four children or their heirs; viz., Richard, Jr., Elizabeth Vial, Joan Newton, and the children "of my deceased daughter Katharine, sometime wife of Gilbert Updyke." The eldest of these Updyke heirs was Elizabeth, wife of George Wightman.

III

By this time a considerable settlement was growing up about a mile south of Richard Smith's block house, and this was named Wickford. The name is said to have been given by Elizabeth, wife of Gov. Winthrop of Connecticut, "it being ye place of her nativitie in Old England."† There was, however, still great difficulty for all settlers in Kings Province regarding their political allegiance and much confusion over property titles. In 1669 George Wightman was arrested and taken with others to Hartford on account of his allegiance to the government of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations.

On 25 July 1670 Geroge Whittman (sic) appears assisting a neighbor, Samuel Dyer, witnessing an agreement on the part of Samuel Dyer and Henry Dyer, "sons of William Dyer," to pay to their sister, Mary Dyer, "eldest daughter of William Dyer," £. 100 within three years (Land Records, Vol. I, 414 (1648-1696) State Archives, Providence).

On 20 May 1671 in "Acquednesitt" Court was held at the house of Thomas Gould, George Wightman and neighbors being present,

*George Wightman was "inhabiting here" (Acquidnessett) May 20, 1671. See infra, p. 6.

The same year (1671) an Oath of Allegiance was taken by those adhering to the jurisdiction of Rhode Island, and George Wightman was among the number (Austin). On 6 May 1673, the Assembly, meeting at Newport, elected George Weightman (sic) (together with others) freeman of Kings Province. On 28 Oct. 1674 the township of Kings Towne (Kingstowne) was incorporated, the name being changed to Rochester on 23 June 1686 but restored in 1689. The name appears also occasionally as Kingston. On 29 July 1679 George Whitman and forty-one others petitioned the King praying he > would put an end to these differences about the government thereof which has been so fatal to the prosperity of the place, animosities still arising in people's minds as they stand affected to this or that government.†

In 1686 George Wightman was elected Constable. On 6 March 1687/8, Court meeting at Rochester > upon complaint to this Court made by Robt. Spinke and others of the town of Rochester that several highways in sd. town are stopped up ... it is ordered that the highway which leads from George Whitman's to the country road and comes out to the said road between the land of James Reynolds and John Briggs be forthwith laid open.††

On 14 Sept. 1687 Court sitting at Rochester, members of the Grand Jury were sworn, George Whitman being of the number.†††

The land records for Kingstowne (Town Hall at Wickford) do not begin until 1686. That George Wightman acquired several parcels of land before that date is evident from later conveyances in his name as grantor, and from his will. The deed to the Quidnessett homestead bears date of May 1682 (No. Kings. Deeds, Bk. II, p. 146). Following is an exact copy of that deed as it appears today in the town book, the margins of the pages broken away and what remains only partially legible.

On Sep^{r} 6th 1687 the list of tax payers (pole money) under Gov. Andros for Rochester (Kingstowne) included George Whighteman, William Bentley, John Sweet, Benjamin Sweet ... Thos. Chace, Thos. Havens, John Cole, Major Richd Smith, Robt. Spink, Jr., John Carr, Daniel Whightman.*

In 1693 George Wightman bought of John Wilbour 250 acres of land on the Great Plaine (No. Kings. Deeds, ii, 150).

On 19 Apr. 1694/5 he purchased (illegible) acreage of Job Card (ibid., ii, 149).

On 15 Feby. 1695/6 he bought 18 acres in Quidnessett of James Green (ibid., ii, 153); and on 12 Aug. 1703 he sold to Wm. Gardner land on Boston Neck (ibid., i, 57).

On 19 Apr. 1708 he bought 250 acres in Westerley from Joseph Dolliver of Jamestown (ibid., i, 150).

On 17 May 1710 he and seventeen others bought a tract of 7,000 acres of vacant lands in Narragansett ordered sold by the Assembly (R. I. Hist. Soc. Coll., Vol. III, 218).

The same year, 1 July 1710, he bought of Lodowick Updike, his brother-in-law, "one Lott of Land in a town Newly layed ... by ye Lodowick Updyke named Wickford in ... Kings Towne" (No. Kings. Deeds, iii, 142). This was a recently platted addition to the village of Wickford.

On 15 Dec. 1712 he and Elizabeth, his wife, sold to George Hazzard 100 acres in Matunoc (ibid., ii, 170-1).

George Wightman was at this time eighty years of age. He lived to pass his eighty-ninth birthday. Elizabeth is not named again in the records. She was at this time past sixty-eight, and was deceased by 26 April 1716.

IV

The recorded events in the life of George Wightman are comparatively few, but the facts which they establish and the circumstances which they reveal furnish a fair basis upon which to form a judgment of this Colonial ancestor. It is evident that he was a man of some education; that he came with established standards of living; and that he did not come empty-handed. He was, or became, equipped to earn his living by a useful and honorable trade. He soon took advantage of the opportunity to establish himself more generously as a yeoman, looking to the future of himself and family.

In Rhode Island, in contrast to conditions in both the Bay Colony and in Connecticut, most of the early settlers acquired considerable land, many being large proprietors; and this was reflected in the social life of the Colony. George Wightman possessed lands totaling some two thousand acres. It is to be observed here also that he was a good judge of land, his various holdings in Quidnessett, on the Great Plain in Exeter, and elsewhere being then as they are today some of the best land in Rhode Island.

One may believe that George Wightman knew his own mind. He stood firm in his allegiance to the jurisdiction of Rhode Island, believing in the fundamental principles which actuated its leaders. His religious convictions were certainly clear and strong, and he was undoubtedly a Baptist. The fact that he left a bequest to "my friend Richard Sweet" and in the same connection a sum of money with which "to buy bread and wine for the congregation" indicates that he was a member of the Six-Principle Baptist Church in North Kingstown, of which Richard Sweet was at that time the pastor, and suggests that he was, himself, a Deacon in that Church. His wife, Elizabeth, had been baptized and nurtured in a different faith; but she was the granddaughter of one who had "for his conscience to God remounced faire possessions in old England" and who was until his death the friend of Roger Williams in New England. Her brother, Lodowyck Updyck, late in life, following his wife, favored the Anglican communion; but it may be believed that there were no

*Jeffries Family Papers, New Eng. Hist. Gen. Reg., Vol. XXXV, pp. 125-6. For the last named, Daniel Whightman, see App. II.

"Beginning with the Updikes, these families were the present (1722) owners of Wickford (Cawcamsqussick) and Boston and Point Judith Neck lands, and they had as landed neighbors the Champlins, the Stantons, and the Babcocks. The lands in question opened upon the old Pequot Path ... and embraced per owner, anywhere from two to twelve thousand acres. The Smiths (to whom the Updikes succeeded) were proprietors at one period of a tract nine miles long by three wide" (Richman, "Rhode Island," Am. Commonwealth Ser., p. 152).

In 1703 his son-in-law, Alexander Huling, gave the land for this church, known as the Stony Lane Church, which was built on a part of the Huling Farm. His daughter, Alice Waite, and family were members here, as well as his son, John, and wife; and twenty years later a grandson, Rev. James Wightman, son of John, was installed as pastor to succeed Richard Sweet.

religious differences in the house of George Wightman. It is significant that in a new land in which opportunities for material advancement might seem the paramount interest, the eldest and youngest sons of this household stepped out into positions of active leadership in support of religious principles. His "great bible," printed in 1587 in London is now owned by a direct descendant of his oldest grandson, George Wightman, to whom he himself bequeathed it.

One may reflect also upon a more intimate aspect of the man, and conclude that he had creditable pride. He married comparatively late, choosing a wife whose family connections were conspicuous for position, ability, and character. He must have been personable to have been the accepted suitor of the town-bred maiden, Elizabeth, daughter of Sieur Gysbert op d dyck, and eldest granddaughter of the proprietor, Richard Smith of Cocumscussuc. He achieved a manner of living in keeping with the recorded standards of yeomen of the period in Rhode Island. His house was no mean dwelling, and the domestic equipment as shown in his will and in the inventory indicates regard for both comfort and appearance.

Emigrating from an old and established country, he took part in the founding of a civilized order in a wild and savage domain; he made a home in the wilderness; and he founded a family nurtured in principles to which they held. Having reached a venerable age, he prepared for his departure; and in his last will and testament bequeathed to his children a goodly heritage in material things, enjoining upon them the fear of God and the ways of peace.

The Quidnessett estate, known today as "Cedar Crest Farm," is reached by a three-mile country road running east from the Wickford-East Greenwich highway. It is being run as a fine stock enterprise by its owner, Mr. Clinton Prescott Knight. The present dwelling, built before the Revolution, has in recent years been remodeled as a comfortable modern residence.

The Wightman burying ground, not far from the present dwelling, is stone-walled and well kept. There are stones bearing dates running back through five generations; earlier graves are marked by slabs of ordinary field stone which have become broken and illegible; and there are evidences of a few graves no longer marked, among which, doubtless, are those of George and Elizabeth.*

The will of George Wightman of Quidnessett, dated 26 April 1716, presented for probate 2 Feby. 1722, is recorded in the No. Kingstown Probate Records, Book vi, pp. 38-43; codicil dated 25 Jany. 1721/2, in Book vi, pp. 44-45.

The record of the will and codicil of George Wightman is now only partly legible. On 16 Dec. 1870 an attempt to rob the bank at Wickford in which the town records for North Kingstown were kept, resulted in an explosion and fire in which the books were badly damaged. Not only were the margins of pages charred and broken, but some pages were scorched entirely clean, and many pages are gone. The copy of the will herein presented was transcribed from the town book by Mr. Elisha D. Wightman of Mystic, Conn., before the records were damaged, and was generously furnished the compiler by Mrs. Joseph L. Wightman of Malden, Mass.

ELIZABETH[2] WIGHTMAN (George), born 26 July 1664 in Quidnessett, situated in that part of King's Province (later Kingstowne) which is now called North Kingstown, in Washington Co., R.I.; died in North Kingstown about January 1756 in her ninety-second year. She married about 1689, (Capt.) ALEXANDER HULING, born about 1665 in Newport, R.I.; died 29 July 1725 in North Kingstown, aged fifty-nine, son of James and Margaret (Wanton?) Huling.

Capt. Alexander Huling, carpenter, yeoman, was the son of James Huling, who was born in 1635 probably in England, and died 6 March 1687 in Newport, R.I. (Austin's Gen. Dict. of R.I., p. 107). His mother, Margaret Huling, whose maiden name may have been Wanton (or Walton) was born in 1632, and died 16 Feby. 1707 (ibid.).

As early as 23 Apr. 1685, Alexander Huling appears in the Narragansett Country (Kingstowne), being a witness to an agreement by the Humphrey Atherton Land Company (Austin), and was probably a resident there, pursuing his trade of carpenter in the rapidly developing locality. He married there about four years later.

On 28 May 1696 he sold "my now dwelling house and settlement, orchards, buildings. ... in the Narragansett Country," and on 18 Feby. 1702 he is named among "those persons that hold and possess lots of land out of the ancient proprietors and have built large buildings (Austin, Gen. Dict. of R.I., p. 107). His home farm was in the northern part of Kingstowne, about two miles north and west from Cocumscussoc (Wickford). On 12 Aug. 1703 he deeded "for love and good will to my loving friends Jeremiah Wilkie and Valentine Wightman of the Baptist Church in the Narragansett Country" half an acre of land about "seventy-six rods north-east of my now dwelling-house in Kingstowne to make use of for building a meeting-house for the worship and service of God." This church known since that time as the Stony Lane (Six-Principle) Baptist Church, was destined to be the church home of succeeding generations bearing the names of both Huling and Wightman; and a kinsman of the latter name, (16) Rev. James Wightman, a nephew of Capt. Huling's wife, Elizabeth, filled the pastorate of this historic church from about 1740 until his death in 1791.

On 29 Oct. 1707 he was Deputy (Representative) to the Assembly sitting at Warwick (R.I. Col. Rec., IV, 28). On 27 May 1709 he and twelve others were allotted eighteen hundred twenty-four acres of vacant lands in Kingstowne, "platted and bounded on the south by the new road into the country from the Pequod Road (post road); east by the Pequod Road; north by Fones' Purchase; west by the road to East Greenwich" (R.I. Hist. Soc. Coll., III, 215). On 7 Jany. 1712/13 he witnessed two deeds conveying to his brother-in-law, George Wightman, a tract of two one hundred-acre farms in Warwick (Warw. Deeds ii, 82, 83). On 6 Dec. 1720 he deeded to his son, James Huling, part of his dwelling house which he says "I first builded" together with some fifty acres of land (No. Kings. Deeds). On 8 Feby. 1725 he deeded to his son-in-law, Alexander Browne, fifty and three-fourths acres (No. Kings. Deeds).

His will dated 25 June 1725 names his wife, Elizabeth, as executrix, and mentions all of his children as listed below, special provision being indicated for Mary, called by her father "senseless." The inventory of personal property totaled 263 pounds, 13 shillings (No. Kings. Prob., vi, 125-7; inv. pp. 129-132).

Elizabeth survived her husband about thirty-one years, letters of administration on her estate being granted to her grandson, Alexander Huling, 9 Feby. 1756 (No. Kings. Prob., viii, 371). The oldest of her father's family, she lived to surpass his venerable age of eighty-nine years, having passed her own ninety-first birthday. She is the first person of Wightman name on this record to pass the age of ninety; but a remarkable number of others will be cited subsequently through the following pages. Capt. Huling's grave is in the church yard of Stony Lane Church. Elizabeth's grave is doubtless there, but it is no longer identified.

AYLICE[2] WIGHTMAN (George), born 29 December 1666 in Quidnessett, situated in that part of King's Province (later Kingstowne) which is now called North Kingstown, in Washington Co., R.I.; living (last record) 30 December 1747, in Exeter, Washington Co., R.I. She married about 1696, SAMUEL WAITE, born about 1660, probably in Portsmouth, R.I.; his will proved 15 April 1752 in Exeter, son of Samuel and Hannah Waite.

Samuel Waite (Wait), son of Samuel, was a grandson of Thomas Waite, born about 1615, probably in England, who became a resident of Portsmouth, R.I., and died there in 1699. His father, Samuel, born about 1640, died Feby. 1676/7 in Kingstowne, where he had become established and had acquired land. Samuel Jr. was made a freeman of Kingstowne 2 Feby. 1685 (R.I. Col. Rec.). On 30 Mch. 1693 he sold land inherited in Portsmouth (Austin).

His wife, Aylice, was thirty-one when their first child was born in 1697. They were doubtless married about 1696, when he was about thirty-five years of age. He acquired land on the "Great Plaine" in the western part of Kingstowne, set off in 1742/3 as Exeter, and established his homestead there. On 21 Apr. 1705 he released to his uncle Reuben Wait of Dartmouth, land formerly in the possession of his grandfather Thomas Waite (Austin). On 2 Sept. 1706 he served on a jury in Kingstowne. On 27 May 1709 he and five others bought seven hundred ninety-two acres of vacant lands in Narragansett (Austin).

He was a member of the Six-Principle Baptist Church in North Kingstown, and was one of the signers of a Petition dated 8 September 1729 sent from the Association of Baptist Churches meeting in No. Kingstown, to the General Court in Connecticut, praying exemption from unjust taxation for the churches of their denomination there. The list of signatures shows the name of Rev. Valentine Wightman, of Groton, Conn., his own brother-in-law among the Elders, second after Richard Sweet, their local pastor; and among the brethren, the name of John Wightman, another brother-in-law, also a resident of Exeter, and his own name given as Samuel Weight (John Comer's Diary, R.I. Hist. Soc. Coll., VIII, 84).

On 11 Feby. 1734/5 he deeded to his son, Capt. John Waite, land in No. Kingstown (No. Kings. Deeds, vii-B, 178-9). On 27 Mch. 1740 he deeded two hundred acres in East Greenwich to his son Benjamin Waite, whom he designates as "practitioner of physick."

His will dated 30 Dec. 1747 names his wife Alice, then eighty-one years of age. He devises

-to son Joseph 200 acres "where he now lives" and 50 dollars;

-to son Samuel "west half of homestead where he now has a house";

-to children of deceased son Benjamin (d. 1745), viz. Virtue, Abigail and John, money;

-to son John "east half of homestead and the old part of the house";

-to wife Alice "use of one-half of the house, all indoor movables, and 18 pounds per year, to be paid by John."

The inventory of personal effects totaled 208 pounds, 2 shillings (Exeter Prob.).

He died at the advanced age of about ninety-two years, his will being presented for probate 15 April 1752.

(Rev.) DANIEL[2] WIGHTMAN (George), born 2 January 1668 in Quidnessett, situated in that part of King's Province (Kingstowne) which is now called North Kingstown, in Washington Co., R.I.; died 31 August 1750 in Newport, Newport Co., R.I. He married first about 1696, CATHERINE HOLMES, born 1673/4, possibly in Middletown, N.J.; died 8 September 1699 in Newport, daughter of Jonathan and Sarah (Borden) Holmes: married second, MARY ---, born 1669; died 4 November 1732 in Newport (gravestone): married third, 1736, Mrs. CATHERINE GARDINER, widow of Dea. Joseph Gardiner, born 1673; died 28 October 1758, aged eighty-five (gravestone), daughter of John and Frances (Holden) Holmes.

Rev. Daniel Wightman was born and reared on his father's homestead in the Narragansett Country, Quidnessett, Kingstowne, but he was probably a resident of Newport as early as 1694, buying town property there that year at the age of twenty-six. He called himself at that time a "joyner" (Newport Deeds).

He became a member of the Second Baptist Church in Newport, more strictly the Sabbatarian (Six-Principle) Baptist Church; and he contributed to the fund with which land was purchased as a site for their church building. His name appears in the list of subscribers, given in the following item taken from "Extracts from the Records of the Second Church," which records the formal transfer to the membership of the Church by Rev. James Clarke, pastor, of two "lots" purchased by the latter, the date of the first deed being 23 Oct. 1697 (R.I. Hist. Soc. Coll. VIII, 103, footnote), and the second, bearing date of "March ye 23rd 1703/4"(ibid., p. 70):

> "Know ye that I, James Clarke, do hereby declare and publish y^{t} ye money y^{t} did purchase both pieces of land was contribution money given by certain brethren hereafter named, to build a meeting-house on for ye worship and service of God and for ye accommodation of ye same.... In witness I have hereunto set my hand and seal this 23rd day of Jany. 1706/7." (R.I. Hist. Soc. Coll. VIII, 70, footnote.)

The subscribers and contributors named, were the following:

> 1. Jeremiah Clarke; 2. Daniel Wightman; 3. John Odlin; 4. John Greenman; 5. James Brown; 6. John Hammett; 7. Jeremiah Weeden; 8. Joseph Card; 9. James Barker; 10. William Rhodes; 11. Stephen Weeden; 12. William Greenman; 13. Henry Clarke; 14. John Rhodes (ibid.).

In 1704 Daniel Wightman was ordained to the work of the Christian ministry and installed as co-pastor of this Second Church (Benedict, Hist. of the Baptists (1820) I, 501; Austin, Gen. Dict. of R.I., p. 226). The pastor, Rev. James Clarke, who had been installed in 1701, was a nephew of Dr. John Clarke, physician, statesman, diplomat, one of the founders of the Colony of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, and the first pastor of the First Baptist Church of Newport. It was during the latter's mission to England on matters pertaining to the Colony's charter (1651-1663), that dissension within the Newport Church resulted in a schism. The following objections on the part of the seceders, to the doctrines and practices of the First Church are cited by Benedict (Hist. I, 467):

> "1. The use of psalmody; 2. restraint upon the liberty of prophesying, as they termed it; 3. particular redemption; 4. holding the laying-on of hands as a matter of indifference, this last supposed to be the principal cause of the separation."*

*Benedict, Hist. of the Baptists (1820) I, 247, gives the following names of twenty-one persons who "broke off from the first church and formed themselves into a separate body (1656)":

Rev. James Clarke was the fourth in succession in the pastorate of the Second Church. Following his death, 1 Dec. 1736, at the age of eighty-seven, Rev. Daniel Wightman who had been co-pastor for some thirty-two years succeeded and remained in the position till his own death in 1750 in his eighty-second year. (R. I. Hist. Soc. Coll. VI, 339).*

Both Rev. Daniel Wightman and his youngest brother, Rev. Valentine Wightman of Groton, Conn., were zealous pioneers of Baptist faith. Rev. Valentine was called to the Groton church in 1705, the year following Rev. Daniel's ordination in Newport. The brothers met on many occasions in church conferences in both Rhode Island and Connecticut; assisted in the ordination of new pastors throughout the field; and directed the policies of the denomination at the "yearly meetings." The following items taken from the Diary of John Comer, who was for a period of some two years a "supply" assistant to Rev. Daniel Wightman at Newport, reveal glimpses of the varied experiences in the lives of these busy pastors and their constant movements in the interests of the denomination (R.I. Hist. Soc. Coll. VIII, pp. 42 ff):

This list is exactly the same as that found in Morgan Edwards' "Materials for a History of the Baptists" (1771), MS. copy, p. 95, published in R.I. Hist. Soc. Coll., VI, 338, and was evidently copied from it.

It is highly probable that Morgan Edwards copied the names of the church members who received the deed to the church lots some fifty years later. Compare this list with the foregoing list of subscribers (see above). See also Narr. Hist. Reg., III, 268-269. For further discussion see App. II, Daniel Wightman.

*Following is a list of the early pastors of the Second Church, showing Rev. Daniel Wightman fifth in succession (R.I. Hist. Soc. Coll. VI, 237-8):

1. William Vaughn, 1656-1677.
2. Thomas Baker, 1677-1679.
3. John Hardin, 1679-1700.
4. James Clarke, 1700-1736.
5. Daniel Wightman, 1736-1750.
6. Nicholas Eyres, 1750-1759.

The original pulpit of the church built 1729 is now in the museum of the Newport Historical Society, Newport, R.I.

John Comer was born 1 Aug. 1704 in Boston, Mass. He attended Harvard College and was admitted to membership in the Congregational Church. Becoming a convert to the doctrines of the Baptists, he came to Newport in 1726 as assistant to Rev. William Peckham of the First Church. About 1729 in consequence of some dissension regarding doctrine he went to the Second Church. He left the Newport field about 1731 going to Rehoboth, Mass., where he died 23 May 1734 (R.I. Hist. Soc. Coll. VIII, 42).

23 Sept. 1729 Tuesday: "Mr. Wightman and I went to ye beach to see ye sein drawn; and did so" (ibid., 84).

29 Sept. Monday: "Mr. Wightman and I went up to visit Mr. Joseph Card ye aged" (ibid., 85).

4 Oct. Thursday: "this day instead of a lecture a funeral sermon was preached by Mr. Wightman in ye meeting-house over the corpse of Mr. Peleg Carr's little daughter" (ibid., 94).

30 Jany. Fryd. 1730: "Mr. Wightman went to ye alms house to visit Hannah Weston" (ibid., 100).

10 May 1730 Lords Day: "this day Mr. Staples sent a note to Mr. Wightman as underwritten, ye reason was because ye young man laid his death to his charge for he had beaten and abused him sadly:

> Sir: It is my desire you will appear at ye opening of ye body of Jonathan Lock this day deceased and there to put up your prayers to Almighty God to give ye jurors a true sight of ye case and y^{t} they may be directed by ye Divine Spirit to make a true report of ye cause of his death. So prays your petitioner Thomas Staples." (The next day the jury cleared Mr. Staples of the charge)(ibid., 105).

5. July 1730 Lords Day: "this day four persons were baptized by Mr. Wightman at Providence "(ibid, 109).

7 July 1730 Tuesday: "ten persons were baptized by Mr. Wightman at Providence" (ibid., 109).

It is probable that Rev. Daniel Wightman was present and assisted at the installation of Nicholas Eyres as first pastor of the First Baptist Church organized in New York. His brother Rev. Valentine had journeyed hither from Groton, Conn., in 1714, to officiate at the baptism of this well-to-do burgher of that town, a convert of the principles held by the Baptists, and during the following ten years Mr. Eyres had preached to a small group of like faith meeting at his own house. In September 1724, "Valentine Wightman and Daniel Wightman formed them into a Church" and Mr. Eyres was formally ordained and installed as their pastor (Benedict Hist. of the Baptists (1820), p. 262). On 21 Oct. 1731, Rev. Eyres left the New York church, coming to Newport as assistant to Rev. Daniel Wightman, and on the latter's death became his successor (R.I. Hist. Soc. Coll. VI, 339).

Rev. Daniel Wightman was married three times. His first wife, Catherine, was the daughter of Jonathan Holmes, and granddaughter of Rev. Obadiah Holmes and the latter's wife, Catherine (Hyde) Holmes. Rev. Obadiah had been the second pastor of the First Baptist Church of Newport, succeeding Rev. John Clarke in 1676. Catherine's mother was Sarah Borden (1644-1705) daughter of Richard Borden (1601-1671) and his wife Joan Fowle (1604-1688) of Portsmouth, R.I. (Austin, Gen. Dict. of R.I., 23, 24). Catherine died at the early age of twenty-five, at the time of the birth of her second child (gravestone).

Rev. Daniel's second wife, Mary, whose family name is unknown, was born in 1669 (gravestone) and was therefore at least thirty at the time of their marriage. Her grave is a short distance away from those of Rev. Daniel and his first wife in the old Newport cemetery on Farewell Street, and next to that of their son, Daniel Jr., who died at the age of twenty-two.

Rev. Daniel's third wife, Catherine, widow of Dea. Joseph Gardiner of Newport (1669-1726), was the daughter of Capt. John Holmes, son of Rev. Obadiah Holmes, her mother being Frances Holden, daughter of Randall Holden and wife Bethia (Waterman) Holden. Rev. Daniel's first and third wives were therefore first cousins. Catherine, the third wife, was also the older half-sister of Susannah Holmes, wife of Rev. Valentine Wightman of Groton, Conn., Susannah being the daughter of John Holmes and his second wife, Mary (Sayles) Holmes, the latter being the granddaughter of Roger Williams. Catherine died at the age of eighty-five. Her grave is beside that of her first husband in the Newport cemetery.

Rev. Daniel probably died intestate, at least no will has been found among the scanty records of the period surviving in Newport. He owned, however, different parcels of land as shown by the following:

On 15 Apr. 1724 he deeded to "my son George Witeman (sic) of North Kingstown" land on the Great Plaine, it being "all the remaining part of that (parcel) of land whereon my brother John Witeman (sic) now dwells, after his three hundred acres is layed out, containing by estimation about one hundred twenty acres" (No. Kings. Deeds, V-A, 209). On 21 March 1743 he transferred to his son George two hundred fifty acres in Exeter (Exeter Deeds). Both of these tracts were received from his father under the latter's will (1722) as well as the original George Wightman homestead in Quidnessett. At Rev. Daniel's death the homestead passed to his son, George, who at that date (1750) had already occupied the place for about twenty-five years, following the death of his grandfather in 1722.

Rev. Daniel's grave in the old cemetery on Farewell Street in Newport, is marked by a stone bearing the following inscription which is as legible as ever:

In Memory of the Reverend
Mr. Daniel Wightman
Pastor of the Baptized Church in Newport holding the Six Principles as it is written in Hebrews the Sixth, for almost fifty years, who departed this life August 31st Anno 1750 in the eighty-second year of his age.

Acts XX, 26, 27, 33, 34
"Wherefore I take you to record this day that I am pure from the blood of all men, for I have not shunned to declare unto you all the counsel of God. I have coveted no man's silver or gold or apparel. Yea, ye yourselves know that these hands have ministered unto my necessities and to them that were with me."

Children, born in Newport:

i. Elizabeth[3], b. --- 1697; m. 16 Jany. 1724, Stephen Hookey, son of Stephen.

Children:

1. Stephen[4] Hookey, b. 6 Nov. 1724.
2. Daniel Wightman[4] Hookey, b. 6 Apr. 1726; m. 16 Dec. 1753, Lucretia Snell of Middletown, R.I.
3. William[4] Hookey, b. ---; m. 17 Apr. 1760, Mary Wightman, a cousin, dau. of (9) George and Mary (Clarke) Wightman of Quidnessett.

9. ii. George[3], b. 8 Sept. 1699. (second marriage)

iii. Daniel[3], b. 27 Jany. 1706; d. 12 Oct. 1728.

Note: The record of the births of Rev. Daniel's two children by his first wife, Catherine Holmes, was found by this compiler in the old First Book of the Second Baptist (Sabbatarian) Church of Newport. In accord with this church record is the following statement in, "Materials for a History of the Baptists in Rhode Island," by Rev. Morgan Edwards: "His (James Clarke's) colleague and successor was the Rev. Daniel Wightman... Our Wightman married Catherine Holmes by whom he had children Elizabeth and George. These married (sic) into the Hooky and Clarke families" (Original MS. in the R.I. Hist. Soc. Lib., Providence, compiled 1771; published in R.I. Hist. Soc. Coll., Vol. VI, of which see page 338).

The inaccurate record in Austin's Genealogical Dictionary of Rhode Island, page 226, representing the children of the first marriage to be "two daughters," and his consequent error in assigning Elizabeth and George with conjectured dates to the second marriage, are thus absolutely corrected. It is quite likely that Austin was led astray by the fact that Jonathan Holmes, the grandfather of the first two children, left a legacy in his will (1705) to the "two children of my deceased daughter Katherine Whiteman," the legacy to be paid when they reached the age of eighteen, the usual age of legal majority for females.

George Wightman, the children's paternal grandfather, in his will dated 26 April 1716, says: "I give and bequeath to my grandson, George Wightman, the son of my son, Daniel Wightman, ten pounds in money... and to the other two children of my son Daniel Wightman I give fifty shillings apiece, that is Daniel and Elizabeth Wightman" (infra page 11-12).

Furthermore, it may be observed that George, born 8 September 1699, was in his twenty-third year in 1722, when on the death of his grandfather he took up his residence on the Wightman farm in Quidnessett, being admitted freeman of North Kingstown in May of that year. According to Austin's conjectured date of birth (1703) he would not have been of legal age in 1722. The discovered birth date of George, and the date of his mother's death as recorded on her tombstone being exactly identical, it is evident that the mother died at his birth. For this mother the son named his first child Catherine; and her maiden name, Holmes, was given by her oldest grandson, Col. George Wightman, to his oldest son, Holmes Wightman.

Unfortunately, Austin's record has been copied repeatedly both in print and in private family papers; but the record, now corrected, will afford the lineal descendants of Rev. Daniel Wightman justifiable satisfaction in their fine heritage from Catherine Holmes.

(Dea.) GEORGE[2] WIGHTMAN (George), born 8 January 1673 in Quidnessett, situated in that part of King's Province (Kingstowne) which is now called North Kingstown, in Washington Co., R.I.; died between 1 March 1760 and 15 January 1761 in Warwick (Coweset), Kent Co., R.I. He married first, about 1698, ELIZABETH -----: married second, 13 August 1738, SARAH LADD of Providence, R.I.

Dea. George Wightman, yeoman, lived in his early married life in Kingstowne; but on 10 Feby. 1711/12 he and his wife Elizabeth sold that farm (So. Kings. Deeds, ii, 185) and bought a year later in Warwick, Kent Co., R.I., a tract described in the following (Warw. Deeds, ii, 82, 83):

> To all Christian people... I, THOMAS REMINGTON of Warwick... yeoman, in consideration of the sum of 130 lbs. paid by GEORGE WIGHTMAN, JR. of the town of Kingstowne... yeoman... give grant a certain tract of land containing by estimation 100 acres more or less, situated in Warwick aforesaid, commonly known by the name of COWESET, butted and bounded as follows; viz., north on a highway, east on a highway, south on land of his brother WILLIAM REMINGTON, west on sd. THOMAS REMINGTON'S land formerly belonging to WILLIAM COLLINS, deceased, together with all buildings, edifices, trees, woods, underwood, water and water courses, appurtenances...

> To all Christian people... I, WILLIAM REMINGTON of Warwick in the Colony of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, yeoman, consideration of the sum of 400 lbs. paid by GEORGE WHIGHTMAN, JR. of the Town of Kingstowne, in above sd. Colony, yeoman, give grant a certain tract of land containing by estimation 100 acres more or less, situate in Warwick aforesd. commonly known by the name of COWESET, butted and bounded as follows; viz., north on land of his brother THOMAS REMINGTON, east and south upon a highway, west upon land of his brothers JOHN and THOMAS REMINGTON, together with all houses, outhouses, edifices, buildings, immunities, with all trees, woods, underwood, waters and water courses, profits, ... as in any kind appertaining thereunto...

> ALEXANDER HULING

According to the will of George Wightman, Sr., of Quidnessett, the purchase money for this tract was given George, Jr. by his father, and it is cited in the latter's will as the son's share in the paternal estate (infra, page 11). Alexander Huling, a witness to both deeds, was a brother-in-law.

This purchase, which constituted the homesteads of three generations of Wightman name, is located a mile and a half southwest of Apponaug and is today partially comprised within the estate of the late Thomas Jones Spencer, now owned by Mr. Maurice G. Manchester, the remainder of the tract belonging to the heirs of Thomas J. Levalley. It is approached by the Hardig Road, running north from the Old Coweset Road which bounds the property on the south. The purchase of this land by George Wightman dates approximately the removal of the family to Warwick; but all of the children (except possibly the last) were probably born in Kingstowne.

On 1 May 1716 George Wightman was elected freeman of Warwick, Assembly sitting at Newport (R.I. Col. Rec., IV, 204); and in 1724 he was elected Deputy (representative) to the Assembly meeting in Providence (ibid., 345).

On 6 Sept. 1731 he deeded to his son Samuel "for love goodwill and dear affection" a farm of fifty acres, it being "a part of one of ye said Wocachocumut farms that I bought of John Knowles" (Warw. Deeds, iv, 303). The same day he deeded to his son John "for love," a farm of fifty acres, it being "part of one of ye farms called ye Seventeen Farms" (Warw. Deeds, iv, 304).*

On 14 Jany. 1736/7 he bought of William Nichols and Edward Lutwycke 100 acres of land in Warwick for five hundred pounds (Warw. Deeds, v, 348). On 12 Feby. 1736/7 he deeded to his son John 50 acres, "it being one-half of my 100-acre farm lying partly on the westerly side of my homestead and partly on the west of sd. son John's where he now dwells" (Warw. Deeds, v, 395); and on the same date he deeded to his son George, Jr., the remaining half of this 100-acre tract (ibid., v, 397).

On 1 Nov. 1737 he was foreman of a "jury" to decide on and lay out a road through Natick (to the west), his son John being named also on the commission (Hist. Washington and Kent Cos., p. 931).

On 8 Feby. 1738 he deeded to son Samuel "my fifty-five acres of land situated in Warwick and in y^{t} part thereof called Wocachocumut, it being part of ye same farm whereon ye sd. Samuell Whitman (sic) now dwells" (Warw. Deeds, vi, 202).

George Wightman married twice. The family name of Elizabeth, his first wife, is not determined. A statement seen in print that she was Elizabeth Waite, daughter of Samuel and sister of Samuel, Jr. who married (3) Alice Wightman, has not been found to be supported by authentic record. Samuel Waite, Sr. left no will, and it is not certain that he had a daughter Elizabeth. In the absence of proof, no statement can be made and surmise may be misleading. The fact that one son (probably the eldest) was named Samuel, suggests that her father's name may have been Samuel, but George Wightman had a brother Samuel. It is to be hoped that further research may bring this name to light as Elizabeth was the mother of all of the children. It is probable that she was not long deceased at the time of George's second marriage, as he was sixty-five when he married Sarah Ladd.

George Wightman was a Baptist and a Deacon in the Shawomet (Old Warwick) Church, located near the present village of Apponaug "at the fulling mill." The following item is taken from the Martin Genealogy, p. 157, quoted from Knight's Hist. of the Baptists, covering the period between 1725 and 1744:

> "They (the Shawomet Church) consisted of sixty-five members in regular Gospel order under the pastoral care of Elder Manasseh Martin and George Wightman, Deacon."

His will dated 1 Sept. 1759 with a codicil of 1 March 1760, was admitted to probate 15 Jany. 1761. On that date his widow, Sarah Wightman, released her dower rights for the consideration of five hundred pounds, reserving to herself the privileges stipulated in the will.

Abstract of the will of George Wightman (Warw. Prob., ii, 540-43):

*The tract known as the Seventeen Farms or Lottery Farms lay just west of George Wightman's homestead. Bought by the Town of Warwick, it was sold by lottery to seventeen different buyers. The seventeenth parcel, set down to Samuel Gorton, Jr., was sold in 1718 to Samuel Greene. On his death it went to William Greene from whom George Wightman bought it. Bounding this tract on the north were the Wocachocumut Farms, five in number (Hist. of Warwick, by Oliver Payson Fuller (1875) pp. 84, 86, 159, 166).

The graves of both George and Elizabeth are probably in a family burying-ground situated on a knoll about an eighth of a mile back of the house and referred to by a grandson, David, as the "Whitman lot." It was originally the Remington burying-ground. The oldest stone legible in the Wightman name is that of Capt. Reuben who died in 1777, a grandson of this George. The dwelling house itself, a typical "mansion house" of the period consisted originally of the present lower portion with probably an attic. The upper story was added about 1800 by the grandson David Wightman. It is regarded as one of the oldest houses still standing in Coweset.

Note: It is family record that the "second son" in this family was John, born 1701 (adm. freeman 1722). Several things suggest that the eldest son was Samuel. He is the first on record to receive a farm from his father (1731). John also was deeded land the same day; but there is no record of a transfer to George, Jr. until 12 Feby. 1736/7, the year of his marriage to Mary Ralph.

At the date of the drawing of the will of George Wightman, the father, Samuel had been dead fourteen years (d. 1745). His farm fell to his eldest son who sold it the next year (1746). The two remaining sons, John and George, Jr., received about equal portions of the real estate. At this time the law of primogeniture was no longer applied generally, although it was not abrogated in Rhode Island till 1700 (Richman, "Rhode Island," page 149).

JOHN[2] WIGHTMAN (George), born 16 April 16(74) in Quidnessett, situated in that part of King's Province (Kingstowne) which is now called North Kingstown, in Washington Co., R. I., died about April 1750 in Exeter, Washington Co., R. I. He married first, in Kingstowne, 6 January 1700, JANE BENTLEY (No. Kings. rec.), daughter of William and Sarah Bentley: married second, June, 1729, Virtue ------ of Newport (No. Kings. rec.). She married second, 25 December 1757, James Tefft of South Kingstown.

John Wightman, yeoman, lived on the so-called Great Plaine in the northern part of Kingstowne. His homestead, a tract of about three hundred acres, was inherited from his father under the latter's will, proved 2 Feby. 1722; but he had probably lived there since his marriage in 1700. Following the division of the Town, in 1722, into North and South Kingstown, this three hundred acre tract fell within the limits of the former Town; and when in 1742/3 the western part of No. Kingstown was set off as Exeter, the farm was crossed by the dividing line, the greater part lying in Exeter, being located about two miles northwest of the present station of Slocums. He acquired other parcels of land by purchase, and established his two oldest sons, John, Jr. (13 Sept. 1727), and James (12 Oct. 1732) on farms, this latter being taken off from the homestead. (No Kings. Deeds, VII - A, p. 213; ibid., VII - A, 25, 26).

The records show him serving office on the Town Council (No. Kings. Council Records); he was Overseer of the Poor; and was Town Treasurer in No. Kingstown from 1729 until the division of the Town in 1743. In 1724 he was administrator of the estate of his brother, Samuel Wightman (No. Kings. Prob., vi, 153), and was guardian of the latter's heir, a minor, as late as 1727 (last record). He also served for a time as guardian of the widow, Sarah Wightman (Exeter Town Council Rec.).

He was a Baptist, his name and that of Jane, his first wife, appearing in the membership of the rural Six-Principle Baptist Church, called Stony Lane Church, situated about five miles to the northeast in No. Kingstown (Old Church Book), and he was doubtless a Deacon although there is no direct evidence. Of this church John Wightman lived to see his second son, James, installed as pastor about 1740, some ten years before his own death. He was one of the signers of a Petition from the Association of Baptist Churches meeting with this No. Kingstown Church, 8 Sept. 1729, praying the General Court in Connecticut for exemption from unjust taxation for the Baptist Churches there. The name of his brother, Rev. Valentine Wightman of Groton, Conn., appears on this Petition following that of the local pastor, Richard Sweet; and the name of a brother-in-law, Samuel Weight, follows his own (Diary of John Comer, R. I. Hist. Soc. Coll., Vol. VIII, 84).

His first wife, Jane, was the daughter of William Bentley, a currier, who had come from England on the ship "Arabella," sailing from Gravesend 27 May 1671. Her mother's family name has been given as Leithfield.*

The family name of his second wife, Virtue, is not ascertained. She released her rights in the homestead 16 Oct. 1753 (Exeter Prob., vi, 275), and after the settlement of the estate, located on a small property of fifteen acres and married, not long afterward, James Tefft of So. Kingstown.

The 300-acre homestead passed to the oldest son, John, the farm of 112 acres taken off in 1732 and deeded to the second son, James, having been deeded back to the estate when the latter removed to East Greenwich. John sold this homestead in two parts: the 112-acre tract to Samuel A. Boone (Exeter Deeds, X-B, 104-6); and 188 acres to Ezekiel Gardner (ibid., X-B, 131-2).

The graves of both John and Jane are doubtless in a family lot on the farm near the later Gardner burying ground, but no stones remain.

The present residence, the third on the estate, was built between 1800 and 1802 by the Gardners. The first house, said to have been built of logs, was located near the spring at some distance back from the present dwelling; the second, built also by John Wightman, stood not far from the log house.

John Wightman's will, dated 3 Dec. 1746, disposing of personal property, was proved 8 May 1750. The inventory returned 12 May 1750 totaled 1,264 pounds comprising: cash 82 pounds, 10 shillings; silver 45 pounds, 10 shillings; books 7 pounds 10 shillings; household furniture; farming utensils; yoke of oxen; mare; young cattle; swine; forty-one sheep; etc. In the distribution of personalty, Valentine, the third son, received the greatest share, as he, alone, of the three sons, seems to have received no land (Exeter Prob. i, 78-80).

Will of John Wightman (Exeter Probate, Book i, pp. 75-77):

> In the Name of God, Amen. This Third Day of December in the year of our Lord one Thousand Seven hundred and forty Six, I, JOHN WIGHTMAN of Exeter in ye County of Kings in the Colony of Rhode Island ... yeoman. Being very Sick and Weak in body but of a perfect mind and memory, Thanks be given unto God Therefore, Calling Unto mind the Mortality of My body and knowing that it is appointed for all men once to Die, Do make and ordain this My Last Will and Testament, that is to Say Principally And first of All, - I Give and Recommend my Soul into the hands of God that gave it, and for my body, I Recommend it to the Earth to be Buryed in a Christian Like and Decent Manner at the Discretion of my Executor hereafter named, Nothing Doubting but at the General Ressurrection I Shall Receive the Same again by the Mighty power of God. SAMUEL[2] WIGHTMAN (George), born 9 January 1676 in Quidnessett, situated in that part of Kingstowne which is now called North Kingstown, in Washington Co., R. I.; died in North Kingstown in the Summer of 1724. He married in Kingstowne 9 December 1708, SARAH BRIGGS, born, probably, in 1685, in Quidnessett; died about 9 April 1757 in Exeter, Washington Co., R. I., daughter of John and Frances Briggs.*

Samuel Wightman was a yeoman of Kingstowne (No. Kingstown), his land lying in the western part of the town which after the division in 1742/3 was comprised within the new Town of Exeter. He appears to have owned land previous to the time of his father's death in 1722 when, under the latter's will he inherited a tract of four hundred acres in North Kingstown adjoining his original farm on the east (No. Kings. Prob., vi, 38). The records in regard to him are meagre and are mostly concerned with disposition of property necessitated by the unfortunate circumstances of his domestic situation.

On 23 Ju(ly) 1722 he deeded to one Samuel Money, fifty acres from his original farm, the consideration involved being specified as follows (No. Kings. Deeds, V-A, 89, 90):

> "... and it is the True Intent and Meaning of Grantor and Grantee...These presents that if the Sd. Samuel Money his Executor Administrators Assignes shall and do well and Truly Provide for, Maintaine and Keep Sarah Wightman, the wife of the said Samuel Wightman dureing her Naturall Life with Cloths, Meet, Drink, washing and all other things that shall be thought or adjudged needfull (by some of the Justices of this town) for a p(erson) in her condition, that then the above written Deed ... and every Artickle therein Contained to abide and ... in full force and Virtue: Butt if Default ... by the Said Samuel Money his heirs or assignes in the maintaining the said Sarah Wightman as above ... That then the said land and every part thereof to ... to the said Samuel Wightman his heirs assignes ....

From a meagre report submitted somewhat later by Samuel Money to the Town Council (No. Kingstown), it would appear that the income derived from the land deeded for Sarah Wightman's support was represented as inadequate. On 3 March 1724 Samuel Wightman deeded to John Whitford for a money consideration of 140 pounds, eighty acres from his four hundred acre tract. As this land was entailed upon "the lawful heirs of his body," and as Samuel's son, Samuel Jr., was a "minor and not to be of legal age until July 1, 1737," the peaceful possession of this eighty-acre tract was insured by a bond deposited by Samuel Wightman in favour of John Whitford, the latter likewise signifying under bond his acceptance of deferred title to the land (See No. Kings. Deeds V-A, 222, 224 for the scarcely legible record of both bonds; and for details of sale see Petitions to the Rhode Island Assembly (1725-1729) Vol. I, 7, State Archives, Providence).

Not long afterwards, in 1724, letters of administration were granted to John Wightman "brother of Samuel Wightman late deceased" (No. Kings. Prob. vi, 153, date not visible).

Following the death of Samuel Wightman, the question of title to the eighty acres sold to John Whitford was brought to the fore, and a petition to secure title was filed. A copy of the document, interesting both for family data and as an illustration of the legal process involved in the affair, is herewith presented:

A Committee appointed out of both houses of the Assembly consisting of Maj. Thomas Fry and Joseph Whipple, having investigated the records reported favorably, as recorded by the Court Recorder Hon. Rich. Ward, "the charges of the Recovery to be borne by John Whitford." The new estate, "set up in John Whitford," being in the practical possession of tenants disposed to delay possession by the new proprietor, it was not until 1727 that Pasco Whitford, Jr., by a process of law, gained peaceful occupancy. In connection with the last named suit (1727) Samuel Wightman "minor" is named for the last time in the records.

The Town Council records of North Kingstown show that the widow, Sarah Wightman, became a public charge. In 1742/3 when Exeter was set off from North Kingstown, she was transferred to the Exeter Board; but on 13 Oct. 1744 it was "ordered that Sarah Wightman be rejected as being a poor inhabitant of this Town and that the Clerk give the Seargeant a precept to carry Sd. Sarah Wightman to the Overseer of the Poor of No. Kingstown from which Town she was sent here" (Exeter rec.).

As North Kingstown refused to have Sarah, her clothing was delivered to the Overseer of the Poor in Exeter, the record showing "one bed tick, one coverlid, one shift, and her wearing-clothes." She was variously housed and references occasionally indicate small sums of money from her estate, one being sixteen shillings paid by "her late guardian, Robt. Hall"; and another of five pounds paid by her guardian John Wightman, it being "all that remaineth of her dower or thirds." Clothes are sometimes provided and one item shows that a "rapper" is included. During the smallpox scare her guardian is compelled to build a small house for Sarah Wightman; and later a beaver coat is made for her (Exeter Town Council records).

On 10 April 1757, the account of Sarah Wightman's guardian, as filed in Exeter, lists:

"for board 5 pounds; for coffin ------; for gallon of rum ------."

No record has been found indicating the disposition of the 320 acres of land remaining from the 400-acre tract. As guardian of Samuel "minor," his uncle, John Wightman, may have disposed of the land; but no record of such a transaction has been found. There is no record whatsoever in the name of the son Samuel who would be of legal age in 1737; and it is doubtful whether he really lived to his legal majority. His mother remained a public charge, while if the son had lived, he would have been required to provide for her support. There is, however, no record of distribution of estate among heirs. The records at No. Kingstown, where such transactions would be recorded prior to 1742/3, have suffered both mutilation and destruction by fire, and this may account for the lack of further data.

(Rev.) VALENTINE[2] WIGHTMAN (George), born 16 April 1681 in Quidnessett, situated in that part of Kingstowne which is now called North Kingstown, in Washington Co., R. I.; died 7 June 1747 in Groton, New London Co., Conn. He married first, 10 February 1702/3, SUSANNAH HOLMES (No. Kings. rec.), born about 1682, probably in Newport, R. I.; died between 7 April 1726 and 1728 in Groton, daughter of John and (his second wife) Mary (Sayles) Holmes: married second, about 1728, JOANNA -----, who survived her husband, living (last record) 28 June 1754 in Groton, Conn.

As a young man Valentine Wightman appears taking an interest in public affairs in Kingstowne. It is even recorded that he was one of fourteen who became involved in a political riot on 22 April 1700, his brother John and several cousins also being of the number. The penalty, a fine, was suspended as the offenders had scattered and it was voted "unjust to impose sentence in their absence" (R. I. Col. Rec., III, 413).

He was already, the year of his marriage, an outstanding member of the Free Will Baptist Church in Kingstowne as shown by the following: On 12 Aug. 1703, Capt. Alexander Huling, his brother-in-law, deeded "for love and goodwill to my loving friends Jeremiah Wilkie and Valentine Wightman of the Baptist Church in the Narragansett Country land to make use of for building a meeting-house for the worship and service of God" (No. Kings. Deeds).

His interest in religious work, thus early manifested, was soon to find its course definitely established in the work of the Christian ministry. His family was of strong Baptist faith, both parents, doubtless, being members of the Quidnessett Baptist Church, although his mother's kindred were tending toward the Anglican communion; and his oldest brother, Daniel, living in Newport, was the next year (1704), ordained and installed as co-pastor of the Second Baptist Church of that town. His first wife, Susannah Holmes, was reared in the Baptist traditions, being granddaughter of Rev. Obadiah Holmes, second Pastor of the First Baptist Church in Newport; and, through her mother, Mary Sayles, she was the great-granddaughter of Roger Williams, that dauntless apostle of freedom of conscience. Susannah's older half-sister, Catherine Holmes, in later years, when the widow of Dea. Joseph Gardiner of Newport, became the third wife of Rev. Daniel Wightman of Newport.*

In 1704 a company of dissenters of the apostolic number of twelve--six brethren and six sisters--petitioned the "Hounnorable Cort Setting at Newhaven" signifying "that we differ from you in som Poynts of Religeon but yett we desier to live Pesably and quietly with our Neighbors ... that since it has Pleased the Almity God to putt it into the hart of our grasious Queen to grant us dissenters proclamated liberty of Conscience ... and we understand that your laws requiers us to Petition to you for the Settling of our Meeting ... do beseech of you that you would not deny us herein, ... that our meeting might be stated and held at Will Starks in New london ...." (Conn. Eccles. Records, Bk. I, Conn. State Lib., Hartford; quoted in "Groton, 1705-1905" by Chas. R. Stark, p. 126).

The next year (1705) this group called young Mr. Valentine Wightman of Narragansett (Kingstowne) to come over and serve them as pastor. At that time he was twenty-four years of age and had been married two years. He did not take up a permanent residence in Groton at once, but two years later, 6 Sept. 1707, came with his wife and two young children. He was deeded twenty acres of land together with a house by William Stark "in consideration of the love, goodwill and affection I have and dwo bear towards my loving friend ..." (Stark's "Groton," p. 127; Groton Deeds, i, 29), and was throughout his life a farmer as well as a preacher. It is said that he never had a stated salary (Denison).

His farm was located to the east off the river road running north to Norwich, about five miles above the present borough of Groton. The house, a broad, substantial dwelling with gambrel roof and low eaves, was still in use until a few years ago.

Until their first regular meeting-house was erected some ten years later, the members met in private houses, and often "gathered at Elder Wightman's." In this house, beneath its broad shouldered roof, was being reared the "minister's family," a group of serious-minded young people who, in their own generation, either directly or through marriage were outstanding in Christian service. Two sons, Timothy and John, became Baptist ministers, the former succeeding his father in the Groton Church; and all of the four sons who grew to maturity founded families in which, through successive generations, the Wightman name has been associated with Christian leadership.

The meeting-house was situated about half a mile away on a rise of ground known as Stark's Hill, just off the present river road to the right. On 24 March 1717/8 the membership received the deed to this site for a church and burying ground, the church building being already in a "frame condition." The land was taken from the Stark farm, and a family burying ground was already located there. The church building, a plain structure, was their meeting-house for two generations. In 1790, during the last years of the long pastorate of Rev. Valentine's son, Rev. Timothy Wightman, the "new church" was built on the same site. It was a more commodious structure, some forty by thirty feet in dimensions, better lighted and more comfortable.* This second building was used until 1843/4 when the Church decided to change its meeting-place to Old Mystic. The building, then more than fifty years old, remained in place until 1857 when it was sold, later taken down and the materials used in building an ice house, which in turn disappeared in a few years (Stark).

The hill, however, where the congregation had met so long for worship, now called Wightman Hill, is still hallowed ground; for the burying ground in which so many of the early church community are buried is located there, at the rear of the open space where their church building formerly stood. Being the resting-place of several generations of Wightmans, among whom are Rev. Valentine, his son Rev. Timothy, and the latter's son Rev. John Gano Wightman, all pastors of the early church, the burying ground is now known as the Wightman cemetery. In beautiful woodland surroundings, stone walled, well kept, and closed by an iron gate set in tall stone gate posts, it is a sanctuary of hallowed memories. A tablet set into one of the gate posts is inscribed as follows:

Wightman Cemetery

The First Baptist Church of Groton

Their first church of worship was erected in front of this burying ground in 1718

This was the First Baptist Church in Connecticut and was organized in

The circumstances of Rev. Valentine's ministry were quite different from those under which his brother, Rev. Daniel Wightman labored in Newport. Not only was the latter surrounded by the advantages of a growing and prosperous commercial center; but the "lively experiment" of Roger Williams insured a freedom unknown in the sister Colony of Connecticut.

The Groton Church membership, few in numbers, were located in a sparsely settled corner of the state; Indians were still numerous; and fifty years afterward "there was but a solitary house in the vicinity where the village of Mystic River now stands." At the time of Rev. Valentine's arrival, it was still almost a crime to organize for religious worship independent of the "Standing Order." Having obtained a license from the General Court they escaped direct legal persecution; but as dissenters, they long felt the force of political and social disfavour. The difficulties attendant upon the establishment of their Church in the beginning are shown in the following extracts taken from Court Records, New London County, November Term, 1707, and September Term, 1708:

"To the Sheriff of New London County ... or to the Constable of Groton, Greeting:

*Benedict, Hist. of the Baptists (1820), p. 262.

... Petition that Sheriff summon and give notice to the aforesaid Valentine Wightman and his said wife ... that they appear before Richard Christopher ... to answer the charges and be dealt with as the Law Directs. 25 Nov. 1707."

"Case of Town of Groton vs. Valentine Wightman, New London County Court, September Term, 1708

... Resolved that the sd. Valentine Whitman upon his complying with the terms of that Most Gracious Act of Tolleration made in the first year of the Reigne of their Majesties William and Mary Respecting Dissenting Ministers be allowed Peaceably to remain upon his own freehold in the town of Groton by the Selectmen of the Town; and that all warnings, tryals, judgments and contraversies be wholly laid aside that have arisen between the said Selectmen and Vallentine Whitman aforesaid, and that each Party bear their own charges that have arisen therefrom.

It is further agreed that Valentine Whitman shall give bond of two hundred pounds with sureties that neither he nor his family shall be any Charge to the Town of Groton: and sd. Town of Groton shall give bond to the same value so as sd. Whitman, that he shall not at any time be assessed in a Rate for the maintenance of the poor in Groton. This to be a finall issue of all controversies depending between the Town of Groton and sd. Valentine Whitman. New London, June 4th 1708."

Rev. Valentine was "a plain, logical, earnest, indefatigable preacher" (Denison). He was frequently called to preach away from home, especially at the ordination of a new pastor in the denomination. In 1712 he journeyed to New York, being called to witness the confession of faith of Nicholas Eyres, whom he baptized (with others), following which he continued his visits at intervals preaching to a small group, which met with Mr. Eyres. In 1724 Rev. Valentine and his brother, Rev. Daniel of Newport, "formed them into a Church" and ordained and installed Rev. Nicholas Eyres as pastor of this, the first Baptist Church in New York.*

On 28 Nov. 1726 he preached at the ordination of Rev. Stephen Gorton at New London (Diary of John Comer, R. I. Hist. Soc. Coll., VIII, 43). On 21 June 1729 he was in attendance at the Association of Baptists at Newport, and John Comer records in his Diary, "met the next morning, Monday, at Mr. (Daniel) Wightman's house, 32 persons in all, viz. 8 ministers 3 deacons 21 brethren"(R. I. Hist. Soc. Coll., VIII, 68). On 7 Sept. 1729 he attended the "yearly meeting" at No. Kingstown when he preached, Lords Day, from Psalms 37:27 (ibid.). The next day he was a signer to a Petition from the Association to the General Assembly in Connecticut praying relief from discriminating taxation in Connecticut (ibid., 84). In 1743 he was called to the ordination of Mr. Bound in Boston. Feeling the whole trip too arduous, the "venerable Elder" journeyed as far as Warwick, R. I., where he was met by the group from Boston, and the ordination took place there.

One of the outstanding events in his career was a challenge to a debate at Lyme with Rev. Mr. Bulkeley of Colchester "who was called the champion debater of the Standing Order" (Denison). This encounter in which he defended liberty of conscience showed him "superior to his antagonist in spirit, in argument and in logical acumen, and won for him, in the published debate, the respect of his ecclesiastical enemies."

Of his sermons one only, delivered at Groton, is extant. He is said to have written a pamphlet on singing as a part of public worship, and to have introduced this innovation into his services; but the practice met with scant support, "those who approved it were so divided about the manner of conducting the singing" (quoted from the Address by Rev. Palmer G. Wightman, a great-great-grandson, of Brantford, Conn., delivered at the Memorial Exercises in 1890).

It seems probable that Rev. Valentine Wightman had enjoyed the advantages of some formal education, having studied possibly with a Mr. Edward Whaley, "a man of eminent scholarship ... who conducted a school in Kingstowne, under the assumed name of Theophilus Whale" (P. G. Wightman's Address quoted above).

As to the personality of Rev. Valentine,

*Extract from an address by Rev. Frederick Denison, (1890) at the memorial services at Groton, Conn.
This sermon, entitled The Excellency of Faith, together with a Vindication of the Honour of our Exalted Saviour Jesus Christ, is published in The Wightman Memorial, E. L. Freeman and Son, Providence, R. I., 1890.

he was "of calm but decided spirit, of sound judgment, clear convictions, warm heart, plain and transparent speech, a wise man in laying foundations"(Cathcart, Baptist Ency.). He is also called "of mild disposition, serene and quiet" (Denison).

In 1887 at a meeting of the "Wightman Burial Ground Association," a committee was appointed "to locate the graves of Valentine Wightman and his wife and to secure a suitable memorial to be placed thereon provided funds for the same could be procured." The movement resulted in a memorial celebration in 1890 at the burying ground when a monument was unveiled to the memory of Rev. Valentine. The site of the grave was determined by the remembered existence of a foot stone, long in evidence, marked V. W., and by the indication of the graves of his young children near by. The monument represents a pulpit four feet, five inches high, with an open Bible on the top. On the front face appears the following inscription:

Rev. Valentine Wightman
1681 ----- 1747
Pioneer of Religious Liberty
Founder in 1705 and 42 years Pastor
First Baptist Church Groton
The first in the State

Erected 1890
By heirs of the freedom for which he faithfully labored

In his will Rev. Valentine calls himself yeoman. In 1722 he was heir under the will of his father, to a farm in Kingstowne, R. I., it being the tract of two hundred fifty acres which his father bought 19 April 1708 (No. Kings. Deeds, i, 150). This farm he must have sold, as none of his immediate family returned to Rhode Island. Soon after, on 10 June 1728, he bought 125 acres "neare ye south west corner of Norwich Town bounds" of John Stark of Norwich (Norwich Deeds). A part of this tract was at once deeded to his eldest son Daniel, a young married man; the remainder was given to his second married son, Abraham. The home farm in Groton was increased by purchases (Groton Deeds). The two younger sons, Rev. Timothy and Rev. John shared this homestead under this will; but John removed to Southington where he remained.

Rev. Valentine's second wife, Joanna, survived her husband. On 28 June 1754 she was one of the signers of a Covenant among the members of the Groton Church.*

Rev. Valentine's will, dated 24 Mch. 1744; exhib. 14 July 1747, together with eleven receipts of heirs and the inventory report are preserved in the Connecticut State Library at Hartford (File No. 5711). The inventory of personal property recorded as of 11 August 1747 shows a total valuation of 1,021 pounds, 19 shillings, 3 pence.

The following copy of the will was made by the compiler directly from the original. The codicil shows a different handwriting from the will proper and neither was written by Rev. Valentine's own hand. The omission of a letter in his Christian name in the second signature was doubtless due to a low state of health.

Will of Rev. Valentine Wightman:

By the devine favour of God Amen march y^{e} 24 Day in the year of our Lord 1744.

*Joanna's family name is not determined with certainty. It seems highly probable that she was Joanna Avery, dau. of Edward and Joanna (Rose) Avery and widow of Mark Stoddard. If so, she was both stepmother and mother-in-law to Rev. Timothy Wightman who married her daughter Mary (Polly) Stoddard. The Avery Genealogy (p. 30) gives Joanna's date of birth as 21 Nov. 1700. She m. Mark Stoddard 13 Feby. 1724 (ibid.) and Mary was born 4 Aug. 1725 (ibid.). If this supposition is correct Joanna must have become a widow and have married Rev. Valentine by 1728, as the only child of Rev. Valentine and Joanna, Amey Wightman, was born 1729.

The following gives support to the supposition. A granddaughter of (328) Cyrus D. Wightman has a treasured possession which came down to him from his grandfather (64) Allyn Wightman, the latter being the eldest son of Rev. Timothy and his second wife, Polly Stoddard. It is a small book, leather bound, which was presented to Allyn by Joanna Wightman, as the inscription shows; and the explanation has come down with the book that he was her "favorite grandson."

GEORGE[3] WIGHTMAN (Rev. Daniel[2], George), born 8 September 1699 in Newport, Newport Co., R. I.; died between December 1777 and October 1778 in North Kingstown, Washington Co., R. I. He married 11 June 1724, MARY CLARKE (Bible rec.), born 8 August 1700; died about 1777 in North Kingstown, daughter of Carew and Anne (Dyer) Clarke.

George Wightman was a yeoman of Quidnessett, North Kingstown, R. I. In 1722, on the death of his grandfather, George Wightman of Quidnessett, the latter's eldest son, Rev. Daniel of Newport, inherited the Quidnessett homestead, and George, Rev. Daniel's elder son, then in his twenty-third year, was located on the estate. On the death of Rev. Daniel in 1750, he became the legal possessor, under the law of fee tail.

On 1 May 1722, George Wightman was admitted freeman of North Kingstown (R. I. Col. Rec., IV, 310). On 15 April 1724 he received from his father a deed to land on the Great Plaine (No. Kings. Deeds, V-A, 209). This land, adjoining that of his uncle John Wightman, comprised about one hundred twenty acres. On 21 March 1743 he received from his father a deed to two hundred fifty acres in Exeter, R. I., it being the land which Rev. Daniel had received from his father, George, described in the latter's will as "the remaining part of my land on the Great Plain." This tract George deeded jointly to three sons, Daniel, Valentine and Samuel (Exeter Deeds); and on 15 Feby. 1755 he deeded Daniel (second son) a tract of four hundred acres on the Great Plaine, for which he received 1,500 pounds. There is no record of any provision for his (third) son John; and as John does not appear in the records at all aside from the single entry recording his marriage (1754), it seems likely that he was not a farmer and later may have gone to Canada.

George's wife, Mary Clarke, was the daughter of Carew (Joseph) Clarke, and niece of the Rev. James Clarke of Newport whom George's father, Rev. Daniel Wightman, had succeeded in the pastorate of the Second Baptist Church. Mary's mother, Anne (Dyer) Clarke, was the daughter of Samuel Dyer (1635-1678) and Anne (Hutchinson) Dyer (1643-1717); granddaughter of Edward Hutchinson and Catherine (Hamby) Hutchinson, of Newport and Boston; and great-granddaughter of William Hutchinson and his wife Anne (Marbury) Hutchinson of co. Lincoln, Eng.; Boston, Mass.; and Newport, R. I. The latter, after her husband's death in Newport in 1642, removed to the Dutch province beyond Connecticut where she suffered death with most of her household from massacre by the Indians.

In the direct Dyer line, Mary Clarke, whose mother was Anne Dyer, was a granddaughter of Samuel Dyer and great-granddaughter of William Dyer (d. 1677), one of the founders of Newport, whose wife, Mary Dyer, was found guilty of contamination from the doctrines of Mrs. Anne (Marbury) Hutchinson, and who, after much accusation, recrimination, exile and final conviction, was hanged on Boston Common.

During the later years of their life, George and Mary Wightman probably lived with their eldest son, Col. George, to whom the homestead had been practically transferred. In a letter from Col. George in London, Eng., to his son Holmes Wightman in Quidnessett under date of 8 Oct. 1784, the writer says, "I had the farme from your grandfather at a hard day," probably between 1765 and 1770.

Both George and Mary lived to experience the troubled days of political revolution which brought dissension into their own household; and George, at least, saw the family divided and scattered. That the aged father did not share the son's political conviction is shown by the Order of Assembly of Dec. 1777 in which > "it is further resolved that the wife of George Wightman (Col. George), his sons and their families (excepting the father of the said George) ... be removed by the said sheriff to the said distance of ten miles from the said shores of the State" (Col. Rec. of R. I., Vol. VIII, p. 345).

In October of the next year (1778) the Assembly ordered further that > "the sheriff take into his possession the real estate late of George Wightman, deceased, but now belonging to George Wightman who is in the services of the enemies of the United States."

These two items make it seem likely that Mary, who was living in the early part of 1777, was deceased by December of that year, at the time of the order of ejection; and that George died during the next few months, probably early in 1778. The homestead was finally restored to the family at the end of the conflict, becoming the property of Holmes Wightman, eldest son of Col. George, the latter as one of the Emigres having left this country to reside in England.

No will of George Wightman has been found. The graves of both George and Mary are doubtless in the family burying ground on the farm, but no stones of the period are identified.

The "mansion house" referred to in John's will, built on the homestead, and comprised within the estate which came into the possession of Thomas J. Levalley, is no longer standing. The graves of John and Phebe are probably in the Wightman burying ground (now chiefly marked with stones of the Spencer family), situated to the South, on the homestead inherited by John's brother, George Wightman, Jr.

GEORGE[3] WIGHTMAN (Dea. George[2], George), born about 1710 in that part of Kingstowne now called North Kingstown, Washington Co., R. I., died between 13 and 28 July 1774 in Warwick, Kent Co., R. I. He married first, in Scituate, Providence Co., 4 January 1737, MARY RALPH, born about 1712 in Scituate; living in 1752 in Warwick, daughter of Thomas and Patience (Burlingame) Ralph, of Scituate: married second, 11 February 1759, RACHEL WOOD (Warw. rec.).

George Wightman was a yeoman of Warwick (Coweset), his original farm received from his father by "deed of love," adjoining that of his brother John, the two farms comprising the northern 100-acre portion of the original George Wightman purchase.

He acquired subsequently other parcels of land in Warwick and in East Greenwich, and on the death of his father (1760) shared with his brother John the remaining (southern) homestead farm.

Shortly before his death he disposed of all of his real estate within the Wightman kindred (Warw. Deeds, x, 113; 263; 273; 288; 363-4). As his older brother John had died in 1770 and the latter's sons Elisha and Philip had divided their father's land between them, the entire original George Wightman tract of two 100-acre farms was thus kept in the family. It remained in the Wightman name for another generation, passing by sale largely to the Spencers and Levalleys. The old "mansion-house" on the estate of the late Thomas Jones Spencer, on the Hardig Road, Coweset, said to be the second house on the homestead was erected probably by (5) George Wightman. The upper story was added early in the 1800's.

Mary, George's wife, was living in 1752 when she received from her father, Thomas Ralph of Scituate, a parcel of land in Scituate. This land was deeded shortly afterwards to Reuben Wightman, the eldest son, who later deeded it over to Mary's brother, David Ralph.

The Wightman family burying ground, originally the Remington lot, lies on a knoll about an eighth of a mile back of the house. No stones of this or preceding generations are to be found, the oldest name being that of Reuben (d. 1777), son of this George Wightman.

George's will, dated 13 July 1774, disposing of personal property, was admitted to probate 12 Sept. 1774. The inventory was taken 28 July 1774.

JOHN[3] WIGHTMAN (John[2], George), born 11 March 170(7) in that part of Kingstowne (later North Kingstown) set off in 1742/3 as Exeter, Washington Co., R. I.; died 8 February 1787 in Hancock, Berkshire Co., Mass. (probate papers). He married 12 February 1729/30, ANNE SWEET (No. Kings. rec.), daughter, probably, of Samuel and Bridget Sweet of North Kingstown and, later, of Newport, R. I.*

John Wightman was a yeoman. After the division of the Town of North Kingstown on 8 March 1742/3, his farm, received from his father 13 Sept. 1727, was crossed by the dividing line, the larger portion lying across the line in the new Town of Exeter. The land records of both Exeter and East Greenwich show various real estate transactions in his name; but some time after 1735 he removed to Stonington, New London Co., Conn., where he remained till at least 1750. His two oldest sons were married in Stonington, and the birth of the last child, Thomas, is recorded there.

In 1750 on the death of his father, he returned to his inheritance in Exeter, R. I. The paternal homestead, which consisted of about three hundred acres, he sold in two portions: one, of one hundred twelve acres, he sold 15 Oct. 1755 to Samuel A. Boone, his sister Mary's husband (Exeter Deeds, X-B, 104-6); the other, one hundred eighty-eight acres, on 4 Feby. 1754 to Ezekiel Gardner for 7,100 pounds (ibid., X-B, 131-2). The latter tract has remained in the Gardner family, the home portion being now (1937) owned by Mr. Stephen A. Sweet, a descendant of the Gardners and also of George Wightman of Quidnessett through Patience (Wightman) Sweet, dau. of (111) Samuel and Experience (Arnold) Wightman.

He was evidently a resident of East Greenwich, R. I., when he sold his farm there, 12 Feby. 1759, to Reuben Peckham, a blacksmith of Newport, for 7,000 pounds, the deed witnessed by his brother, Rev. James Wightman of East Greenwich (E. Greenwich Deeds, viii, 5).

He removed soon afterward to Dutchess Co., N. Y., where he appears in the tax list for Beekman's Precinct, date of 3 June 1760. On 13 Nov. 1773, while still "of Dutchess Co., New York," he bought a farm of one hundred five acres in Jericho Plantations (renamed Hancock in 1776), Berkshire Co., Mass. (Deed Bk. B, p. 227, No. Berkshire Registry, Adams, Mass.). His will, drawn six years later, 10 May 1779, was admitted to probate 7 March 1787, his wife and his grandson, John Wightman, executors. The distribution of property is dated 28 March 1787 (Probate File No. 1356-A). His wife, Anne, survived him some nine years, her estate being settled 6 Oct. 1796 (Pittsfield Prob., Lib. 9, p. 70).

(Rev.) JAMES[3] WIGHTMAN (John[2], George), born 17 February 1709 in that part of Kingstowne (No. Kingstown) set off in 1742/3 as Exeter, Washington County, R. I.; died 29 March 1791 in East Greenwich, Kent Co., R. I. He married first, 5 September 1734, BRIDGET SWEET,* daughter of Samuel and Bridget Sweet, born about 1710; married second, about 1758, MRS. PHEBE LOWE, daughter of Capt. Samuel and Sarah (Boone) Rhodes: married third, 5 January 1770, SUSANNAH ELDRED, who died in 1799, daughter of William and Mary (Wilbur) Eldred.

Rev. James Wightman grew to manhood in Kingstowne (No. Kingstown), and was admitted freeman first Weds. May 1733, General Court Sitting at Newport (R. I. Col. Rec., IV, 481). He engaged in farming, having received from his father the deed to a farm of one hundred twelve acres on the Great Plain, 12 Oct. 1732. The land records for No. Kingstown (Exeter after 1742/3) show subsequent real estate transactions, several in company with

*The marriage record of Rev. James Wightman and Bridget Sweet reads: "James Wightman son of John Wightman of No. Kingstown and Bridget Sweet daughter of Samuel Sweet late of (Newpor)t deceased." This Samuel Sweet (James[2], John) of No. Kingstown and later of Newport was born 1 Nov. 1667. He died in Newport, his will, dated 22 Nov. 1728, being probated 6 --- 1728. His first wife was Bridget ------- (No. Kings. Deeds, iii, 127. Deed ack. 31 Dec. 1711). He married second, Sarah Godfrey, widow of Benjamin Cranston. The following children are indicated in his will, which is in a mutilated state (Newport rec.):

(1) Son (Sylvester)
(2) Stephen
(3) Daughter
(4) Daughter
(5) Daughter (Anne?)
(6) Br(idget)

"Young children"

(7) Godfrey
(8) William
(9) John
(10) James
(11) Daughter
(12) Samuel (possibly the eldest of the first family)

his brother John.

He held minor civil offices (Town Meeting Records), and as Surveyor of Highways was one of a committee appointed 27 Aug. 1749 to change the route of a highway on the Great Plain (R. I. Coll. Rec., V, 295). In May 1760 Major James Wightman of East Greenwich served as Deputy to the Colonial Assembly, meeting at Newport (R. I. Col. Rec., VI, 249). On 18 Aug. 1760 James Wightman, Esq., was chosen Colonel of Militia for Kent Co. (R. I. Col. Rec., VI, 257). In May 1762 Mr. James Wightman, Col. of Militia, was elected (with others) field officer for Kent Co. (R. I. Col. Rec., VI, 283).

Some six years after his marriage, while still a young man, he took up his real life work in the Christian ministry. About 1740 he was ordained and installed as pastor of the Baptist Church situated in the northern part of No. Kingstown just off Stony Lane, about four miles from his subsequent residence in East Greenwich (Frenchtown). This Church, the oldest Baptist Church in North Kingstown, was organized by Rev. Thomas Baker, who served as pastor of the Second Baptist Church, of the Six-Principle order, in Newport from 1677 to 1679. From there "soon after his ordination he removed to Kingstowne and raised up a church in that order" (Knight, Hist. of the Baptists, p. 265). He subsequently served this Kingstowne Church until 1710, being followed by Rev. Richard Sweet, who was in turn succeeded by Rev. James Wightman.

It is quite probable that Rev. James Wightman was inspired by the outstanding careers of his two uncles, Rev. Daniel Wightman of Newport (d. 1750) and Rev. Valentine Wightman of Groton, Conn. (d. 1747), both of whom were in their prime during his young manhood, and who when in attendance at the "yearly meeting" held in North Kingstown, or on other special occasions, had preached in this very church.

Like most of the pastors of this period, he was a farmer as well as a preacher; but his numerous activities as minister during a pastorate of over fifty years are indicated by the record of the hundreds of marriages which he performed (R. I. Vital Records: E. Green., No. Kings., Exeter) and by the "yearly meetings" (probably quarterly conferences) which he attended (Newport, Warwick, and Stonington Church records). His portrait in oil is said to have hung for years on a wall of the church opposite that of his predecessor, both disappearing between one Sunday and the next. His funeral service was attended by leaders of the Baptist denomination in Rhode Island, among whom were Rev. Thomas Manchester of Coventry, who preached, and Rev. John Gorton of Stonington, Conn., who followed with a sermon from 2nd Timothy, iv:6, 7: "For now I am ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand. I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith."

By his will, Rev. James made or confirmed bequests of land to his sons, and left an interesting personalty. His "desk" and "square table" together with numerous papers are still preserved by a direct descendant, Mr. Albert G. Wightman of Apponaug, R. I.

The family burying ground not far from the house contains many stones but the graves of Rev. James and his wives are no longer indicated.

Will of Rev. James Wightman (recorded 11 Apr. 1791, East Greenwich Prob., iv, pp. 187-190):

VALENTINE[3] WIGHTMAN (John[2], George), born 31 --- 17(17) in that part of Kingstowne (No. Kingstown) set off in 1742/3 as Exeter, Washington Co., R. I.; died in December 1786 in North Kingstown, Washington Co., R. I. He married in Newport, Newport Co., R. I., 18 March 1737/8, REBECCA JAMAIN (?), born about 1720 in (probably) Newport; living (last record) in 1784 in Exeter, R. I.

Valentine Wightman left home when a young man, finding employment evidently in South Kingstown, as that was his residence at the time of his marriage. He was married in Newport by Rev. Nicholas Eyres, assistant pastor of the Second Baptist Church of which his own uncle, Rev. Daniel Wightman, was the pastor. In the marriage record his wife's family name (hardly legible) appears to be Jayman (Newport rec., Vol. I). It seems probable that her name was Jamain but spelled phonetically in the record as it had come to be pronounced.*

Following marriage Valentine and Rebecca located in Wickford, and later (1770) were living on the post road "between Lodowyck Updike's gate and Boone's Mill" (Town Meeting Records). In the census of 1774 Valentine is shown as head of a household comprising eight males over sixteen. This seems to suggest that Valentine may have been a tailor with apprentices or an innkeeper. In 1782 (R. I. census) his household numbered three females between twenty-two and fifty besides himself and wife.

Both Valentine and Rebecca were members of Stony Lane Baptist Church, located two miles north and west from their corner on the post road, their names appearing in the membership list of 3 July 1766. The pastor of this Church was Valentine's brother, Rev. James Wightman. In 1784 they were residents of Exeter, but called "of No. Kingstown" (Town Meeting Rec.), but Valentine died in No. Kingstown two years later. As he left no will his "son John" was appointed administrator, 22 Dec. 1786, with his brother Paul and brother-in-law Benjamin Cole as bondsmen (No. Kings. Prob., xii, 56). The inventory, filling a page, is entirely illegible.

His descendants in several branches have spelled the family name Whitman.

Children, first, only, recorded in No. Kingstown:

i. Elizabeth[4], b. 2 July 17--.
48. ii. John[4], b. abt. 1741.
iii. (Jo)siah[4], b. ---. He is found but once in the records, in a list of persons to whom a rebate is due from "bad rates," and is called "son of Valentine" (N. Kings. Council Records, May 1773, Bk. I).
iv. Daughter[4] (census 1774).
49. v. (Capt.) Valentine[4], b. ------ 1747.
50. vi. Paul[4], b. ----- 1749.
51. vii. Silas[4] (possibly twin to Paul).
viii. Daughter[4] (census 1774).
52. ix. James[4], b. abt. 1755.
x. Elizabeth[4]; m. 22 Nov. 178(1) George Fowler, Jr., of No. Kingstown, marriage performed by Rev. James Wightman.
xi. Patience[4]; m. 2 Nov. 178(3) Benjamin Cole, Jr., of No. Kingstown.

Children, recorded in No. Kingstown:

1. Whitman[5] Cole, b. 28 June ----.

*In 1686 a colony of French Huguenots, comprising forty-five families from western Normandy, emigrated to America and located in Rhode Island. Purchasing some five thousand acres of Narragansett lands in the southeastern part of East Greenwich from the Atherton Land Co., they allotted their farms, planted trees and hedgerows and began raising crops. The venture proved an unhappy one. Speaking a foreign tongue, clanishly serving their own interests within their own domain, and particularly keeping to some of the forms of their ancient religion, especially the altar, they were held in suspicion, and friction developed. In 1687 Gov. Andrus tried to settle the aggravating contention over meadows and hay; but disaffection grew and by 1692 most of them had left. As they were originally largely of the merchant class, they went to New York, Boston, and some to Newport.

Among these Huguenot familes was one by the name of Jamain, the head of which was Etienne (Stephen) Jamain. As the dispersion of the family took place some twenty-eight years before Rebecca Jamain's birth, she was probably a granddaughter; but nothing is known of her immediate parentage.

DANIEL[3] WIGHTMAN (Rev. Valentine[2], George), born 23 September 1703 in that part of Kingstowne now called North Kingstown, Washington Co., R. I.; died (6) June 1753 in Norwich, New London Co., Conn. He married 11 November 1725 KATHERINE WESTCOTT, born 17 April 1705 in Warwick, Kent Co., R. I.; living (last record) 30 January 1753 in Norwich, daughter of Zorobabel and Jane Westcott.

See WIGHTMAN ANCESTRY

Daniel Wightman was a prosperous farmer in that part of Norwich set off in 1786 (after his death) as Bozrah. His homestead was part of a tract purchased by his father 2 July 1722 of John Stark "neare ye southwest corner of Norwich town bounds" (Norwich Deeds, v, 259). He subsequently bought additional parcels of land in Norwich (ibid., vii, 88) and in Glastonbury (will). He held several town offices, and was elected three times to the Colonial Assembly. He was probably a member of the "New Concord Society in Norwich" (Congregational), as his death is recorded in Vol. II of their old Church Records (Court Record Dept., Conn. State Lib., Hartford).

His will, probated 19 June 1753, is preserved in the Conn. State Library at Hartford (Probate Dept., Norwich District, File No. 11,470). The inventory of his personal property was returned 2 July 1753.

ABRAHAM[3] WIGHTMAN (Rev. Valentine[2], George), born 15 May 1711 in Groton, New London Co., Conn.; died 3 February 1800 in Bozrah, New London Co., Conn. He married in Lebanon, New London Co., 19 April 1737, SUSANNAH STARK, who died in 1813 in Colchester, New London Co., daughter of John and Martha (Walworth) Stark.

Abraham Wightman was a farmer in that part of Norwich set off in 1786 as Bozrah. His homestead was part of a tract in Bozrah purchased by his father 2 July 1722 of John Stark of Norwich. This purchase, described as land lying "neare ye southwest corner of Norwich town bounds," was divided between his older brother Daniel and himself, his own half being received 6 Nov. 1744 (Norwich Deeds, ix, 511). He had, however, received earlier, before his marriage, on 14 Oct. 1734, a deed to a farm from his brother Daniel, the purchase money being supplied by their father, Rev. Valentine of Groton. He later owned land in Lebanon and in Herkimer County, N. Y.

Following his death, his widow, Susannah, lived with their oldest daughter, Martha Randall, in Colchester. Her will, dated Colchester, 14 June 1803, was proved 1 June 1813 (Conn. State Lib., Prob. Dept., File No. 3265). Their five sons all removed to Herkimer County, N. Y., and Amey, the daughter, wife of Deacon Lamb, located in Oswego County, N. Y.

Abraham's will, dated 13 Aug. 1793, was approved 24 March 1800 (Norwich Prob., ix, 636), the original papers being preserved in the Conn. State Library, Prob. Dept., File No. 11467. The inventory of personal property was returned 27 March 1800.

(Rev.) TIMOTHY[3] WIGHTMAN (Rev. Valentine[2], George), born 20 September 1719 in Groton, New London Co., Conn.; died there 14 November 1796. He married first, 1 June 1743, JANE FISH, who died 14 March 1744/5: married second, 13 May 1747, MARY STODDARD, born 4 August 1725 in Groton; died there 19 February 1817, daughter of Mark and Joannah (Avery) Stoddard.

Rev. Timothy Wightman was ordained to the Christian ministry 20 May 1756, and following an interval of nine years succeeded his father in the pastorate of the Baptist Church at Groton. Like his father he was zealous in founding new churches; and he was active in the Baptist Association, which during his lifetime came to comprise congregations in various localities all over Connecticut, all of which regarded the Church at Groton as the mother Church. Contemporary with improved social conditions, more tolerance of independent religious organizations, and an increase in the population of the New London area, the Groton Church under Rev. Timothy's ministry entered upon a period of renewed activity. The Church increased in numbers, reaching a membership of about two hundred twenty-five; and toward the close of his pastorate they built a new church building on the old site, which was both considerably larger, better lighted, and which was also heated, as the old building had never been (Stark, "Groton," p. 138). On this occasion Rev. Timothy preached the dedicatory sermon from First Kings viii:27: "But will God indeed dwell on the earth? behold, the heaven and heaven of heavens cannot contain Thee; how much less this house that I have builded."

According to Sprague, the Baptist historian, "Rev. Timothy was a man of medium stature, erect of form, affable manners, serious deportment, and manly bearing, and was nigh a model man" (quoted by Stark in his "Groton," p. 138).

At his death, Rev. Timothy had completed a pastorate of more than forty years, which, added to the forty-two years of his father's pastorate, made a total of eighty-two years of service by the Wightman family to the Groton Church. This record was continued by his son, Rev. John Gano Wightman, and later by another of direct descent, Rev. Palmer G. Wightman.

Rev. Timothy's first wife, Jane, died when their first child, Isaac, was born. His second wife lived to pass her ninety-first birthday. The graves of Rev. Timothy and both wives are in the Wightman burying ground at the rear of the open space where the church formerly stood. This site is about five miles north of the Borough of Groton, just off the Norwich river road to the East. His will dated at Groton 15 March 1796 is preserved in the Connecticut State Library at Hartford (Prob. Dept., Stonington Dist., File No. 3528).

(Rev.) JOHN[3] WIGHTMAN (Rev. Valentine[2], George), born 17 April 1726 in Groton, New London Co., Conn.; died 4 April 1781 in Southington, Hartford Co., Conn. He married first in Groton 9 November 1752, MARY (POLLY) STODDARD, born 12 December 1733 in Groton; died there 18 March 1768, daughter of Ralph and Hannah (Lester) Stoddard: married second 18 September 1768, CONTENT NEFF.*

Rev. John Wightman was reared on the Groton homestead and after his father's death inherited the home portion of the farm. He married five years later and continued to reside in Groton until after Mary Stoddard's death. He was a farmer and a carpenter, but it seems probable that he served as a lay preacher on occasion. On 15 June 1774 he was formally "ordained to the work of an evangelist," his ordination taking place in the Groton Church. His wife, Mary, had died six years before (1768), and he married his second wife the same year.

Meantime, on 10 Sept. 1770 he purchased two parcels of land in Farmington, one consisting of one hundred two acres, the other of forty-nine (Farmington Deeds, xviii, 172). He removed there and was later installed as pastor of a Baptist Church in the south parish of Farmington, set off in 1779 as Southington. He was never robust and died at the age of fifty-five. His grave in the Wightman burying ground on Wolf Hill is marked by a monument.

The present church building erected in 1833, was dedicated during the pastorate of his grandson, Rev. Irenius Atkins. His sons, Valentine and Jonathan Stoddard, were both members of this church until their death.

His will is preserved in the Connecticut State Library at Hartford (Prob. Dept., Farmington Dist., File No. 29618).

(Col.) GEORGE[4] WIGHTMAN (George[3], Rev. Daniel[2], George), born 7 November 1726 in Quidnessett, North Kingstown, Washington Co., R. I.; died in 1820 in London, England. He married first, 21 December 1746, ELIZABETH WAITE, born 21 --- 1726 in that part of North Kingstown set off in 1742/3 as Exeter; died 19 February 1796 in Quidnessett, daughter of Joseph (Samuel[3], Samuel[2], Thomas) and Elizabeth (Sheffield) Waite: married second, ROSANNA ------, in London, England.

As eldest son, Col. George Wightman was prospective heir to the Wightman homestead in Quidnessett and as such he lived there for many years during the lifetime of his parents. His children were probably all reared there. Both he and his wife, Elizabeth, were great-grandchildren of George Wightman, the colonist of Quidnessett, Elizabeth being the granddaughter of Samuel Waite and his wife (3) Alice (Wightman) Waite.

Until the outbreak of the War for Independence, he lived the life of a yeoman of the period, farming, buying an additional bit of land from time to time, holding minor civil offices, and bringing up a numerous family. During the French and Indian War, he saw active service as a soldier with rank of Captain, as shown by the following memorandum:

> George Wightman: allowed 70 pounds, old tenor, to pay trip to Albany as "Captain of the soldiers drafted in North Kingstown, August 1757," with deductions as follows: one pair shoes 6 pounds, 1 shilling; sugar and a box 2 pounds, 2 shillings; two handkerchief(s) 8 pounds, 7 shillings; tea 1 pound, 10 shillings (Military Records, French and Indian War, Vol. I, 244, State Archives, Providence).

On page 248, same volume:

> George Wightman: 16 pounds for hire of a horse to carry soldiers to go to Albany, Sd Whitman (sic) paying for shoeing the horse.

In 1760 he was elected Major of Colonial Militia (R. I. Col. Rec., VI, 251); and on the first Wednesday of May 1762, the Colonial Assembly, meeting in Newport, elected Mr. George Wightman of No. Kingstown Lieut. Colonel of Militia for Kings County, his name being announced in the list of field officers elected on that date (R. I. Col. Rec., VI, 315).

The Revolution brought dissension into the family. Expressing sympathy with the Loyalists, and found guilty of aiding the enemy, George was early (1775) arrested and committed; but he presented to the Assembly an humble petition in which he acknowledged heated and vehement but honest expressions of sympathy with the King's cause, while denying the charge of aiding the enemy except as under compulsion; and he promised thereafter loyal allegiance and support to the cause of the Colony (R. I. Col. Rec., VII, 397-8).

His plea was granted, but he was unable to maintain his promised allegiance. He left soon afterwards (1776) with his second son, John, and joined the enemy's forces on the Island of Rhode Island. Familiar with the locality and surrounding country and with training and experience as an officer of militia, he was eventually given command, with rank of Lieut. Colonel, of a regiment which he himself had helped recruit and train. His son John was a Lieutenant in the same regiment, called the "Loyal New Englanders."

In December of the same year (1777) the Assembly voted that > "The wife of George Wightman, his sons and their families, (excepting the father of the said George) ... be removed to the distance of ten miles from the said shores of the state; and that they be apprehended and committed if found within the said distance" (R. I. Col. Rec., VIII, 345).

It is doubtful whether this order was finally carried out.

In October 1778, the father of Col. George having died, it was voted and resolved by the Assembly

> "that the sheriff for the County of Kings forthwith take into his possession the real estate late of George Wightman deceased, but now belonging to George Wightman who is in the services of the enemies of the United States; and all other estate belonging to the said George Wightman" (Col. Rec. of R. I., VIII, 459).

Four months later, in February 1779, it was voted and resolved by the Assembly

"that the sheriff of Kings forthwith remove the wife and children of George Wightman who is now in the service of the enemy (and others) to the town of Scituate."

A year later, in February 1780, the Assembly considered the case of Elizabeth Wightman of No. Kingstown, who had

"preferred a petition unto this Assembly and represented that her husband George Wightman being disaffected to the cause of this country had joined the enemy, whereby his whole estate was confiscated; and that she is in very distressed circumstances, having one child who is an idiot* and another very sick; and that she is utterly unable to support herself and her family; and thereupon she prayed for relief, which being duly considered it is voted and resolved that the said Elizabeth Wightman be, and is, hereby permitted to improve one third part of the dwelling house on the estate lately belonging to George Wightman, deceased, for the term of one year from the 25th day of March next; and that she receive during the said time one third of the rents and profits of the said estate for the support of herself and children" (Col. Rec. of R. I., IX, pp. 14-15).

On the same day the Assembly considered the petition of Mr. Holmes Wightman, the eldest son, and voted "that the said estate lying in No. Kingstown be leased to the said Holmes Wightman for the term of one year from the 25th day of March next" (Ibid.).

At the close of the War, Col. George Wightman joined the Emigres and went to London by way of Canada, where he lived to the advanced age of ninety-four, being the fourth person of Wightman name in this record to pass the age of ninety. He married again and had two children, a daughter and a son, Percy, who is said to have died of sunstroke in Egypt while in service as secretary to Lord Amherst (family record). Lieutenant John, the second son, went to Nova Scotia and remained there.

The following letter from Col. George in London reveals the situation in its inevitable aspects, both material and emotional, for both sides of the family immediately following the conflict:

London the 8th of October 1784

Dere son, your letter of the 27th of October 1783 I have received together with the papers inclosed am much obliged to you for sending them to me in the mene time am sorry it discommoded you in your business. I have laid my claim before the Board of Commissioners but do not expect to have a hereing on it till Spring as there is such a number in before mine and they take them in rotation in thire time and what will be allowed is not known for our claims must be well proved and then laid before Parlament for thire approbation. What they will allow whithin the whole or so much on the pound but if I am allowed any thing of value I shant forget you for you shall all have a part of what I can spare. You complaine of hard times and bad usage if you have cose to complaine I have much more. I had the farme of your grandfather at a hard day. Had a great family to bring up was at a vast expense for buildings and farming utensils and finely divested of all my property by a set of miscrents and traters and now looking on you for the payment of my debts. Let them be paid by the Govermint or State out of the rent. Not that they deserve any pay for how they can have the impudence to ask any pay from me or mine when they have all my property in thire own hands I dont conceive. I come away naked left all my stock and movebles amongst you and while at Rhode Island I sent as much money and other things as was worth more than I owed to help the family which is more than could be expected as I had no way to surport my self, but to enter into the serves to get my bread which thire is them that would have deprived me if in thire power. But thank God however unworthy I may be thoght by ungratfull sort of people I am in the highest esteme among gentlemen of repute. I have wrote two letters to John since I have been in London but have had none from him. He promest to right to me about the quality of the country whether it was worth settling. But as I have had no accounts from him I know not what to right to the boys in regard to going thire to settle. If I should be enabled by Govermint to help them to go thire to settle I will let them know which I hope I shall if I am alowed any thing considerable for my lots. I expected 5000 ackers, and paid for laying out so much but have only 1600 laid out yet which I am informed by one of the agents that laid it out is as good a lot as any laid out among the officers. But some gives the country a bad caracter and some a faverable one. But it is out of my power to go thire till my buseness is settled or to help any of the boys thire till it is. If John should right to them and they should think it worth going too they may or wait for further accounts from me. You will be so good as to right to me if you have any good oppertunity. I am well at present and hope this may find you and all my fam. and friends the same and conclude with subscribeing my self your efectonate Father.

*Moses Wightman.

Probably Valentine, who it is said, was afflicted with tuberculosis (family tradition).

George Wightman

Mr. Holmes Wightman

The Wightman homestead was finally restored to the full possession of Holmes Wightman, and this within the lifetime of the mother, Elizabeth, who died there in 1796 at the age of seventy. Her grave in the family burying ground on the farm is the oldest grave indicated by a legible stone.

DANIEL[4] WIGHTMAN (George[3], Rev. Daniel[2], George), born 24 August 1728 in North Kingstown, Washington County, R. I.; died 21 April 1815 in Exeter, Washington Co., R. I. He married in Exeter, 5 January 1757, DAMARIAS WAITE, born 14 March 1734 in that part of North Kingstown set off in 1742/3 as Exeter; died 4 October 1803 in Exeter, daughter of Joseph (Samuel[3], Samuel[2], Thomas) and Elizabeth (Sheffield) Waite.

Daniel Wightman was a yeoman of Exeter and by trade a carpenter. Before his marriage he bought of his father, 15 Feby. 1755, a farm of four hundred acres in Exeter for which he paid 1,500 pounds. His brother, Valentine, was one of the witnesses to the deed (Exeter Deeds). He later owned with his brothers, Valentine, "mariner" of Newport, and Samuel of East Greenwich, a tract of two hundred fifty acres, of which he became finally the sole possessor.

His wife, Damarias, was a younger sister of Elizabeth, wife of his own brother, Col. George of Quidnessett, No. Kingstown; and all four were the great-grandchildren of George Wightman, the colonist, the father of Damarias and Elizabeth, Joseph Waite, being eldest son of Samuel Waite and his wife (3) Alice (Wightman) Waite of Exeter.

His will dated 13 February 1811, proved 5 June 1815 (Exeter Prob., viii, 239), left all his real estate to his four surviving sons, John, George, Daniel, and Valentine, and disposed of an unusually interesting personalty, both relatives and friends sharing in the distribution. Among the bequests he names his silver tankard to be given to his grandson, Daniel, son of George.

Children, born in Exeter:

*The town records of No. Kingstown have been greatly damaged by fire, page margins in many instances being charred and broken, and whole pages sometimes scorched bare. The above record is established by the data in the family Bible (itself mutilated by rebinding) and from other family sources.

This record, furnished the compiler by Mr. Horace A. Sweet of Providence, R. I., a descendant of George Wightman, was copied about 1865 from a Bible belonging to his family, but now lost.

(Capt.) VALENTINE[4] WIGHTMAN (George[3], Rev. Daniel[2], George), born 23 March 1733 in Quidnessett, North Kingstown, Washington Co., R. I.; died 9 January 1821 in Newport, Newport Co., R. I. He married first, in Newport, 3 June 1765, MARY WARD, born in 1735; died in Newport 28 October 1771 aged thirty-six, daughter of Thomas and Anne Ward (gravestone): married second, 1773, ELIZABETH VERNON, born 24 April 1738; died 25 June 1812, daughter of Samuel (Samuel[3], Daniel[2], Samuel) and Amey (Ward) Vernon.

Capt. Valentine followed the sea from early manhood, calling himself "mariner" as early as 1754 when, arrived at legal age, he sold his share of the land in Exeter which he owned jointly with his brothers, Daniel and Samuel.

As master of sea-going craft, he engaged in coastwise trade going north to Boston and south to New York, the southern ports and the West Indies. A letter dated 30 Nov. 1779 from Rehoboth, Mass., to his Excellency, Gov. Greene of Rhode Island, petitioning for release of a cargo of fifty hogsheads of tobacco bought in Providence for the Navy Board, Eastern Division, shows a particularly fine penmanship (R. I. Hist. Soc. Lib., Providence).

His first wife, Mary Ward, was the daughter of Thomas Ward, Esq., eldest son of Gov. Richard Ward, and his wife Anne of Newport. His second wife, Elizabeth, was the eldest child of Samuel Vernon (1711-1792) of the firm of S. & W. Vernon, Newport, merchants and silversmiths, and his wife Amey Ward (1717-1792), the latter being the daughter of Gov. Richard Ward and his wife Mary (Tillinghast) Ward (R. I. Hist. Soc. Coll., III, 310). His two wives were therefore first cousins.* With the other heirs of Gov. Ward, Elizabeth Wightman was heir to a share in a tract of land in Rehoboth, Mass. (Bristol Co., Mass. Deeds).

In later life Capt. Valentine was a merchant in Newport, where he was a member of the Second (Sabbatarian) Baptist Church (MS. of Morgan Edwards, R. I. Hist. Soc. Lib., Providence).

No will of Capt. Valentine has been found. His grave is beside those of his two wives in the old cemetery on Farewell Street in Newport.

Children:

i. Elizabeth[5], b. --- 1766; d. 11 Sept. 1767.
ii. Mary[5], b. --- 1773; d. 30 Mch. 1840 in Newport, in her 67th year, unm.
iii. Samuel[5]; died in 1797 in Calcutta, India, aged twenty (Newport Mercury of 25 July 1797). He was a "mariner."

*Potter, "Narragansett," gives Content Coggeshall as wife of Thomas Ward, Mary's father. The inscription on Mary's gravestone in Newport calls her "daughter of Thomas Ward, Esq. and his wife Anne." Mary Vernon, sister of Elizabeth, Valentine's second wife, m. Christopher Ellery, bro. of William Ellery, signer of the Declaration of Independence (See N. E. Hist. Gen. Reg., XXXIII, p. 316, for Vernon Family).

(Dea.) SAMUEL[4] WIGHTMAN (George[3], Rev. Daniel[2], George), born 23 January 1739 in Quidnessett, North Kingstown, Washington Co., R. I.; died 26 December 1827 in Walpole, Cheshire Co., N. H. He married in East Greenwich, Kent Co., R. I., 4 December 1760, AMEY BULLOCK, widow of Caleb Lawton (d. 10 Jany. 1760), born about 1739 in Rehoboth, Bristol Co., Mass.; died 12 March 1837 in Walpole, N. H., aged ninety-eight, daughter of (probably) Israel Bullock of Rehoboth.

Deacon Samuel Wightman lived during his early married life in East Greenwich, R. I., where he owned and cultivated a farm and also followed the trade of carpenter. He removed to Rehoboth, Mass., before 1790 where he had land. He also owned town property in Providence, R. I., with his nephew Holmes Wightman of Quidnessett (Providence Deeds).*

In 1801 he removed to Walpole, N. H., buying there a tract of about three hundred acres at the mouth of Cold River, comprising the spring, known subsequertly as Wightman Spring. Here he established an Inn, Cold River House, believing that the Spring would bring popularity as a resort. Later, his daughter, Lydia Carpenter, and family came up from Providence, and after Deacon Samuel's death, she and her husband managed the hotel, succeeded in turn by their son-in-law, Warren Daniels. The house was still (1907) occupied as an hotel, being over one hundred years old (Walpole Town Hist.).

Dea. Samuel's will, dated Walpole, Cheshire Co., N. H., first day of September, A. D. 1827, devises

-to wife, Amey Wightman, house and household furniture;
-to eldest son, Israel, land in Langdon;
-to son, George, five dollars;
-to daughter, Sarah Fields, five dollars;
-to daughter, Mary Brown, five dollars;
-to children of daughter, Amey Kennicut, deceased, one dollar each;
-to daughter, Elizabeth Wightman, three hundred dollars;
-to daughter, Anne Parker, five dollars;
-to daughter, Fanny Bridge, land in Arlington;
-to daughter, Lydia Carpenter, and Zachariah Carpenter, son-in-law, land in Walpole and Langdon, the latter being named executor.

The births of all the children are recorded in Rehoboth, Mass., but the oldest probably were born in East Greenwich, R. I.

Children, recorded in Rehoboth:

i. Sarah[5], b. 25 Sept. 1762; died 21 July 1831; m. in Rehoboth 27 Aug. 1781 Nehemiah Field, b. 15 May 1757 at Field's Point, Providence, R. I.; d. 14 June 1815 in No. Adams, Mass., son of William and Waite (Westcott) Field.

Children:

1. Arthur F.[6] Field, b. 18 Dec. 1782.

ix. Anne[5], b. 25 Oct. 1775; m. 19 Sept. 1811 Almarion Parker, of Walpole. No children.

*Holmes Wightman married Comfort Bullock of Rehoboth. It is likely, but not proved, that Confort was a younger sister of Dea. Samuel's wife, Amey Bullock, and that both were the daughters of Israel Bullock of Rehoboth.

x. Frances[5], b. 12 Dec. 1777; m. 12 June 1808 Joseph Bridge of Arlington, Vt.

SAMUEL[4] WIGHTMAN (Samuel[3], Dea. George[2], George), born 23 July 1725 in Warwick, Kent Co., R. I.; died before 7 May 1786. He married about 1745, WEALTHEAN COLEGROVE, born, probably, in Coventry, Kent Co., R. I.; living 7 May 1786, a widow, daughter of Stephen and ----- (Taylor) Colegrove.

Samuel Wightman was elected freeman of Warwick 6 May 1746 (R. I. Col. Rec., V, 164). On 17 March 1746/7 he and his wife, Wealthean, "of Warwick," gave to Philip Arnold a deed to a tract of about 100 acres and the "mansion house" thereon which he says was the farm of his father late deceased (Warw. Deeds, vii, 540). On 20 March 1746/7 his mother, Margaret, released her dower rights in this homestead. Samuel Sr. left no will, nor is any administrator's report recorded. The inheritance to which Samuel Jr. refers is the land in Coweset, which his father Samuel Sr. had received in two parcels from his father, George Wightman.

Samuel Jr. was still a resident of Warwick on 12 Nov. 1746 when he acknowledged a legacy from his maternal grandfather, Benjamin Gorton (Warwick Prob., ii, 260). Having married into a Coventry family he may have removed later to Coventry or to Scituate; but he was probably already deceased in 1774, no Samuel Wightman appearing in the Rhode Island census of that year. Wealthean Wightman is called a "widow" in her father's will dated 17 May 1786, but her residence is not indicated (Coventry Prob., i, 145).

Children:

87. i. Benjamin[5], b. abt. 1756.
88. ii. Stephen[5], b. abt. 1764.
89. iii. William[5], b. 10 Oct. 1767.

There were probably others.

BENJAMIN[4] WIGHTMAN (Samuel[3], Dea. George[2], George), born 2 November 1727 in Warwick, Kent Co., R. I.; living (last record) in 1778 in Scituate, Providence Co., R. I. He married MARY -----.

Benjamin Wightman, "laborer," was a resident of Warwick in 1762 selling 3 Fehy. of that year "a certain dwelling house in which I now live" situated on the "west side of Sweet's Meadow brook and stands on a lot of land now belonging to Thomas Stafford" (Warw. Deeds, i, 337). In 1765 he was of East Greenwich, R. I., a daughter, Hannah, being born there that year. According to the Rhode Island census of 1774, Benjamin "Whitman" was then a resident of Scituate, Providence County. His son, Benoni Whitman, says in his deposition for a pension for Revolutionary War service that he returned to his father's house in Scituate in the Spring of 1778 "in Military dress" and "lived there with his father and his brother George" (File W 19627 N. Y. Service). In this connection Benoni says that his birthplace was Warwick.

The maiden name of Benjamin's wife is not definitely established. The death record of the daughter, Hannah, calls her the daughter of "Benjamin and Mary" (Warw. rec.).*

The descendants of this family, as far as traced, have called the surname Whitman.

Children:

i. Daughter[5] (R. I. census, 1774).
ii. Jeremiah[5], b. abt. 1754 in R. I.; living in 1810 in Jay Twp., Essex Co., N. Y., aged forty-five and upwards (census). He had served in the Revolution enlisting from Warwick under the name of "Jeremiah Wightman." Five children at home in 1810.
90. iii. Benjamin[5], b. abt. 1756.
91. iv. Benoni[5], b. --- 1758.
92. v. George[5], b. 8 May 1760.
vi. Hannah[5], b. abt. 1765 in E. Greenwich; d. 10 Nov. 1859 in Centerville, R. I., aged ninety-four (Warw. Rec.), being the sixth person of Wightman name in this record to pass the age of ninety.

*The Christian name Jeremiah occurs repeatedly among the immediate descendants and the name Spencer is used as a given name. It is possible that Mary's family name was Spencer.

GEORGE[4] WIGHTMAN (Samuel[3], Dea. George[2], George), born 8 November 1731 in Warwick, Kent Co., R. I.; living there (last record) 27 September 1772. He married (possibly) ROSE ------, granddaughter of John and Rose Straight of West Greenwich, Kent Co., R. I.

Very little is found in the records regarding this George Wightman. He is named in the will of his paternal grandfather (1759), when he would be about twenty-eight years of age. He may have married Rose, granddaughter of John Straight of West Greenwich, who in his will dated 16 July 1757 names a "granddaughter Rose Wightman" (W. Greenwich Prob.).*

Only one George Wightman is listed in the census of 1774 (Warwick), but he was probably his uncle (13) George of Warwich who died shortly before 28 July 1774 (date of latter's inventory). His household according to the census of that year comprised two females, only.

No real estate is recorded in the name of this George Wightman, and there is no will. The Jemima given below was doubtless his daughter. In her marriage record (1772) she is called "daughter of George Wightman Jr. of Warwick." He may have been designated "Jr." to distinguish him from his uncle George Wightman of Warwick.

Child:

i. Jemima[5], b. abt. 1752; m. 27 Sept. 1772 Henry Reynolds, b. 17 Apr. 1751 in West Greenwich, son of Henry and Mehitabel Reynolds.

4. Sarah[6] Reynolds, b. 13 May 1781.
5. Wightman[6] Reynolds, b. 26 Jany. 1783.

ASA[4] WIGHTMAN (Samuel[3], Dea. George[2], George), born 25 July 1740 in Warwick, Kent Co., R. I.; died (date and place uncertain). He married in Warwick, 30 July 1771, MARY CRUFF, born 6 April 1742 in Warwick. Her father was Thomas Cruff.

Asa Wightman was living in Warwick at the time of his marriage and until at least 1774 (R. I. census). In 1782 he was head of a household in Coventry, Kent Co., R. I., where his wife's family is also listed (Foster Papers, Vol. XIV, File No. 5, census of R. I. for 1782, MS., R. I. Hist. Soc. Lib., Providence). The same year, however, he and his wife sold a farm of seventy acres in Coventry and do not appear again in the records of Rhode Island. He is probably the Asa Wightman listed in the federal census of 1790 as a resident of Ballstown, Saratoga Co., N. Y. He is not given in the census of 1800 for New York state.

The Rhode Island census of 1774 indicates a family of two daughters; the census of 1782, four daughters and two sons; the federal census of 1790 for New York shows again two sons under sixteen, and four daughters. It is probable that Huldah Wightman who married Caleb Aylesworth possibly in Rensselaer County, New York, and named a son Asa Wightman Aylesworth was his eldest daughter; but none of his children have been definitely located.

JOHN[4] WIGHTMAN (Capt. John[3], Dea. George[2], George), born 2 December 1726 in Warwick, Kent Co., R. I.; died there 20 July 1754. He married HANNAH COGGESHALL, born 1 January 1727 in East Greenwich, Kent Co., R. I.; died about 1765 in Smyrna, Chenango Co., N. Y., daughter of Joshua and Deborah (Reynolds) Coggeshall. She married second, 8 March 1756, George Briggs, son of Job and Mary (Coggeshall) Briggs.

No descendants of this John Wightman, Jr., have been found. His will does not indicate any, but a digest of the will is here presented as it bears the signature of a witness, Caleb Wightman, who appears in this record only and whose identity is not determined. John was a shoemaker.

Will of John Wightman, Jr., of Warwick (Warwick Prob., Bk. ii, p. 285; inv., ibid., 287):

ELISHA[4] WIGHTMAN (Capt. John[3], Dea. George[2], George), born 9 December 1728 in Warwick, Kent Co., R. I.; died there 16 October 1817. He married 27 February 1752, SYBIL SALISBURY, born about 1729 in (probably) Cranston, Providence Co., R. I., daughter of Martin and Mary (Pearce) Salisbury, of Cranston. She survived her husband and died (probably) in Warwick.*

Elisha Wightman was admitted freeman of Warwick 6 May 1756, Court sitting at Newport (R. I. Col. Rec., V, 487). He was a farmer, cultivating at first a farm in Warwick (Coweset) received by "deed of love" from his father; and in 1770 he inherited the eastern home portion of the homestead of his father, John, it being land comprised today within the Thomas Levalley estate on Hardig Road, Coweset. In 1774 he and his brother, Philip, extended their holdings south and west by additional parcels bought from their uncle, George Wightman, Jr. In 1785 he bought two farms in Cranston from Thomas Angell consisting of ninety-eight and forty-nine acres respectively (Cranston Deeds). In 1786 he deeded to son Daniel one of these farms, and in 1791 he deeded to son Elisha, Jr., a "part of the homestead where I now dwell" in Cranston. In 1793 he deeded to son Peleg sixty acres, it being the "western part of my home farm" in Cranston. He returned finally to Warwick and died there intestate.

According to records preserved by descendants, he was of small stature, weighing one hundred twenty pounds, and of fair complexion. He was a Baptist.

PHILIP[4] WIGHTMAN (Capt. John[3], Dea. George[2], George), born 13 June 1737 in Warwick, Kent Co., R. I.; died there 9 December 1788. He married 27 May 1762, MARY GORTON, daughter of Judge Othniel and Theodosia (Hopkins) Gorton. She married second, 9 June 1793, General Thomas Holden, son of John and Hannah (Fry) Holden.

Philip Wightman was a farmer in Warwick, living on a part of the ancestral Wightman homestead in Coweset. He received his first land by "deed of love" from his father, and in 1770 under the latter's will inherited the western part of the homestead located on the present Hardig Road. He died intestate, aged fifty-one. The final inventory of personal property was returned 14 Sept. 1789 (Warw. Prob., iv, 208-9). His wife, Mary Gorton, was daughter of Judge Othniel Gorton, jurist and Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Rhode Island from 1788 to 1790.

(Capt.) REUBEN[4] WIGHTMAN (George[3], Dea. George[2], George), born 13 October 1739 in Warwick, Kent Co., R. I.; died there 24 April 1777 (gravestone). He married SARAH -------, born 15 April 1746; died 23 November 1816 in Warwick (gravestone). She married second, Capt. Gideon Spencer, of Warwick.

Reuben Wightman was a farmer in Warwick. His homestead was the home portion of the original George Wightman tract in Coweset, bequeathed by (5) George to (13) George, Jr., and by him to this Reuben, eldest son. After Reuben's death, all of his real estate was divided among his wife and five sons, each of the sons selling his portion not long afterwards. His brother, David Wightman, however, bought in the old home and a small acreage comprising the burying ground, and this remained for another generation in the Wightman name.

In 1775 Reuben Wightman was chosen Captain of the 2nd Co., Kent Co. Militia (train band) in Warwick (R. I. Col. Rec., Vol. VII, 349). On 28 June 1775 he was appointed enlisting officer (ibid., 359). He was later appointed to command the 2nd Co., Warwick Militia, in active service (ibid., 516).

He died intestate during the war, the inventory of personal property being returned 13 June 1777 (Warwick Prob., iii, 381-2). His grave is in the family burying ground on a rise of ground about an eighth of a mile from the house, the whole property being known today as the Thomas Jones Spencer farm, located on the Hardig Road, half a mile from the Old Coweset Road which bounds the property on the south. His tombstone is the oldest stone still legible. His wife's grave is between his and that of her second husband, Capt. Gideon Spencer. Most of the stones of later date are in the name of Spencer. The farm is owned (1935) by Mr. Maurice G. Manchester.

(Col.) STEPHEN[4] WIGHTMAN (George[3], Dea. George[2], George), born about 1746 in Warwick, Kent Co., R. I.; died 30 September 1824 in Exeter, Washington Co., R. I. He married first, ABIGAIL (NILES), who died 22 February 1780; married second, 12 April 1781, DEBORAH NILES, born in 1756 in West Greenwich, Kent Co., R. I.; died in 1839 in Exeter, daughter of Samuel and Martha Niles.

Col. Stephen Wightman was a farmer in Warwick, removing to Exeter about 1773. Both he and Abigail signed the deed to their Warwick homestead while still in Warwick, 3 Apr. 1773 (Warwick Deeds, x, 407). During the War for Independence, he kept an inn in Exeter. He served during the War, at intervals, as a soldier and was pensioned, his name enrolled in the list of 1820 (File W 27499, R. I. Service). In May 1776, he was elected Lieutenant, 1st Co., Exeter Militia, being raised from rank of Sergeant in the same Company. His widow, in her claim for continued benefit of pension, gives a lively account of the scene at their inn in Exeter when the soldiers crowding the house celebrated the news of the end of hostilities.

Following the War he was elected Lieut. Col. of local militia, and he was active also in civil affairs, serving almost continually on the Town Council, the meetings being held often at "Col. Stephen Whitman's" (Exeter Town Meeting Records).

His will, dated 12 January 1824 (Exeter prob.), not proving satisfactory in its provision for his wife and only daughter, Mary Thurston, as to house room, goods, etc., the two women, both widows, effected a new arrangement apparently to their mutual satisfaction. The widow Deborah, in her will, proved in 1839, left a legacy to "my husband's daughter, Mary Thurston."

(Hon.) DAVID[4] WHITMAN (George[3], Dea. George[2], George), born 15 July 1750 in Warwick, Kent Co., R. I.; died there 20 August 1813. He married first, SUSANNAH ARNOLD, born in 1750; died 3 August 1814, daughter of Philip and Phebe (Harris) Arnold; married second, after divorce, PHEBE WILBUR, born 16 February 1773; died 9 December 1856, daughter of Thomas and Mary (Gorton) Wilbur.

Hon. David Whitman was a farmer in Warwick (Coweset), his first farm being part of the (5) George Wightman tract. He bought other parcels, also village property in Apponaug, and in the vicinity. He finally bought up also the home portion of the old Wightman homestead in Coweset from his brother Reuben's heirs. This comprised the old mansion house and the burial lot. At the time of his death he was living at the edge of Apponaug. He represented the Town of Warwick in the Assembly repeatedly.

On 12 Dec. 1798 "whereas some difficulties and uneasiness have for two years past and upwards arisen between them which causes them to be unhappy under a marriage covenant" it is recorded that he and his wife, Susannah, agreed upon a separation, she to receive one thousand dollars and two-thirds of the household goods "except the desk and clock" (Warw. Deeds, xiii, 495).

His second wife survived him forty-three years. Her gravestone names her Phebe, "wife of David Whitman," while his stone gives his name as David Wightman. Both graves are in the family lot on the farm known today as the Thomas Jones Spencer farm, owned (1935) by Mr. Maurice G. Manchester. In the records his name is usually spelled Whitman, and he signed his will in that way. A digest of his will follows, containing much family data. No children.

GEORGE[4] WIGHTMAN (John[3], John[2], George), born about 173(1) in that part of North Kingstown set off in 1742/3 as Exeter, Washington Co., R. I.; died 12 January 1760 in Beekman's Precinct, Dutchess Co., N. Y. He married in Stonington, New London Co., Conn., 8 December 1751, BRIDGET SWEET, who died 29 September 1777 in Dutchess County, N. Y. (family record), daughter, probably, of Stephen (Samuel[3], James[2], John) and Rebecca Sweet.*

His parents removing to Stonington, Conn., while he was still a lad, George Wightman grew up there and married there (Stonington rec.). The next year after his marriage he located in Exeter, R. I., on a farm received from his father. Two years later, 27 Mch. 1754, he and Bridget gave a deed to fifty-two acres in Exeter (Exeter Deeds, vi, 306-7), and doubtless moved away soon afterward to New York, as on 7 April 1758 he was a resident of Beekman's Precinct, Dutchess Co., whence he and Bridget deeded thirty-two and a half acres still owned in Rhode Island, the property lying partly in Exeter and partly in West Greenwich (Exeter Deeds, Old Date Bk., ix, 71-2).

The tax lists of Beekman's Precinct, Dutchess Co., N. Y., for 3 June 1760 lists the "estate of George Whiteman." It is also carried in the lists of 1761-2-3; 1765-6; 1768-9. The lists for 1770-1-2-3-4-5 carry "Bridget Whiteman's farm"; and for 1776-7 "Estate of Bridget Whiteman," indicating doubtless that she was already deceased.

Children, first, only, recorded in Exeter, R. I.:

TITUS[4] WHITMAN (John[3], John[2], George), born January 173(3) in that part of North Kingstown set off in 1742/3 as Exeter, Washington Co., R. I.; living (last record) June 1766 in Beekman's Precinct, Dutchess Co., N. Y. He married in Stonington, Conn., 1 January 1751/2, HANNAH YOUMAN(S), daughter of Edward and Thankful (Bidwell) Yeomans of Stonington (Stonington rec., iii, 125).

After his marriage Titus Whitman located in Exeter, R. I., his farm comprising about thirty-eight acres. On 7 February 1758 he and Hannah gave a deed to this property (Exeter Deeds, Old Date Bk. vi, 516). He removed not long after to Dutchess County, N. Y., his name appearing in the tax list of 3 June 1760 for Beekman's Precinct and in subsequent lists until June 1766 inclusive.

subsequent history of this Titus Whitman. He was deceased by 10 May 1779, the date of his father's will in which he is called "my son Titus Whitman."

While looking for records in Canada, this compiler encountered a tradition to the effect that Thomas Wightman, younger brother of this Titus, who joined the enemy's forces under General Burgoyne and who was captured, escaping later to Canada, was accompanied by a brother, the latter being finally captured. It does not seem likely that this unnamed brother was Titus who at the time of the Revolution was a man in his forties and the tradition may be entirely unfounded. Furthermore, Edward, son of Titus, fought on the side of the colonists.

It is likely that Titus died either in Dutchess County or in the region of Hancock, Massachusetts, to which locality most of the family went.

Children, first, only, recorded in Exeter, R. I.:

i. Thankful[5], b. 19 Sept. 1752.

MARY[4] WIGHTMAN (John[3], John[2], George), born April 173(5) in that part of North Kingstown set off in 1742/3 as Exeter, Washington Co., R. I.; living 25 March 1811 (last record) in Hancock, Berkshire Co., Mass. She married probably in East Greenwich, Kent Co., R. I., about 1755, DAVID VAUGHN, born in East Greenwich, R. I.; died between 25 March and 3 December 1811 in Hancock, son of David and Dinah Vaughn.

Deacon David Vaughn, Sr., and family went from Rhode Island to Dutchess County, N. Y., about 1758 together with other families of the same neighborhood. The tax list of 3 Feby. 1761 for Beekman's Precinct records assessments in the names of both David Vaughn, Sr., and David, Jr. Of these only one is listed there in 1762 and neither after 1763.*

David Vaughn, Jr., removed from Dutchess County to Jericho Plantations (renamed Hancock in 1776), Berkshire Co., Mass., where he engaged in farming. He was prominent in the Baptist Church there from the time of its organization in 1772, under the pastorate of Rev. Clarke Rogers, who had also come from Dutchess County, N. Y. Later these two families were related by the intermarriage of several of their children.

His will, dated 25 March 1811, was presented for probate 3 December 1811, Mary being named an heir in the will (Pittsfield Reg., No. Berks. District).

THOMAS[4] WIGHTMAN (John[3], John[2], George), born 30 July 1750 (Bible rec.) in Stonington, New London Co., Conn.; died 25 April 1824 in Saint Armand Center, Province of Quebec, Can. He married first, probably in Dutchess County, N. Y., about 1772, MARY TRIPP, who died in Saint Armand

1 May 1800 in her fifty-eighth year (gravestone): married, second, in South Shaftsbury, Bennington Co., Vt., 23 November 1800, MARY AUSTIN, born 31 July 1770; died 12 December 1859 (family rec.).

Thomas Wightman was reared in East Greenwich, Rhode Island and in Dutchess County, New York, being a lad of about nine when his parents removed from Rhode Island to New York state. He probably married in Dutchess County, removing after the birth of his first child to Jericho Plantations, Berkshire Co., Mass., in 1773/4. His father was still "of Dutchess Co., N. Y.," in November 1773 when he bought land in Jericho, the deed being the first recorded there in the family name (No. Berks. Co. Deeds, Adams, Bk. B, 227). On 23 Jany. 1776 Thomas, himself, a "resident of Jericho" (renamed Hancock, 2 July 1776) bought land there (No. Berks. Co. Deeds, Adams, Bk. B, 244).

In 1777 Thomas joined the Royalist forces under General Burgoyne and was probably not at home again until after the conflict. That he did return to Massachusetts is shown by the fact that on 4 Sept. 1789 he bought a parcel of land in Hancock (No. Berks. Deeds, Adams, Bk. C, 394) and again on 1 Jany. 1790 fifteen acres (ibid., Bk. i, 372). On 11 Feby. 1792 he wrote from Hancock to a cousin, Samuel Wightman of East Greenwich, R. I., asking for a loan of money with which to buy the land of John Wightman, his nephew, who was co-heir with his own son, William, then a boy of seventeen, to the grandfather's homestead in Hancock (will probated 1787). On 5 Feby. 1794 Thomas sold his own farm in Hancock, being still "of Hancock" (ibid., Bk. iii, 293), removing that spring to Lower Canada.

On 19 Feby. 1794 he with other Royalists received a small tract of land in Stanbridge, Missisquoi Co., Can., and again in July 1795 he was named with others in an allotment at Sutton, near Stanbridge. Later, under date of 26 May 1800, he presented a formal Petition to the Lt. Governor of Lower Canada setting forth his case and petitioning to be allowed "to partake of the Royal Bounty for himself and his four children." On 1 Sept. 1801 he received a grant of some four hundred acres, at Stanbridge Ridge, Que. Meantime he had located at Cook's Corners, called officially St. Armand Center since 1862, having purchased there a house which he ran as an inn. The chimney and oven were still in place in the midst of ruins a few years ago.

He died at St. Armand. His grave is in a small rural cemetery on a ridge above Hunter's Mills, known as La Grange Cemetery, about two miles north of the village of St. Armand. A single stone placed between two older slabs of field stone marks his grave and that of his wife Mary Tripp. His second wife Mary (Austin) Wightman, who was a member of the Anglican Church, is buried in the churchyard at Freligsburg, Que.

JOHN[4] WIGHTMAN (Valentine[3], John[2], George), born about 1741 in North Kingstown, Washington Co., R. I.; living there (last record) 1790 (census). He married there ELIZABETH FOWLER, daughter of George and Deborah (Tanner) Fowler, of North Kingstown.

John Wightman lived in Wickford, North Kingstown, where he was a tailor. During the Revolution, "John Wightman, son of Valentine" was cited with other young men as having joined the enemy (Narr. Hist. Reg. Vol. III, p. 58); but 3 January 1776 he entered service of the Colony shipping at Philadelphia on the "Alfred" of the Continental Army, as a "taylor." In this record his name is spelled Whiteman (Rev. files, R. I. Serv., State House, Providence).

The records show that he owned several village lots in Wickford, and he held minor town offices between 1780 and 1785. On 2 Dec. 1781 he and Elizabeth deeded property to Deborah Fowler (No. Kings. Deeds, xiv A, 16-18); and on 22 Oct. 1786 both signed a deed to another lot in Wickford (ibid., xiv A, 196-7). On 22 Dec. 1786 he was appointed administrator for his father's estate. On 30 Sept. 1806 a son Joseph, living in Providence, "mariner," and a daughter Anne, "singlewoman," also of Providence," children of Elizabeth Whitman who was daughter of George Fowler" signed a release to property belonging to the estate of their mother, deceased, in favor of Benjamin Fowler of No. Kingstown (No. Kings. Deeds, xvii, 238).

The Rhode Island census of 1782 shows him to be the head of a household comprising two sons and one daughter under 16; the census of 1790 shows the same family and one slave.

(Capt.) VALENTINE[4] WIGHTMAN (Valentine[3], John[2], George), born 1747 in North Kingstown, Washington Co., R. I.; died 12 October 1820 in Lenox, Madison Co., N. Y., aged seventy-three (gravestone). He married in North Kingstown about 1769, BARBARA OLIN (No. Kings. V. S., i, 100), born 4 September 1748 in North Kingstown; died 20 January 1830 in Lenox, daughter of John (John) and Susannah (Pierce) Olin.

Capt. Valentine Wightman was a master mariner, engaged in coast-wise trade out from Wickford, North Kingstown. The records show orders drawn on the Town Council for services rendered and for cargoes delivered.

During the War for Independence he commanded a privateer, "Lady Washington" commissioned 24 Aug. 1776. In this commission his name is spelled Volentine Whightman, Jr. (Rev. files, R. I. Serv., State House, Providence).

Following the War, the family removed from Rhode Island to South Shaftsbury, Vt., probably about 1783. The Rhode Island census of 1782 shows him still a resident of No. Kingstown, and a child was born there that year; but the younger children were probably all born in Vermont. It is family tradition that Barbara was determined that their son William should not follow the sea, the boy having already made a trip to Boston as cabin boy, and as her family the Olins had gone to So. Shaftsbury, Vt., they removed thither. They remained in So. Shaftsbury until after 1790 (census), but were residents of Norway, Herkimer Co., N. Y. in 1800 (census). They lived in their later years in Madison County, N. Y., all of their children having located there or in Oneida County. The graves of both are in a rural neighborhood cemetery about two and a half miles south of the village of Clockville in Madison Co., called the Whitman Cemetery. Their descendants have generally called the family name Whitman.*

*Barbara (Olin), wife of Capt. Valentine Wightman, was first cousin of Mercy (Carr), wife of Capt. Valentine's brother, James Wightman. Their mothers, Susannah Pierce and Elizabeth Pierce, were daughters of Jeremiah Pierce of East Greenwich, R. I..

Paul Wightman lived for a time after marriage in North Kingstown. On 16 Sept. 1776 he bought of John Reynolds a farm in North Kingstown (No. Kings. Deeds, xiii, B, 203-4), but sold the same 11 Apr. 1785 (ibid., xv, A, 148). In 1786 he and his brother-in-law Benjamin Cole, Jr. were bondsmen for his brother John, appointed administrator of the estate of their father, Valentine (No. Kings. Pro.). In 1788 he and his brother John were sponsors for Silas Whitman who had "come into this town with a family" (No. Kingstown Town Meeting Records).

In Apr. 1800 he was elected freeman of Middletown, and on 8 May 1801 took a long term lease of a property in Middletown. This estate, known as Whitehall, had been the property and residence of Bishop Berkeley who had come from England to promote the interests of the Established Church in New England. Not finding conditions encouraging, he renounced the enterprise; but before returning to England he disposed of Whitehall, about four hundred acres, one half of which went to Harvard College, the other half to Yale, the latter comprising the mansion house. It was this home portion that Paul Wightman leased, and he resided there till his death. The mansion house of Whitehall, a fine example of Colonial architecture, has been acquired by the Society of Colonial Dames, who have restored it in recent years to its original condition of simple elegance.

By his will, dated 18 Apr. 1815, Paul Wightman bequeathed the lease of Whitehall to his son Oliver, to whom he had previously, 15 Aug. 1801, deeded a farm in Middletown; and he left also a property of about one hundred acres to be divided, share and share alike, among his children. The division occurred 19 Aug. 1822 (Middletown Probate).

Paul Wightman married a second time. The real estate records of Newport under date of 5 Apr. 1817, record a life lease "to Penelope Wightman, wife of Paul Wightman of Middletown" from Hannah Gibbs, widow of Elisha, securing to the said Penelope Wightman certain rooms and privileges in the house of the said widow Gibbs. Possibly the tragic death of Paul Wightman by suicide six weeks later may be explained by the circumstances of an unfortunate second marriage.

The graves of both Paul and Hannah are at Whitehall, but unmarked.

Silas Wightman lived, after marriage, in Middletown, Newport Co., R. I., where the Rhode Island census of 1782 lists him with wife and one child, a daughter under 16. He returned to No. Kingstown in 1788 "with a family," his brothers John and Paul Wightman sponsors (No. Kings. Town Council Rec.). A son, Joseph, called "son of Silas and Anne" remained in Rhode Island, which suggests that the family as a whole did not leave the state.

He married in Norwich, 1 August 1774, SUSANNAH WIGHTMAN, born about 1755 in Norwich; died 12 August 1829 near Harrisburg, aged seventy-four (gravestone), daughter of (54) Dea. Valentine Wightman of Bozrah.

John Wightman served as private in Capt. Nehemiah Waterman's Co., Col. Samuel Abbott's Reg. (probably 6th Co., 20th Reg.) of Conn. Militia, enlisting from New London County. He is reported on a tour of duty 9 July 1779 to New London; appears on a list dated Norwich, 9 July 1779 for four days' service; again for three days' service, 6 to 8 Sept. 1781; and on a list of the 6th Co., 6 June 1782, which answered to alarm at New London. His name appears also on an undated list of those drafted in the 6th Co. of militia for a three months' tour to West Point (Rev. Files, Adj. General's office, War Dept.).

He continued to reside in Connecticut for a period of years, being still a resident of New London County in 1790 (census). In 1792 (family record) he removed to German Flatts, Herkimer Co., N. Y., buying land there, 1 Aug. 1795, from his father-in-law, Dea. Valentine Wightman (Herk. Co. Deeds, iv, 103, transferred rec., Utica, N. Y.). The records for Herkimer County show subsequent transactions in land, covering a number of years and indicate his continued residence in German Flatts, Herkimer Co., until about 1825.

Both John and Susannah lived during their last years near their son Joshua a few miles from Harrisburg in Fayette Co., Ind., where they had a small farm, and they died there. The graves of both are in Lick Creek Cemetery near Harrisburg.

The census of 1800 for German Flatts indicates a household comprising one boy and one girl under 16; three boys and one girl between 16 and 26; but a family record preserved among the papers of their grandson Charles Ellis Wightman, late of Portland, Ore., gives the following: "Father had two sisters older than himself: one married and went to Canada; the other married and went back to Connecticut. He had a brother Uriah and a brother John. John was the youngest."

Children, born in Connecticut:

i. Uriah[5], b. abt. 1775. The census of 1820 for Columbia Twp., Herk. Co., N. Y. gives his age as 45+; that of his wife as the same; and indicates a family of ten children: three girls and seven boys all between -10 and 26. His wife's name was Nabby (Herk. Co. Deeds). He is not given in the census of 1830 for Herkimer Co., nor any who could be of his family. No further data.

iii. Daughter[5], b. abt. 1780.

He married in Norwich, 24 September 1772, HANNAH WIGHTMAN, born 25 September 1753 in Groton, New London Co., Conn., daughter of (23) Rev. John and Mary (Stoddard) Wightman.

James Wightman served in the Continental Army in Capt. Nehemiah Waterman's Co., Col. Samuel Abbott's Reg., of Conn. Militia, enlisting from New London County. He removed before 1790 to New York State, locating finally in German Flatts, Herkimer County, where he engaged in farming.

He died intestate, letters of administration being granted on 4 Feby. 1824 to his widow Hannah, who served together with their son John (Herk. Co. Surr., Bk. D, 83).

A descendant of (64) Allyn Wightman, son of Rev. Timothy Wightman, has left the information among family papers that Allyn Wightman married as his second wife "widow Hannah Wightman." Allyn lived nearby in Warren Township, where he died 31 Dec. 1833. His widow Hannah is named in the settlement of his estate, but no record of her death has been found.

The children given below are found in the probate papers connected with the estate of William D. Wightman, all being indicated as brothers and sisters. The three daughters, unnamed, were deceased, but their descendants, not definitely placed, are named.

The census of 1800 for German Flatts shows James as head of a household comprising 1 male, -16; 2 males btw. 16 and 26; 1 female, -10; 1 female, -16; 1 female, 16 to 26. The oldest child, Mary, was already married.

William D. Wightman went from German Flatts to Oswego Co., N. Y. in 1805, being one of the earliest settlers in Scriba's Patent, Mexico Township. He was one of the group that organized the first Baptist Church in Oswego County, and was admitted by letter 18 Nov. 1815 to the succeeding organization, the historic Baptist Church at Colosse, the record showing that he bid pew No. 37 at thirty-eight dollars (Colosse Ch. Rec. Bk. I, 4). He was elected School Inspector 3 June 1813 at a special meeting called to provide means for the first school in the district. He removed to Camden in 1840 (Ch. rec.). BENJAMIN[4] WIGHTMAN (Abraham[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George), born 31 August 1755 in Norwich, New London Co., Conn.; died in June 1829 in Texas. He married ESTHER RANDALL, born 4 December 1758 in Colchester, New London Co.; died about 1829 in Texas, daughter of Rufus and (55) Margaret (Wightman) Randall.

Benjamin Wightman was an early settler in the region of German Flatts, Herkimer Co., N. Y. The History of Herkimer Co. (1893) states that he was the first to locate in the locality south of the present village of Mohawk, the settlement being known for some years afterwards as "Whitman Town." The same authority is cited for the statement that he was a Baptist minister.

Another early resident was Stutely Palmer, also from Connecticut, who kept an inn, and also William Wightman, son of Dea. Valentine of Bozrah, whose widow married Stutely Palmer, as his second wife. The locality is now known as "Denison Corners"; but until the present generation, the name Wightman was prominent throughout this whole area, including the village of Mohawk.

Sometime after 1800 Benjamin Wightman moved to Avoca Township in Steuben County, N. Y., where he bought land. In 1826 he and Esther sold this land (Steuben Co. Deeds, Bath, xvi, 255-6) and Margaret Wightman, the unmarried daughter, sold a farm there the same year. They are said to have followed the son, Elias, to Texas, and to have died there.

ABRAHAM[4] WIGHTMAN (Abraham[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George), born 16 May 1761 in Norwich, New London Co., Conn.; died about 1826 in Port Talbot Township, Prov. of Ontario, Can. He married CATHERINE RANDALL, born 21 September 1761 in Colchester, New London Co., Conn.; living (last record) 26 October 1835 in Gorham Township, Ontario Co., N. Y., daughter of Rufus and (55) Margaret (Wightman) Randall.

Abraham Wightman went to New York state before 1790, locating in the region of German Flatts near the present village of Mohawk. He was still a resident there in 1805 and in 1808 (Herk. Co. Deeds), but removed to Westmoreland Twp., Oneida County, during the latter year where he and Catherine sold land, 24 Oct. 1808 and again in 1814 (Oneida Co. Deeds, xxvi, 199). About 1818 they made another move, going to Onondaga County, and the church records for the Elbridge branch of the Skaneatles Baptist Church for 1818 show the names of Catherine and of the daughters still at home, Lucy, Clarissa, Maria and Hannah, and also of the son James, all of whom were at that time received into the church.

The family removed in 1820 to Canada, under the leadership of Col. Talbot who had taken up a large tract of land in lower Ontario and brought in settlers, including many families from New York state. At least one son, Abram Jr., and his family went also. A descendant states that Abraham died in Port Talbot about 1826, his grave being located on a triangular point of land at the junction of two small streams.

It is probable that after his death Catherine, the widow, returned to New York state and lived with her daughter Clarissa, wife of Oliver Harwood, a prominent citizen of Ontario County.

On 26 October 1835 Oliver Harwood gave a bond in the sum of one thousand dollars to his brother-in-law James Wightman who was also a resident of Gorham Township, securing support and care for Catherine Wightman with "food, clothing, medicines, and all things necessary for one in her condition" (bond preserved among private family papers).

James Wightman died not long afterward and his mother Catherine Probably passed away within a few years. They were both buried in a rural burying-ground, but the place is not located.

Children, first six and possibly others born in Connecticut; the others in German Flatts:

149. i. Humphrey[5], b. 16 July 1780.

151. iv. Abram[5], b. --- 1786.
152. v. Rufus Randall[5], b. --- 1789.
vi. Elias[5], b. --- 1793. He was a resident of Broome Twp., Schoharie Co., N. Y. for many years and had a family. Repeated efforts to get data have failed.

ix. Hannah[5]; m. Henry O. Longley and lived in Fulton, Mich.

Note: The Randall Genealogy (1879), p. 164, gives only ten children in this family, omitting Humphrey, and states that the two eldest were born in Colchester, Conn.

Rev. Jesse had been a supply preacher during the summer and had married, two months earlier, the daughter of a Baptist family in West Springfield. (Rev.) JOHN GANO[4] WIGHTMAN (Rev. Timothy[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George), born 16 August 1766 in Groton, New London Co., Conn.; died there 13 July 1841. He married first, 22 January 1789, MERCY CLARK, who died 29 May 1816, aged forty-three (gravestone), daughter of Josiah Clark of East Lyme, Conn.: married second, 7 July 1817, BRIDGET ALLYN, who died 16 August 1861 in Groton, aged eighty-one (gravestone), daughter of Rev. Rufus and Hannah (Billings) Allyn, of Groton.

Rev. John Gano Wightman received his academic education at Bacon Academy, Colchester. He was ordained to the service of the Christian ministry on 13 August 1800, and the next day was installed as pastor of the Groton Baptist Church. He was a man of tremendous physical energy, six feet in height, of powerful physique, and great self possession. Having a judicial turn of mind, he was much sought in the councils of the Church. He was a leader in the denomination and preached as exchange minister in many pulpits throughout Connecticut and in New York City. In this friendly exchange he knew a cousin younger than himself (196) Rev. Frederick Wightman, at Ashford, Conn., and the latter filled the pulpit and was a visitor at Groton.

His pastorate of forty-one years completed a service, by three successive generations of Wightmans, covering a span of one hundred twenty-three years in the Groton church.

The graves of Rev. John Gano and of both his wives are in the Wightman burying-ground at the site of the historic church, five and a half miles north of Groton, just off the Norwich river road.

Rev. Joseph L. Wightman was a Baptist minister, his last pastorate being the Church in Exeter, R. I. He was not robust but carried on the duties of his pastorate until his death, aided in his later years by Elders from the neighboring churches. He was a great lover of nature and carried on farming and horticulture as his pastoral duties permitted. He died of la grippe, following a cold. No children.

HOLMES[5] WIGHTMAN (Col. George[4], George[3], Rev. Daniel[2], George), born 6 January 1747 in North Kingstown, Washington Co., R. I.; died there 8 June 1817. He married in Rehoboth, Bristol Co., Mass., 12 April 1768, COMFORT BULLOCK, born about 1744; died 19 February 1818 in North Kingstown, aged seventy-three (gravestone).*

During the War for Independence, Holmes Wightman was under temporary suspicion of disloyalty, owing to the alliance of his father and brother John with the enemy. In 1777 it was voted by the Colonial Assembly that > "the sheriff for the county of Kings forthwith apprehend and confine Frederick Wightman, Holmes Wightman and George Wightman to the end that they may be examined before this Assembly, or Council of War, in the recess thereof" (R. I. Col. Rec. VIII, p. 236).

It is doubtful whether his brothers were convicted at all; and in February 1778 the Assembly, sitting in East Greenwich, voted and resolved > "that Holmes Wightman be and is hereby permitted to return to his home and family, he behaving himself as a good and faithful subject ought to do, any vote to the contrary notwithstanding" (Col. Rec. of R. I., VIII, p. 367).

As eldest son he was prospective heir to the ancestral homestead in Quidnessett, North Kingstown. This property being confiscated during the war, Holmes petitioned the Assembly in February 1780 as follows:

> "Holmes Wightman, of North Kingstown, yeoman, hereby showeth that his father George Wightman, late of sd. No. Kingstown, yeoman, in the month of January A. D. 1776 Left his family, went off and Joined the British Army now on Rhode Island and is Still Absent by reason whereof this Hon. Assembly did pass a Vote that all the Estate of the Said George Should become forfitto and for the Use of the State. Now ye Petitioner begs Leave to Inform the Hon. Assembly that the Land and Buildings in said North Kingstown against which information is filed in the Supreme Court Said to be the Property of the Said George is under a General Entail that the Said George hath no further right therein but his Life, which was to have taken Place on the Death of his father, but as he the Said George went off near three years before his father Died hath not as yet Possessed the Same in his own right, that as the Said Buildings are Now Very Much out of repair and the farming stuff mostly Destroyed but Little wood Now Growing on Said Land owing in Some Measure to the Said house being Made a Guard house for Soldiers that if Some Speedy Care be not taken said buildings will become a heap of ruins and the farm be of Little worth for Preventing whereof as Much as May be and that No More waste may be committed on Said Farm (several lines illegible).
> He therefore Humbly Prays that this Hon. Assembly will take the Premises into their wise Consideration and Grant Him the preference in hireing Said farm, He Paying Such Annual Rent as this Assembly or a Comm. by them appointed Shall from year to Year adjudge the Same to be reasonably worth or in Such other Manner as your Honors in your wisdom shall think best and he, as in Duty bound, will ever Pray.
>
> Holmes Wightman

The Assembly considering the petition, granted the plea, voting that the > "said estate lying in No. Kingstown be leased to the said Holmes Wightman for the term of one year from the 25th day of March next, and that Thos. Tillinghast and Richard Frye, Esqs. be and they are hereby appointed a committee to determine what rent shall be allowed for the same" (Col. Rec. of R. I. IX, 14-15).

*Comfort Bullock was undoubtedly a daughter (or niece) of Israel Bullock, of Rehoboth, and sister (or cousin) of Amey Bullock, who married Samuel Wightman, uncle of Holmes. Prudence Bullock, a sister of Comfort (Bullock) Wightman, married John Allen, a neighbor of Holmes Wightman in Quidnessett.

At the close of the conflict the farm was restored to Holmes as rightful possessor.

His will, drawn in 1817, is lost. The names of only two children are recorded in the town records (Wickford), and these two, Elizabeth and John, thirteen years apart in age, are doubtless the only ones who reached maturity.

Both he and his wife Comfort are buried in the family burying-ground on the farm, and several stones, some illegible field stones, mark the graves of young children.

Children, first and last only recorded in No. Kingstown:

(Lieut.) JOHN[5] WIGHTMAN (Col. George[4], George[3], Rev. Daniel[2], George), born 4 March 1749 in North Kingstown, Washington Co., R. I.; died 23 December 1819 in St. John, Prov. of New Brunswick, Can. He married in Newport, Newport Co., R. I., 30 September 1778, ELIZABETH JEFFRIES, born 23 June 1759 in Newport; died 24 August 1824 in Saint John, Can., daughter of Jonathan Jeffries of Newport, R. I.

Lieut. John Wightman served in the War for Independence on the side of the Royalists, obtaining rank of Lieutenant in the regiment of his father. At the close of hostilities on 18 May 1783, he went to Canada, followed shortly by his wife and their two young children from Newport, R.I. In consideration of his services, he was given a grant of land consisting of lots at Carleton (West St. John) and elsewhere in that vicinity, and considerable estates in the County of Kings, signing himself thereafter, John Wightman, Gentleman. He is known as Squire John to his posterity. He was made freeman of St. John in 1795.

That he did not forget his old home and near kindred in Rhode Island is shown by the following letter to his sister Alice in Quidnessett:

St. John, N. B. 4 March 1805

Dear sister:

I take this opportunity to write these few lines, sending them by my son John as he is now there on a voyage or two at sea and will see you before he returns here again. ...I have been trying these twenty years to come and see you all once more, but something always turns up to prevent me. Twenty-nine years are now gone since I left home and an opportunity to return seems as far off as ever. It is still my greatest desire to visit you while those who remain are still alive, and to look again on my old home, for it is as fresh in my mind as when I left there. I have often dreamed of being there in sight of our house and, as I thought, saw some of the family and have said to myself, now I have certainly got here, and was overjoyed with the thought of being there once more. But directly I awakened up and found myself not there, I was downhearted enough.

John has followed the sea ever since he was in the States before, and it seems to be his intention to continue to do so, which makes it very lonely for me...

I have not heard anything from father this some time. I wrote a letter to him last fall but have had no returns as yet. ...We all send love and best respects to you and all friends. I remain,

Your most affectionate brother,
John Wightman

FREDERICK[5] WIGHTMAN (Col. George[4], George[3], Rev. Daniel[2], George), born 13 September 1752 in North Kingstown, Washington Co., R. I.; died 22 September 1823 in Seekonk, Bristol Co., Mass. (Providence Journal). He married in North Kingstown, 19 April 1778, Sarah Br---, daughter of Samuel. She died, a widow, 9 March 1842 (marginal notes, farmer's almanac, R. I. Hist. Soc. Lib., Providence).

During the War for Independence, Frederick Wightman, as son of a Tory and of military age, was under temporary suspicion, as well as his brothers Holmes and George; and the Assembly ordered in May 1777 that all three be apprehended and confined "to the end that they may be examined before the Assembly, or the Council of War, in the recess thereof" (R. I. Col. Rec. VIII, 236).

He was still in No. Kingstown in 1778 where he married that year. The federal census for 1790 shows him located in that part of Rehoboth, Mass. set off as Seekonk, his household comprising two females only.

It is probable that he left no son to carry on the name, and no daughter has been identified.

GEORGE[5] WIGHTMAN (Col. George[4], George[3], Rev. Daniel[2], George), born 19 January 1756 in North Kingstown, Washington Co., R. I.; died 10 August 1834 in Warwick, Kent Co., R. I. He married 16 June 1776, WAIT SWEET, born 29 August 1758 in East Greenwich, Kent Co., R. I.; died 25 November 1821 in North Kingstown, daughter of Dea. Sylvester and Mary (Johnson) Sweet.

At the close of the War for Independence, George Wightman, already a married man with one child, made a trip to Canada in regard to the grant of land promised by the British government to his father, Col. George Wightman. Finding conditions there unpromising owing to the fact that part of the grant had been re-allotted outside of the family, and meeting with legal and financial obstacles in the absence of Col. George, who had settled in London, he returned to Rhode Island.*

He located subsequently on a farm in No. Kingstown where he lived until after his wife's death, removing to Warwick (Pawtuxet) where he died. Leaving no will, his son Samuel Wait Wightman of Pawtuxet was appointed administrator (Inv., taken 21 Oct. 1834, Warw. Prob. ix, 318-322).

The graves of both George and his wife Wait are in the Wightman burying-ground in Quidnessett, No. Kingstown, R. I.

DANIEL[5] WIGHTMAN (Col. George[4], George[3], Rev. Daniel[2], George), born 20 February 1766 in North Kingstown, Washington Co., Rhode Island; died (date and place unknown).

Following the War for Independence, Daniel Wightman, under twenty, and his brother, George, a young married man, went to Canada to secure their interests in the grant of land allotted their father there by the British government.

The following letter from Daniel to his brother George, who had returned to Rhode Island, is presented as possessing family interest:*

Saint John, N. B., April 18, 1786

Dear Brother,

I now write to inform you of my proceedings since you departed from this country. I have continued at Wilson's all winter and am waiting for an answer. Lawrence has no returns from his letter. He was chosen Representative and has been all winter in Halifax but has now returned. He informs me that while he was in England, through old Col. Smawl's doings one-half of father's lot was given away to a Scotchman who has gone home. It is not expected he will come out to it again. The half that was granted to him is the West Side, and includes almost, or quite all the marsh, but the other half takes in the intervals which is good and valuable, and the best of the upland likewise. Lawrence says he knew nothing of it being given away, until he went to Halifax. He also says he can't obtain the other half without paying the office fees which he fancies will amount to four or five pounds. If I get a grant of it and make some improvements on it, I think it will sell and pay me well for my trouble. Although I do not like the conditions it is thought by everyone best for me to take it, which I mean to do.

I drew a bill on father for one hundred twenty dollars and expect to hear from it the last of this month or the first of next. The bill bore date of the 8th of December. I also wrote a letter setting forth our proceedings and the necessity of his helping us. Capt. Wilson also wrote him on the same subject. I still retain the opinion that if we were settled on the grant, and if father would help us, as he might, it would be the best thing we could do for the land is good. Besides there are a great many privileges to be had here, and I had much rather live here than in many sections of Rhode Island. But I fancy that having had such hard luck in your travels, you will have no notion of coming back again, now that the half of the property is gone. But I shant discourage you from coming if you desire to do so. But if you don't intend to come you must send me a power of attorney for, as you know, without it I can do nothing, as the grant is held jointly between us.

I have been pretty well since you left. I would like to hear how you got home and from mother and all the family. I fancy she has thought a great deal about me as I have done about her and all the rest. You must all make yourselves easy about me as I can't think of coming home until I do something about this grant.

My love to you all, I conclude by subscribing myself,

Your affectionate brother,
Daniel Wightman

There is no record of Daniel's return to New England, nor have additional data regarding him been found.

JOHN[5] WIGHTMAN (Daniel[4], George[3], Rev. Daniel[2], George), born 7 September 1761 in Exeter, Washington Co., R. I.; died about 1820 in Hillsdale, Columbia Co., N. Y. He married -----.

John Wightman was a resident of North East, Little Nine Partners Patent, Dutchess Co., N. Y. as early as 6 May 1802 when he and Henry Bentley, both "of North East", were parties of the first part to a mortgage covering Lot 51, Division Little Nine Partners, 193 acres in all, involving the sum of $4,437.50 (Dutchess Co. Mortgages, Bk. ix, 122). On 2 May 1814 they were parties of the second part to a mortgage placed on the same land. On 21 Feby. 1823 the obligation was canceled by a certificate of discharge signed by Henry Bentley and Jonathan Dewel, the latter being executor to the Estate of John Wightman, deceased (ibid., Bk. xxi, 1).

John Wightman is said to have lived later in Dover, Dutchess Co. and to have removed from there to Hillsdale in 1815, making his home with Salome (Wightman) Bowdish, wife of Abraham Bowdish. In 1819 he deeded his brother Valentine his share in their father's estate in Exeter, R. I., Valentine having removed from Dutchess County to Rensselaerville, Albany Co., N. Y. (Exeter Deeds, Bk.

John had evidently married, as his will disposes of household furniture. The individuals named in the will (below) other than brothers and sisters, while not called daughters were all born Wightman and were probably his children, possibly by different marriages. There is some uncertainty regarding them. The home was evidently broken up. The mother of Salome (Wightman) Bowdish was Elizabeth Simpson. She married a second time, her husband being --- Roe by whom she had two sons.

Abstract of the will of John Wightman, dated 18 Aug. 1819 and recorded the following spring (Col. Co., N. Y. Surr., Bk. E, 1):

> I John Wightman of Hillsdale...do give bequeath...to my beloved friend* Salome Bowdish, wife of Abraham Bowdish, the sum of nineteen hundred dollars and a clock which I call worth 100 dollars...to Phebe Hazzard of Rhode Island 250 dollars...to Miranda Sampson, of Dover, 500 dollars...to John Person 200 dollars...to Isaac Person 70 dollars which is to be laid out to School the child...to my beloved sister Mary Mosier 75 dollars if she lives till it comes due, otherwise to my brother Valentine...to my beloved sister Anna Joslin of Hoosick 100 dollars...to my beloved sister Elizabeth Peckham of Rodisland 100 dollars...to my dear sister Sarah Wightman 25 dollars...to my beloved brother George Wightman all my wearing apparel ...to my dear beloved brother Valentine Wightman 600 dollars.

Valentine Wightman, his brother, was named executor.

GEORGE[5] WIGHTMAN (Daniel[4], George[3], Rev. Daniel[2], George), born 24 October 1765 in Exeter, Washington Co., R. I.; died there between 6 October 1820 and 7 January 1822. He married there 3 October 1790, HANNAH HULING ABBIE CHACE, who died in Exeter 27 May 1849, daughter of Daniel and Virtue (Huling) Chace, of Exeter.

George Wightman (name usually spelled Whitman in the records) was a farmer in Exeter. According to both family tradition and official record, he became improvident through intemperance. On 3 Feby. 1817 his wife petitioned for a guardian to safeguard the property, but on 6 April 1818, Thomas Albro, the guardian appointed, was dismissed (Exeter record). The farm of about 100 acres, inherited as his share of his father Daniel Wightman's estate was sold 6 October 1820 to Jeremiah Peckham, both George and Hannah signing the deed.

He died intestate, letters of administration being granted to his widow on 7 January 1822. Hannah as well as George was a descendant of George Wightman, her mother Virtue (Huling) Chace being the daughter of Alexander and Eunice (Tarbox) Huling, and the grand-daughter of Alexander and (2) Elizabeth (Wightman) Huling, the last being the eldest daughter of George Wightman. As Hannah was the only heir of her parents, she and her children inherited property, real and personal, under the will of her father Daniel Chace (Exeter Prob., Bk. viii, 133) and of her mother Virtue (Huling) Chace (ibid., Bk. ix, 68).

DANIEL[5] WIGHTMAN (Daniel[4], George[3], Rev. Daniel[2], George), born 3 July 1768 in Exeter, Washington Co., R. I.; died shortly before 12 July 1819 probably in Steuben, Oneida Co., N. Y. He married in Rhode Island, HANNAH CARD, daughter of William and Hannah Card of Exeter, R. I. and later of Chagrin Twp., Cuyahoga Co., O.

Daniel Wightman removed to New York state, buying, 21 Dec. 1798 in Steuben Twp., Herkimer Co. (later a part of Oneida Co.), 131 acres of land (Oneida Co. Deeds, Utica, vi, 407). On 12 July 1819, Henry Wightman, "son and sole heir of Daniel Wightman Jr. late deceased", sold the same, he being then a resident of Greenbush, Rensselaer Co., N. Y. (Oneida Co. Deeds, xxx, 528).

Child:

i. Henry[6], b. before 1798 probably in New York state. No further data.

VALENTINE[5] WIGHTMAN (Daniel[4], George[3], Rev. Daniel[2], George), born 24 October 1772 in Exeter, Washington Co., R. I.; died 28 November 1850 in Rensselaerville, Albany Co., N. Y. He married ELIZABETH WIGHTMAN, born 5 February 1769 in North Kingstown, Washington Co., R. I.; died 17 February 1837 in Rensselaerville, N. Y., daughter of (73) Holmes and Comfort (Bullock) Wightman.

Valentine Wightman was a millwright. He went to Little Nine Partners Precinct, Dutchess Co., N. Y. before 1800, operating there in the latter year the Mount Ross Mills.* In 1802 Henry Bentley and Valentine Wightman purchased the Ross mills from Anthony Hoffman. In 1809 they sold the plant to Samuel Wilbur and Elias Hicks. An entry in an old account book of Valentine Wightman's under date of 24 July 1800 records: "Gideon Jenkins, Dr. to 1 pr. shoes, 10 S.," indicating quite evidently that he kept a general store after his arrival in Dutchess County.

He removed again, going to Rensselaerville, Albany County before 1815, being a resident there that year when he became co-heir with three brothers, John, George and Daniel, to the paternal homestead in Exeter, R. I. In 1819 he received a deed to his brother John's share of that estate, and on 20 December of the same year received a deed to Daniel's share by the latter's heir, Henry Wightman of Greenbush, Albany County, giving him a total of about three hundred acres. He sold this farm 26 Aug. 1820 to Jeremiah Peckham of Exeter (Exeter Deeds, Bk. viii, 403-4).

It seems likely that there were children besides the two daughters named below. None are known to the descendants of the latter. The census of 1850 shows Valentine living with a family of another name, possibly neighbors, and he died that year. The graves of both Valentine and Elizabeth are in the village cemetery at Rensselaerville, N. Y.

BENJAMIN[5] WIGHTMAN (Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dea. George[2], George), born about 1756 in Rhode Island, probably in Scituate, Providence County; died 9 September 1824 in South New Berlin, Chenango Co., N. Y., aged sixty-eight (gravestone). He married first, -----; married second, ELIZABETH -----, who died 19 September 1822 in South New Berlin, aged fifty (gravestone).

Benjamin Wightman was a pioneer settler in Chenango County, locating at Great Brook, South New Berlin Township, where he took up and cleared a considerable tract of land. This homestead remained in the family for three generations.

The date of his removal from Rhode Island to New York state is not determined with certainty. A descendant recalls a tradition that his own grandfather (189) George Wightman, born in 1807, son of this Benjamin, came from Rhode Island when he was "just a lad." The History of Chenango County, N. Y. puts the date at about 1810.

The first wife whose name is lost to her descendants undoubtedly died before the removal to New York as she is not buried at Great Brook; and it is quite likely that Benjamin and Elizabeth were married in Rhode Island. George is the only child known of the second marriage. It seems likely that there was another son.

The graves of Benjamin and Elizabeth are in the Wightman burying-ground at Great Brook.

Children:

187. i. Samuel[6], b. 26 Aug. 1783.
ii. Wealthean[6], b. --- 1784; d. 15 Dec. 1856 in Sangerfield, N.Y., aged seventy-two; m. Alvin Loomis, b. 8 Aug. 1778; d. 15 Dec. 1851, son of Stephen and Mary (Mumford) Loomis. She is named an heir in the will of (88) Stephen Wightman.
188. iii. Benjamin[6], b. 7 April 1797.
189. iv. George[6], b. --- 1807.

There were probably other children.

STEPHEN[5] WIGHTMAN (Samuel[4], Samuel[3], Dea. George[2], George), born about 1764 in Rhode Island, probably in Scituate, Providence County; died 7 May 1813 in Sangerfield, Oneida Co., N. Y., aged forty-nine (family Bible). He married first, ELIZABETH PATRICK, born in 1768; died 5 June 1810, aged forty-two, daughter of Robert Patrick: married second, Mrs. MARGARET OAKS, widow of Ephraim Oaks of Sangerfield.

Stephen Wightman was an early settler in New York state. It is likely that he located first at Great Brook, South New Berlin, Chenango County, removing not long after 1800 to Sangerfield, Oneida County. As he is not given in the census of 1790 for Rhode Island, he had probably already left the state, marrying elsewhere. His first wife's family were residents also of Sangerfield.

His will dated 6 May 1813 shows parental concern for his children, expressed as follows:

> "...My further will is that all my children after my decease live in peace and friendship together, that the older ones be kind to the younger ones and especially to their little infant brother Patrick who when I am no more in a tender age is fatherless and motherless. I wish that he may have (a) good education and may his blessing who is the Father of the Fatherless constantly follow all my dear children through life till death and in the world to come" (Oneida Co. Surr. Bk. A, 142-4).

Benjamin Whitman was a Revolutionary soldier, enlisting from Warwick, R. I. He located after the War in Stephentown where he cultivated land, which he still owned in 1830 (Renss. Co. Deeds). It is likely that he and his wife were living with their son Benjamin in Stephentown in 1830, the census showing that the son Benjamin's household comprised one male over seventy and one female between sixty and seventy.

His son John stated in connection with the widow's pension claim that his father was a cripple and was unable to extricate himself from his house which became afire early one morning, and thus met his death while his wife ran out to get help. I., 3 January 1788, ROBY KNIGHT, born 27 April 1769 in Cranston; died 20 September 1855 in Warwick, daughter of Benjamin and Dorcas Knight.

Henry Whitman lived in Warwick, in Coventry, in Providence, and in Cranston. In 1785 he sold his inheritance from his father's estate to his uncle David Wightman of Warwick, describing it as bordering on the land of Caleb Wightman and "Sarah, my mother, now wife of Gideon Spencer." He owned property later in the various localities in which he lived. In 1777 he served three months as a "waiter" in the company commanded by his father Capt. Reuben, enlisting when not yet fifteen years of age. Later, in 1796, he was "Capt. Henry" of the 3rd Company of Cranston militia. He was pensioned, his deposition being dated 6 Sept. 1837 (File W. 1681, Rev. Serv.).

His wife Roby (Knight) Whitman was the daughter of Benjamin Knight, an innkeeper in Cranston. When General Lafayette was passing through Rhode Island, he stopped at her father's inn, and observing Roby, a girl in her teens and remarkably pretty, gave her a snuff box as a souvenir.

Henry Whitman died intestate. His widow in her will names her two children and her grandchildren.

Caleb Whitman was a farmer in Adams, his land adjoining that of his father-in-law David Darling. He was still a resident of Adams in 1817, when he suffered foreclosure of a mortgage on his farm. In 1834 he was witness to the settlement of the estate of his brother George, a resident of Adams (Berk. Co. Prob., Pittsfield Reg.). No further data.

He married first in Rhode Island, HULDAH ----- : married second, also in Rhode Island, 21 December 1800, SUSANNAH KEECH, born 16 October 1780 in Coventry, Kent Co., R. I.; died 17 January 1862 in Adams, Mass., daughter of Seth and Susannah Keech. She married second, 15 July 1839, Elisha Kingsley, of Adams, Mass.

On 4 May 1790, George Whitman sold the portion of land in Warwick allotted him at the settlement of his father Reuben's estate (Warwick Deeds). He remained in Rhode Island until after his second marriage, removing soon after to Adams, Berkshire Co., Mass. He had, however, bought property there as early as 1794. He was interested in various business enterprises, chiefly in real estate. He bought and sold many different home sites in Adams, his wife stating that they removed some dozen times; and he bought business and mill properties for speculation.

His will dated 28 June 1833, proved 15 Oct. 1834 names his wife Susannah and his three children. At the date of settlement his daughter Eliza Robinson was aged twenty-eight; son Stephen was aged thirty-eight; and son Reuben was thirty-three. His brother Caleb was a witness to this settlement.

(Maj.) REUBEN[5] WHITMAN (Capt. Reuben[4], George[3], Dea. George[2], George), born 1772 in Warwick, Kent Co., R. I.; died in Phenix, Kent Co., R. I., 20 Aug. 1847, aged seventy-five. He married ANNA BAKER, born 17 December 1775; died in Warwick, 18 June 1855, daughter of Daniel and Sarah (Westcott) Baker.

In 1793 Maj. Reuben Whitman sold his inheritance from his father Reuben's estate in Warwick. He was at that time a resident of Providence, but "late of Warwick," and called himself a "house carpenter" (Warwick Deeds). From 1808 to 1816 he lived successively in Warwick, Cranston, Coventry, and Warwick, the records showing numerous real estate transactions during that period. He was later associated with the Bakers in the milling industry, and was a charter member of the Roger Williams Mfg. Co., and Superintendent of the mill in Coventry; but he removed to Pomfret, Conn. after a fire destroyed the Coventry plant, selling from there his rights in the Company, reorganized as the "Phenix" mill, and the nucleus of the present village of Phenix. About this time he and his son David, who became a notable mill engineer, sold a valuable factory site in Cranston. Reuben returned to Rhode Island and died probably in Phenix. The burial lot of this family is in Phenix.

He is frequently called General Reuben in the records, but his actual rank was 2nd Major, 2nd Reg., Kent Co. Militia.

ELIZABETH[5] WIGHTMAN (George[4], John[3], John[2], George), born 23 September 1752 in Exeter, Washington Co., R. I.; died 25 September 1830 in Dover, Dutchess Co., N. Y. (family record). She married in Beekman's Precinct, Dutchess Co., N. Y. about 1771, THOMAS CASEY, born about 1741 in North Kingstown, Washington Co., R. I.; died 18 November 1823 in Dutchess Co., N. Elizabeth Wightman was a child of about six years of age when her parents removed in 1758 to Dutchess County, N. Y. Their neighbors in the new locality were also largely from Rhode Island, among them the Casey family and the Tripps from Portsmouth and Exeter.

Both she and her brother married into the same Casey family. Thomas Casey is said to have been well over six feet in height. JOHN[5] WIGHTMAN (George[4], John[3], John[2], George), born 24 May 1754 in Exeter, Washington Co., R. I. (family record); was "late of Hancock, Berkshire Co., Mass., deceased," 5 October 1836. He married in Dutchess County, N. Y., 16 January 1778, SARAH CASEY, born 12 December 1750; living (last record) 5 October 1836 in Poughkeepsie, Dutchess Co., N. Y., daughter of Thomas (Samuel[2], Thomas) and Alice (Tripp) Casey of Beekman's Precinct, Dutchess Co., N. Y.

John Wightman, called also John Whitman in the records, was joint heir with his cousin William Wightman to the estate of their paternal grandfather, John Wightman, in Hancock, Berkshire Co., Mass. (will proved 1787). He owned this land, about 42 acres, until his death, when his "relict" Sarah and daughter Mary, his "heirs at law", residents of Poughkeepsie, deeded it to Thomas Sweet of Poughkeepsie (No. Berkshire Deeds, xl, 506, Adams, Mass.). In that deed John Wightman is called "late of Hancock, Mass."

It is probable that the widow Sarah and the daughter Mary were the only surviving members of this family. On 7 May 1842, Thomas Sweet (Stephen[5], Stephen[4], Samuel[3], James[2], John), a cousin of Mary's living in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., provided in his will for Mary, stating that she had already been a member of his household for some time. Probably the mother, Sarah, was already deceased at this latter date.

Children (family record):

i. Thomas[6], b. 2 July 1779.
ii. George[6], b. 6 Apr. 1781; d. 11 Oct. 1792.

EDWARD[5] WIGHTMAN (Titus[4], John[3], John[2], George), born about 1754, probably in Exeter, Washington Co., R. I.; living (last record) in 1800 in Pawlet, Rutland Co., Vt. He married ----- , who died about 1800 in Pawlet.

Edward Wightman, called in the will of his grandfather John Wightman, of Hancock, Mass., "eldest son of my son Titus Whitman," was probably an infant when his parents removed from Rhode Island to Beekman's Precinct, Dutchess Co., N. Y. During the Revolution he served in the 14th Regiment of Albany County, N. Y. militia, which suggests that he had already left Dutchess County on or before the outbreak of the War. The location of his father's family at this latter time is not known; but most of their relatives were located at Hancock, Mass. and in southern Vermont around Manchester. Following the War, Edward's younger brother George, married a cousin in Manchester, Vt., and located there.

The first federal census of 1790 does not list Edward anywhere as head of a family; but the census of 1800 for Pawlet, Rutland Co., Vt., shows him there as head of a household. It is regarded as established, but without documentary proof, that Edward was the father of the three children given below. The facts, supplied in large part by a descendant of William, the second of the children, are as follows:

The three children named below were brothers. Their birth place was Pawlet, Vt. (family record). When William was "about four years old" their mother died, and shortly afterwards the father gave all three away to be brought up in three different families. It is said that the father went away, married again, and had another family.

The census of 1800 indicates the household of Edward of Pawlet as comprising one female, 26 to 45; and three children older than three little boys therein given as under 10. As Edward nowhere appears as head of a household in 1790, it seems unlikely that these older children were Edward's. Tney may have been the children of a housekeeper, possibly a sister. Edward is not given in Pawlet or elsewhere in Vermont in the next or any subsequent census lists.

The three boys all grew up in the locality about Pawlet and Manchester, and two, if not all three, married there. David named his eldest son Edward.

Children, born in Pawlet:

211. i. David[6], b. abt. 1792.
212. ii. William[6], b. 30 Oct. 1796.
213. iii. Ezra , b. 30 Aug. 1798.

GEORGE[5] WIGHTMAN (Titus[4], John[3], John[2], George), born 1760 (or 62) in Beekman's Precinct, Dutchess Co., N. Y.; died in 1844 in Hamilton Twp., Franklin Co., O. He married in Manchester, Bennington Co., Vt., 12 March 1786, ELIZABETH VAUGHN, born 17 January 1768 in Manchester; died probably in Franklin County, O., daughter of Dea. James and Jane (Wightman) Vaughn, and grand-daughter of (15) John Wightman, of Hancock, Mass.

George Wightman was a Revolutionary soldier, serving in Col. Peter Yates' New York regiment, and in 1780 in Col. Seth Warner's regiment. He was captured 11 Oct. 1780 at the battle of Ft. George, taken to Canada and detained there till the end of the war.

Following his marriage in Manchester, Vt., he and Elizabeth lived on a farm there which was deeded them by Dea. Vaughn. On 2 March 1796 they sold this property, removing to Ticonderoga, Essex Co., N. Y., the census of 1810 listing him there as head of a household comprising four girls between 10 and 16 and a son under 10. The oldest son Titus was by this time married and away from home.

They removed about 1814 to Hamilton Twp., Franklin Co., Ohio. His pension claim executed 4 May 1818 records that he was a resident of Franklin County, aged fifty-six (File S 40711, N.Y. Rev. Serv.). A newspaper item at the time of his death in 1844 states that he had been a resident of Franklin County about thirty years. He was a cooper.

Children, first two recorded in Manchester, Vt.; the others indicated in the census of 1810 for Essex Co., N. Y.:

214. i. Titus[6], b. 7 May 1787.
ii. Hannah[6], b. 13 Feby. 1790.

ANNE[5] WIGHTMAN (Thomas[4], John[3], John[2], George), born 31 January 1773, probably in Beekman's Precinct, Dutchess Co., N. Y.; died March 1838 in, possibly, Franklin, Franklin Co., Vt. She married at Cook's Corners, now St. Armand, Prov. of Quebec, Can., ELIAS TRUAX, born 4 July 1772 in Albany County, N. Y.; died 4 February 1875 in Franklin, Vt., son of Gillis (Elias) and (his third wife) Agnes (McKenzie) Truax.

Anne Wightman was reared in Hancock, Berkshire Co., Mass., removing at the age of twenty-one with her parents to the new home in Lower Canada. There she met Elias Truax, also American born but of Dutch and Scotch descent, who had come to St. Armand in 1792 at the age of twenty. After their marriage they lived in the vicinity of St. Armand. He was a farmer but could turn his hand to other things such as blacksmithing and carpentry; and he is said to have made plows and sleighs for the early settlers in that region.

In late middle life he came over into Vermont where he bought a farm which has continued in the Truax name. The original stone house is still standing.

He was a man of marked vigor and at the time of his death in his one hundred third year was "as straight as an Indian." Tradition states that at ninety-seven he skated across Franklin Pond.

He grew somewhat eccentric, and in his later years lived summers in the woods. He often tamed various wild creatures and would return with a strange following. Winters he used a jack knife with great skill, making small objects such as paddles, spoons, and other useful articles, and some of these are still in the possession of his descendants.

He survived Anne thirty-seven years. It is not known whether she died before or after the removal to Vermont.

WILLIAM[5] WIGHTMAN (Thomas[4], John[3], John[2], George), born 26 June 1775 in Hancock, Berkshire Co., Mass.; died 12 June 1860 in Swanton, Franklin Co., Vt. He married in St. Armand, Prov. of Quebec, Can., CLARISSA MARTINDALE, born 13 May 1776; died 14 October 1856 in Swanton.

William Wightman was undoubtedly born in Hancock, Berkshire Co., Mass. In the record of his death at Swanton, Vt., his birthplace is given as K. J. U. S., which may be an error in copying, meant for P. J. U. S., viz., Plantations of Jericho, renamed Hancock in 1776 (Swanton rec., Bk. i, p. 3). His grandfather John Wightman had located in Jericho Plantations in 1774 and his own father Thomas, a young married man, probably came from Dutchess County, N. Y. at about the same time.

Under the will of his grandfather John Wightman, proved 1787, he was heir to one half of the latter's homestead in Hancock; but he sold that property, some fifty-five acres, on 27 Jany. 1797, his wife Clarissa signing the deed (No. Berk. Deeds, Adams, v, 76). This deed drawn in Chittenden County, Vt. and witnessed by his father Thomas, states that he was at that time a resident of Dunn's Patent, Co. Bedford, Lower Canada, now a part of the Province of Quebec, about St. Armand.

His wife, Clarissa, belonged to a numerous family of Martindales located also at St. Armand, but her exact parentage is undetermined, and her death at Swanton antedated the records there. At what time William removed to Swanton is not known. He was a farmer, but there are no land records in his name in Swanton.

The graves of both William and Clarissa are in the village cemetery on Church Street in Swanton.

WILLIAM[5] WHITMAN (Capt. Valentine[4], Valentine[3], John[2], George), born 27 April 1770 in Wickford, North Kingstown, Washington Co., R. I.; died 17 June 1854 in Groveland, Livingston Co., N. Y. He married first, in Adams, Berkshire Co., Mass., 1 August 1790, RUTH JAMES, born 14 August 1770 in Gageborough (Windsor), Berkshire Co., Mass.; died 17 November 1846 in Groveland, daughter of Abel and Hannah (Martin) James: married second in 1847, MRS. ELIZABETH ROWLAND, of Geneseo, N. Y.

Born in the village of Wickford, a busy shipping port, and his father a sea-captain, William Whitman early felt the call of the sea and made at least one trip as cabin boy before he was fourteen. His mother, strongly opposed to his being a mariner, brought about the removal of the family about 1784 to So. Shaftsbury, Vt., where her family, the Olins, had recently gone.

Following his marriage, William located in Norway Twp., Herkimer Co., N. Y. (census 1800) where the James family had settled, removing thither from Windsor, Berkshire Co., Mass. Successive removals took him to Lenox, Madison Co.; Manlius, Onondaga Co., where he sold a farm of fifty acres in 1821; and then to Livingston Co., where their farm of one hundred acres overlooked the beautiful Geneseo Valley.

It was pioneer life; but their two-story log house was open to travelers; they entertained the itinerant preachers; and gave of their substance to wayfarers tarrying temporarily around Lake Conesus, a mile away. They were Free Will Baptists.

The graves of both William and Ruth are in Lakeview Cemetery near Hunt's Corners, in Groveland.

John Whitman, while still a lad, removed with his parents from Rhode Island to So. Shaftsbury, Bennington Co., Vt., and there he grew up. In 1800 the young married couple went into the "dense wilderness" of what is the present town of Lenox, Madison Co., and located on a farm two and BENJAMIN[5] WIGHTMAN (Paul[4], Valentine[3], John[2], George), born about 1782 in North Kingstown, Washington Co., R. I.; living (last record) 15 April 1824 in North Providence, R. I. He married first, MARY MOORE, who died in Newport, R. I. 29 March 1820, daughter of Rev. William Moore of Newport (Newport Mercury): married second, in North Providence, 15 April 1824, Mrs. POLLY SMITH, born 7 August 1775 in Connecticut; died, a widow, 23 October 1856 in Providence, daughter of David and Thankful Carter.

Benjamin Wightman was a merchant in Newport, his warehouse being located on Ferry Wharf. He removed to No. Providence some time after the death of his first wife in 1820, but was still in Newport when the census of 1820 was taken. His family at that time comprised one male between 18 and 26; two males between 10 and 16; two females between 10 and 16; his own age indicated as between 26 and 45.

He married HANNAH DOUGLAS, born 1792 in Coventry, Kent Co., R. I.; died 28 September 1863 in North Providence, daughter of David and Sarah (Browning) Douglas.

Joseph Whitman was a mill worker. Like many of his generation in Rhode Island, following the period of the Revolution, he found the new mill industries of the Pawtuxet Valley and in the region of Pawtucket more profitable than the old, unproductive farm. The regular pay of the weaver or spinner and the fixed number of hours of work were satisfying factors; and for those who lacked the capital to become independent manufacturers and mill owners, occupation thus assured was not lacking either in appeal to skill or in opportunities of gain for the thrifty.

From this time on for two generations many of Wightman or Whitman name, who remained in Rhode Island, were thus employed.

He died there intestate the following year, letters of administration being granted to his widow 27 Sept. 1796 (Herk. Co. Surr., Bk. A, 45). Later his four surviving children were heirs to his share in the estate of his father, Dea. His widow, Ruth Bethia, married Stutely Palmer, a neighbor, living at what is now known as Denison's Corners, but known in earlier days as "Whitman Town." The two families of Wightman and Palmer thus brought together were subsequently more closely related through further intermarriage. Bethia Wightman, widow of Amos Williams, married as her second husband, her step-brother, Dea. They received also Daniel's share of personal property. On 3 Sept. 1811 the widow, Cynthia, asked that her brother-in-law, Elijah Wightman, be appointed administrator, the latter accepting the trust. Amos Wightman was a resident of Herkimer County, N. Y. as early as 1807 but bought land there in April 1796 (Utica Deeds, iii, 414, old record). ISRAEL[5] WIGHTMAN (Dea. Valentine[4], Daniel[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George), born about 1765 in that part of Norwich set off in 1786 as Bozrah, New London Co., Conn.; died (no definite record). He married in Norwich, 4 August 1790, DEMARIS PENDLETON, born 9 August 1773 in Westerly, Washington Co., R. I.; died in Franklinville, Cattaraugus Co., N. Y., daughter of Major Joseph and Damarias (Crandall) Pendleton.

Israel Wightman went from Connecticut to

New York state not long after his marriage, and was living in Hudson Twp., Herkimer County in 1800. About 1804 he removed to New Haven, Addison Co., Vt., where he remained some ten years, acknowledging from there his inheritance from his father's estate in Bozrah, Conn., being co-heir to a tract of 191½ acres in Columbia Twp., Herkimer Co., N. Y. He subsequently lived two years in New Hampshire, returning from there to New York state. By 1818 the family were residents of Le Roy Twp., Genesee Co., N. Y., where they remained.

A granddaughter of Israel's second son, William W. Wightman, contributes the information that Israel met his death under mysterious circumstances. Israel was a farmer and a trapper. Having left home one morning for Marietta, O. with a load of furs, he spent several days there, sold his pelts for cash and started home with the money, about four hundred dollars, on his person. As he did not return home, inquiry was made at the hotel where he stayed every spring when on these trips, and it was learned he had left with two men. Nothing was ever learned of his fate, horses, wagon, and all having completely disappeared. The same informant says that "Dimmis" was never reconciled, and would sit continually at a window wondering "why Israel doesn't come."

Children, first two born probably in Bozrah; next five in N. Y.; others in New Haven, Vt.:

266. i. Abel Pendleton[6], b. Nov. 1794.

DAVID[5] WIGHTMAN (Dea. Valentine[4], Daniel[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George), born about 1768 in Norwich, New London Co., Conn.; living (last record) December 1832 in Columbia, Herkimer Co., N. Y. He married in Connecticut about 1790, ANNE (BROWN)

David Wightman went from Connecticut to Herkimer County, N. Y. soon after 1804 where his father had bought on 3 Aug. 1792 a tract of nearly two hundred acres in Columbia Twp., Herkimer County. He shared in this estate under his father's will.

A descendant states that David was a minister. There is no record to prove or disprove this tradition. His wife, Anne, according to the same authority, was a cousin of Benedict Arnold, and would not allow his name mentioned in her presence. Her maiden name may have been Brown.

No record of David's estate is found in Herkimer County, and it seems probable that both he and Anne left New York, and died elsewhere.

Children, all born in Conn. except possibly the last:

i. Hannah[6], b. abt. 1789; d. 16 Sept. 1843; m. (264) William Wightman, son of William and Ruth Bethia (Thomas) Wightman.

iii. Dudley , "eldest son," b. abt. 1793; d. in Burton Twp., Genesee Co., Mich.; m. before 1820, ----- , who died in Buffalo, N. Y. deceased before her husband.

Dudley Wightman grew up in Herkimer County, N. Y., and enlisted from there in the War of 1812, taking part in the Battle of Lundy's Lane. He was still a resident of Herkimer Co., N. Y. in 1820 (census). He was a printer by trade, and lived subsequently in various places; following his wife's death he went to Michigan. He lived finally at the home of his sister Huldah Aylesworth in Burton, and died there. He had adopted a son of whom nothing is now known. His grave, unmarked, is in the old City Cemetery, near Flint, Mich.

v. Enoch[6]; d. in Burton Twp., Genesee Co., Mich., unm. He was a pensioned soldier, having served in the War of 1812. He lived during his later years at the home of his sister Huldah Aylesworth in Burton, and died there.

ELIJAH[5] WIGHTMAN (Dea. Valentine[4], Daniel[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George), born 15 December 1771 in that part of Norwich set off in 1786 as Bozrah, New London Co., Conn.; died there 7 April 1844. He married BETSEY PHELPS, born 21 August 1773 in Hebron, New London Co., Conn.; died 19 September 1855 in Bozrah, daughter of Joshua and Elizabeth (Fuller) Phelps, and a descendant of Edward Fuller, a Mayflower passenger.

Elijah Wightman was a farmer and lifelong resident of Bozrah. Remaining in the old home locality in Connecticut, while all but one of his six brothers, and many cousins of Wightman name removed to New York state, he was much employed as their representative in the management of their interests back home in Connecticut. He also served as guardian for several minors within the relationship, and seems to have been counselor and friend to many. The records of numerous transactions of this nature have been a valuable source of genealogical data pertaining to the descendants of Dea. Valentine.

He was a member of the "Church of Christ in Bozrah" (Congregational), having been received 14 Jany. 1827, and his wife and daughter Laura E. the same day (Bozrah Ch. Bk. IV).

Joseph Wightman went soon after marriage to Columbia, Herkimer Co., N. Y., his eldest child being born there in 1800. On the death of his father in 1814, he received as his share of the paternal estate the following allotment: $157.82 in personal property; $698.96 in land "not set off or divided in what is called the "old farm" near the place where the Dec[d]. last lived in Bozrah; also the undivided part of the farm in Lebanon; and a share in the undivided land in Columbia, Herkimer Co., N. Y., total valuation amounting to $1,008.00. It appears from the records in Bozrah that he sold to his brother Elijah, in Bozrah, on 20 Sept. 1814, all of the land thus received by inheritance, both in Connecticut and in New York (Bozrah Deeds, Bk. iii, 385, witnesses David Wightman, Asa Woodworth).

The census of 1820 for German Flatts, Herkimer Co., N. Y. shows him there as head of a household comprising eight children, their ages suggesting the birthdates given below. He is not listed in Herkimer County in 1830. No further data.

i. Sally[6]; m. Philo Dauchy, and lived in Galway, N. Y.

ii. Jonathan[6], b. abt. 1798; d. 1 Nov. 1860 in Troy, N. Y.; m. Anna McMartin, who d. 13 Mch. 1899, aged ninety-four.

His will dated 20 Dec. 1855 gives his age as fifty-seven, which makes it seem likely that he was a posthumous child (Rens. Co., N. Y. Surr., Bk. Liii, 450). He was a resident of Wilmington, Del., when on 14 Mch. 1837 he appointed his brother-in-law, Philo Dauchy of Galway, N. Y., his attorney to sell land left him by the will of his grandfather (proved 1835); but he was living in Watervliet, Rensselaer Co., N. Y. when he wrote his own will. His wife Anna was named executrix and at her request Philo Dauchy was appointed appraiser.

The graves of both Jonathan and Anna are in the beautiful Menads Cemetery on the Troy-Albany highway. No children.

SILAS[5] WIGHTMAN (Capt. Zorobabel[4], Daniel[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George), born 28 April 1768 in Norwich, New London Co., Conn.; died 4 August 1847 in Rome, Oneida Co., N. Y. He married in Norwich, 4 February 1796, RUBY BUTTS, born 23 October 1780 in Canterbury, Windham Co., Conn.; died 10 September 1846 in Rome, daughter of Gideon and Amy (Knight) Butts, and a descendant through her grandmother, Annie Bradford (wife of Daniel Butts) of William Bradford, a Mayflower passenger (Mayflower Index No. 4191).

Silas Wightman was a farmer in that part of Norwich set off in 1786 as Bozrah. He removed in 1803 to Rome Twp., Oneida Co., N. Y. There he purchased land in Wright's Settlement, a few miles north of the present city of Rome, and continued his occupation of farming. His wife's father and at least one brother located in the vicinity.

The graves of Silas and Ruby are in a rural cemetery about a mile and a half northeast of Ridge Mills, north of Rome; and the graves of several descendants are nearby.

DYER[5] WIGHTMAN (Capt. Zorobabel[4], Daniel[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George), born 20 July 1787 in Bozrah, New London Co., Conn.; died 11 July 1848 in Reading Center, Schuyler Co., N. Y. He married in Columbia, Herkimer Co., N. Y., 20 September 1820, PHEBE APAMA ORMSBY, born in 1798; living in 1878, a widow, aged eighty, in Painted Post, Steuben Co., N. Y.

In a claim filed in 1878 for continued benefit from her husband's pension for war service, Phebe A. Wightman gives the following data: Dyer Wightman volunteered for military service from Bozrah in 1813, enlisting in the 3rd. Reg. Conn. Vols. In 1816 he went to Herkimer Co., N. Y. where they were married and where they remained until 1828, removing to Hammond's Post, Steuben Co., N. Y. In 1843 they moved again, locating in Reading Center, where he died 11 July 1848 (Wid. Cert., File No. 21350, War of 1812).

The census of 1830 for Herkimer County, N. Y. shows a slight variance from the statement above, listing Dyer Wightman as still head of a household in Columbia Twp. that year. A family of three children is indicated: one boy between five and ten; one boy and one girl under five.

No records have been found at Reading, at Painted Post, or elsewhere regarding the children, except the following:

Children:

279. i. William[6], b. 31 Oct. 1823.
ii. Son[6] (census).
iii. Daughter[6] (census).

AURUNAH[5] WIGHTMAN (Allen[4], Abraham[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George), born 1 February 1765 in Norwich, New London Co., Conn. (Norwich rec.); died (date uncertain), probably in Bolivar, Allegany Co., N. Y. He married RHODA ----- , who died in Bolivar 28 November 1871 (Church rec.).

The oldest of a family of eleven children, Aurunah Wightman left Connecticut when a young man to seek his fortune in the region of the Mohawk Valley. In 1813 he was a resident of Marcellus, Onondaga County, when he and a brother George were appointed administrators of the estate of their father, Allen Wightman, a resident of Skaneateles, Onondaga Co., N. Y. Both he and Rhoda were members of the Elbridge Branch of the Skaneateles "Baptist Church of Christ", Aurunah's baptism there being recorded as of 27 Dec. 1818 (Ch. rec.). On 1 March 1823 a letter of dismissal was given him, but it is family record that he removed to Bolivar, Allegany Co., N. Y. about 1820.

In an old school district record-book, date of 23 Oct. 1823, it is recorded "that a school house should be built of logs 22 feet long, at the corner where Jonah French's road intersects the north-south road near Aruna Wightman's." On 27 Feby. 1828 he and Rhoda, together with his youngest brother Simon and Simon's wife and son Edward, were five of the charter members of the Free Will Baptist Church organized in the village of Richburg. He was then a man of sixty-three years of age. No record of his death has been found, and only one son traced.

JAMES[5] WIGHTMAN (Allen[4], Abraham[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George), born 16 April 1770 probably in Norwich, New London Co., Conn.; died in 1843 in Nankin, Wayne Co., Mich. He married probably in German Flatts, Herkimer Co., N. Y., NANCY ----- , who died before 7 August 1836 in Nankin, Mich.

James Wightman was a pioneer settler in Michigan Territory, going there from Oneida County, N. Y. about 1822. The journey, covering several months (family tradition), was made by way of Canada. While still en route he sold, 10 June 1823, two parcels of land still owned in Sempronius (later Spafford) Twp., Onondaga Co., N. Y. (Onondaga Deeds). Moving on into Michigan Territory he bought a section of land in Nankin township, Wayne County, about eighteen miles from the western limits of the present city of Detroit. This land, bordered today by Palmer Road, remained in the family another generation.

His will dated 7 Aug. 1836 was presented for probate 6 Oct. 1843 (Wayne Co. Prob., Detroit, File No. 1161). Nancy is not named in the will, and was evidently already deceased when the will was drawn. Her maiden name may have been Wattles. The graves of both are in a rural cemetery in Inkster Twp., near Eloise, north of the Detroit-Wayne highway, but they are no longer marked.

Children, born in New York state:

281. i. Hiram[6], b. 11 May 1797.

GEORGE[5] WIGHTMAN (Allen[4], Abraham[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George), born 17 April 1774 in New London County, Conn.; died 4 September 1871 in Eden, Erie Co., N. Y. He married probably in German Flatts, Herkimer Co., N. Y., about 1801, PHEBE RANDALL, born

9 June 1781 in Colchester, New London Co., Conn.; died 10 December 1847 in Boston, Erie Co., N. Y., daughter of Rufus and (55) Margaret (Wightman) Randall.

George Wightman went from Connecticut to German Flatts, Herkimer Co., N. Y., and probably married there. In 1815 he was a resident of Marcellus, Onondaga Co., N. Y. About 1822 he moved to Collins Twp., Erie County, where he bought several parcels of land. He was energetic, full of initiative to undertake new enterprises, bought and sold various properties, ran a saw mill and managed several farms. He was, like his forbears, a staunch Baptist. His death at the advanced age of ninety-seven makes him the thirteenth person of Wightman name in this record to pass the age of ninety. His grave is in Marshfield, N. Y.

ABIEL[5] WHITMAN (Allen[4], Abraham[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George), born 6 March 1776 in New London County, Conn.; died 24 December 1828 in Lafayette, Onondaga Co., N. Y. He married ELECTA ----- , born 14 April 1782; died in Lafayette 15 January 1845 (gravestone).

Abiel Whitman was an early resident of Pompey Twp., Onondaga Co., N. Y., where he owned land; and he was still "of Pompey" in 1818, when he bought with Philo Tobey equal rights in mill property in Lafayette. He seems to have continued in the milling business until his death. His will, dated 18 Dec. 1828 about a week before he died names his wife Electa as sole heir and executrix. Her will, dated 9 Oct. 1843, names the children given below (Onond. Surr., Bk. H, 272).

The family name is spelled Whitman in recorded deeds in Abiel's name, and he so signed his will (Onond. Surr., Bk. E, 5). His daughter Electa and son George W., both of whom left wills, also spelled the name Whitman. This is one of two instances, only, of this form of the family name being customarily and officially used by descendants of Rev. Valentine Wightman of Groton, Conn.

The graves of both Abiel and Electa are in Pine Grove Cemetery, near the village of Lafayette.

Children, order uncertain:

i. Charles S.[6]; named in his mother's will, 9 Oct. 1843, in which she bequeaths him "one pair of pillows and a comforter for his bed;" and he was named again in his brother's will, dated 3 Feby. 1857.
ii. George W.[6]. He was a resident of Syracuse, N. Y., when he wrote his will in which he leaves "the furniture in my farm house in Lafayette" to sister Sarah R. Gilson; names bequests to his "nieces" Julia Ann and Phebe Jane Palmeter; and names brothers, Charles S. and Clinton D. Whitman (Onond. Surr., Bk. L, 333). He probably left no children.
iii. Electa[6]; d. in 1849, unm.
iv. Sarah R.[6]; m. Oliver O. Gilson.
v. Clinton D.[6]; living 3 Feby. 1857, as named in the will of his brother George W. Whitman.
vi. Daughter[6]; d. before 1843; m. Amos Palmeter.

Children:

1. Julia Ann[7] Palmeter.
2. Phebe Jane[7] Palmeter.

ALLEN[5] WIGHTMAN (Allen[4], Abraham[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George), born 7 July 1782 in New London County, Conn.; died 18 March 1866 at Lake Geneva, Walworth Co., Wis. He married in German Flatts, Herkimer Co., N. Y., in 1804, LOVE RANDALL, born 10 August 1784 in Colchester, New London Co., Conn.; died 24 February 1855 at Sun Prairie, Dane Co., Wis., daughter of Rufus and (55) Margaret (Wightman) Randall.

Allen Wightman was a resident of Marcellus Twp., Onondaga County, N. Y. as early as 1813 when he served with his brother, Aurunah, as co-administrator of their father's estate (Onon. Surr., Syracuse, Bk. iv, 100). Both he and his wife, Love, were members of the Elbridge branch of the Skaneateles "Baptist Church of Christ," the church book recording Allen's baptism by Elder Morton on 27 Dec. 1818, and Love's membership, also. He removed from Onondaga County to the village of Rushville, Potter Twp., Yates Co., N. Y., where he and his son, a young married man, bought on 3 May 1833 village lots in Rushville. They are called in this record "late of Skaneateles" (Yates Co. Deeds, Bk. viii, 330; xi, 30-32). This property they sold between 20 May 1835 and 4 Oct. 1836, the deeds being signed by both men and the two wives. They removed afterwards to the new West where Allen took up land in Dane County, Wisconsin, near Sun Prairie, not far from the present capitol city of Madison, then but a trading post on the frontier. Here Allen set about clearing and cultivating a quarter section of land; and here Love passed away.

They had only one child, but raised two little girls left orphans in the neighborhood. One of these, Ora, married as her second husband, (312) Addison Potter Wightman, of Evanston, Ill.

Child:

289. i. (Dr.) Rufus Randall[6], b. 25 Jany. 1810.

SIMON[5] WIGHTMAN (Allen[4], Abraham[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George), born 11 August 1784 in New London County, Conn.; died 4 October 1871 in Wirt, Allegany Co., N. Y. He married 29 September 1805, CATHERINE ALLEN, born 29 September 1786; died in Wirt, 3 February 1881.

About 1821 Simon Wightman removed from Skaneateles, Onondaga Co., N. Y., where the family had finally located after leaving Connecticut, and settled in that part of the town of Bolivar, Allegany County which was set off 12 Apr. 1838 as Wirt Township. At the first town meeting in Bolivar, 21 Mch. 1825, he was elected Superintendant of the Poor and Overseer of Highways for District No. 6. On 27 Feby. 1828 he and his wife, together with their eldest son, Edward H., were among the fifteen charter members of the Free Will Baptist Church organized in the nearby village of Richburg.

He engaged in farming and remained in Wirt until his death at the age of eighty-seven, leaving a family of ten children, most of whom founded families whose numerous descendants remain today respected and outstanding citizens of Allegany and Erie Counties.

JOSHUA[5] WIGHTMAN (John[4], Abraham[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George), born 1783 in New London County, Conn.; died 12 March 1869 in Richland, Keokuk Co., Iowa, aged eighty-six. He married in Fayette County, Ind., ABIGAIL ELLIS, born 22 September 1806 in Sempronius, Onondaga Co., N. Y.; died 21 January 1849 in Bloomington, McLean Co., Ill., daughter of Stephen and Susannah (Coburn) Ellis.

Joshua Wightman was a lad of nine years when his parents removed from Connecticut to German Flatts, Herkimer Co., N. Y. He served in the War of 1812 from 16 May 1812 to 22 May 1813 with rank of 1st Sergt. in Capt. Samuel Terry's Co., Swift's Detachment, N. Y. Vols. (Conn. Rec.). In 1820 he sought fortune in the "far West," finding employment in Indiana, and helped survey and clear the site of the present city of Indianapolis. In 1822 he returned to Herkimer County, N. Y. to visit his parents, making the journey of over six hundred miles on foot and alone. Returning the following year to Indiana, he located near Connersville in Fayette County, where he married later. Subsequently he made another trip back to New York state, and brought his parents to Indian where they lived their last years.

In 1844 he moved to Bloomington, McLean Co., Ill., the census of 1850 giving his age as sixty-seven, and indicating his residence as "the north side of the old town of Bloomington."

An obituary notice says: "He always took a great interest in politics and the welfare of his country; for years held a command in the militia of the state; and was opposed to slavery in all its forms. He was a Mason."

Abigail is buried in the rural Frankenberger cemetery near the village of Ellsworth, Ill. Joshua died at the home of his youngest son, Minor, in Richland, Keokuk Co., Iowa.

MARY[5] WIGHTMAN (James[4], Abraham[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George), born about 1773 in New London County, Conn.; died probably in Mexico, Oswego Co., N. Y. She married first, ARCHIBALD GAUT (GOIT), born 2 May 1772, son of William Gaut; married second, 24 December 1813, D. M. C. CHASE.

After marriage Mary Wightman and husband located in Halifax, Windham Co., Vt., where probably all of their children were born. It is likely that Archibald Gaut was born in Halifax, although he and Mary were doubtless married in either Albany or Herkimer County, N. Y. Later the family removed from Vermont to Mexico, Oswego Co., N. Y., where the children were reared.

It is stated by a descendant that the family name was originally Gaut, and that Archibald deserted his wife and children, after which the family changed the name to Goit. The birthdates of the children were furnished the compiler by Mr. William H. G. Goit of Dayton, O., from family papers in his possession.

JOHN[5] WIGHTMAN (James[4], Abraham[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George), born about 1781 in New London County, Conn.; died 1849 in Mount Morris, Livingston Co., N. Y. He married in Columbia, Herkimer Co., N. Removing to Livingston County, he bought land at the forks of the Genesee River near the village of Mount Morris, and lived there the rest of his life. After his death his widow went to Michigan where several of their children had located as well as members of her own family, and she died there. Her grave is in the Old City Cemetery at Flint, Mich.

The children are all named in probate papers connected with the estate of their uncle William D. Wightman, of Camden, N. Y., settlement dated 1863 (Oneida Co. Surr., File No. 3821).

HUMPHREY[5] WIGHTMAN (Abraham[4], Abraham[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George), born 16 July 1780, probably in Bozrah, New London Co., Conn.; living (last record) 1 August 1848 in Parish, Oswego Co., N. Y. He married in German Flatts, Herkimer Co., N. Y., 7 January 1804, EUNICE PALMER, born 9 September 1780 in Stonington, New London Co., Conn., daughter of Stutely and Eunice (Palmer) Palmer.

Humphrey Wightman went from Connecticut to German Flatts, Herkimer Co., N. Y., while he was still in his teens, his family being one of a group of families who went there from the same locality in New London County, Conn. He married in German Flatts the eldest daughter of Stutely Palmer, who had married as his second wife, Ruth Bethia Wightman, young widow of (129) William Wightman, a second cousin of Humphrey Wightman.

Not long after their marriage Humphrey and Eunice removed to the northern part of Oneida County, which was later included in Oswego County. As early as 1805 Stutely Palmer, Jr., Eunice's brother, had gone from Herkimer County to Mexico Twp., Oswego County, together with Amos Williams and wife, Bethia (Wightman) Williams, and also William Wightman, brother of Bethia, the last two being Humphrey's cousins. These three families had located on adjoining farms (Lot 61, Scriba's Patent). Humphrey and Eunice, coming not long afterwards, located nearby, buying 27 Mch. 1815, when already residents there, land in that part of Mexico Twp., set off later as Parish (Oswego Co. Deeds, Bk. A, 339). This farm Humphrey deeded thirty-three years later on 1 Aug. 1848 to his sons James and Asher, Eunice signing the deed. They do not appear again in the records. The cemetery near the historic Baptists church at Colosse contains the graves of many others of this Wightman-Palmer kindred, but their graves are not found there.

NATHAN[5] WIGHTMAN (Abraham[4], Abraham[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George), born 8 April 1782 in New London County, Conn.; died 21 September 1863 in Lafayette, Medina Co., O. He married in German Flatts, Herkimer Co., N. Y., 1802, BETSEY OSGOOD, born 2 March 1787; died August 1834 in Lafayette, daughter of Josiah and Prudence (Harris) Osgood.*

Soon after marriage, Nathan Wightman located in Rodman Twp., Jefferson Co., N. Y., where he lived from 1804 until 1833. In the spring of the latter year he set out from home alone, axe in hand, to seek a better location, and after walking some four hundred miles he selected a spot near Chippewa Lake, Medina Co., O. Here he cleared a small piece of land and built a log cabin before going back to his family. He returned in the fall by ox team and covered wagon with his wife and their youngest child, a boy of five, arriving 8 October 1833. Betsey died the next year, but Nathan continued to work the farm with his two sons until they married, and then lived with the younger son, Lansing, until his own death in 1863.

He had served in the War of 1812, when he helped drive back the British at Sackett's Harbor. It is told as an example of his physical strength that after the battle when several members of the Company were wrestling, he threw the man who had thrown all the others. It is related that he once took hold of the ends of a barrel weighing some four hundred pounds and lifted it up onto a wagon.

His deposition for a pension for war service filed at Albany was one of many such documents destroyed in the Capitol fire (File No. 12430).

Betsey's father, Josiah Osgood, was a native of Pomfret, Conn. He located about 1800 in Herkimer County, N. Y. and built the first brick house in the village of German Flatts. He was a farmer and a miller.

Both Nathan and Betsey are buried in the village cemetery at Friendsville, O. They had eleven children, three of whom died in infancy.

ABRAM[5] WIGHTMAN (Abraham[4], Abraham[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George), born in 1786 in Bozrah (or Colchester), New London Co., Conn.; died 14 January 1829 in Nankin, Wayne Co., Mich., aged forty-two years (gravestone). He married first in New York state, LUCINDA WOODRUFF, born in 1788; died 17 September 1826 in Nankin, aged thirty-eight (gravestone): married second, Mrs. BUCKLIN.

Abram Wightman was a lad when his parents moved about 1800 from Connecticut to the region of German Flatts, Herkimer Co., N. Y. He lived later in Oneida County and probably married there. In 1820 he removed to Canada, and a descendant states that they went from Oneida County. At the same time his father, Abraham, his mother, Catherine, and several sisters still at home, went also. They settled in the locality which received its present name of Port Talbot from Col. Talbot who had received a large grant of land bordering Lake Ontario and had brought in as settlers a number of New York families. Here Abram's youngest child, Solomon, was born (family record).

Not finding the location under a foreign government congenial, Abram moved on in 1823 into Michigan Territory and located in what is now Inkster Twp., Wayne County, about twenty miles from the western limits of the present city of Detroit. Here he took up a section of government land, not far from where a second cousin (141) James Wightman, son of Allen and grandson, like himself, of Abraham Wightman of Bozrah, Conn., had also taken up a section of land in the neighboring township of Nankin.

Owing to the hardships of pioneer life neither Abram nor Lucina lived to be very old. Lucina died about eight years after their arrival in Michigan, her grave being the first in a lot given by her husband as a neighborhood burying-ground. She was of Dutch ancestry. Abraham married again, but survived Lucina only three years.

The farm and cemetery now known by the name of Genung lies just off the Henry Ruff Road about half a mile south of Eloise on the Detroit-Wayne highway.

Children, all but the last born in New York state:

RUFUS RANDALL[5] WIGHTMAN (Abraham[4], Abraham[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George), born 1789 probably in German Flatts, Herkimer Co., N. Y.; died 22 December 1822 in Rushville, Yates Co., N. Y. He married probably in Westmoreland, Oneida Co., N. Y., 9 July 1810, MARY POTTER, born 26 April 1790; d. 22 December 1881 in Wilmington, Will Co., Ill. She married as her second husband in Rushville 1 November 1827, Joseph B. Streeter, who died 29 January 1864.

Rufus R. Wightman lived when a lad in German Flatts, N. Y., his parents being residents there until after 1800. They went from there to Westmoreland, Oneida County, and he may have married there. He finally located in Gorham Twp., Ontario Co., N. Y., but is said to have died in Rushville at the early age of thirty-three, his death resulting from a fall. The family finally went to Illinois, and the sons were identified for some years with various business enterprises in Chicago and vicinity.

JAMES[5] WIGHTMAN (Abraham[4], Abraham[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George), born in German Flatts, Herkimer Co., N. Y. about 1799; died about 1840 in Gorham Township, Ontario Co., N. Y. He married in Gorham, ESTHER A. COLE, born in 1804 in Windsor, Berkshire Co., Mass. (family record); died in Rushville, Yates Co., N. Y. in 1894, aged ninety (gravestone), daughter of Willard and Martha (Chapman) Cole.

James Wightman was an early settler in the southern part of Canandaigua Township, now (since 1824) the Township of Gorham, Ontario Co., N. Y. An unrecorded deed dated 11 April 1829 is the earliest record (private family paper). The Cole family were also early settlers, having come from Berkshire County, Mass. about 1815.

James Wightman died about 1840. No record of his death has been found, but his son Dr. James C. Wightman was but a lad of ten or eleven years when his father died. On 26 October 1835, Oliver Harwood, his sister Clarissa's husband, a prominent man in Ontario County, went under bond to the sum of one thousand dollars to his brother-in-law, James Wightman, insuring the care and maintenance of the mother, Catherine Wightman, with "food, clothing, medicines and all things necessary to one in her condition" (private family paper). This may indicate provision on the part of the son James for the care of his invalid mother in anticipation of his own decease.

His wife, Esther, remembered by great grandchildren living today, reached the age of ninety. Her grave is in the village cemetery at Rushville; the grave of James is not located.

Nathan Wightman went from Connecticut to Pennsylvania before he was married. It is believed that he married in Philadelphia.

He located soon afterwards in Delaware County, N. Y., and some of the children were born there. He returned to Philadelphia where the youngest child was born, and it is believed that both he and Elizabeth died there.

Christopher and Deborah (Ledyard) Morgan: married second, HANNAH BALDWIN, daughter of Samuel and Hannah (Northrop) Baldwin, of Aurora, O.

John Wightman left Connecticut in 1811 and located in Newburgh, Cuyahoga Co., O., being one of the pioneer settlers in the Western Reserve. His farm in close vicinity to the growing borough of Cleveland was finally comprised within the city limits. The hamlet of Newburgh lay about four miles southeast of the present civic center of Cleveland and his house, located near the fort and four corners of Newburgh, was run as an inn. The present Hospital of St. Alexis in the city of Cleveland stands on his original farm land, and the modern city thoroughfare, Broadway, runs opposite the site of the old inn.

It was in this house that Alexander Campbell met a group of religious worshipers and organized the first Church of the Disciples in Cuyahoga County, and in this faith the descendants in this line have generally remained.

After John Wightman's death, his widow made her home with their son in Springfield, Mo., and she died there.

ASA BUTTON[5] WHITMAN (Rev. Jesse[4], Rev. Timothy[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George), born 2 January 1797 in Agawam, Hampden Co., Mass.; died 10 February 1875 in Westfield, Mass. He married in Agawam, 28 September 1819, ANNIS ROCKWELL CLARK, born 6 May 1800; died 7 December 1882 in Westfield, daughter of Lebi and Anna (Carter) Clark.

Asa B. Whitman was a successful farmer, a merchant, and a paper manufacturer. He lived in West Springfield, in Chester, and in Westfield, representing the towns of West Springfield and Westfield in the state legislature.

He and his brothers were the first in this branch of the family to call the family name Whitman. He had served as a fifer in the War of 1812, in place of his brother Jesse, and his widow met difficulty in placing her claim for a pension owing to confusion over the name. The matter was settled by a deposition on the part of the surviving brother, Warren, who stated that the family name was really Wightman; that in their earlier years they were called both Wightman and Whitman; and that finally they themselves had come to use the name Whitman. This explained the strange circumstance of the soldiers having enlisted under the name Wightman and the widow preferring a claim in the name of Whitman (Widow's Claim SO 3132, Mass. Serv., War 1812).

He married 18 August 1801, POLLY GREENE KING, born 14 January 1778 in Scituate, Providence Co., R. I.; died 29 August 1849 in Cromwell, daughter of Joseph (Ebenezer[3], Ebenezer[2], Clement) and Anne (Greene) King.

At the time of his marriage, Rev. Frederick Wightman was a resident of Scituate, Rhode Island, where he kept a store and carried on his trade of "house-joiner" with his brother John, the two boys having learned the trade from their father. His wife, Polly, was the granddaughter of Ebenezer King, whose wife Deliverance (Ralph) King was a sister of Mary Ralph, wife of George Wightman, Jr., of Warwick. Polly was already at the time of their marriage a member of the Baptist Church in Coventry, R. I., and Frederick joined there also.

Not long after, following a period of mental struggle to determine his right course, he decided to sell his business and study for the ministry. He attended the Academy at Wallingford, Conn., and began student preaching in 1802-03. He was called as a regular pastor to his last student charge in Ashford, Conn., being regularly ordained in 1807.

He was pastor at Ashford eleven years, going from there to the Baptist church at Middletown, Conn. in 1817. After a pastorate there of seventeen years, he filled various pulpits: five years at E. Lyme; two at Middletown, again; three at Haddam; one at Wethersfield; and three again at E. Lyme. He retired after more than forty years of service, living during his last years at Cromwell, Conn. He was a forceful preacher, a leader in the Baptist denomination in New England, and a man of marked piety and faith.

DAVID[6] WIGHTMAN (Edward[5], Titus[4], John[3], John[2], George), born about 1792 in Pawlet, Rutland Co., Vt.; died in 1856 probably in Chicago, Ill. He married ELIZABETH DEGROUPH.

David Wightman was the eldest of a family of three brothers. Their mother died when David was about seven years of age and the three children were taken by different families to be cared for. He probably grew up in Rutland County, and he married either there or in Saratoga County, N. Y. He appears first in the records of Saratoga County, when on 2 October 1833, he and his wife Elizabeth received a deed to land in Greenfield, Saratoga County, they being residents at the time of Wilton. On 7 Apr. 1834, they sold the same property. Years later their oldest daughter Huldah, a resident of Ottawa, Ill., sold on 2 Apr. 1865 property owned in Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

The family removed to Illinois and lived for some time in Chicago, where David followed the occupation of plasterer and paper hanger. The two oldest sons, Edward and Moses B., located in Ottawa and were still there in 1850 (census).

Children, all probably born in Saratoga Co., N. Y.:*

WILLIAM[6] WIGHTMAN (Edward[5], Titus[4], John[3], John[2], George), born 30 October 1796 in Pawlet, Rutland Co., Vt.; died 27 March 1877 in Marion, Linn Co., Ia. He married in Manchester, Bennington Co., Vt., 19 June 1822, MARTHA WOODARD, born 30 March 1806; died 27 May 1878 in Marion, Ia.

William Wightman was an infant of about three years of age when his mother died and he was given to a childless couple by the name of Hamilton to be brought up. He kept his own family name and grew up as Bill Whitman. Later, when he was a grown man his older brother, David, returning to Vermont to see the brother left behind told him that his name was really Wightman, and he so called himself thereafter.

He married probably in Manchester and seems to have engaged in farming as the records at Manchester show several transactions in land in Bennington County. He also bought a farm in Pawlet on 23 Feby. 1829, selling the same in 1833. He finally located in E. Dorset; but he sold his farm there 3 Feby. 1855 and some ten years later, in 1865, went to Marion, Linn Co., Ia. where some of his children had located. Both he and Martha died at the home of their son Franklin D. Wightman in Marion.

Following his death, this son notified his sister Marian by letter of the father's passing, and she was moved to write a brief note of information concerning their father, pinning the note to the letter. As this compiler was seeking to establish the relationship of this branch of the family, Marian's daughter, Mrs. Carrie Rivett of Lincoln, Neb., now a woman of seventy-five years, went through old letters, the accumulation of half a century, and found that note in her mother's handwriting. Lacking that valuable evidence, it is probable that this family would have remained unplaced.

Titus Wightman was a resident of Elizabethtown, Essex Co., N. Y. in 1810, the census indicating a household comprising a wife and one son under ten. It is probable that he is the Titus Wightman who married in Manchester, Vt., 22 August 1822, for a second wife, Charlotte Tower, b. 20 Jany. 1791 at Ira, Vt., daughter of Nathaniel and Lucy (Tingley) Tower. He was her third husband, she having married (1) Elijah Darling; and (2) William Otis of Manchester. He died in Manchester 24 June 1823.

Children:

i. Son[7], b. abt. 1810.

Note: The Tingley Genealogy calls this Titus Wightman "son of Titus and ----- (Vaughn) Whitman." It appears to be an error, arising from confusion of names. George Wightman, father of Titus Wightman (Whitman) of Elizabethtown, married Elizabeth Vaughn of Manchester, Vt., his first cousin.

JAMES[6] WHITMAN (William[5], Capt. Valentine[4], Valentine[3], John[2], George), born 4 January 1791 in Russia, Herkimer Co., N. Y.; died in 1858 in Geneseo, Livingston Co., N. Y. He married first about 1814, SABRINA MESSENGER, born in 1790; died in 1826 in Batavia, Genesee Co., N. Y., aged thirty-six: married second, ELLEN CARR.

James Whitman was a carpenter. He located as early as 1817 in Batavia, Genesee County, having married probably in Madison County. His wife was Dutch, but nothing is known with certainty regarding her parentage. There is a tradition, repeated by a granddaughter, that she "came from Holland with a minister's family."

One cannot but wonder if she was not connected with the family of a Joseph Messenger of English stock which came from Connecticut in 1795 and settled in the Dutch community about De Ruyter in Madison County, the relationship being one of adoption. This is suggested by the coincidence of an unusual Christian name. Sabrina called her first child Benjamin Hira. There was in the family of Messenger just cited a Hira who died single. He was, it appears, a nephew of Joseph Messenger of De Ruyter. "The History of Madison and Chenango Counties" states that Joseph Messenger opened up the first tavern in De Ruyter, and that the first Baptist Church in the town was organized in his house on 5 Nov. 1798. Much research has produced practically nothing on the question of Sabrina's parentage; but the relief that she was Dutch is unquestioned, and the report of her proverbial Dutch cleanliness adds weight to the belief.

Some four years after her death in Batavia,

James moved to Geneseo, Livingston County, where he married again. His two youngest sons were brought up by their paternal grandparents in Groveland, near Geneseo.

His grave is in Lakeview Cemetery near Hunt's Corners, Groveland. Sabrina's grave is in Batavia, but there is neither stone nor record.

TIMOTHY[6] WIGHTMAN (Oliver[5], Paul[4], Valentine[3], John[2], George), born 29 October 1821 in Middletown, Newport Co., R. I.; died 25 January 1891 in Richland Center, Richland Co., Wis. He married in Westville, Otsego Co., N. Y., 1853, URANIA PALMER, born 6 August 1812 in Middlefield, Otsego Co., N. Y.; died 27 January 1870 in Westfield, daughter of Wilson and Ruth (Husted) Palmer.

Timothy Wightman lived as a child in Delaware County and later in Otsego County, N. Y., being but an infant when his parents left Rhode Island. He followed farming in his young manhood, but later became a cook on a river boat and subsequently served in that capacity various companies employing men and crews. His wife, nine years his senior, died in Westfield, leaving their only child, a boy of sixteen, to the sole care of the father. They lived alone, the father unable according to family tradition to find any woman's cooking as satisfactory as his own. After his son's removal to Wisconsin, Timothy went West, about 1887, engaging for a time with a partner in cultivating a ranch in New Mexico. This project proving unsatisfactory, he came back to Wisconsin.

GEORGE WASHINGTON[6] WIGHTMAN (Oliver[5], Paul[4], Valentine[3], John[2], George), born 23 July 1832 in Davenport, Delaware Co., N. Y.; died 7 July 1909 in Windsor, Broome Co., N. Y. He married in Otsego County, N. Y., OPHELIA NEVINS, born 3 December 1837 at Milford Center, Otsego Co.; died 6 August 1913 in Windsor, daughter of David and Silvia (Reed) Nevins.

George W. Wightman was reared in Maryland, Otsego County, his parents locating there when he was an infant. He became a farmer, and in middle life removed to a new location in Windsor, Broome County. That farm is still in the family, being cultivated by his grandson. His wife, interested in preserving family data for her two sons, and sensing the value of knowledge being insecurely transmitted by memory only, recorded data then obtainable, tracing their Wightman branch back to the old Rhode Island home. These few valuable sheets have been copied widely by relatives within this branch of the family; but no one had knowledge of the family lineage back of (50) Paul.

This compiler gleaned from those faded pages the names and birth dates of the children of (123) Oliver, while sitting at an old desk of Colonial make which was brought from Rhode Island by Oliver Wightman himself and believed to have belonged to Paul of Middletown.

WILLIAM[6] WIGHTMAN (William[5], Dea. Valentine[4], Daniel[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George), born 18 January 1784 in Lebanon, New London Co., Conn.; died 18 February 1857 in Parish, Oswego Co., N. Y. He married HANNAH WIGHTMAN, who died in Parish 16 September 1843, aged fifty-four years (gravestone), daughter of (133) David and Anne (Brown) Wightman.

In 1806 William Wightman left German Flatts, Herkimer Co., N. Y., where his father located after leaving Connecticut, and went to the northern part of Oneida County which later became part of Oswego County. His sister, Bethia, and her husband, Amos Williams, Stutely Palmer, Jr., a step-brother, and William D. Wightman, a cousin, all from German Flatts, also located there the same year. On 25 October 1806 William Wightman bought land in Scriba's Patent, Mexico Township, included later in Parish Township, set off from Mexico, 20 March 1828 (Oswego Co. Deeds, Bk. A, 369); and two others of this group, Stutely Palmer and Amos Williams, bought farms within the same lot (no. 61) in Scriba's Patent (Oneida Co. Deeds, Bk. i, 473, Utica).

On 7 January 1807 the first Baptist Church in Oswego County was organized at a meeting held at the house of Amos Williams, and this group of settlers were charter members. They met thereafter in private houses, in barns and in the school house until 1823, when, this first organization being dissolved, a new church was formed and the first church building erected near the village of Colosse in Mexico Township.

In 1828 at the first town meeting of Parish after its incorporation, William Wightman was elected Poor Master, and at the same meeting he and William D. Wightman were elected Overseers for their district, No. 61.

The old first book of the Baptist Church at Colosse carries the names of these early members repeatedly, and Hannah's death is there recorded. The graves of both William and Hannah are in the church cemetery at Colosse.

A great-grandson, residing in Mexico, N. Y., treasures a family heirloom marked "Hannah Wightman's chest."

(Dr.) JAMES CADMUS[6] WIGHTMAN (James[5], Abraham[4], Abraham[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George), born 16 July 1829 in Gorham, Ontario Co., N. Y.; died 20 February 1918 in Branchport, Yates Co., N. Y. Y., ELIZABETH MERCY MERRILL, born 22 July 1830 in Rushville; died 19 March 1904 in Branchport, daughter of Simon S. and Mercy (Hinckley) Merrill.

Dr. James C. Wightman, M. D. (Med. Coll. of Cincinnati, 1856), entered Colgate University at Hamilton, N. Y., intending to prepare for a subsequent course in theology but his interest was diverted to the field of medicine. Following graduation from the medical school, he practiced one year in Penn Yan and then located in Branchport where he followed his profession for fifty years.

Although brought up in a Baptist household, he became a communicant of the Protestant Episcopal Church, was church warden, and frequently read the service in the absence of the rector. He was a devoted Bible student, and left many treatises and unfinished articles on various controversial and obscure theological questions. When the compiler expressed surprise that he had left no record at all relating to his own family history, his grand-daughter said with a twinkle, "No, he was interested in angels; that's why he didn't write about us." In anticipation of his demise, he wrote his own funeral sermon, and it was read at the final services.

It is said of him that he despised pretense and cant, and was outspoken in his judgments. Numerous anecdotes are related concerning him which reveal a quick sympathy and an understanding of his patients, who knew him both as physician and friend, and a ready wit in repartee.

David L. Wightman was born and reared in Old Newburgh, in close vicinity to Cleveland. He lived to see his father's homestead comprised within the expanding city limits of Cleveland and he early identified himself with the best in the city's life.

While still a young man, he became interested in local politics; held minor offices; and finally was elected Sheriff of Cuyahoga County, an office which he held from the late 50's through the period of the Civil War. He was a strong abolitionist, and while fulfilling his duties as an officer of the law, yet made a host of friends during the difficult period of the underground railroad. He later instituted the Humane Society of Cleveland, one of the first organizations of the kind in the country, and was its chief officer until his death. He also founded the Welfare Home for abandoned and orphan children, known as Infant's Rest. He had a keen sense of the historical value of passing events, and in this interest became one of the founders of the Western Reserve Historical Society, and was a member of its executive committee for a period of years.

His death called forth public expressions of appreciation from civic, educational and religious organizations; and the tributes of personal gratitude from scores whom he had befriended surprised even his own family.

CYRUS DELOS[6] WIGHTMAN (Allen[5], Dea. Allyn[4], Rev. Timothy[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George), born 26 October 1812 in Jordanville, Herkimer Co., N. Y.; died 10 July 1897 in Fenton, Genesee Co., Mich. He married 24 February 1835, SOPHIA MACK ISHAM, born 4 September 1816; died 22 August 1891 in Fenton, daughter of Zebulon and Polly (Mack) Isham.

Cyrus D. Wightman was a resident of Herkimer County, N. Y. for about twenty years after his marriage, living principally in Jordanville, where he engaged in mercantile projects and in real estate. About 1854 he began to sell his various business interests, removing that year to Ohio, where he bought land in Orange Twp., Delaware County. His only son, E. Bradley, aged seventeen, who accompanied his father on this trip West, was married in Hammond, N. Y. where they visited before leaving for the West, and all made the journey together. In 1870, after several trips back to New York state, either to visit or on business, they moved again, locating in Genesee County, Michigan. Here the father bought farms, built a substantial residence in the village of Fenton, and engaged in the business of farm loans, founding the enterprise which resulted in a banking institution managed later by the son. At his death he left an estate valued at one hundred thousand dollars, being considered the wealthiest man of that day in the county.

He maintained throughout life an active interest in his relatives, and made periodic visits among them. He kept a diary, recording in detail not only his various business enterprises, but intimate family happenings. He recorded also valuable data of genealogical interest connected with his paternal lineage; and was one of the few in the entire Wightman kindred who have been found to have a knowledge of their Wightman line back to George Wightman of Quidnessett.

The book in which he kept his record was a precious possession. It had come to him from his grandfather Deacon Allyn Wightman who in turn had received it as a keepsake from Joanna, widow of Rev. Valentine Wightman of Groton, Conn., Allyn, it is said, being her favorite grandson.

He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, serving as Deacon and Trustee. His grave and that of his wife are in the cemetery at Fenton, Mich. His mother, Susan (Wightman) Wightman, who had come West to be with her only son, and who died in Fenton, is also buried there.

His course there being interrupted for lack of funds, he turned to teaching again and was employed one year in Worcester Academy, returning to Brown and being graduated in the class of 1852. He was the honour student of his class in Greek, and following graduation was given a tutorship there which enabled him to continue with two years of post-graduate study.

In 1854 he entered Newton Theological Institute, and while still a student preached in various pulpits. Following his theological course, he traveled in Germany and Switzerland as tutor for the sons of the President of Brown University. On his return he took up his life work in the Christian ministry. He filled various pastorates, among them the churches at South Abington, Mass., Middletown, Conn., New London, Conn.; North Avenue Baptist Church at Cambridge, Mass.; and lastly, the Winthrop Baptist Church at Taunton, Mass.

He was a member of the American Philological Society, and at the time of his last illness was about to undertake the revision of the New Testament for the American Bible Union. In order to have leisure for the latter task, he obtained a leave of absence and was preparing to spend a few years abroad. His wife and children had preceded him and were already located in Germany when he was fatally stricken while making a farewell visit to his brother, Rev. Palmer G. Wightman in Tiverton, R. I.

Left an orphan while still a young child she was adopted by Dr. and Mrs. Robert Boal.

Major George F. Wightman was a lad of nine years when his parents went in 1836 from Ontario, Can. to Illinois. His father, a cooper by trade, took up government land in Mercer County, township of North Henderson, and here the boy was reared. The pioneer surroundings offered little in the way of schooling, but he received instruction from his mother, an educated woman, and he became skilled in his father's trade. At the age of nineteen he went to the village of Lacon, and for thirteen years was connected with the William Fisher packing house, being finally employed as foreman of the company's cooper shop. Meanwhile he studied engineering and surveying, a field in which he later excelled.

From 1859 to 1860 he was in command of boats on the Mississippi running between La Salle and St. Louis. On the outbreak of the War he filled a post in the quartermaster's department, later enlisting in the Tennessee Independent Infantry, serving until the fall of Vicksburg, when he was made Superintendent of Ocean and River Transportation with headquarters at Galveston, Tex.

After the War, he followed engineering in Lacon and helped in the survey of several railroad lines being laid down in his section of the state. Under President Hayes he was appointed postmaster of Lacon, but resigned after a year to fill the position of City Engineer of Peoria, Ill., filling the latter post for twelve years. In 1893 he returned to Lacon, where he held until his death the office of County Surveyor.

Major Wightman was a Whig in politics and went as a delegate to the Bloomington Convention at which the Republican party was organized; and as a delegate he voted for Abraham Lincoln for U. S. Senator at the State Convention in 1858.

Educated in high school and business college, Chauncey H. Whitman went to Ortonville, Minn. in 1882 where he engaged in the merchandizing of farm machinery. In 1890 he entered the retail hardware business in Centerville, S. D., removing in 1895, following his marriage, to California, where he had owned for several years a fruit ranch in the Santa Clara Valley. In addition to his interests as an orchardist there, he was the proprietor of a hardware and plumbing business for over forty years in the village of Campbell, six miles from San Jose.

He was a leader in local movements for civic improvement, and served repeatedly as officer of the Kiwanis Club. He was primarily responsible for the establishment of the consolidated school in Campbell, one of the first and also one of the finest in the state; and he was one of the founders of the Fruit Growers' Union of Santa Clara County. He was an Elder in the First Presbyterian Church in San Jose, and during a long period of years either Sunday School Superintendent or teacher of a Bible class. He was a 32nd degree Mason, and served as Grand Master of his lodge; and for a score of years a contributor on economic and political subjects to the local and state press. No children.

x. Mary Ross[8], A.B. (Univ. of Mich., 1903), b. 27 Apr. 1872 in Omro, Winnebago Co., Wis.; d. 26 Mch. 1938 in Chicago, Ill.; unm. She was the compiler of this genealogy.

The following sketch of her life has been contributed by her friend, Mrs. Henry Gordon Gale of Chicago, who was intimately acquainted with her for many years.

Mary Ross Whitman was born in Omro, Wisconsin, the tenth child of her father, Benjamin Hira Whitman. Her mother, nee Martha Ross, was Mr. Whitman's second wife, and during her later years was an invalid. Mary's girlhood was shadowed by her mother's illness. She has said that for many years she did not have a night of sound sleep, being always anxious for fear of being called, as she often was, to attend her mother in one of the frightening attacks to which she was subject. It may be that this responsibility during the formative years gave Mary a gravity beyond her age,--the rather serious cast of mind which through her life was characteristic of her,--often relieved, however, by a subtle humor which it is a pleasure to remember.

After preparing for college at Omro, Mary went to the University of Michigan, where she was graduated in 1903 with the degree of A.B. For two years thereafter she did graduate work at Michigan toward the Doctor's degree. Intending to come back later and get her degree, she accepted in 1905 the position of head of the Department of Modern Languages in the Northern Illinois State Teachers College at DeKalb, Illinois, where she taught Latin and French continuously until 1930, when she was automatically retired on a pension, with the title of Professor Emeritus. It may be mentioned that for several years at DeKalb she had a class in the teaching of English Grammar. She conducted the class in a way so scholarly and philosophical that the president of the institution, Dr. John W. Cook, used to say that Miss Whitman's teaching of that class was a work of art. In fact, all of her teaching was remarkable, not only for its thoroughness and scholarship, but for a quality of skill and mastery, which commanded the highest admiration of her students. If they sometimes thought her severe, perhaps it was because of the seriousness of her disposition which has been mentioned, and they admired and respected that severity as contributing to good work. They felt also that her occasional flashes of humor of a characteristic sort always kept her classroom from being a dull place. Those of her students who knew her best were deeply attached to her.

In the spring of 1908 Miss Whitman's health began to show signs of strain. One of her friends in DeKalb thereupon suggested that she should go to Europe for the summer vacation. With her usual force of expression, she said, "Why! You might as well tell me to go to Heaven,--I can't manage it!" But a way was found to manage it, and she had what was to her a happy and exciting summer of European travel, which materially improved her health, and really changed the whole subsequent course of her life. She eagerly renewed her studies of the French, German, and Italian languages in preparation for and during that summer's trip. She also acquired a knowledge of the details of foreign travel so complete and efficient that she was able to conduct large parties of her friends successfully upon their European journeys during seven subsequent summers between 1910 and 1928, to their delight as well as to her own intense enjoyment. The spiritual nourishment which she found in the beauty of European art and landscape gave her great happiness. She succeeded in passing on that enjoyment to others in large measure, through lectures and charmingly illustrated talks, which she never tired of giving.

After her teaching was over, she spent two years in Santa Barbara, (1930-32) where she had a severe illness. After that time she was exclusively occupied with the compilation of this Genealogy which was already well along in 1932.

After twenty years of strenuous teaching, an active person cannot suddenly cease activity, but must have still some congenial occupation. This work was to Miss Whitman, as she said, "a live-saver." Her keen and vigorous mind was interested in the problems of research which the Genealogy offered, and she attacked them enthusiastically and persistently, as was her way of doing all her work. Her passion for accurate detail made her indefatigable in hunting out and recording every known fact relating to the family in all its branches, and even made her suffer from a fear that at some time her manuscript might fall into the hands of someone whose reverence for the absolute truth might not be as commanding as her own.

Although Miss Whitman lived alone most of her life, she had a strong family feeling. She took a personal interest in every member of the family tree, and often spoke of ancestors long dead as if they were well-known to her. She had a pride in the fact that Whitmans and Wightmans could give a good account of themselves; she used to say, "In all my travels, from Maine to California, I've never found any members of the family who weren't perfectly splendid people!" So the work was a labor of love, as well as a means of keeping her health, which was always at best rather precarious. During her last long illness, which she bore heroically, with never any word of complaint, although she knew well what the end would be, her interest in the Genealogy never faltered. She kept her secretaries busy until the last days of her life, and when she died, March 26, 1938, she left in her will a bequest for the purpose of completing her work. It would give her the greatest happiness to know that the publication of this volume is at last an accomplished fact, in the exact form in which she left it--a memorial to her zeal, to her patience, to the scholarly ways of her clear and truthful mind, and to the strength of her loyalty to her family.

Since his retirement he has built with his own hands a charming summer home in Bayfield, Ont., where he and his wife spend the summers, living the rest of the year in St. Petersburg, Fla., except for a few weeks between seasons in Detroit.

APPENDIX

I. UNCONNECTED PERSONS OF WIGHTMAN (WHITMAN) NAME

CALEB WIGHTMAN, a resident of Warwick, Kent Co., Rhode Island.

He appears once only in the records, having been a witness in 1754 to the will of (33) John Wightman, Jr., of Warwick, Rhode Island. He was undoubtedly a member of the Warwick branch of the family; but (5) George^2 Wightman of Warwick does not name him as son or grandson in his will dated 1 September 1759. It is possible that he was a grandson of George^2, but deceased in 1759. In fact, the most probable conjecture is that he was the eldest son of (13) George Wightman, Jr., of Warwick. The name Caleb is carried in the two succeeding generations of his descendants, his own son, Reuben, naming a son Caleb, possibly for this deceased brother. While there is no indication that this Caleb Wightman had a family, it seems likely that he was a married man and that he left a child named Caleb who may have been Caleb (B) or Caleb (C) below.

B. Caleb Wightman (Whitman)

CALEB WIGHTMAN, born about 1754 probably in Warwick, Kent Co., R. I.; died 9 April 1846 in Coventry, Kent Co., R. I., aged ninety-two (gravestone). He married first, MARY PULLMAN, daughter of Nathaniel Pullman of Coventry: married second, probably, SARAH RICE, born 4 November 1773, daughter of Ebenezer and Mary Rice: married third, probably, ELIZABETH -----: married fourth, MARY -----, born 1792; died 7 September 1845 aged fifty-three (gravestone).

Caleb Wightman served eight months in 1775 in the campaign "before Boston"; one year in Capt. Benj. Dimon's Co., Col. William Richman's regiment; and one year, 1778-79, in Col. Lapham's regiment of Rhode Island Volunteers. He was pensioned 2 Oct. 1821 when he gave his age as sixty-six and says of his wife only that she was lame.

His first wife, Mary Pullman, is mentioned as "Mary Whitman" in the will of her father, Nathaniel Pullman of Coventry, R. I., under date of 1784. A real estate record signed Caleb Whitman and Mary Whitman is dated 1789.

His second wife, Sarah Rice, was the daughter of Ebenezer Rice of Coventry. A record dated 26 April 1804, signed by Caleb Whitman and Sarah Whitman, indicates their agreement to the settlement of "our father Ebenezer Rice, late deceased" (Coventry rec.).

It seems likely that there was a third wife, Elizabeth -----. In 1817 Caleb Whitman and wife, Elizabeth, sold a property to Nathaniel P. Whitman; and in 1828 Caleb and Elizabeth signed a deed with Nathaniel P. as a witness.

In 1843 Caleb Whitman of Coventry deeded his homestead to his grandsons, sons of his son, Caleb; viz., George W. and Stephen M. Whitman, who gave him, on the same date, a life lease to the same property. In this deed no name of wife appears.

Both Caleb and his last wife, Mary -----, are buried on the "Caleb Whitman farm" in Coventry, R. I., the stones giving the data recorded above. Several other graves, one of full size, are unmarked.

The census of 1782 shows this Caleb Whitman as head of a household comprising two sons and two daughters, all under sixteen. The federal census of 1790 indicates three more daughters and one more son, making a family of eight.

His family name is spelled Wightman in the earliest instances, but later uniformly Whitman.

He lived in Coventry. His will, dated 15 Oct. 1837, names his wife and one child only. He directs that if that son, a minor, does not reach legal age, his inheritance shall pass to the eldest child of Mr. James Adams "of Connecticut." No further data.

He was a resident of Hector, Schuyler Co., and later of Horseheads, Chemung Co., N. Y., where he kept a general store. He had served in the War of 1812, but his deposition for a pension, No. 1018, was burned in the capitol fire at Albany. He had a sister, Samantha, who married Thomas Anton, and their daughter, Mary (Anton), born 1819, married Nelson Beers of Horseheads. No positive clue as to his parentage has been found; but it is highly probable that he was of the Connecticut family of Wightmans, son of Daniel born 14 Nov. 1766, and grandson of (63) Lieut. Isaac Wightman of Groton, Conn. He died at Park Station (Swartwood), Chemung Co., N. Y.

SAMUEL WIGHTMAN, born 8 June 1757 in (probably) Scituate, Providence Co., R. I.; died in June 1830 in Guilford, Chenango Co., N. Y. He married first, SARAH -----, born 11 May 1759; died 9 November 1782 in Hoosick, Rensselaer Co., N. Y., aged twenty-three years, five months and twenty-nine days: married second, in Hoosick, MARY (POLLY) WALWORTH, born 19 January 1762; died 17 January 1785 in Hoosick, aged twenty-two years, eleven months, and twenty-nine days, daughter of John and Patience (Denison) Walworth:

married third, in Hoosick, 25 February 1786, TABITHA AYLESWORTH, born 14 March 1768; died 1 August 1823 in Burlington Flatts, Otsego Co., N. Y., daughter of Thomas and Martha (Harrington) Aylesworth.

He was a resident of Hoosick, Rensselaer Co., N. Y., at the time of the death of his first wife, which was doubtless soon after his marriage, and he was a resident there until some years after his third marriage. His first two wives are buried in the Old Walloomsac church cemetery on the North Hoosick-Bennington highway. Following his third marriage, he removed to Burlington Flatts, Otsego Co., N. Y., where he engaged in farming. His third wife died there, and her grave is on the farm. He late in life followed his son, John W. Wightman, to Guilford, Chenango County, where he died.

His Wightman lineage is not determined; but it seems highly probable that he was a son of (39) George and Bridget (Sweet) Wightman of Dutchess Co., N. Y.

SAMUEL WIGHTMAN, a resident of Dutchess Co., N. Y.

He was a resident of North East, Little Nine Partners Patent, Dutchess Co., N. Y., as early as 1790. The federal census for that year gives him as head of a family comprising two males under sixteen; and four females, one being, probably, his wife. The census for 1800 for North East lists a Samuel Wightman again, undoubtedly the same person, his household comprising one male between ten and sixteen; one male under ten; three females under ten; three females between ten and sixteen and one between sixteen and twenty-six.

On the latter date (1800), a John Wightman, probably the eldest son of Samuel, was listed immediately after Samuel, age indicated as sixteen to twenty-six; his wife's age the same, and two children, a boy and a girl, under ten.

It seems probable that this Samuel was son of (25) Daniel of Exeter inasmuch as two other sons of Daniel--viz., John and Valentine--were located in North East at this same time. If, however, Samuel's age is accurately indicated in the census of 1800, a marked discrepancy occurs when it is compared with the authentic record of the birth of Samuel, son of Daniel of Exeter, it being 3 Sept. 1759, while his age in the census of 1800 is given as forty-five plus, making a birth date of 1755 or earlier.

The will of (25) Daniel of Exeter, dated 13 Feby. 1811 (Exeter Prob. Bk. viii, 239), does not name this Samuel, nor do subsequent documents relating to division of property in Exeter. And he is not named in the will of his brother, John of Columbia County, dated 1819.

The following item is taken from the History of Little Nine Partners of North East Precinct and Pine Plains, by Isaac Huntting (1897), p. 94:

> Received of Israel Reynolds this 10th day of Nov. 1797 the sum of 8 s. for the Poughkeepsie Journal from No. 612 to No. 637 by me Samuel Wightman.

He married 9 March 1845 Abbie Easton Gardner of North Kingstown, born 14 March 1807, daughter of David Gardner, possibly a second marriage. He resided between the villages of Narragansett and Belleville.

A later item records that on 9 November 1883 Abbie E. Whitman, widow of George Whitman, died at Narragansett Mill, aged about seventy-five.

II. OTHER EARLY AMERICAN COLONISTS OF WIGHTMAN (WHITMAN) NAME

Colonial records of New England show few settlers bearing the name Wightman or Whitman in the early period of the colonies (1620-1690). Savage cities seven persons (not including sons) inclusive of both forms of the family name.* The statement that George Wightman was, himself, one of five brothers who came has been often published. It is certain that he had one brother who came, namely, Valentine Wightman of Providence, Rhode Island.

1. Valentine Wightman, his name usually spelled Whiteman or Whitman in the early colonial

*Savage, Genealogical Dictionary of New England.

Cathcart's Hist. of the Baptists (1845) says that there were "five brothers, two being ministers, two deacons, and one a private member." No identification accompanies this statement.

records, probably came as early as 1648 to the colony of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations. He located in Providence, where he married and where his first child was born in 1653 (Providence rec.). Some five years later he removed to Warwick having bought a "house lot" there 27 April 1657 located "between William Harris and Edward Manton" (Warwick rec.). By 1661 he had returned to Providence, where he had town lots as well as land in various places in the vicinity. He lived finally in that part of Providence set off as Smithfield.

He seems to have been a man of tremendous activity. Savage says that Valentine Whitman was "much employed as an Indian interpreter."* Records show him to have been a witness or interpreter to transactions between the Indian sachems and the early land companies from Connecticut and from the Bay Colony, who were buying up the lands in the Narragansett Country for speculation. In this capacity he knew both the Connecticut and Massachusetts leaders, and when the Humphrey Atherton Land Company was formed about 1658, he was much employed by them, Richard Smith, proprietor of Cocumscussuc in the Narragansett Country, and his son, Richard, Jr., being members of the company. Two of the most important transactions, the records of which bear his name, are the following: On the 18th day 8th month 1654 he witnessed an agreement between the sachem Ninigret and Governor Winthrop in accordance with which the former promised to surrender the Pequot captives. On 13 October 1660 he was a witness to a most important contract between the Indian chief, Ninigret, and the United Colonies (Massachusetts Bay, Plymouth, Connecticut, New Haven, and Hartford) which shows that he was by that time both well and widely known.

That Valentine Wightman of Providence and George Wightman of Quidnessett were brothers seems certain. They were of the same generation, George being the younger of the two. Both came at nearly the same time to the same locality, being among the earliest white settlers in the colony along Narragansett Bay. The transfer of the Quidnessett tract from Valentine to George indicates family connection, and Valentine signed his name to the deed as Valentine Wightman. George named a son Valentine, and furthermore, both of these men were Baptists.

The record of Valentine Whitman's activities as a citizen is quite complete. By 1661 he had returned from Warwick to Providence, where at a town meeting, Roger Williams being Moderator, he was chosen to serve on the petit jury at "our town Court of Trials." Subsequent references show him buying a "parcell" of land north of the village, being called one of the "Proprietors of Province" (1662); drawing land on the Seven Mile Line, his lot being No. 39 (1665); engaging allegiance to King Charles the Second (1666); elected constable (1671); chosen to "serve in the Gen^{all} Assembly held at Newporte as Deputy" (1675).

During the Indian War under "King Phillip" in which "Narragansett was cleared, Warwick kept one house, and Providence had not above three," Valentine Whitman was among those "who stayed and went not away."

The record resumes: elected Town Treasurer at a town meeting "held under a tree by the water side" (1676); elected deputy "for the next Court sitting at Newport" (1681); in the drawing made for "division of lands on ye west side of ye Seven Mile Line" Valentine Whitman drew No. 5 (1683/4); sold to Daniel Williams, son of Roger, a house and lot in Providence (1685); elected to the "General Court" sitting at Newport (1685); to "only son Valentine" a deed to fifty acres (11 Sept. 1695); transferring an acre of land in Providence (where the present railway station stands) to the Town Council for "training ground" in exchange for three acres on the Seven Mile Line (1698).

On 26 January 1700/01 he died "at daybreak or a little before" being "of this towne of Providence" as reported by his son, Valentine, Jr. His will, a copy of which is preserved in the City Hall in Providence gives a slight hint of pleasing whimsicality. It names as heirs his wife, Mary (who died 3 May 1718); his only son, Capt. Valentine; and the eight daughters.†

2. Daniel Wightman of Newport, Rhode Island, is named in a list of persons believed to have been members of the First Baptist Church of

*Savage, Genealogical Dict. of N. E.

Winthrop Papers, Vol. XVI, p. 24 (Mass. Hist. Soc. Lib., Boston).

Easton's "Roger Williams" states that in 1655 Providence had 42 freemen; Warwick, 38.

†Descent from Valentine Whitman can be traced in the male line from Capt. Valentine, first from Smithfield (records at Central Falls); then from Scituate (records at North Scituate); from Foster (records at Foster Center); and from Gloucester (records at Chepachet). Capt. Valentine's house, built about 1694, still stands one-half north of the village of Lime Rock, just off the Loquisset turnpike. For a description, see Early Rhode Island Houses by Isham and Brown. Valentine's daughters were (1) Mary, b. 16 Nov. 1652; m. John Inman of Providence, (2) Elizabeth, b. 3 July 1655, (3) Susannah, b. 28 Feby. 1657; m. James Ballou of Providence, (4) Deborah, m. Joseph Smith of Providence, (5) Alice, (6) Hannah, (7) Esther; m. John Steere of Providence, and (8) Grace, m. Jabez Greene of Warwick.

Newport in 1656. In that year, during the absence of the pastor, Dr. John Clarke, in England, dissension within the church over matters of doctrine resulted in a schism. According to the Baptist historian, David Benedict, the above-mentioned list comprises the names of twenty-one persons who "broke away" and formed the Second Church of Newport. The names are as follows:

(1) William Vaughn; (2) Thomas Baker; (3) James Clarke; (4) Jeremiah Clarke; (5) Daniel Wightman; (6) John Odlin; (7) Jeremiah Weeden; (8) Joseph Card; (9) John Greenman; (10) Henry Clarke; (11) Peleg Peckham; (12) James Barker; (13) Stephen Hookey; (14) Timothy Peckham; (15) Joseph Weeden; (16) John Rhodes; (17) James Brown; (18) John Hammett; (19) Wm. Rhodes; (20) Daniel Sabear; (21) Wm. Greenman.

There is some question regarding the real significance of this list. There is no doubt that Benedict copied it from Rev. Morgan Edwards' MS. entitled "Materials for a History of the Baptists in Rhode Island" written in 1771, who cites the same list and is supposed to have taken the names from the original church record. It is a question whether Morgan Edwards' list does not really give the names of those whom, on 23 Jany. 1706/7, received the deed to the land on which their church (the Second Church) was built. This land had been bought by James Clarke, in his own name, in two separate lots, the first deed bearing date of 23 October 1697; the second, 23 March 1703/4. On 23 January 1706/7 Rev. James Clarke formally transferred this land to fourteen members whom he names and who, he says, contributed the money with which the land was originally bought. These names are as follows:*

(1) Jeremiah Clarke; (2) Daniel Wightman; (3) John Odlin; (4) John Greenman; (5) James Brown; (6) John Hammett; (7) Jeremiah Weeden; (8) Joseph Card; (9) James Barker; (10) William Rhodes; (11) Stephen Weeden; (12) William Greenman; (13) Henry Clarke; (14) John Rhodes.

A comparison of the latter list of fourteen names with the foregoing list of twenty-one reveals that there is a great similarity, some thirteen names being identical. This would indicate that those thirteen persons were still alive some fifty-one years after the date of the schism in which it is assumed they had taken part. Furthermore, in several instances there is an element of incredibility. For instance, James Clarke, who is cited among the twenty-one persons who formed the Second Church, was in 1656 but a lad of seven years (b. 1649). Again, Stephen Hookey is cited in the same list. It seems likely that he was really of the same generation as Rev. Daniel Wightman inasmuch as his son, Stephen Hookey, Jr., married Elizabeth, daughter of Rev. Daniel, rather than that he was some forty years older than Rev. Daniel. Furthermore, the membership of the Second Church, recorded as of 1729, gives the brethren and sisters in separate lists, and among the former appears the name of Stephen Hookey, Sr.

If the list of twenty-one names, among which is that of Daniel Wightman, is connected with the secession of 1656, one may reasonably suppose that this Daniel Wightman was a brother of George Wightman of Quidnessett. If the list really names members of the church as late as 1697 and 1703/4, the Daniel Wightman named is more likely to have been Rev. Daniel, son of George of Quidnessett, who bought town property in Newport in 1694 and was ordained co-pastor of this Second Church in 1704 with Rev. James Clarke, who had been installed in 1701.

On 6 September 1687, the name of Daniel Whightman appears in the List of Assessments of y^{e} Estates of y^{e} King's Province Towne of Rochester (Kings Towne). The name of George Whightman also appears in the list, each being taxed one shilling (pole tax). It seems a question whether the Daniel Wightman here referred to is Rev. Daniel, son of George Wightman of Quidnessett, who at this time was but nineteen years of age, was not yet married, and who began life as a carpenter in Newport. To be sure, a young man reached his legal majority at eighteen, and he may have had a small parcel of land. The land records for Rochester (North Kingstown) do not begin until 1689.

It must be concluded that the belief that George Wightman of Quidnessett had a brother Daniel, of Newport, rests upon very doubtful evidence.

3. Robert Weightman of Newport, named by Savage (Vol. IV, 454), married Margaret Ward, second daughter of Thomas Ward of Newport, who died 26 September 1728 aged 57 (gravestone). Savage states that "by her he had no issue that lived to maturity." This Robert is clearly of the following generation and may have been among the later comers to the Colony. No relationship with George Wightman of Quidnessett is indicated.

4. John Whitman, a resident of Providence, died there 16 Sept. 1730, and his widow, Phebe, died there 10 Nov. 1736 (Prov. rec.). A William Whiteman of Providence, mariner, possibly a son, died there 4 Jany. 1719/20. The records show evidence that John and Phebe were established residents. There is no clue to the age of William or John, but John at least may have reached old age, as both he and his wife died about the same time.

5. Robert Whiteman, aged 20, on 19 Jany. 1635 "imbarqued (with others) in ye 'Abigail,' Hackwell M^{r}, having brought certificate from the minister of the parish of the little Minories of his conformitie and opinion of the descepline (sic) of the Church of England (N. E. Hist. and Gen. Reg., Vol. XIV, 315). This may be the Robert Wightman of Ipswich who married (1) in 1648, Susanna -----, who died in 1664; married (2) 9 Nov. 1664, Hannah Knight (Savage, Vol. IV, p. 524).

6. Richard Whytman appears in court at Salem 30 Oct. 1647 as a witness in the case of a man arrested for drunkenness (Essex Antiquarian Soc. Pub., Vol. VI, 27). This name suggests a relationship with the English Wightmans.

7. John Weightman of Charlestown, Mass., was admitted to the "First Church" there 31st day 5th mo., 1641. His will, dated 12 October 1681, (Charlestown Probate) names his sister, Elizabeth, who had married in Maidstone, Eng., 1 February 1631/2 at "age of about 25" Edmond Iddenden or Edenden, of Maidstone. After marriage they came to Scituate, Mass., where she died in 1694, aged 88. John Weightman died 24 July, 1684, aged 80. He was evidently a Puritan, but of very different belief from that of George Wightman.

8. John Whitman of Weymouth, Mass., ancestor of a numerous family spelling the name Whitman, is called John Whiteman in the ship's list. He is said to have come from Holt in Herfordshire. He died in 1692, his date of birth being about 1604. Although no relationship has been established, he may quite likely have come from the same Wightman stock in England. His eldest son, born in England, was named Thomas (Descendants of John Whitman of Weymouth, Mass., by Chas. H. Farnum, New Haven, 1889).

9. Joseph Whitman appeared first in Stafford, Conn., in 1655, crossing later to Huntington, Long Island (1660), and founding the family that produced Walt Whitman, who claimed the following lineage: Walt^{6}, Walter^{5}, Jesse^{4}, Nehemiah^{3}, John^{2}, Joseph. No connection has been established between this Joseph Whitman and any others of the name; but he is regarded as of English stock (Bliss Perry, "Walt Whitman"). He is probably the ancestor of the Long Island family many of whom went to Pennsylvania. The name "Nathan" is frequent in this family.

III. EARLY GENERATIONS OF ENGLISH WIGHTMANS

A. The Wightman Kindred of Burbage, Wykin, and Hinckley, co. Leicester, Eng.

George Wightman of Quidnessett, Kingstowne, Colony of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, the ancestor of the family whose record precedes, came from England.

A tradition regarding his parentage, which has been traced back through several generations of the family and in various branches, is first found recorded in "Materials for a History of the Baptists in Rhode Island" by Rev. Morgan Edwards of Providence (R. I. Hist. Soc. Lib., MS. dated 1771); but it is recorded there as tradition only. In later years this tradition, although still unsupported by any documentary proof, has been accepted by some as established fact. This tradition represents George Wightman as son of John and grandson of Edward Wightman of Burton-on-Trent, co. Stafford, Eng. The following material, which appears to have bearing upon the question of George Wightman's English forebears, is not presented as based upon the above-mentioned tradition, but it will be seen to lead to it.

The birthplace of George Wightman is unknown, and no record has been found directing the search for immediate family data to any particular place. Local records, however, for the region about Hinckley in Leicestershire show this to have been the location of a numerous family of Wightman name during a period of at least two hundred years prior to the date of George Wightman's birth, 4 November 1632. These records, comprising the parish registers of Hinckley, Burbage, and other nearby villages, as well as land records and wills pertaining to this kindred show the familiar names of George and Valentine so common in the American family.

As early as the reign of Henry VII (1485-1509) a Thomas Wightman was living at Burbage, owning lands and living in a fourteenth century manor house, which, to judge by its architecture, had probably been in the possession of his forebears. It is certainly not believed that he was the first of the name to live in this locality or that he was the only one of his generation.* He is, however, the earliest person of Wightman name in England from whom an unbroken line of descent has been traced; he was the progenitor of most, at least, of the numerous Wightman kindred associated through several generations with the locality about Hinckley; and it is precisely within the record of his descendants that the names of George and Valentine are found. For this reason data concerning this kindred are presented.

Thomas of Burbage (circa 1440-1500) lived at the "Old Grange." From the portion still standing, it appears to have been of considerable size; and the remains of paneling, timbered ceiling and other features suggest an elegance found in the best manor houses of the period. His son, Richard of Burbage (m. Scissley Wodam), in whose line the manor descended, lived at the Grange, as well as the latter's heir, Thomas (will proved 1550).

In the next generation Mr. Richard Wightman, Lord of the Manor of Burbage (d. 1578; m. (1) Mary Reynolds and (2) Lady Margaret Constable), who inherited the estate and who added greatly to it, built the new residence, Moat House, in Burbage. Nichols calls Moat House the finest house in Burbage. "Moat House had a pew in Burbage church, the Wightman coat of arms being neatly carved in the wood"; and one of the notable monuments in Burbage church is that representing Mr. Richard and his two wives, with quaint images of his eight children, and an inscription stating that the first wife was the mother of all the children. This monument, an alabaster slab, shows the Wightman arms quartered with those of Wodam, Trussell, and Reynolds, as well as the family arms of both of Mr. Richard's wives, Mary Reynolds and Lady Margaret Constable.

Mr. Richard possessed holdings at Hinckley, at Barwell, and elsewhere in the vicinity; and he was the purchaser of Nether Hall, in Stoke, co. Notts., although he lived and died at Burbage. His son, Thomas (m. Catherin Purefoy), associated also with Burbage, finally lived at Stoke, his will being proved at York, and thereafter the main Burbage line continues from Stoke, co. Notts., Moat House passing out of the family early in the 1600's.

Beginning some two generations later there was at Wykin another family of Wightmans. That they were of one kindred with the Burbage family and closely related is clearly indicated as will be seen in subsequent data.

On 17 May 1543 (35 Henry VIII) a William Wightman bought the manor of Wykin. Originally a part of the estate of the second Earl of Leicester, nicknamed Bossu, father of the Earl called "Wyghtmains," it was bestowed by the former upon the monastery of Nuneaton which he and his wife had founded just across the border in Warwickshire. It remained one of their estate until the prioress yielded it up to Henry VIII, who granted it to Edward, Lord Clinton and Say(e) and to Robert Terwhit, Knight, the latter selling it to William Wightman.*

*The following items taken from I'Anson's Records of the Wightman Family, London (1917), cite many persons bearing the name Whiteman, Wyghtman, Wightman who emerge from obscurity in still earlier times through legal procedure or in connection with positions of trust. Thus in 1326 a Thomas Whiteman de Beaumont is cited with others in a suit. This Thomas was of the Manor of Walton in Essex. In 1327 Richard Wightman appears in Doncaster; in 1328 there is a Thomas Wightman in Bury St. Edmunds; in 1357, to William Wightman, "King's Yeoman," and in 1358 to the same, called "Yeoman of the King's Buttery," is made a grant of lands in York. In 1363 to William Wyghtman is given a grant for life of the office of Spigurnel to Chancery in London (Sealer of the King's Writs) this William appearing often thereafter in the records of his time. In 1406 granted to the king's steward, William Wightman, two messauges, two shops, and three acres of land in St. Albans. On 15 October 1413, a request is made of the Abbott and Convent of Burton-on-Trent to admit a William Albertyn into their house with such maintenance from it as William Wyghtman and Agnes, his wife, now deceased, had at the mandate of Edward III.

According to the Visitation of Nottinghamshire, Thomas of Burbage, grandson of the first Thomas, had a brother William. I'Anson makes this brother, William, the purchaser of Wykin Manor. The following pedigree presents a general sketch of the main line only of the Wykin family and will serve to identify the names in the account which follows immediately. More detailed information of this family will be found in subsequent pages.

Meanwhile, on 23 July 1542 (34 Henry VIII), a year previous to the purchase of Wykin Manor by William Wightman, several Wightmans of the Burbage line together with persons of other names, became "lords in trust" of the Manor of Hinckley. It comprised 116 acres, lots, gardens, houses, et cetera. The Wightmans were:

Richard Wightman of Burbage, Esq.
George Wightman, gentleman
Thomas, son and heir of Richard Thomas, son and heir of George.

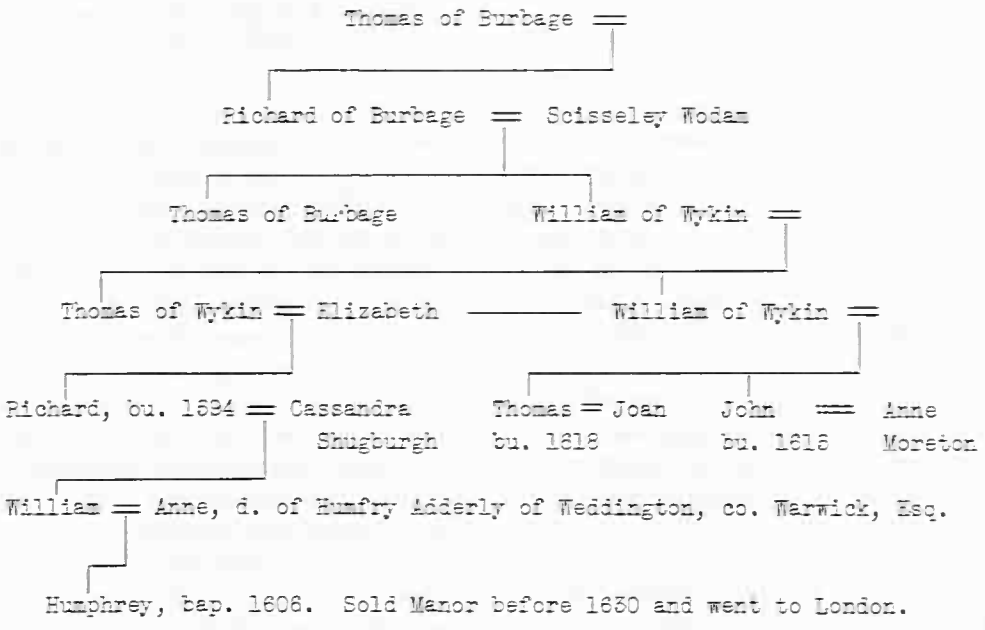
The Wightmans named in this lease were still living and in possession in 1589 (Burton).

In 1586 (28 Elizabeth) the Queen made a

Wykin Family

(Compiled from Visit. of London, Wills, and Parish Registers)



William of Wykin, grandson of the first Thomas of Burbage, who bought the Manor of Wykin in 1543, is thought to have lived there previous to its purchase. From him the estate descended to his son, Thomas (d. 1567; m. Elizabeth ———), and from him to his son, Richard, who married Dame Shugburgh. The will of this Richard, dated 3 December 1593, proved 4 February 1594, gives the Manor to his only surviving son, William (d. 1608; m. Anne Adderly) by whom it was bequeathed in turn to the latter's only surviving son, Humphrey. This heir, Humphrey, sold the manor before 1630 to Mr. Thomas Disney.

new grant. The only Wightman admitted was:

Edward Wightman, "one of the sons of Mr. Richard" (Burton).

In 1599 the lease reverted to the surviving persons under the original grant, there having been some dissatisfaction over the returns accruing to the town under the later management (Nichols). The Wightmans thus named are:

George Wightman
Thomas Wightman
Thomas, son of George;

but to these are admitted other Wightmans:

On 2 November 1604, the Manor was finally sold to several "of Hickley" called husbandmen, to be held by "them, their heirs and assigns forever." These new owners were:

Thomas Wightman
Thomas Sansome
Thomas Smith
Ralph Robinson.

In 1657 Sybil Wightman married Thomas Sansome, and the Manor of Hinckley descended in the Sansome family.*

The above data indicate something of the landed interests of the family throughout the whole locality comprising Burbage, Wykin and Hinckley. By 1600 nearly every village and hamlet in the region had come to know some of the name either as resident or non-resident owners.

About this time, however, the records indicate a large dispersement under way due to marriage alliance or to the new interest in trade. The Visitation of Leicestershire accomplished in 1619 does not show a Wightman pedigree in full, but the Wightman coat of arms is again described. Of the Wykin family, various branches also left the locality including the main line represented by Humphrey Wightman. Many of these went to London, as shown by the Visitation of London, 1633-34.

A more detailed account of these early generations of the Leicestershire Wightmans follows in two charts covering both the Burbage and Wykin lines, and they afford material for a consideration of the immediate ancestry of George Wightman of Quidnessett.

The charts are based on:

1. Visitation of Nottinghamshire (1614).
2. Visitation of London (1634).
3. Monument of Mr. Richard Wightman, his wives and children in the Burbage church.
4. Parish registers of Burbage and Hinckley.
5. Wills taken from Records of the Wightman Family (1917), by I'Anson.
6. Land records and other data from Burton's Description of Leicestershire (1622, revised 1777); and Nichols, the Description and Antiquities of Leicestershire, Vol. IV, Pt. 2 (1611), which draws largely upon Burton's history.

In a few instances a relationship based on strongly supporting evidence, but without documentary proof, is indicated, the name appearing in brackets. In these instances, the relationship only, not the name, is assumed.

The following charts comprise most of the genealogical data found in the records relating to the Wightman family of the Burbage-Wykin district. Scattered items not thus included are few and they do not seem to contradict or confuse the record of the charts.

That this is the Wightman kindred from which George Wightman of Quidnessett, Rhode Island, and his brother, Valentine of Providence, were descended seems probable. It is by no means suggested, however, that they or their parents came from this exact locality. George Wightman was of strong dissenting belief, while the families of Burbage and Wykin were landed gentry, adherents of the Established Church, and in several instances were married into the Church. Moreover, George Wightman's date of birth (1632) was some forty years later than the beginning of the dispersement of the family. Around the end of the sixteenth century a transfer from landed interests to new enterprises was taking place on a wide scale throughout England, and descendants in younger lines of old families of gentry found gain and adventure in new fields. The movement was contemporary with a restlessness within established modes of living and dissent from hereditary forms of belief. George Wightman of Rhode Island certainly came from the latter environment. Although his father was undoubtedly not connected with the locality, his grandfather, if we consider reasonable dates, may be thought to have been immediately related to the Burbage-Wykin stock.

At this point the tradition that makes George Wightman of Quidnessett the grandson of Edward Wightman of Burton-on-Trent, some twenty miles distant, over in Staffordshire, brings that Edward Wightman to the fore.

In Burton's The Description of Leicestershire, published in 1622 (rev. ed., 1777, p. 287), the author, in his account of the village and manor of Wykin, recounts the purchase of the manor of Wykin on 17 May 1543 by William Wightman, whose heir, he says, "now holds the same," and then he adds: "Of this family (as I have heard) was one Wightman, a notorious Heretic, dwelling at Burton-upon-Trent about twelve years ago...." In Nichols' The Description and Antiquities of Leicestershire, published in 1811 (Vol. IV, Pt. 2, p. 721, footnote), a work which draws largely from Burton, there appears in the same connection this statement: "Of this family (as I have heard) was one Edward Wightman lately inhabiting in Burton-on-Trent not many years since, a notorious heretick ....(corrected from Burton's MS. in 1630)."

This record based on information furnished the historian Burton by a contemporary of Edward Wightman is of prime importance. Edward of Burton-on-Trent was, according to this testimony, a member of the Burbage-Wykin kindred.

By reference to the foregoing charts, it will be seen that in 1622 (Burton's date), the heir of Wykin manor, "who now holds the same" was (18) Humphrey Wightman, who "sold the same before 1630" outside of the family (Nichols). Humphrey Wightman, baptized 2 September 1606 (Burb. par. reg.) was the son of (12) William, born about 1570 being "under 24" in 1593, according to the will of his father (6) Richard, a digest of which follows:

Digest of the will of Richard Wightman, of Wykin Manor, parish of Hinckley, Gentleman, dated 3 December 1593, proved 4 February 1594 (I'Anson):

- to wife Cassandra
- to son William under 24
- to son-in-law Edward Aglionby
- to brother John
- to brother William
- to brother-in-law John Hall

He names among his legacies "my manor house at Wykin," also "Sketchleys and Buckleys."

Edward Wightman of Burton-on-Trent, whose date of marriage was 1593 (par. reg., Burton-on-Trent), was of the same generation as (12) William. That he was probably not a brother of William is seen also from the will of Richard quoted above, not being named among the latter's surviving children.

As to the brothers of (6) Richard, grandfather of Humphrey--viz., (7) John, (8) George, and (9) William--the following facts are indicated: John was buried at Hinckley 25 July 1615. His will dated 3 July 1615 names an only child, Thomas, and "a grandson" (I'Anson). George is known only as named in the will of his father (4) Thomas of Wykin, of which a digest follows:

Digest of will of Thomas Wightman, "yeoman" of Wykin Manor, buried at Hinckley 20 March 1569-70, dated 1 December 1567, proved 1570 (I'Anson):

- to son John "if he marries or reaches the age of 21" house and farm at Hinckley.
- to son George (a similar bequest).
- to son William (the same).
- to daughter Agnes.
- to son Richard, the residue ... wife and son Richard executors, will to be supervised by Richard Wightman, Esq. and Michell Purefoy.

No George appears in the records of Hinckley. It is quite likely that he went away and may have located in London. It is therefore an open question whether there was a son Edward here. The other brother, (9) William, who was buried at Hinckley in 1598, has no children recorded at Hinckley.

The only other family continuing at Wykin as shown by the parish register at Hinckley (marriages from 1568; baptisms from 1570) is that of (5) William, who had two sons, (10) Thomas and (11) John. The former had seven children recorded at Hinckley, but there is no Edward among them. John, who married Anne Moreton, had a son, Edward, baptized 14 July 1580 (Hinckley par. reg.; see also Visit. of London, 1633-34).

It has been stated and quoted by several that this (17) Edward was identical with Edward of Burton-on-Trent. Aside from the fact that he would hardly marry in 1593 at the age of thirteen, the testimony found in the will of his brother, John "the grocer" of London shows that he was living in 1636. This (16) John, the grocer, "eldest son" was baptized in Hinckley 17 January 1572 (Hinckley par. reg.) and was buried 18 June 1639 in St. Pancras Church, Soper Lane, London. He married Constance Johnson, daughter of John Johnson, Dr. of Divinity and Archdeacon of Worcester (Visit. of London, 1633-34). His will (I'Anson) dated 23 September 1636, proved 20 June 1639 (P.P.C. 101 Harvey), bequeaths:

- to wife Constance
- to brother Edward "my properties at Hinckley"
- to Elizabeth, "dau. of bro. Edward"
- to "cozen" Humphrey Wightman
- to "cozen" John Hall of Busbye
- to "cozen" George, "taylor of London"
- to Mrs. Aglionby

The will of his wife, Constance, dated 13 January 1645/6 names "bro. Edward Wightman's children."

We turn now to the Burbage family, which was not only closely related to the Wykin families by birth, but as well known as they in the Wykin district through two generations of proprietors of the Hinckley grant. As seen by the Burbage chart (3) Thomas of the "Old Grange," Burbage, had two sons only, Mr. (5) Richard of Moat House and Mr. (6) George of Burbage. This is further shown by the will of (3) Thomas, a digest of which follows.

Digest of the will of Thomas Wightman dated 1 June 1545, proved 22 November 1550 (P.C.C. 27 Coode) which devises:

- to son George, house at Anseley
- to William Wightman the younger
- to brother John
- to brother Richard
- to three children of brother John
- to four children of brother Richard
- to three children of George Wightman
- to Edward Wightman, 2 houses in Leicester
- to Valentine Wightman, a house in Hawsley
- to George Wightman and Margaret his wife
- to son Richard, residue, he being Executor

As indicated by his will, just quoted, (3) Thomas had a brother (4) John (m. Dame Underwood). This John had, according to his will (I'Anson), three daughters only. A digest of this will, dated 21 August 1559, proved 8 March 1560 at Leicester (P.C.C. 9 Loftes), follows:

- to bro. Richard
- to Mr. Richard of Burbage
- to Mr. George of Burbage
- to wife Philippa
- to dau. Agnes
- to dau. Elizabeth
- to dau. Syle
- to son-in-law Joseph Smythe

According to both wills just cited there was another brother, Richard (living in 1559), who had "four children" in 1545. These children have not been identified.

As will be seen also from the digest of the will of (3) Thomas of Burbage, he leaves bequests to three persons: William the younger, Valentine, and Edward. It seems certain that William the younger was the son of a brother William deceased at the time of the date of the will, this brother William being identified as the (3) William who bought the Manor of Wykin in 1543 (see Wykin chart). As to the Edward and Valentine named in the will of (3) Thomas (1545), as pure conjecture, they may be regarded also as sons of (3) William of Wykin and brothers of William the younger; but there is absolutely nothing in the records at either Wykin or Burbage regarding any descendants of this Valentine or this Edward. Having inherited houses in other localities, they doubtless did not remain in either Burbage or Hinckley parish. It may be remarked in passing that this is the earliest instance found of the name Valentine, which appears subsequently only in the Burbage line.

Continuing now with the sons of (3) Thomas of Burbage--namely, Mr. (5) Richard and Mr. (6) George, it appears that their descendants comprise all those of Wightman name found in the parish register at Burbage and in the land records as given in Burton.

Mr. (5) Richard of Moat House had a son (9) Edward (Hinckley lease of 1586, infra p. 417). His date of birth was probably not far from 1545. Except in connection with the Hinckley lease he does not appear in the records of Burbage or Hinckley. He may be the Edward Wightman who died in 1611 at Dunstan, co. Lincoln near Stoke, his brother (7) Thomas being Lord of the Manor at East Stoke. This (9) Edward of Dunstan had a wife, Bridget, and left the following children: Thomas, Edward, Millicent, and Joan (I'Anson). At any rate (9) Edward, son of (5) Mr. Richard, belonged to the generation preceding that of Edward of Burton-on-Trent.

Mr. (6) George had "three children" in 1545 (see will of his father, (3) Thomas, see above). The eldest was (11) Thomas named in the Hinckley grant as heir of (6) George (infra p. 417). The records show that (6) George Wightman, father of (11) Thomas, who had received from his father, (3) Thomas of Burbage, the Manor of Anseley as a bequest in the latter's will (see above), mortgaged Anseley Manor in 1592 to William Glover; and that in 1601 the Glovers obtained complete possession from (11) Thomas Wightman, "son and heir of said George," but sold the Manor in 1609 to James Wightman of Beachman (I'Anson; also The Glover Memorial, sec. "The Glovers in England," p. 22). Thomas had several children recorded at Burbage. The other two children of Mr. (6) George are not identified, but it is possible that Mr. James, to whom Anseley Manor finally passed, was one of them (see Burbage chart).

We come now to (13) Edward, son of (7) Thomas of Burbage and Stoke. This Edward is thoroughly identified as Edward of Hinckley (Visit. of Nottinghamshire, Harleian Society Publications, Vol. IV, p. 178). For a list of his children see Burbage chart, infra p. 419.

By reference to the Burbage chart it will be seen that (10) Mr. Valentine Wightman had a son, Edward, baptized 9 April 1576 (Burbage par. reg.). It seems improbable that he is identical with Edward of Burton who married at Burton-on-Trent in 1593.

There remains to be considered a single family group living at Burbage but not represented in the Burbage chart. This was the family of a John Wightman of whom neither the birth nor marriage is recorded at Burbage; but his children were all born in Burbage (Burbage par. reg.). The following pedigree covers this family:

John Wightman =

26 Nov. 1562	Elizabeth
29 Oct. 1564	Valentine
20 Dec. 1566	Edward
25 Nov. 1572	Elizabeth
18 Jan. 1572/3	Richard
16 Nov. 1576	William

There is no clue to the exact relationship of this John Wightman, although he was of Burbage at least for a time. One may surmise that this family left Burbage as there is no record of burials. It is to be observed that there was among his children an Edward, born 20 December 1566, and it is evident that this date is not inconsistent with the known data regarding Edward of Burton-on-Trent. Without further evidence, however, a definite identification can not be made.

The foregoing survey of Wightman data, as presented in the Burbage-Wykin charts, yields no positive evidence by which to identify Edward of Burton-on-Trent. It is obvious that the record is incomplete; various gaps have been indicated; and some points left undetermined.* The parish registers were not kept with great thoroughness in the beginning; some wills are lacking; and as to the Visitations, it is hardly to be supposed that they would record relationship with Edward of Burton-on-Trent known to those within the fold as a "notorious heretick."

It may be claimed, however, that the foregoing presentation of data has not been without value in that it affords material which directs further research. Furthermore, some facts of prime value have been established. Of the latter is the authentic testimony of Burton (Description of Leicestershire) that Edward of Burton-on-Trent was of the Burbage-Wykin family.

In addition certain misstatements often quoted are corrected by established data. Of these the following may be noted:

1. He was not the son of (7) Thomas who married Catherine Purefoy. This identification has appeared in both English and Canadian publications. It has usually been made in connection with the effort to show close relationship with William of Harrow-on-the-Hill for the purpose of establishing a claim to the latter's coat of arms. On this point see Appendix p.
2. He was not the son of (6) Mr. George Wightman of Burbage, Edward's date of marriage, 1593, suggesting a date of birth between 1565 and 1570. Mr. (6) George and his wife, Margaret, had "3 children" in 1545. George died in 1572 and Margaret in 1577 when they were doubtless well along in years.
3. He was not the son of (11) John Wightman (see Wykin chart), who married Anne Moreton, an identification which has been made repeatedly and based apparently on pure assumption in the first instance. The evidence as presented certainly thoroughly disproves this assumption.

With the record of such misstatements as those cited above in mind and with no positive proof upon which to offer any true identification, this compiler is restrained from making any statement which might be both untrue and misleading.

The American tradition of lineal descent from Edward of Burton-on-Trent, whether cherished as a fact owing to its repeated assertion, or recognized as highly probable by those who await actual proof, cannot be arbitrarily disregarded. Furthermore, to one who has considered the character of George Wightman of Quidnessett and the personality and career of his children and children's children through the early generations of the record a certain support is seen for the tradition which connects these staunch supporters of religious principles and courageous pioneers in behalf of religious freedom with Edward "the Martyr" of Burton-on-Trent.* For this reason the following account is included in this record.

*The following items taken from the Calendar of Leicestershire wills and administrations proved in the Archdeaconry Court of Leicester and in the Peculiar Courts (1495-1649) now preserved in the Probate Registry of Leicester (Hartopp, London, 1902) indicate the spread of the Wightman family throughout co. Leicester but outside of the Hinckley-Burbage district:

Edward Wightman of Burton-on-Trent lived from at least the time of his marriage in 1593 until his death in 1612 at Burton-on-Trent in Staffordshire, about twenty-five miles from Burbage. He was a draper, the oft-quoted statement that he was a minister having no foundation in fact.

Like most thinking men of his generation, he was interested in matters pertaining to religious belief. Puritan sentiment was strong in his locality, and in the neighboring counties of Warwick and Leicester; and periodic meetings were held in the parishes for discussion and instruction. Edward often appeared at these meetings, taking part in the discussions, being opposed, as were the others, to certain doctrines and practices of the Established Church. Some of his beliefs were those which characterized the Baptists, who organized for the first time in England under that name, in 1611, in London. Helwys, the leader of this group, had come from Amsterdam, leaving John Smyth in charge of the Baptist church which they had organized there in 1609. Of this original Amsterdam church, "part stayed and within fifty years merged into the Menonites; part, returning to London (with Helwys), settled in Spitalfields"(Whitley).

Edward Wightman, however, in some matters of vital Christian dogma, went even further than the Puritan leaders of his locality, and especially in his beliefs concerning the doctrine of the Trinity; and it would seem that, under pressure of opposition and finally of persecution, he reached a position which even they could not support. It is said "that they were for treating him tenderly, hoping to reduce his errors by argument."†

He, however, precipitated trouble by presenting to King James on his passage through Royston (1611) a MS. Memorial, and was ordered arrested with command "to commit him to the Gatehouse (Westminster, London) to take examination of his several opinions under his own hand." As this examination continued for some weeks (1611) "to no purpose," and as he claimed to be of Litchfield diocese, he came under the jurisdiction of Bishop Neile of Litchfield.

Here the trial was conducted in public from 19 November to 5 December by Bishop Neile, assisted by his chaplain, William Laud, afterwards to suffer beheading in the Tower; and as he was found guilty of "blasphemies against the Trinity," he was excommunicated and sentenced. On 14 December 1611, the sentence was publicly pronounced in the cathedral at Litchfield, following a sermon, it is said. In a defense written twenty-seven years later by Bishop Neile, Edward Wightman was accused of "antitrinitarianism and of anabaptist views."

He was subjected to death at the stake the following spring, 9 March 1612 by a warrant prepared by a "civil commission," ordering the sheriff to burn him. In pain he said what was taken to be a promise to recant, and was taken from the stake, "the crowd assisting." Later, however, as he refused to recant formally in writing, and reiterated his heresies, he was publicly executed 11 April 1612, in a square, below the cathedral, the date being, it is said, a Saturday between Good Friday and Easter.

By this time so much public sentiment had been aroused and so heroic was his death that another who was to have suffered a like fate was released. Edward Wightman is said to have been the last to suffer death by burning for heresy in England according to legal procedure.††

*In 1890, on the occasion of the unveiling of a monument in memory of Rev. Valentine Wightman of Groton, Conn., youngest son of George Wightman, an address was delivered by Rev. Palmer G. Wightman (born 1820), a direct descendant of Rev. Valentine. In this address, referring to the difficult circumstances attending the latter's pioneer pastorate he said: "It required a moral courage of eminent strength and a devotion to principle that give strong collateral evidence that he was a lineal descendant of the English Martyr" (Wightman Memorial, Providence, 1890).

Secy. of the Baptist Historical Society of London, Eng., who has read the 45-page, word for word, account of Edward's trial, preserved at Oxford, in which this information is given (Ashmolean MS., 1521, VII, Osford). Dr. Whitley adds that "he was not even a Baptist, i.e., through membership with any Baptist organization at this early date."

The King to the sheriff of our city of Litchfield, Greeting. Whereas, the reverend father in Christ, Richard, by divine providence, of Coventry and Litchfield, Bishop, hath signified unto us, that he judicially proceeding, according to the exigence of ecclesiastical canons and of the laws and customs of this kingdom of England against one Edward Wightman, of the parish of Burton-upon-Trent, in the diocese of Coventry and Litchfield, of and upon the wicked heresies of Ebion, Cirinthus, Valintinian, Arrius, Macedonius, Simon Magnus, of Manes, Manichees, Photinus, and of the Anabaptists, and other arch-heriticks; and moreover of other cursed opinions, belched by the instance of Satan, excogitated and here to for unheard of; the aforesaid Edward Wightman appearing before the aforesaid reverend father, and other divines and learned in the law, assisting him in judgment, the aforesaid wicked crimes, heresies and other detestable blasphemies and errors, stubbornly and perniciously, knowingly and maliciously, and with a hardened heart, published, defended and dispersed; by definite sentence of the said divine father, with the consent of divines, learned in the law aforesaid, justly, lawfully and canonically, against the said Edward Wightman in that part brought, stands adjudged and pronounced a heretick, and therefore as a diseased sheep out of the flock of the Lord, lest our subjects he do infect by his contagion, he hath decreed to be cast out, and cut off.

Whereas, the holy mother church hath not further in this part what it ought more to do and prosecute, the same reverend father hath left to our secular power the same Edward Wightman as a blasphemous and condemned heretick to be punished with the condign punishment as by the letters patent of the aforesaid reverend father, the bishop of Coventry and Litchfield, in this behalf thereupon made, as certified unto us in our Chancery.

We, therefore as the zealot of justice and the defender of the Catholick faith, and willing the holy church, and the rights and liberties of the same, and the Catholick faith to maintain and defend, and such like heresies and errors everywhere, so much as in us lies, to root out and exterpate, and heriticks so convict and condemn to punish with condign punishment, holding that such a heritick in the aforesaid form convicted and condemned, according to the customs and laws of this our Kingdom of England in this part accustomed, ought to be burned with fire.

We command thee that thou cause the said Edward Wightman, being in thy custody, to be committed to fire in some publick and open place below the city aforesaid, for the cause aforesaid before people; and the same Edward Wightman in the same fire cause really to be burned in detestation of said crime, and for the manifest example of other Christians, that they may not fall into the same crime. And this no ways omit, under the peril that shall follow thereon.

The parish register at Burton-on-Trent has been recently searched anew for Wightman data, and the result has been sent the compiler by the present vicar of the church, who conducted the search. The record is as follows:

Baptism

1580, Modwenne Haytor, daughter of Thomas and Sarah Haytor, christened, Robert Thomson god-father and Modwenne Wightman, widow, and Susan Lawton Godmothers, 3 June.

Marriage

1596, Pricilla Wightman filia Edwardi baptizata fuit 25 December.

1603, Maris Weightman (sic) f. Edwardi and Francisca bapt. 27 Febr.

1608, Anna Wyghtman (sic) f. Edwardi et Francis bap. 18 Septebr.

In 1580, the date of the first Wightman entry, Edward (m. 1593) would be but a lad; and if we consider Modwenne (Mawdelin?) Wightman, widow, to be his mother, it would appear that at that date the family was already located in Burton-on-Trent. With this in mind, it is quite in order that Edward should marry there, as the next item records.

There is no indication in the register of any other family of Wightmans at Burton, the examination having been continued to the year 1654 for both christenings and marriages. As no entry occurs for any of the name subsequent to the record shown above, it would seem that there were no uncles, aunts, or cousins of Edward there; and that he had no brothers or sisters who married and settled there. This would also support the belief that Edward's immediate family came to Burton without local attachment there in the name of Wightman.

At her husband's death, Frances, wife of Edward, was left with four children: Priscilla, past fifteen; John, thirteen; Anne, between three and four; and a baby, Samuel, eight months old. Up to the present, nothing whatever is known regarding their subsequent history.* It seems probable that the family left Burton-on-Trent and may very likely have gone to London, the sons possibly continuing the family interest in cloth. The statement has been made that they were members of Helwys' church in London, founded 1611. Dr. W. T. Whitley, already quoted, whose researches into early Baptist history in England make him an authority, says that while the complete membership of Helwys' church in London is not found no one of Wightman name appears in the extant record.

It is reasonable to suppose, however, that George Wightman of Quidnessett, Rhode Island, came from a non-conformist family and, very likely, Baptist.

IV. WIGHTMAN COATS OF ARMS

Widespread interest in an ancestral coat of arms prevails in the United States, especially among the descendants of early colonial families.

The inheritance of a family coat doubtless transcends such a heritage as the sword of a Cavalier or the portrait of his Lady. The fact that the escutcheon had been bestowed upon a direct progenitor for notable service to the realm or to mark the dignity accompanying "faire possessions" would certainly make it a source of creditable pride. It is, however, much easier to display a coat of arms in the family name than it is to hang the portrait or the sword.

The following statement from the report of the committee appointed by the New England Historic Genealogical Society regarding the subject is to the point:

A coat of arms "does not belong with a family name but only to the particular family bearing the name to whose progenitor it had been granted or confirmed. Proof of right must be established by authentic pedigree direct from an armiger."

Inasmuch as no authentic unbroken line

*A definite statement to the effect that the sons, John and Samuel, came to America has not been found to have any documentary proof.

There is a suggestion intriguing to some in the fact that the sister of Roger Williams, Catherine Williams, married, as his second wife, Ralph Wightman, "merchant taylor and citizen" of London in St. Mary le Bow. By reference to the Wykin chart, p. 420, (15) Ralph Wightman is seen to have been the son of (10) Thomas and Joan of Wykin. He is named brother in the will of (13) Ezekius and cousin in the will of (16) John "the grocer." Ralph's will, dated 27 Dec. 1628, proved 9 Feby. 1628/9 (Ridley 18) bequeaths to parish of Hinckley, "cozen" Ezekius (nephew), "cozen" Ralph Pryor (nephew), to bro. George's wife, to mother (Williams), to bro. Shydrach (Williams), to bro. Roger (Williams), to sister Catherine, to sister Eaton, brother George named as Overseer of the will.

Children: (first marriage) Barbara, bap. 29 Sept. 1616, bu. 8 Oct. 1617; (2nd marriage) James, bap. 9 April 1620; Dorcas, bap. 17 March 1621/2; Rebecca, bap. 1 April 1624.

No data have been found to establish any exact relationship between the family of this Ralph and that of George of Quidnessett. Both were doubtless of the same Burbage-Wykin stock and any close connection must have been three or four generations before George of Quidnessett.

W. T. Whitley, A History of the Baptists (1923); also quotations from the compiler's private correspondence with Dr. Whitley.

of descent can be established for George Wightman of Quidnessett, however strong the evidence may point to descent from Thomas of Burbage, no claim to the latter's coat of arms is justified. Since, however, a Wightman coat of arms has been found displayed quite commonly both among the kindred in the United States and in Canada, data regarding the different coats bearing the Wightman name are presented.

The following coats in the name of Wightman are found in Burke's General Armory:

1. Arms. Per fess Or and Sable a maunch countercharged.
   Crest. On the stump of a tree proper a buck trippant Argent, collared, chained and attired Or.
   Motto. A Wightman Never Wanted A Weapon.

The above coat is the inheritance of the lineal descendants of Thomas Wightman, Esq., of Burbage, and is claimed by the various branches of the Wykin line as well.

2. Arms. As above.
   Crest. A demi savage wreathed round head and middle with leaves and holding over dexter shoulder a club ppr.
   Motto. As above.

This coat is the inheritance of a numerous and distinguished Scottish branch of Wightmans. Whether it is the older grant is a disputed question, as is also the exact relationship of the Scotch and English lines.

3. Arms. Argent, on a Bend engrailed Gules, between three Cornish choughs proper, as many leopards' faces Or.
   Crest. On a wreath argent-azure, a stork Arg. beak and members Gu. holding in her mouth a Snake winding round her body and foreleg vert.
   No motto, family name Wightman used instead.

This third coat, much later, was granted for distinguished service to William Wightman, Esq., of Harrow-on-the-Hill, near London.

By reference to the Burbage chart (infra p. 419) it will be seen that Thomas of Burbage had a son, Thomas. This Thomas Jr. married Agnes Everard of Burbage and went to Coventry, founding the Coventry line. Thomas Jr. had a son, Richard, the only one known, who married Elizabeth, daughter of Humphrey Purcell, and he also lived at Coventry. Richard, as far as known, had two sons: (1) Richard, a capper of Coventry; and (2) William (Visit. of co. Middlesex, Harleian MS., 1551, fo. 20 b).

Going to London from Coventry, William Wightman became Secretary to Thomas, Lord High Admiral of England, et cetera. On 31 Jany. 1551, he was appointed to the office of Teller of the Royal Mint in the Tower of London. On 1 July 1557, he was made Treasurer of the Expedition to St. Quentins, Earl of Pembroke (Hastings Family) Capitaine. On 1 May 1560 he was appointed Joint Receiver for Royal Revenues for South Wales, his associate being Sir John Salisbury, and later he became sole Receiver.

On 14 July 1562 he was granted a coat of arms. This coat, with crest but no motto, is, of course, not the ancestral Wightman coat. The latter coat, much older, already showed in 1562

William of Harrow-on-the-Hill

several quarterings, marking intermarriages since the time of Thomas of Burbage from whom it is derived.

In 1562 William took up his residence at Harrow-on-the-Hill, north of London and lived there until his death on 28 January 1579. His wife was Audrey Dearinge. She is called Audrey in his will (dated 20 Dec. 1578, probated 31 March 1579) and she so signs herself in her own will (dated 1596, probated 1598); but she is called Etheldreda on the monument to her husband and herself in Harrow Church. A reference to her under date of 1583 calls her Audrey Witeman (sic), widow.

The children as recorded in the records were four daughters, only; the monument, however, indicates a total family of five. The four daughters married, the record being found at Harrow as follows:

i. Isabell, b. ---; m. 28 July 1561 Richard Vaughn. The register gives her name as Whitman.
ii. Elizabeth, b. ---; m. (1) 1567 John Pryce (son of Sir John); (2) George Brome. Her name is spelled Wightman.
iii. Anne, b. ---; m. 25 Aug. 1573 Humphrey Wyms. Her name appears Wyghtman.
iv. Frances, b. ---; m. 28 Nov. 1578 Robert Strenysham. Her name is spelled Wightman.

The will of William of Harrow together with other data presented below indicates the four daughters named above, as well as one grandchild; but there is no reference to a fifth child and it hardly seems likely that that child lived to maturity. Neither is there any reference to such a child in the will of Audrey (P.C.C. 59 Lewyn).

Following are the wills of both William and Audrey (P.C.C. 9 Arundel):

To Awdrie my wife my close of ground neare the Cittie (city) of Coventree called home close & all the frehold landes in Harrowe wch (which) I bowghte (bought) of Richard Bayton & John Grenehall also to Awdrie my wife & my dowghter (daughter) Frauncis (Frances) Strenisham my lease of the personage (parsonage) of Harrowe hall wch (which) I purchased of John Ailworthe Esqr., & the terme of years in the same wch I purchased of the righte Honble (Honorable) Roger Lord Northe; Sr (Sir) William Cordall knighte, Mr (Master) of the Rowles & Sir James Dyer knighte, Cheif Justice of the Comon (Common) Plees (Pleas) any my lease in revcon (reversion) of the tythes of the same personage wch I have of the demise & grante of the Deane and Chaptor of the Collegge of Christe in Oxforde of kinge Henrie the eighth his foundacon (foundation). I make the said William Deringe sole executor.

(signed) Awdre Wightman

Witnesses:
R. Strensham; Thomas Ball; Elizabeth Broome.

The following names are mentioned in list of debtes in connection with William's estate:

The Quenes Majestie; Robte (Robert) Davi(e); John Franklein, of Cannons; my sonne in lawe Humfrey Wyms; Thomas Dearinge; Mr. Moulton, auditor; Nicholas Hill of Hayes; my sonne Price; Mr. Thomas Willms (Williams) & David Willms (Williams); my little nece (niece) Anne Vaughan; my sonne Strenisham; my dowghter (daughter) Vaughan of Whitlande (the benefite of Jenn (John) ap (son of) Gittoes fyne (a particular kind of rental or property conveyance) of a certain tenement called Kewyn Ridlande. Vicessimo Decembris 1578.

Inasmuch as the coat of arms of William of Harrow-on-the-Hill is quite widely shown as the ancestral coat of the descendants of George Wightman of Quidnessett, it has seemed best to present the above data. Since, so far as the records show, William had no son to carry on the family name, it is obvious that no one of Wightman name can rightfully claim descent from him, and consequently any claim to his coat of arms by one bearing the name Wightman appears to be totally unjustifiable.

V. THE FAMILY NAME

In England, a family surname used to distinguish the various Richards, Williams, and Johns of a community from one another was rarely established and consistently used by the family group as their common family name before the twelfth century. Such surnames often came from place names, the name of an occupation, or from some personal characteristic, and their origin appears evident.

In this manner the family name Wightman has been explained. It has been interpreted as meaning a "man from Wight"--i.e., the Isle of Wight. By others it is confidently seen to signify "a man of might"--wight signifying valiant, strong. The former interpretation may easily be accepted because of its very obviousness; the latter, equally obvious, is supported by the ancestral motto of the family: "A Wightman Never Wanted A Weapon."

A quite different origin is suggested by I'Anson, who thinks there may have been some connection between the earliest Wightmans of the Midlands in England and the Earl of Leicester, nicknamed "Wyghtmains" in whose original domain they emerge at an early date as established gentry.* There seems nothing fantastic in the suggestion that an individual from near or far, following the fortunes of war under the leadership of a feudal lord, had finally become established, founding a family; and that through some relationship of service within the influence of that chieftain had in those feudal days acquired a surname, lands, and position.

The question of the origin of one's own family name is intriguing, and, positive proof lacking, the evidence, if any, will probably be judged, if at all, according to personal inclination. Whatever the origin of the Wightman name may have been, men bearing that name emerge at various places, in very early times, occupying positions of dignity and trust. From them the name descends.

In both English and colonial records the name is variously spelled, appearing as Wyghtman, Wightman, Whiteman, and Whitman. In the early colonial records it is spelled interchangeably Wightman, Whitman, and occasionally Weightman, even when relating to the same individual, and furthermore, in all lines. In the Providence records especially it appears Whiteman, and the descendants of Valentine of Providence have uniformly spelled the family name Whitman. In the four lines from George Wightman of Quidnessett, the spelling is not uniform. Descendants of the eldest son, Rev. Daniel of Newport, have usually kept the form Wightman, as do most of those descended from the youngest son, Rev. Valentine of Groton, Conn. A more frequent variation appears among the families descended from George of Warwick and John of Exeter, the latter especially spelling the name Whitman quite as often as Wightman.

OUR INHERITANCE

Man's life is but a moment in eternity,
But when he dies he leaves his mark, however small.
The great ones are recorded for posterity,
The rest are quiet, waiting for recall.

They will come (tho" not with fanfare blown)
For man is curious, and one day will say,
"Who am I? Whence did I come? What is to be known?"
And, searching, bring them back from yesterday.

And he will know these quiet ones -- these others:
They are familiar in so many ways:
A picture of a girl, so like his mothers,
Tho" her dress is that of other days.

A letter, faded, worn, the language quaint,
Brings news of a family in another age.
So like this own -- "Dear Ann has learned to paint."
All this, then is man's heritage.

For we inherit far more precious things
Than worldly wealth, or kingly crown.
A smile, a girl with hair like raven's wings,
A talent that's been handed down.

Science will explain in stilted phrase
The hue of hair, the shape of face, the stance,
The likeness shown to those of other days --
But man says, "THIS is my inheritance!"

iii. Laura C.[9] Whitman, b. 8 Oct. 1885; d. Nov. 1962; m. Joseph Stephen Sammons, b. Feb 1872 in Wytheville, VA, d. Feb 1952 in Huntington Park, CA; burial in Pelican Rapids, MN. He was the s/o John & Sarah Sammons. In 1898 Joseph and five other young men left on what he called "the last great adventure of modern times". Without any modern conveniences as radio, snowmobiles, etc., they set out for the Klondike. Gold fever was in their blood. They "packed" over Chilikoot pass and crossed Lake Bennet. At Whitehorse they engaged passage on a large barge going down the Yukon River. They tied a rowboat they had purchased for $35.00 to the barge. On the way an ice jam clogged the river making it into a huge lake. Realizing the danger, all aboard attempted to lighten the raft to enable getting to the shore. Nearly bringing the barge owner to tears, was the throwing overboard of hay that he had purchased at 40 cents per pound. Many other valuables also were tossed into the icy water. They did reach shore and tied up the barge for the night. On awakening next morning they found the ice jam had broken and they were now eighty rods from the shoreline!

On foot now, they made the rest of their way to Dawson. Here they did not have enough money between them to outfit a hunt for gold, so they took jobs working for the unheard of pay of a dollar an hour. In the States at this time, good pay was a dollar a day. The outfit they worked for had a claim immediately below the Discovery Claim. Canadian mining claims ran fifteen hundred feet along a creek and extended from the center of the stream to the center of the ridge on one side or the other. Twenty-four million dollars in gold was taken from the Discovery Claim.

Many were the hardships Joe saw in the winter of '98 & '99. Most of the miners subsisted on beans and dried potatoes. He saw the last egg in town sold to a miner/gambler for $300.00 in gold. One man bought a "squaw" for $109.00 - her weight in gold!

On the way out or into the Klondike, Joe and his friends met a writer who was snow-blind. He lived with them for three days. His companion was a large English mastiff dog, which Joe fed for three days. Later they found that the man was Jack London, the famous author.

In 1900 when Joe left for home, having saved his money, he was better off than most. At Skagway, he and others booked passage on a boat bound for Frisco, but for some reason they pulled into Los Angeles. They stayed three weeks in the area and he remembered real estate men showing him land in Santa Monica at $3.00 an acre. Probably this was at the edge of what is now Beverly Hills. Visiting in 1938 with Laura, Joe noted the increase in value. He remarked that he would have paid a lot of taxes on land if he had bought it.

Joseph returned to Minnesota where he bought a farm, possibly outright with the money he had saved.

"My family's ancestry is very old," said one club member trying to impress the group. "We can be traced back to the early kings of Europe." Then, turning to a lady sitting nearby, she asked, "And how old is your family, my dear?" "I really don't know," replied the lady with a sweet smile. THE STRANGE BURDEN OF A NAME

"The name problem for married women is a clumsy mess. Married women have four or more choices. 1) Keep the last name they were given at birth. 2) Take the husband's last name. 3) Use three names, as in Hillary Rodham Clinton; or, as women did in the '70s, join the wife's birth name and the husband's birth name with a hyphen—a practice that in the third generation down the road would produce geometrically expanded multiple-hyphenated nightmares. 4) Use the unmarried name in most matters professional, and use the husband's name in at least some matters personal and domestic."

"It is wrong to think of old age as a downward slope. On the contrary, one climbs higher and higher with the advancing years, and that, too, with surprising strides. Brain Work comes as easily to the old as physical exertion to the child.

"One is moving, it is true, toward the end of life, but that end is now a goal, and not a reef in which the vessel may be dashed."

CHARLES BENJAMIN[7] WHITMAN [from page 298] (Benjamin H.[6], Peleg O.[5], Valentine[4], Valentine[3], John[2], George[1]), b. 20 Oct 1855 in Detroit, MI; d. 14 Aug 1930; m. Katharine Elizabeth Metz, d/o Henry & Mary Ann (Erdmann) Metz. Charles B.[7] Whitman began his business career in the early 1870's as a traveling salesman for D. M. Ferry & Co., Seed Growers. When only seventeen years old he traveled for that company through Texas, Florida, Tennessee, and Kentucky. In later years he always enjoyed recalling incidents of those days. There was the time he was seated in a Texas saloon next to a window, through which he dove head-first when a couple of local characters started to shoot the place up. The first time he began a trip through the Tennessee Mountains a kindly storekeeper advised him to change his blue serge suit for a pair of overalls to avoid being mistaken for a Revenue Agent searching for liquor stills. Later, while traveling with a team of horses through the same mountains (and wearing overalls) a mountain lion sprang at him from an overhanging tree limb as his team passed beneath. The animal missed, but Grandfather didn't stay around to try and acquire any trophies. [Related by James Olin[9] Whitman]. For nearly his whole life span, C. B. Whitman was a salesman. During that period, he sold everything from flower and vegetable seeds to stocks and bonds, screw machine products, and Daisy air rifles. In 1920 he was manager of the Detroit office of the Scovill Mfg. Co. The graves of Charles and Katherine are in Lot 172-Section S of Elmwood Cemetery, Detroit, MI.

Whitman was Vice-President and in charge of production. In 1922 decreased business necessitated dissolution of the enterprise.

He later became an appraiser and for a time in 1930's and 1940's, he was a manufacturer of cigars in Tampa. VICTORY IN DEFEAT

Defeat may serve as well as victory
To shake the soul and let the glory out,
When the great oak is straining in the wind
The boughs drink in new beauty, and the trunk
Sends down a deeper root on the windward side.
Only the soul that knows the mighty grief
Can know the mighty rapture. Sorrows come
To stretch out spaces in the heart for joy.

If you are ever going to love me,
Love me now, while I can know
The sweet and tender feelings,
Which from true affection flow.
Love me now
While I am living.
Do not wait until I'm gone
And then have it chiseled in marble,
Sweet words on ice-cold stone.

If you have tender thoughts of me,
Please tell me now.
If you wait until I'm sleeping,
Never to awaken,
There will be death between us,
And I won't hear you then.
So, if you love me, even a little bit,
Let me know it while I am living
So I can treasure it.

COMING INTO EIGHTY

Coming into eighty
I slow my ship down
For a safe landing.
It has been battered,
One sail torn, the rudder
Sometimes wobbly.
We are hardly a glorious sight.
It has been a long voyage
Through time, travail and triumph,
Eighty years
Of learning what to be
And how to become it.

One day the ship will decompose
And then what will become of me?
Only a breath
Gone into nothingness
Alone
Or a spirit of air and fire
Set free?
Who knows?

Greet us at landfall
The old ship and me.
But we can't stay anchored.
Soon we must set sail
On the last mysterious voyage
Everybody takes Toward death.
Without my ship there,
Wish me well.

VICTORY IN DEFEAT

Defeat may serve as well as victory
To shake the soul and let the glory out,
When the great oak is straining in the wind
The boughs drink in new beauty, and the trunk
Sends down a deeper root on the windward side.
Only the soul that knows the mighty grief
Can know the mighty rapture. Sorrows come
To stretch out spaces in the heart for joy.

Another goes and mingles with the dust,
And thus we come and go, and come and go,
Each for a little moment, filling up
Some little space--and thus we disappear
In quick sucession, and it shall be so Till time in one vast perpetuity
Be swallowed up."

As the country gets older and the connections increase, and the name becomes more familiar in all the professions and trades, it certainly is a matter of vital importance to each member of a large family such as ours to be able easily to trace the family back to the early history of the country when neighbors were few and far apart and the land was trackless wilderness. It is also a great satisfaction to know who his ancestors were and to what branch of the family he belongs, and how he stands related to every member of the family.

It is an undebatable fact that it took two people, your parents, to get you here. Each of your parents has two parents, so in the generation just prior to that of your mother and father, there were four people whose pairing off and sharing love contributed to your existence.

You are the product of eight great-grandparents, 32 great-great-grandparents, etc. Keep on multiplying the number by two. If you figure an average of about 25 years between each generation, you'll discover that a scant 500 years ago, there were 1,048,576 people on this planet beginning the production of you.

Obituary given at his funeral by his daughter, Priscilla: "John Lee[8] Wightman was the third child of older parents. He grew up in Ocean Grove on the Jersey shore. He was descended from a long line of Baptist ministers who had founded a church in Mystic, CT, but his father was a carpenter and cabinetmaker. He adored his brother, Francis ["Frank"] who was nine years old and spoke of how Frank took him to New York to see the U. S. fleet after World War I. He was determined and independent at an early age. As a teenager he decided to take a 40 mile bicycle trip. When his father who was ill refused to let him go, he carried his loaded bicycle up to the second floor to show him how well prepared he was for the trip. A variety of jobs and loans helped him complete an engineering degree at Rutgers. Then when he found he was 1/2" too short for the Royal Canadian Air Force, he went to graduate school at Columbia University where he met Sally. Between graduate studies, they courted on long walks along the Hudson. The Depression intervened and it was several years before they married. During the Depression, he joined the Merchant Marine and shipped out two times to Buenos Aires. In a note he described how severely the depression had affected him. "Got up at 8 this a.m. and didn't know where I would be tonight. Had 17 cents, a new low. Went to get a passport by the shipping office. Now at noon, on ship with one shirt and one pair of pants. At 4 p.m they will open the box and I'll get something more." This was three years after he had finished his master's degree. Such concerns were temporary though and he never stopped being optimistic about the future. Dad was always cheerful. He was a true

"morning person" and used to dance outrageously to the morning radio music. Somehow despite World War II and the recession that followed, all three of us were raised and educated...

ELIAS R.[5] WIGHTMAN, [from page 89-90] (Benjamin[4], Abraham[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George[1]), b. in New York in Herkimer County, NY in 1792. Elias was the only son of eleven children of Benjamin and Esther (Randall) Wightman. Elias' father was a Baptist minister, and it was in this religious environment that he grew to manhood. He taught school in New York as a young man and later married one of his students, Mary Sherwood. Elias was in Texas as early as July, 1825, working for Stephen F. Austin as a surveyor and as an appraiser. In August of 1826, Elias petitioned to Austin for permission to build a town at the mouth of the Colorado River on Matagorda Bay. Upon receiving approval, Wightman and another early settler, David G. Burnet, left Texas for the United States to gather colonists. In 1828 he returned to New York in search of settlers for the colony. He signed up 39 persons (most of them relatives—including his father, mother, sister Jerusha, and her husband Asa Yeamans, and Elias married Mary Sherwood to add to the list recruited) to make the journey to Texas and the proposed town of Matagorda. This passenger list was later found intact among Stephen Austin's papers in the State House, Austin, TX. This expedition met at Olean, NY in the fall of 1828, built two flat bottomed boats in Olean Creek at the junction of Allegheny River, and took off for Pittsburgh in October 1828. They took a steamer from there to Louisville, KY and another boat to the Gulf arriving at New Orleans a few days before Christmas. A day after Christmas, they chartered a schooner, The Little Zoe, landing at Matagorda on 27 Jan 1829. Benjamin Wightman and his wife were the first to be buried in Matagorda Cemetery. Steven Austin gave Elias Wightman a league of land [4,428 acres] near Matagorda, TX. Benjamin[4] Wightman has the distinction of being the only Revolutionary Soldier to be buried in Matagorda County, TX. Elias died in Covington, KY on 26 Oct 1841. He had gone to Kentucky to take possession of extensive property that he had purchased with the money that he had received from the sale of his land holdings in Matagorda Co., TX. No issue.

A LITTLE STEP AWAY

To close the eye, to fall asleep,
To draw a labored breath,
To find release from daily cares
In what we know as death...

Is this the crowning of a life,
The aim or end thereof?
The totaled sum of consciousness,
The ripened fruit of love?

It cannot be, for works of God
Are wrought for nobler ends,
And those away continue on
In the hearts of kin and friends.

It cannot be, for they live on
A little step away.
The soul, the everlasting life,
Has found a better day.

If you are ever going to love me,
Love me now, while I can know
The sweet and tender feelings,
Which from true affection flow.
Love me now
While I am living.
Do not wait until I'm gone
And then have it chiseled in marble,
Sweet words on ice-cold stone.

If you have tender thoughts of me,
Please tell me now.
If you wait until I'm sleeping,
Never to awaken,
There will be death between us,
And I won't hear you then.
So, if you love me, even a little bit,
Let me know it while I am living
So I can treasure it.

THE STRANGE BURDEN OF A NAME

"A name is sometimes a ridiculous fate. For example, a man afflicted with the name of Kill Sin Pimple lived in Sussex, in 1609. In the spring of that year, the record shows, Kill Sin served on a jury with his Puritan neighbors, including Fly Debate Roberts, More Fruit Flower, God Reward Smart, Be Faithful Joiner and Fight the Good Fight of Faith White. Poor men. At birth, their parents had turned them into religious bumper stickers."

— Lance Morrow in TIME, 8 Mar 1993.

GEORGE WILLIAM[9] WIGHTMAN, [from page 390] (George H[8]., George W.[7], Daniel[6], George[5], Col. George[4], George[3], Rev. Daniel[2], George[1]), b. 17 Dec 1890 in Jamaica Plain, MA; d. 25 May 1963; m. (1) on 24 Feb 1912, Hazel Virginia Hotchkiss, b. 20 Dec 1886 in Healdsburg, Sonoma Co., CA, d/o William J. & Emma L. (Grove) Hotchkiss; m. (2) Eleanor McPeake. Besides the comments made about George on page 390, the following anecdotes were made in his obituary: "he was a superb tennis player, at indoor court tennis he was for years the second best player in the United States, and when ping-pong came into vogue he mastered the game and became national champion....He had extraordinary musical talent, could perform on many instruments, and played the piano by ear. That means he could play any tune you wanted and in any key you happened to prefer....in addition to those talents, he was handsome and charming....When George entered a restaurant, he had a unique technique. He went directly into the kitchens, shook the chef's hand, called him by name, and asked him what he recommended that evening. Naturally he got the best in the house.

SILAS[5] WIGHTMAN, [from page 141] (Capt Zorababel[4], Daniel[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George[1]), b. 28 Apr 1768. Correction: In the original edition of Mary Whitman's book on page 141, Amy Butts was incorrectly identified as a descendant of Mayflower passenger William Bradford, through her "grandmother" Annie Bradford. Annie was actually married to Amy's brother Daniel Butts.

The gestation period of a mother's advice is anywhere from one week to 50 years. Losing one's mother before having thanked her for the many precious things she taught you is one of life's greatest tragedies.

TITUS[4] WHITMAN, [from page 72] (John[3], John[2], George[1]), b. Jan 1733 in North Kingstown, RI; m. Hannah Youman, d/o Edward and Thankful (Bidwell) Yeomans [Youman]. (see p.72 for more details on Titus[4]). The descendants apparently used the name, WIGHTMAN, to carry on the family name. Titus's father had the surname, Wightman.

Children:

i. Thankful[5] Wightman, b. 19 Sep 1752 in Exeter, RI.

ii. Edward[5] Wightman [from page 121, section 106]., b. 24 May 1754; d. 5 Oct 1836; m. _____, who died in 1800 in Pawlett, Rutland Co., VT, leaving three young boys.

Children:

1. David[6] Wightman, [from page 182, section 211] b. abt. 1792 in Pawlett, Rutland Co., Vermont; d. 1858 probably in Chicago; m. Elizabeth Delsroff [Degrouph is another spelling for Delsroff].

Children [see page 183]:

A. Anna Elizabeth[7] Wightman [There is no reconciliation given for the fact that on page 183 Mary Whitman gives the name of Huldah Ophelia[7] Wightman to David's "eldest" child. The names of all the rest of the seven children are substantially consistent.]

B. Olivia[7] Wightman.

C. David Edward[7] Wightman, b. 8 Dec 1833 in Saratoga, NY; d. 29 Mar 1914 in Iowa; m. Amanda Milliken, b. 21 Jan 1838, d. 14 Jun 1912, d/o Samuel Milliken and Rebecca Williams [b. in OH in 1803]. Samuel Milliken was s/o of James Milliken of Scotland. Rebecca Williams was d/o John Williams and Mary (Worthington) Williams of Ireland. [Probably not Edward[7] Wightman]. "We have five sources of information on this man, all pointing to him as the real ancestor of Nelda Rae[10] Wightman Kugler. (1) Mary Whitman simply has him listed as Edward[7], born in 1823 and marrying Amanda M., b. in 1828 in Illinois. This name is in keeping with Amanda Milliken, but the date is 10 years earlier than other sources. See footnote on page 183 regarding the source. (2) The Pottawattamie County, Iowa history has him born to David and Elizabeth Degroff on 8 Dec 1833 and marrying Amanda Millikin. Note the new ways of spelling Degroff and Millikin.(3) According to the Milliken Genealogy, the Millikens in Westmoreland County, PA have Amanda Milliken marrying David Edward Wightman on 1 Feb 1860 and living in Council Bluffs, Pottawattamie Co., IA. (4) The 1910 Census has David E. Whitman, age 76 and wife Amanda L. Whitman (no age given) living in Pottawattami C., IA. He told the census taker that he was born in New York. The age 76 given in the early part of the year is consistent with a birth date of 8 Dec 1833. (5) Nelda Rae[10] Wightman Kugler family documentation, which included information derived from some of the above sources, have David Edward Wightman, b. 8 Dec 1833 in Saratoga, NY; d. 29 Mar 1914 in Iowa; m. Amanda Milliken, b. 21 Jan 1838, d. 14 Jan 1912. All of the above, when taken together and allowing for descrepancies in dates, in my opinion, demonstrate that David Edward Wightman is the son of David[8] Wightman and Elizabeth Delsroff or Degrouph. — Robert Wyman[10] Rivett". — Nelda Rae[10] Wightman Kugler agrees with the above.

i. Lottie Lenora[9] Wightman, b. 24 Nov 1909 ; m. 14 Sep 1935 to Donald Duard North, b. 9 Dec 1912, s/o John Sherman and Ellen J. (Nesbitt) North. Lottie [age 83 at time of this writing in 1993] gave the following details concerning her family: "My husband and I grew up and married in times that were quite different than today. We have always lived on farms like our ancestors before us and the going was very difficult with much hard work and barely making any profit. We managed to raise a good bunch of kids that we can be proud of and have a good relationship with all of them. When our youngsters were old enough to start out on their own, my husband encouraged them to leave the farm and hunt employment in the city (Kansas City) where prospects were better for being gainfully employed. We only had 100 acres of farm land so had small chance of helping the boys to start farming or do any thing else. We sold our farm in 1983 and were fortunate to get a reasonable price at the time. But is was sad to be leaving our farm home where we had lived most of our married life. It was also Donald's birth place and the family home for 3 generations. My grandfather Wightman's farm was a Centennial Farm in 1976. Two of my cousins, who never married and never left home still live there. However, we are all getting up in years and most of us retired. It saddens me to think that some day in the future, that the places that we enjoyed so much as youngsters and older, will fall into hands other than Wightmans. You see, the 8 children in my father's family and the 8 cousins of my Uncle George Wightman's family all grew up on my grandfather's farms within a quarter of a mile of each other. Our fathers were brothers and our mother were sisters. We were all very close and neighbors and friends were often a state of confusion as to who belonged to which family, etc. We attended country school and at one time half the pupils attending school were Wightmans. So thinking of all the good and happy memories, one hates to think of ever seeing the places pass out of Wightman ownership. My brother, Robert, who has been corresponding with you, may have told you that he owns 120 aces of the Wightman land. The two cousins I mentioned earlier live on another 120 acres, and the remaining 120 acres was sold last November to settle up my other uncle's widow's estate. She had the use of the land for her life-time, and after her death, since she and Uncle Roy were childless, the land was to be inherited by my grandpa's 16 grandchildren [8 boys and 8 girls]. Aunt Cora had passed her 99th birthday when she died March 10, 1991. So 120 acres of the original farm have already passed on to other hands, not family." Address: Box 300, RR # 2, Braymer, MO 64624

The earliest generation that subdued the wild land and broke up the virgin soils inspire respect and compel admiration. Their resourcefulness matched their courage. Beginning in the utter poverty of log or sod houses, they could look out at the end of their days on broad stretches of fertility and say, "We made this, with our backs and hands."

ICE HARVESTER AND TEAM GIVEN COLD BATH*
VENERABLE FARMER AND WIFE DISSOLVE

Feb. 4 - A.M. Sabine's team, which was working the ice plow on the lake, took a cold bath Thursday as did also the party that did the spudding, who dropped into about 20 feet of water. Both team and driver were rescued without damage.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius P. Wightman, after living together for forty years or more, decided at this late day to divide their belongings and separate for all time. Mr. Wightman, we understand, has received $1,300.00 in cash as his share and his wife will have all that remains of both the real and personal property. The large gray team of horses were sold by Mrs. Wightman to T. A. Bench of Lebanon on Thursday. Mr. Bench feels proud of his purchase and believes he now owns the most showy team of their size in this section of the country.

WEST EATON MAN VICTIM OF LARCHMONT DISASTER
JULIUS P. WIGHTMAN LOSES HIS LIFE ON THE ILL FATED STEAMER

Thurs. Julius Wightman, a well known farmer of West Eaten, was among the 150 victims of the awful disaster on Long Island early Thursday morning when the big steamer Larchmont of the Joy line and plying between Providence and New York, collided with a sailing craft and went down with most of her passengers and crew.

Mr. Wightman who had been visiting a brother at Providence, was on his way back to New York. Yesterday his son received a telegram from his uncle at Providence stating that the former's father had taken passage Monday night on the ill fated steamer and that his name did not appear among the small number of survivors. It was assessed that he had been drowned.

Mr. Wightman leaves a son and a widow, who live on farms near Hatch's Lake.

BODY OF MR. WIGHTMAN RECOVERED WASHED ASHORE MONDAY NIGHT WAS A VICTIM OF THE LARCHMONT DISASTER

Feb. 21, 1907. The body of Julius P. Wightman, the Hatch's Lake farmer who, together with over one hundred of the passengers and crew of the steamer Larchmont went down with the vessel near Block Island on the night of Feb. 11th, was washed ashore on Monday night on No Man's Land, a small island off the Massachusetts coast and some distance southeast of the point where the steamer disappeared. The body along with that of another unfortunate, was recovered by a life saving crew, who conveyed it to the mainland where it was easily identified by Mr.Wightman's daughter, Miss Ellen M. who is a school teacher at Northport, L. I. and who since the time of the accident had been untiring in her efforts to recover her father's remains. The body had been in the water just a week but owing to the cool weather that had prevailed was in a state of preservation.

Mr. Wightman was almost 64 years of age and besides his widow is survived by one son, B. J. Wightman of Hatch's Lake, and one other daughter besides the referred to Mrs. Charles Westcott of West Eaten. He was born at New Haven and removed from Norwich to the farm near Hatch's Lake almost thirty years ago.

"The fragrance of fresh-turned loam is like no other smell in the world, the smell of spring. Few farmers will admit it, but one reason for spring plowing is to open up the fields and free that fragrance. It is better than any store-bought tonic for a man who lives with the land.

2. HARTFORD TIMES, 11 Dec 19??, "Genealogical Column": B-6941--G.E.G. Sept. 18, 1954 WIGHTMAN, Answered by Nassau, Nov. 8, 1954.

"Ref. Conn. Probate records. Will of Daniel Wightman who d. Norwich, Conn., June 6, 1753, names widow Katherine and children. Will of widow Katherine Rathbone also names same children; so the Katherine who mar. Daniel Wightman mar. again Oct. 1755, Jonathan Rathbone.

"Katherine was a dau. of Zorababel and Jane Westcott and was b. Apr 17, 1705, No. Kingston, R. I. By her first mar. to Daniel Wightman had dau. Katherine b. Norwich, Feb 9, 1737-8 (See Wightman Gen), mar. abt. 1760, Gershom Hinckley of Stonington, Conn.; removed to Albany Co. N. Y. from where Gershom served in Rev.; later removed to what is now Oneida Co., N. Y. where both d. and are bur. at Niles Hill Cem. near Oriskany, N. Y. For details of this family suggest seeing printed records "Beulah Ball Cass, a Desc. of Samuel Hinckley" by Earle M. Cass, at Conn. State Library.

"It is easy to understand why this error appears in Wightman Gen because of the name of Katherine in two generations and because of their data fitting into the pattern as they did. However, am convinced that it was Katherine (Westcott) Wightman, widow of Daniel who mar. 2d Jonathan Rathbone. Ans. forwarded. E.M.C."

Children:

1. Amanda[7] Wightman; b. unknown date; m. Nelson Young.

2. Amos[7] Wightman, b. 26 Oct 1834 in Amboy, Onondaga Co, NY; d. 11 Jun 1923; m. on 14 Dec 1864 to Helen Graham, b. in Kirkoswald, Scotland on 12 May 1838; d. 23 Nov 1922. Helen left Scotland as a seventeen year old young lady, soon after the death of her parents. She landed in Boston sometime in 1855 and was met by her brother, Dr. Douglas Graham. Amos and Helen had twelve children: two died while quite young, nine survived their parents.

[In Helen's obit. in the Crossville Chronicle (Tennessee) on 26 Nov 1922, their marriage was listed as Hoyleton, IL — should have read Lenox, MA — They moved to Hoyleton about 1864/5]. Soon after the Civil War (1868), they left Illinois and moved to the Cumberland Plateau in Cumberland County, TN because of the respiratory problems of Robert. It is hard to believe that they would take a sick child to a wilderness with not so much as a shelter to protect them, much less the fact that no doctors were available. Amos built their house after arriving. The original house was a log structure and the present structure which is quiet elaborate was built around it. Also in 1868, right after the Civil War, land was very cheap in the part of Tennessee where they settled, some of the approximately 4000 acres was purchased for twenty-five cents an acre. To their credit, both Amos and Helen were very hard and industrious workers. Amos, a master carpenter, not only built his house, shop and barn, but also made much of their furniture which was strong as well as attractive. Helen kept a very formal house. Meals were planned so that each member had a set portion with nothing left over. She also had an early sewing machine which she may have brought from Scotland. She made all family apparel. Each family member performed set duties, the girls house work and food preparation, the boys farm work and structural maintenance. Amos and Helen Wightman are remembered for their influence in getting the American Missionary Board of the Boston based Congregational Church to establish the Pleasant Hill Academy [1883-1946] which evolved into the present Pleasant Hill Elementary School, Pleasant Hill Community Church, Uplands Retirement Village, and the Cumberland Medical Center. "I strongly suspect but can not verify that my great grand parents, Amos and Helen, left the East to the Mid-West due to religious differences with his relatives. Apparently until Alford, Wightmans were devout Baptists. Helen and Amos were Congregationalists. The two denominations were dialectally opposed with practically no common doctrinal views. I believe Helen influenced Amos to become a Congregationalist which represented so much oppression in the Wightman past. It would be reasonable to assume that he separated himself from his family ties in New York and moved to Illinois where the Congregationalists had formed a Communal School. Then after the Civil War when a promise of cheap land in Tennessee came to their attention, they were lured to the Cumberland Plateau where they settled, built their home and raised their family. Past knowledge of the Congregational Church's Mission School, no doubt prompted Helen to go to Boston and petition the American Missionary Association to build a school at Pleasant Hill, Tennessee. The missionary, Benjamin Dodge, who was sent, proceeded to do the job independently and many projects were completed without the AMA Board's permission. I'm reasonably sure that the Wightmans aided this renegade progress with building materials produced at their saw mill located on the creek near their home.

After the academy was established, Helen and Amos boarded some students for additional income in their seven bedroom three story house. The small shop building also housed some of their children. It was a 3 room two story structure.

Amos and Helen and four of their children were charter members of the Pleasant Hill Community Church which is still active: originally a Congregationalist Church, now United Church of Christ. Amos was a deacon. He was Post Master at the Pleasant Hill Post Office for three years from 1878 to 1880. Amos was an avid farmer and proved most of their food from his farm. He was probably the one who introduced sweet potatoes to the Plateau. He also had an apple orchard. He had oxen to pull the plows.

"I do not know if Amos and Helen had very much wealth when they came to Tennessee. It would be reasonable to assume that they were rich enough to purchase a vast amount of property. Apparently they both were well educated and learned in progressive economics because both led very structured and disciplined lives and seemed to have prospered as community leaders of their time. Their children appeared to inherit these traits of survival. In the third generation down which was my father's, the economy of the area seemed to decline or there were too many people for the amount of jobs available. Reuben and Vernie Wightman struggled to eke out a living for us kids. Much of their living standards were of 19th century vintage. It was my generation which had to disperse to other places and regain economic security for ourselves. I do not lament my birth and upbringing because as difficult as it was, I feel that I experienced life in the 19th Century as well as the 20 Century. Now that I am nearing my senior years, I am looking forward to seeing what the 21st Century has to offer. Only time will tell what the future holds, so now in the present, I am enjoying this life to its fullest, taking advantage of every positive concept which comes to me, reaping the cultured past and harvesting the heritage for a legacy to my descendants in the future."

A MEDITATION

Now Lord, you've known me a long time. You know me better than I know myself. You know that each day I am growing older and someday may even be very old, so meanwhile please keep me from the habit of thinking I must say something on every subject and on every occasion.

Release me from trying to straighten out everyone's affairs. Make me thoughtful, but not moody, helpful but not overbearing. I've a certain amount of knowledge to share, still it would be very nice to have a few friends who, at the end, recognized and forgave the knowledge I lacked.

Keep my tongue free from the recital of endless details. Seal my lips on my aches and pains. They increase daily and the need to speak of them becomes almost a compulsion. I ask for grace enough to listen to the retelling of others' afflictions, and to be helped to endure them with patience.

I would like to have improved memory, but I'll settle for growing humility and an ability to capitulate when my memory clashes with the memory of others. Teach me the glorious lesson that on some occasions, I may be mistaken.

Keep me reasonably kind; I've never aspired to be a saint...saints must be rather difficult to live with...yet on the other hand, an embittered old person is a constant burden.

Please give me the ability to see good in unlikely places and talents in unexpected people. And give me the grace to tell them so, dear Lord.

THOMAS DOUGLAS[8] WIGHTMAN [from page 361] (Thomas[7], Thomas[6], William[5], Thomas[4], John[3], John[2], George[1]), born in Bedford, Prov. of Que., Canada on 5 Sep 1888. He married on 13 Feb 1911, Mona Louise Moore, d/o John and Alice Moore. He made his home in Manchester, NH. [A BRIEF HISTORY IN WORDS AND PICTURES OF THOMAS WIGHTMAN OF BEDFORD, QUEBEC, CANADA AND HIS DESCENDANTS HAS BEEN FURNISHED BY A DESCENDANT, STEVEN DARWIN[9] WIGHTMAN].

STEVE'S NARRATIVE: "Perhaps the most intriguing characteristic shared by many of our ancestors is their ability to survive against all odds. Droughts, floods, dead livestock and dead babies would be devastating. These men and women may have been robbed of their material possessions, but not their spirit. Sometimes with nothing but dirt in their hands for a promise, they would rebuild their homes, their lives and their dreams - not with government handouts, but with strong backs and iron wills. Most of what I am about to tell you is from the oral history of my family - as is the tradition with native Americans - and is old as the wind whistling through the once great northern forests of our homeland.

"In 1952, my grandfather, Thomas Wightman (born 5 Sep 1888) was sitting at our kitchen table for the Thanksgiving feast. The place was called "Wabasso" or "The Island" (due to its natural history). My first memory of him was that he slapped my older brother Bill for stubbornly trying to start eating the dinner all by himself. He was a man a little shorter than his oldest offspring's 5 foot eight inch stature and in whose kitchen he shared. What he lacked in stature he made up for in girth and humor. He loved a good laugh - especially one that lingered like the smoke from his corncob pipe. His love for dance belied his build. He enjoyed his beer almost as much as the ladies that had laced his destiny. He partook of this feast with the same passion that he had for the land he touched. He seemed to look at the world as if it were a gigantic farm awaiting harvest. Some of the food on the table was undoubtably from his hand. He raised rabbits (hundreds) and chickens on our land. He was a hedonist at heart and made no apologies for it. Now I know that had there then been a book called Carpe Diem, he could have easily written it.

"Atypical of any Wightman I had ever known, grandpa was the apple of my father's eye. They were seemingly opposite in every way. My father, with a will as sinewy as the muscles that cast his body as if sculpted in bronze, knew what tasks lay before him days and weeks in advance. It was a riddle. My father who made few relationships in his life and was orphaned and abandoned, like his brother and two sisters, when his parents divorced, could have stated 100 reasons for not looking up to his father, but did just the opposite. Grandpa's vision never seemed longer than the horizon that day. He loved to talk, to teach and be the center of attention. He taught my older brothers how to catch and clean horned fish. At night he'd slip his trusty red row boat, nicknamed "the tank" because of its weight, out into the cove of the Charles River that surrounded our little farm home. It wasn't long before he'd return with enough fish to feed our family of nine - with extra for his daughter Madeliene's family (but not his x-wife Mona Moore who lived with aunt Madeleine) across the road from us and his son Donald's family just down the road. For this was Wightman's Island. It was a 10 acre country within a country with a time and reality all its own - far from the tremors of a world that would too soon engulf it. On weekends, Grandpa and my father built a row of sheds in back of the house that is now marked only by the skeleton of my father's 1932 Plymouth. It was here on this island that the memory of grandpa faded like early winter nights that shadowed his labors.

"In the Spring of 1953, we received news from Manchester, NH where grandpa lived with his girl friend in the house that he had built there. He was dead:— A heart attack, we were told. In the summer of 1953 or 1954, my parents and all seven of their children somehow fit into the old Hudson woody for an arduous trip to Bedford, Quebec, to my grandfather's birthplace. We were followed by the families of my fathers two sisters; Madeleine and Dorothy and his brother Donald and Donald's two sons Danny and Donny. We stayed with my father's Aunt Minnie (Amelia[8]) and Uncle George Edwin Martin on the E.G. Martin Honey Farm. The reason? Grandpa Tom had left shares in equal portions of Bank of Canada stocks to his four children. The account and estate had to be settled in Bedford.

"In the evening we gathered for a dinner. It seemed like an army of children and adults. There were a lot of Martins. None of them seemed to want to play with me - a wiry and stunted 7 year old, so I just played with two older cousins Donna and Doreen Alaimo and my younger brother Joey. There were barn swallows stirred by our presence in the fading light. Some of us slept at economy rates - we were put in animal stalls for the night - each alone!

"It was in the Spring of 1952 that my fathers' mother's father, Grandpa Moore came to visit us. Like my father, he was tall (to me, at least) with an amazingly steeled physique. He also helped my father and 'do chores' around the house and small farm. My father said he was old and didn't have a place to live any more. He was a man of another time. He would chop wood for our kitchen stove with axe and saw, haul it in and stack it. He talked about things long ago that I could not understand.

MONA MOORE ON THEIR WEDDING DAY, 13 FEB 1911

THOMAS[7] WIGHTMAN [SEE PAGE 280]
AMELIA[8] (WIGHTMAN) MARTIN
[AMELIA'S SON]

Thomas[7] Wightman was known as "Whit", also "Old White Eyes" for his white eyes, also "Pump Tom". He died from complications from an accident while walking. A Hit and Run Driver struck him in St. Johnsbury, VT. He was discovered and pulled from a snow bank after being there for three days. He died a few days later.

Grampa Moore said that he remembered the civil war. He was just a boy - too young to fight. He was the son of Mona Dark Feather, a native American from upstate New York. When asked how old he was, he said he wasn't sure. "Very old" he'd reply. We became fond of Grandpa Moore. He seemed to be full of tales that young boys, esp. brothers Tom (Butch) and Doug Jr. (Babe) and cousin Danny, love to listen to - even if we couldn't relate to those historic times of horses, Indians and soldiers.

"During early summer of 1954, we all piled into my father's Hudson and headed for Jefferson, NH. Here we camped while grandpa Moore came to visit again. My sister, Ellie, had gotten a terrible case of poison ivy within a day or so of camping. Grandpa boiled leaves from a wintergreen tree and coated her arm with them. At night as the campfire blazed he talked of his life. It was time I think, for him to tell his story.

He told us how he had wandered the country and worked as a teamster hauling beer for saloons. He said he'd sometimes drink part of the delivery. One drink would start in the morning and end at night. Somehow, he still seemed to make his deliveries. Maybe the horses were more disciplined than he. For most of his life, he took whatever work was available.

"Later in his years he seemed to be a hard worker and had turned his back on the devil's brew. The stars were bright in the sky, the wind wafted gently over my face. As the light of the logs burning fired my imagination, great grandpa Moore's voice etched into my memory like a shooting star across the night sky. He seemed timeless. He told us how his friends and relatives were all dead - all but us on the Island. Life had lost its meaning. It was time to let the fire burn out.

"Later that same summer, we were visited by three ladies I shall never forget: Carol, Dianna, and Edna—all hurricanes and all devastating. Carol arrived on August 30th packing 135 MPH winds and leaving $461 million worth damages in her wake. "More damage than any other single storm to date" (1989 Information Please Almanac). After Carol, the only road leading to our home was reclaimed by the river. Then came Dianna followed by Edna on Sept. 13. There was so much flooding that we were forced to "go to school by boat. I remember standing in winds of over 100 MPH watching things fly through the air as if mother nature was having some great temper tantrum and I remember the deadly silence of the eye of the storm that day. I became a believer in the awesome force of nature.

"It was in the dead of winter (February 1958/9) when word came from the old age home. Grandpa Moore had starved himself to death. He was to have a service in Jefferson, NH. My parents couldn't come. My oldest brother, Butch, pleaded and was granted permission to go. With him went his only sister and 4 of his 5 brothers. Joey was too young. As we approached Jefferson a fresh covering of snow marked the winding road ahead.

We were packed in Butch's 1955 Chevy while cousin Danny followed with Ellie in his 1955 Chevy convertible. Suddenly, we went into a curve and Butch lost control. The car slid sideways and rammed into a snow bank. The soft snow and hard steel bumpers and Tom's cool hand on the steering wheel had shielded us from harm. No one was hurt - just scared! Danny pulled us out with a chain and soon after, we arrived in town. It was early morning. We had driven all night. Grandpa Moore's funeral didn't last long. Typical of Catholic ceremonies, the ones that knew least about him did most of the talking. Although his eyes would see no more, his ears not know the stories of our American heritage, his voice still strong, lived then as now, in my heart.

"Born when our democracy was less than 75 years old, his ears had heard stories of George Washington's troops hunting down his Iroquois ancestors like deer and burning their corn fields everywhere the soldiers went so that those who survived bullets or sword faced winter starvation. For more than ten generations the Peace Tree of Iroquois nation had grown verdant and straight. Principles of their democracy had been used by Thomas Jefferson when writing the Declaration of Independence. But, helping those who had long helped them - the British - brought the flames of revolutionary war to the Peace Tree. When it was gone, so too were the dreams of a great peace loving people, the Iroquois nation.

"By the time his hair had turned the color of early winter, about 60 million native North Americans shared the same fate of the bison that once roamed the great plains. Virtually every American river had replaced great numbers of salmon or trout with some combination of human, agricultural and industrial wastes. Wolves, eagles, bears and antelope, in the path of ranchers' greed, were trapped, poisoned, and shot until they were completely replaced with cattle and sheep. These animals overgrazed green meadows and drop cowpies in once pristine watering holes - all at taxpayers expense through federal subsidies to ranchers. By the time he had died, he had lived through a civil war, the Spanish American war, two world wars and the Korean war.

"Yes, this once strong man who had seen so much and who had heard the whispers of the winds across virgin forests and grasslands now lies still. So too, were the secrets of native medical cures he had probably learned from his mother. (She may have been a medicine woman). Like the quiet before the storm. For those who answered the drum roll call of the philosophy of manifest destiny, were - like our ancestors before them - about to pay a terrible price for it in the streets of the South and on the soils of Vietnam. As the church bells stilled, somehow we knew an era had passed and a new one was about to begin. We returned to our Island and in juxta position and opposite to Brandeis University that lay in view across the still quiet waters.

(2) at the First Parish Unitarian Universalist in Lexington, MA on 29 Dec 1990 to Margaret Robbins Wacks, b. 10 Feb 1943 in New York, NY, d/o Marc & Ruth (Jackson Oginz) Robbins. She is a physician. Steve has his own business, Ecodex, which tests "sick" buildings for indoor pollutants like radon and asbestos. Steve is a veteran of 20 years in the military from 1966 to 1969 and in the Army National Guard for three years while at Rivier College in Nashua, NH. He has served in the Army Reserve the past 14 years. He "never set foot in Vietnam" during his stint as an airplane mechanic and crew chief in the regular Army, but did helicopter casualties from the war. He served in Central and South America recovering and fixing crashed airplanes, flying more than 1,000 hours in the process. He is now a Reserve Sgt. First Class.

Steve's own story continues: "With the dawning of the 60's I sought any escape however momentary, from the Island. My father was busy digging an expanded cellar and working as a union carpenter for construction companies. My mother toiled at two jobs: A homemaker and a full time quality control technician at Polaroid Corp. During my childhood Aunt Dot and Uncle Phil (Aliamo) would visit. He was the barber who cut our hair. I think he loved us all and became especially fond of Babe (Douglas[9]).

SATURDAY — APRIL 25, 1987 — AT THE FUNERAL OF
DOUGLAS THOMAS[10] WIGHTMAN
AT PINE GROVE CEMETERY, GRAFTON, NH

L-R: Douglas[11] Wightman [son of William[11]], James[11] O'mara, Robert O'Mara, Eleanor Louise[11] (Wightman) O'Mara, Douglas[11] Wightman [son of Thomas[10]], Kimberly Wightman [wife of Douglas], Michelle O'Mara, Timothy O'Mara, Joseph[10] Roger, Madeline[9] Roger, Wilbur Hornbeck (friend of Douglas[10]), Margaret Wacks, MD, Raymond Tassone [son of Helen], Steven Darwin[10] Wightman, Helen Tassone [sister of Irene (Barry) Wightman], (last two are friends of O'Maras).

In 1958 Babe quit school and went to live on his own. He spent one winter in Alexandria, NH with his friend Billy Cain. During these years, Uncle Phil (who had no son) came to look upon Babe more as a son than a nephew - and I believe the reverse was true. When Babe returned to work and lived in Newton, he would meet regularly with Uncle Phil at the Cottage Donut Shop in Newtonville around the corner from Phil's Barbershop.

Around the same time, Babe began taking me with him in his travels. He became a "big brother" in the truest sense. He taught me how to fix cars and we talked about things that I never talked about with anyone else. We became secret sharers and friends. Although he lost his eye to my cousins accidental arrow when Babe was 13, he was strikingly handsome, gentle and patient. He seemed to care for me. I'd look forward to his visits, especially those times when he took me away in his 1952 Chevy. We'd talk about airplanes, cars and friends. When he treated me to my first cup of coffee, I felt like I was king of the world. These were my first memories of affection and joy. Over the next few years, the bond between us grew like the bond he had with Uncle Phil. On weekends, I waited for him to come. One such day he came with his fishing pole to launch his kayak into the Charles. It was Friday evening, May 17, 1963. Babe's friend and brother-in-law, Charlie O'Mara and my brother Bill and his girlfriend joined him for a boat ride up river to Norumbega Park. I followed Babe to the shore and waved goodbye. It was the last I would ever see of him. It was early the next morning when they found his body. The boats had capsized. Babe mistakenly swam up river instead of to shore in the nearly total darkness and drowned. He was 21 years old.

And the darkness of that night lasted long after the police left the kitchen with words too heavy to hear. He had taught me friendship and had paved the way to independence. He was a gift to all whom he touched. He had brought joy to my childhood and had taught me a lesson or two about life. He loved the outdoors and had an unmatched curiosity about the world around him. Somehow I think he was smarter than most and certainly wiser than his years. For he knew how to love and how to be a friend. I still feel his absence to this day. I thank him for the lifelong gifts of love and friendship that he instilled in my heart. Where he walks, no man shall walk alone [My epitaph to my brother, Babe]. I will always love and miss him.

A year prior to Babe's death, I would often visit Uncle Phil. I had started tenth grade in 1962 and I'd stop and see him at his barbershop near Newton High school, after school. He'd address me by my nick name "Bub", ask me how I was, and then kid around with me until we were both laughing. He was a joy to be with. He always had good things to say about people and made me feel good to be around him. During my Junior year Uncle Phil seemed to show more and more concern for me. As I'd pass his barber shop on my way home, he'd often invite me for a cup of coffee at the Cottage Donut shop around the corner or the Deli nearby. Slowly, he had become my surrogate father.

I don't remember much about that year, 1964, except sometime during the year, I had purchased an old 1952 Chevy coupe. I had somehow passed into the senior class after flunking almost every course I took for lack of interest. I was suffering from depression - although I doubt if I even knew how to spell the word then. The car was my escape vehicle from a crowded and uncaring home to a world full of things yet to be discovered.

My first day as a senior in the Fall of 1964 was one of a series of catalysts that would change my life. I walked into a history classroom with expectations that it would be a short step away from boring at best. Here in this room was a teacher whose accent revealed she was British. She was an exchange teacher in her first year and on loan for just one year. Her name: Patricia Melia. She gave me something no one can buy - something absent from my existence: Self respect. She taught each and every student in her class that they were SOMEBODY and could make a contribution every day to a better life. She somehow recognized my intelligence - one long cloaked in naivete and a cocky, wise attitude. She drew me out, challenged me to participate and get excited about learning. By graduation day in 1965, I had much more than a grade of A, I had begun to find a real person in me.

In Feb, 1966 I joined the army. I served as an airplane repairman and flight crewchief with assignments in the US and Latin America. I nearly lost my life several times - including being attacked by a 20 foot tiger shark. I was luckier than my fellow soldiers. I returned home an alien in an alien land in 1969 intact physically only. My last assignment was to Medavac less lucky VietNam combat injured from Travis AFB to the army hospital at Presidio. What a price we paid! What coldness we found when we returned home.

From dead friends to dead receptions, I began a foreign course called English 101 as a freshman at Newton Junior College. After attending part and full time and working at Brandeis University, I graduated in 1973 with an associates degree. After several more years of working my way through college (and after foolishly turning down a full scholarship at Brandeis), I graduated from Rivier in Nashua, NH in 1979 with a degree in Medical Technology and secondary education in science. With no connections, the best job I could get was working on an emergency ambulance as an emergency medical technician for one year and another teaching science for grades 9-12. A year later, I landed a job as a lab technician and progressed to a medical technologist with the US Government in 1981.

In August, 1975 I married a beautiful person, Pamela Tafe of Nashua, NH. We divorced in 1981. On January 17, 1986 I met the lady I had waited a lifetime for, Margaret (Robbins) Wacks, who was going through a divorce. It happened in my church, the First Unitarian Universalist Society of Newton (MA). We went from dating locally to going on ski trips and adventures (like going to see Haleys' Comet in Texas while I was on assignment for the army reserve - which I have been in for 22 years as of 1993).

We had a wonderful time then and we still do today. Margaret, incidently, is a pathologist. Her work environment and mine were the same - a medical laboratory, so we had lots to talk about. On Dec, 29, 1990 we were happily wed at the First Unitarian Society of Lexington, MA, our home town. Our interests were similar in and out of work. Midyear, I took my board exams and became a registered and certified medical (laboratory) technologist with the American Society of Clinical Pathologists. Later in 1986, I founded a radon testing business which is now Ecodex, Inc.

Today, I manage this fast paced high tech small business, go to graduate school in financial planning (graduation in June, 1994) and I am a student pilot who just passed the FAA written exam. 1994 will most probably mark my last year in a long army career. I hope to retire in August, 1994 as a master sergeant.

Future plans: We will continue to pursue outdoor adventures by airplane, sea kayak, hiking, skiing and canoeing. Our next trip is Belize and possibly Guatemala - a possible army medical assignment. I would like to back away from the business and start a practice as a certified financial planner to help people solve their financial problems. With the army and graduate school behind me, I hope to have more free time to pursue my long tabled interests - including genealogy. Ecodex will live on and I will still most probably remain involved in its enormous growth in some fashion - but not the 60-80 hour weeks of the past.

I believe in something I learned in my high school history class: One small difference in the world can make a world of difference. I hope to realize every dream that I ever dreamed and who has paid the price for each of them. I also believe that it is not money that makes a man, but how a man makes his money. The richest man in the world is not a billionaire, but the man who can give and receive love and gain the respect of his peers. For without love, life would be a desert and without respect, joy and happiness would only be words uttered in darkness and fear.
"Be open to love and you'll be the richest person in the world." So said my Uncle Phil Aliamo - who died at the age of 88 in 1986. He taught this child well." They live at 1 Aaron Road, Lexington, MA 02173. This was the second marriage for both. No children.

SEVEN FOR HAPPINESS:

1. Appreciate your blessings and forget what you do not have.
2. Realize life contains many things more important than money.
3. Live in and enjoy the present, not the past or the future.
4. Accept what you cannot change.
5. Find a challenging goal and work toward it.
6. Consider others, helping them if need be.
7. Think optimistically.

JOSEPH[5] WIGHTMAN [from page 140] (Da. Valentine[4], Daniel[3], Rev. Valentine[2], George[1]), born 13 Oct 1773 in Bozrah, New London Co., CT; died 21 Sep 1843. He married on 24 Mar 1799, Amy Sholes, born 14 Aug 1776, probably in Norwich, New London Co., CT; died 22 Dec 1861, d/o Joseph Sholes, b. abt. 1737 in Groton, New London Co., CT & Amy Radgery, b. abt. 1737 in Groton, CT. The family moved "out to the Ohio" between 1820 and 1830. Many members joined the LDS Church and eventually moved West, when the Mormons were forced into flight to the Rocky Mountains in 1844. Joseph died before the exodus, and the family removed to the Rocky Mountains in 1862 after the death of Amy. [More details of Joseph's life are on page 140] "The Census of 1820 for German Flatts, Herkimer Co., N.Y. shows him there as head of a household comprising eight children... He is not listed in Herkimer County in 1830."

The youngest child, Jane Elizabeth was born there in 1818, so it appears that his family moved "out to the Ohio" between 1820 & 1830. There the family became associated with the Restoration movement when the Mormons became established in Kirtland. Many member of the family joined the Church, and eventually moved West when the Mormons were forced into flight to the Rocky Mountains in 1844.

e. Ralph Dean[9] Wightman, b. 18 Jun 1907 in Payson, Utah Co., Utah; d. 24 Jan 1968 in Fresno, Fresno Co., CA; m. Mary Antoinette Sorensen, b. 1909. Ralph worked in his father's grocery store until the depression became so bad that he had to go to work in the coal mine in Tintic as a mucker. He returned to work as soon as possible as a meatcutter, his lifetime occupation. He eventually received a life-time membership in the union, the Associated Meatcutters and Butcher Workmen of America. He had a bass singing voice and was always in demand for weddings, funerals, etc. His best known and favorite songs were "The Holy City" and "Danny Boy". Employment during the depression was hard to find and this, combined with an alcoholism problem, required the family to move from Payson, Cedar City, back to Payson, Provo, Salt Lake City ; then in 1944 to Fresno, CA where he spent the rest of his life. Ralph was known as being honest and an exceptionally good meatcutter. His one attempt in his own business (a Partnership) was unsuccessful.

Mary Antoinette Sorensen was raised in Salt Lake City, where she married, then moved to Payson, her husband's home. She raised her children under the trying circumstances of the great depression. At age 35, the family was forced to leave Utah due to her Asthma, which plagued her most of her life. After losing her husband at the early age of 58, she sold her home and worked. About age 65, she moved to Salt Lake City, to be near her son, Ronald, and his family. She left a priceless legacy in the life stories of her parents and siblings, but never wrote of herself.

G. Maesar Elementary School. Moved to Salt Lake City for two years, where he worked at age 12 at Liberty Park, being principle operator of the "little planes" ride for small children; also mixed some of the first soft ice cream sold.— In 1944 the family moved to Fresno, CA because of his mother's asthma. Active in young peoples' activities in LDS Church. Worked as a photo processing plant operator, developing 35mm films before school.— March 1947 had a severe automobile accident, resulting in back and head injuries. Was immobile for six weeks, being awarded Eagle Scout Badge in special ceremony at bedside at home. Recovered to walk to receive high school diploma.— Attended Fresno State College for one year, then Brigham Young University for a year before receiving mission call from the presidency of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints to the East German Mission. — Performed missionary proselyting activities for six months in Kiel, nine months in Braunschweig, then transferred to Berlin. In first location of Berlin-Dahlem met future wife, Ilse, then a recent convert to the Gospel. After six months, transferred to outlying Spandau district. Following Spring sent up to small town of Husum, close to Denmark.— With two other returning missionaries, he toured central and southern Europe for 30 days, visiting Rome, Pompeii, Naples, Salerno and the beautiful Isle of Capri, then over the Gotthard Pass into Switzerland, up to Amsterdam and across the English Channel for several days in London before returning to the USA on the American Lines' flagship, "The United States."— Ronald returned to school at Brigham Young University, then transferred to University of Utah to be near Ilse, who had immigrated to the U.S. while Ron was still in Germany. They were married the following year and settled in Salt Lake City.— Ron was working for New York Life while at BYU and Univ. of UT and for a year after. He then worked as a bank (vault) teller for Continental Bank and as a fire insurance underwriter for the Utah Fire Rating Bureau.— While with New York Life, he started handling casualty, along with life insurance, with considerable success among German immigrants. In 1962 he set up his own insurance agency and tax preparation service.— Every few years he would return with Ilse to Berlin, usually doing some travelling and occasionally picking up a new car. On some of the trips, they took one or two of the children to allow them to become acquainted with their mother's homeland and to see Europe. These trips included Italy, Switzerland, Austria, East Germany, Czechoslovakia with a favorite of Garmisch-Partenkirchen. They always stayed at Bed & Breakfast (Zimmer Frei) to better meet the local people. Many long lasting relationships were made this way. Ronald is the founder of the Wightman Family Association and may be contacted at 1390 South 1100 East, P. O. He is buried in the old St. Philip's Church Yard, West, near his brother, Nicholas John*. He married Elizabeth Beth Jones, probably in Charleston, about 1775. She was the daughter of William and Sarah Jones, both of England. She was born in England in 1755 and died in Charleston, SC on 9 Aug 1845, aged 90 years. He was in the jewelry business in Charleston, SC. John Pinckney[4] Wightman [the original compiler of this Wightman family] often heard his father say, "the Major was a distinguished and imposing figure as he would get into or leave his handsome coach, with the Stork, the Crest of the Wightman Coat of Arms, emblazoned on the coach-door panel." 2 sons, 1 daughter: William[2], John Thomas[2] and Sally[2].

She was one the founders of Methodism in Charleston, SC. She was instrumental in founding old Trinity M. E. Church in Charleston where she conducted sunrise prayer meetings for many years. 5 sons, 4 daughters: William May[3], John Williams[3], Thomas[3], James Wesley[3], Sarah Elizabeth[3], Matilda[3], Mary Henrietta Susanna[3], Matilda Martha[3], Louisa Amelia Lawrence[3].

My Day

By Eleanor Roosevelt

CHICAGO, Thursday—I promised you a copy of the inscription on the tombstone in St. Phillip's Cemetery. Edmund P. Grice, of Charleston, S. C. has been good enough to send it to me. It reads as follows:—

To the memory of Nicholas John Wightman,
Who was killed by a footpad
On the night of 12 March 1788,
Aged 25 years.
Peacefully returning home to his brother's house,
Where he resided.
The slayer met and made an attempt to rob him,
Which he resisted and was instantly shot dead on the spot.
His brother, with a small assistance,
The same night secured the murderer
And six accomplices, being the whole of the gang
That then very much infested the peace of the city
And by their frequent robberies
And attempts to set fire to houses
Kept the inhabitants in constant alarm.
They were shortly after tried
And after fullest conviction condemned and executed.
Divine Providence ordered that a single button
Belonging to the coat of the murderer,
Found the next morning on the spot where the murder was committed.
By a child, the son of M. Edgar Wills, March
Served with other proof to discover and convict him.
This marble is erected by an affectionate brother and sister
In memory of the virtues of their dead brother
Who thus departed.
His soul rests at the mercy of the Creator.

I left last night by air from Baltimore to fly to San Francisco. We could not go beyond Chicago at 4:30 A.M., but now at 10:30 we are proceeding on our way.

The former dates come from his tombstone.

Family records state he served as a volunteer along the Battery in defending the city in the War of 1812. It is a matter of record that he was a 3rd Sergeant of the Washington Light Infantry of Charleston, SF under Capt. Cross in 1817 and 1st Sergeant in same organization under Capt. Miller in 1823. He lived all his life in Charleston. So perfect was his health and physique that, though six feet tall and over 90 years of age, he was straight and erect, walking with a military air even up to a few days of his death from pneumonia. Eliza (Stoll) Wightman and her mother Elizabeth Douglas Stoll, under the leadership of Matilda Sandys (Williams) Wightman, wife of William[2] Wightman, brother of John Thomas[2] who established Methodism in Charleston, SC. Two incidents are passed down by family historians concerning Elizabeth Douglas Stoll which are of much interest. "During a bombardment of Charleston by the British warships in the War of 1812, several live shells fell in one of the lower streets and lay sputtering and about to burst, causing great damage and possible loss of life. Elizabeth chancing to come by and realizing the danger, quickly rolled the sputtering shells down into a nearby wet cellar, extinguishing the burning fuses and averting the threatened danger." Another story told: " Troops were stationed along the Battery defending the city against the British attacks. Elizabeth Douglas Stoll was accustomed to walk along the Battery giving the defending soldiers words of cheer and encouragement. One day she noticed a soldier in trouble, his belt had broken, letting down his cartouche-box, without which he was helpless. Without a moments hesitation, she turned aside, took off one of her garters, a piece of ribbon, and with it tied up the broken belt and cartouche-box."

iii. Rev. John Thomas[3] Wightman, D.D., b. on 9 Sep 1825; m. Amelia Wilson Spain of Sumter, SC at Sumter on 11 Feb 1857; d. in Baltimore on 3 Mar 1915. She was d/o Rev. Hartwell & Elizabeth Ann (Chambers) Spain. She was b. in Cokesbury Abbeville Dist., SC on 20 Aug 1836 and d. in Baltimore, MD on 3 Mar 1910.

After primary school in Charleston, he attended Cokesbury school for three years, and then took his A.B. at Charleston College in 1846. Through the influence of his mother, his grandmother, and his aunt Matilda, he became a Methodist. In 1847 he joined the S. C. Conference of the M. E. Church, South, at the age of 22. He was made a D.D. by the University of S.C. in 1870. In 1884 on account of the ill health of his wife and daughter, he was advised to remove to Baltimore, MD where he was living at the time of his death. Though an ardent sympathizer with the South and the Confederacy, he freely gave his services in ministering to the sick and wounded in the hospitals and elsewhere, of both friend and foe during the troublous years of the Civil War. He preached the first sermon in old Fort Sumter to the Confederate garrison after the surrender of the Fort by Col. Anderson, the Union Commander. He was holding a service in old Trinity Church during a bombardment of the city by Union warships, and in the midst of his sermon when, with a great roar and mighty hiss, a shell buried itself in the yard just back of the place where he was standing. Fortunately it did not explode. Both he and the congregation were greatly startled, but he continued and finished the service. The church was later pierced a number of times, and his home, the parsonage, twice. Lying in bed at night he would watch the fiery trail of the shells as they left the warships and approached his window. seemingly to come right in - then he would turn his back to the window.

He had at this trying time, between 3000 to 5000 negroes under his charge, besides his own regular white congregation. Realizing the imminent danger of a revolt among the negroes, he called together 100 of the most influential and reliable among them. He made an impassioned appeal to this committee of 100, winding up by telling them that the danger of death and destruction by the thousands of shells being thrown into the city was very great, but he proposed to stay and do his duty, even at the cost of his life. So great was the effect of this earnest appeal, that the 100 rose, en masse, and pledged themselves and their lives in upholding law and order. Competent authorities have stated, that this, more than any one thing preserved the city from far worse than shot and shell.

During the fearful yellow-fever epidemic of 1870-1871 when both doctors and ministers were very scarce, and nurses almost impossible to get, Rev. John Thomas[3] would not come home for several days at a time. He would be nursing or attending those in dire need. What private means he had, not invested in Confederate bonds, was invested in cotton stored in a private warehouse near Camden, SC. When Gen. Sherman came through Camden, he ruthlessly burned much private property, including this cotton. He served for more than twenty consecutive years in Charleston, SC; was in Columbia, Spartanburg, and Marion, SC and then for many years served in the Baltimore Conference, in Washington, Lexington, VA and Baltimore, MD. He was a great preacher and was frequently called "the silver tongued orator." He gave over 70 consecutive years to the service of the Almighty.5 sons, 1 daughter: Clarence Albert Spain[4], Arthur Clarence[4], John Pinckney[4], Albert Spain[4], Francis Pelzer[4], Anne Eliza[4].

   As a boy he attended primary and high school in Charleston, SC, later going to Charleston College for a year, and then to Wofford College, Spartanburg, SC where he took his A.B. degree in 1879 and his A.M. in 1884. He taught at the Maryland Agricultural College for a year. In 1891 he taught Biology and Physics at Randolph Macon College at Ashland, VA where he became an outstanding teacher for the balance of his teaching career. He had the family artistic talent to a marked degree and used it in a remarkable way. He not only was a draftsman, and clever with pen and ink; but had these unusual faculties; standing in front of blackboard, with a piece of chalk in each hand, he could draw on the board with both hands at the same time, either parts of the same object he was describing or entirely different objects; all the while he was lecturing on an intricate technical subject. Looking through his microscope with his left eye, he could draw the object he saw, using his right eye and a pencil in his right hand to do the drawing.

As a little fellow in Charleston, John[4], remembers playing around and climbing over the discarded hull of one of two of the first submarines ever constructed that were successfully used in offensive warfare. It was a cigar shaped affair made of boiler iron, some 40 to 50 feet long by 5 to 8 feet in diameter. This one was not a success in its operations; so was hauled out on the banks of the Cooper River, where it remained for many years. However, the sister ship was a success. It went out underwater and actually rammed, exploded a torpedo, and sank the Housatonic, one of the Union warships operating against Charleston. Unfortunately, parts of the submarine became entangled with the sinking warship, both going to the bottom. The enclosed crew, unable to get out, was lost with the submarine. He also remembers playing around the boilers and machinery of Union warships, which, damaged by Confederate gun-fire, were run ashore on Sullivan's Island beach. There they remained for many years, but finally corroded and sank out of sight in the sands of the beach.

After attending Wofford College, Spartanburg, SC, he took a course at Eastman Business College at Poughkeepsie, NY. He was offered a job in a banking house in Balto, MD. He accepted and remained in Balto for 23 years. He eventually adopted Architecture as a profession, making decorative design rather than the constructive side his specialty. John Pinckney[5] and family moved from Baltimore to Ashland, VA where he designed and built a home. The latter days of his life he retired to Richmond, VA to spend his old age. 1 son, 2 daughters: Eugene Pinckney[5], Marguerite Gertrude[5] and Mary Katherine[5].

We cannot choose our ancestors, but on the other hand we can leave impressions on our descendants, and right here lies the kernel of our existence, the very key-note of that never-ending Divine plan of which each one of us forms an important yet almost unconscious part.

THE STRANGE BURDEN OF A NAME

"The name problem for married women is a clumsy mess. Married women have four or more choices. 1) Keep the last name they were given at birth. 2) Take the husband's last name. 3) Use three names, as in Hillary Rodham Clinton; or, as women did in the '70s, join the wife's birth name and the husband's birth name with a hyphen—a practice that in the third generation down the road would produce geometrically expanded multiple-hyphenated nightmares. 4) Use the unmarried name in most matters professional, and use the husband's name in at least some matters personal and domestic." — Lance Morrow in TIME, 8 Mar 1993

The Talmud says that there are three things one should do in the course of one's life: have a child, plant a tree, and write a book. They all represent ways of investing our creative, generative energy in things which will endure after we are gone, and will represent the best that was in us. They offer us the reassurance that our lives were not in vain, and that the world is indeed better for our having passed through it.

"IT WAS THE BANK'S POLICY TO HELP BEGINNERS"

One of the original directors of the Pittsburgh Trust and Savings Company (an important part of the root system of our institutional family tree) was Thomas Wightman who came to Pittsburgh from Ireland in 1825 with his parents at the age of seven. He was self-made man who became a successful manufacturer, as well as a bank officer and director.

In talking of the early history of the bank, he said: "It was our policy from the start to help beginners, if capable and honest, without regard to capital. That has been my idea, and I believe it is still the idea of this bank."

A century has passed since Mr. Wightman expressed these feelings, and they are as true today as Pittsburgh National Bank as they were in the 1800's. Source: Pittsburgh National Bank - "Dollars and Sense" Spring 1964.

Witch scare came after Reformation and rose to a peak in the Civil War of England.

"In Germany, during the 16th century, the law ordered that suspected witches should be tortured into confessing. Torture included disembowelling, beheading, gouging out the eyes, cutting off the ear or hand, and flogging. The sentence of death was usually by burning."

iii. John[2] Wightman, b. 22 Jul 1839 in Belfast, Ireland; d. 31 Mar 1912 in Alameda, CA; m. 24 Nov 1866 in San Francisco, CA to Celeste "Lettie" Augusta Harrington, b. 17 Dec 1845 in Camden, ME; d. 25 Mar 1920 in Seattle, WA. Five children.

John worked in his father's Belfast store until 1862, when he crossed the Atlantic in the sailing vessel, Pride of Perth. He crossed the Isthmus and sailed to San Francisco where his Belfast friend, George Moffatt [later of the firm of O'Conner , Moffatt & Co.], lived and for whom he named his fourth daughter. He boarded with John Harrington and his wife on Minna Street, between 5th and 6th, which was a good neighborhood in those days. He was there when Celeste, his future bride, came from Maine to visit her brother in 1863 or 1864. It is not known when they became engaged, but in late 1865 he left for Tomales Bay in Marin County where he had bought a small general store. He planned to come back and marry "Lettie" [Nickname for Celeste] the next year. However, business was poor, and when the appointed time came he had no money. He told her that they would have to wait a while longer. "Lettie" didn't see it that way. She was sure that they could make a go of it together, so they had a wedding at the home of a Captain and Mrs. Boyd. It was a busy life for both of them on Tomales Bay. Babies came fast.

After Emma was born, they went back to San Francisco. It was probably then that the firm of Wightman Bros. was started, which later became John Wightman, Jr. After the San Francisco earthquake and fire, it was know as Wightman & Crane (1906).

John was interested in the South Seas. His first business contact there was at Apia, Samoa where a Wightman Bros. store was started and run by an agent until 1885 when he sold it. Other contacts were made until the firm had quite a number of customers and acquired a group of sailing vessels to carry goods from San Francisco and bring back copra [dried coconut meat].

The narrator of this family story, Ida (Wightman) Gray, recalls that the Leo, Galile, Helen W. Almay, Sadie F. Calla (in which we went to Apia) and the famous little 90 ton schooner, Equator, which in 1889 rode out the hurricane that sank several warships in Apia Harbor. The Equator later was converted by her new owners into a steam tug and still later was used in the Alaska Fisheries. In 1915 she was bought by the Cary-Davis Tug & Barge Co. of Seattle and converted to Diesel power. Since 1929 she has flown the flag of the Puget Sound Tug & Barge Co. In 1941 she was equipped with a 250 h.p. Diesel and is still doing her work as a modern towboat with the same stout wooden hull that she was built with in 1888. On this vessel Robert Louis Stevenson made his trip to the South Seas in the EQUATOR in search of his health and took several cruises on trading missions in the Gilberts, Marquesas, the Paumotu Archaepelago and Samoa. He recorded his travels in In the South Seas. He also wrote a poem, "On Board of the Old Equator", in his own handwriting and gave it to John Wightman. It was framed and proudly hung in the office at 309 California Street. It was burned in the big fire. There probably was no copy made of it and probably was never published.

"Robert Louis Stevenson didn't stay with Dad at Apia. His home was near Apia during the latter days of his life, and he was buried there. If you care to read of his trip to Butaritari get this In the South Seas and read the chapters on the Gilberts. And by the way, I see the Geographic, which just came, has what looks like a most interesting article on the Gilberts. When I was in Butaritari, C. R. Swayne was the newly appointed commissioner -- he had been in Suva, Fiji, and brought two Fiji boys as his cook and housemen -- and body guards -- They were a fine looking pair, big, black, marvelous physique, and with the characteristic orange colored hair sticking up and out, stiff and yet kinky. Good natured, friendly fellows, too. Mr. Swayne wore his stiffly starched snow white linens always, and was outspokenly disapproving of Dad's comfortable pajamas and my one-piece garment and bare feet. Once he said to me `Go home and put some clothes on, Ida!' but I didn't -- I went home, but I continued to be comfortable in a Mother Hubbard." Ida Charlotte[1] (Wightman) Gray.

In 1885 the family, except Emma who stayed at Mill College, went to Apia to sell the store. They were there for about one year. In January of 1894, John, his wife, Celeste, and daughter, Ida, sailed on the "Equator" for Butaritari in the Gilbert Islands to check on another store that was losing money under poor management. Butaritari was the native name for Makin Island or perhaps a town of Makin Island. In November of 1943, Makin became famous as the first of the Pacific Islands to be taken from the Japanese. John sold the store and in June 1895, they left Butaritari in the "Equator", arriving in San Francisco on September 2nd after a 67 day trip of calms, storms, one bad hurricane that did serious damage, and a very low food supply.

John's sight had been failing for months. With glasses, he got steadily better and could read the rest of his life. After the 1906 fire, he bought a house in Alameda at 906 Chestnut Street, where he died quite suddenly during the night of March 31-April 1st, 1912. He had taken a hot bath, and that undoubtedly put too great a strain on his worn out arteries. He was reading in bed, and the book fell from his hands as he died, painlessly--as his features and position showed--perhaps he died in his sleep. His wife found him, quite stiff and cold, when she went to waken him in the morning.

Celeste (Harrington) Wightman was born on a farm near Camden, ME. She was the sixth of eight Harrington children: John, Ephriam, Edna, Ellen "Nellie", William, Celeste, George, and Emma. She crossed the Isthmus on her way to San Francisco. Her mother died of tuberculosis when Celeste was in her early teens. Celeste was glad to leave for San Francisco at 17. It was an opportunity to leave home where there was an unloving step-mother in the household.

THE STRANGE BURDEN OF A NAME

"Some cultures invent different names for people in different stages of life. In Chinese tradition a boy of school age would be given a "book name," to be used in arranging marriages and other official matters. A boy's book name might be "Worthy Prince" or "Spring Dragon" or "Celestial Emolument." (Does a father say, "Hello, have you met my boy, Celestial Emolument?")

3. George Easton[3] Wightman, b. in Richmond Tp., Lennox County, Ontario, Canada on 20 Oct 1849; d. Regina, Sask., Canada in 1941; m. Elizabeth Ann Duncan, b. 11 Oct 1846 in Roslin, Turlow Twp., Hastings Co., Ontario, Canada; d. in Thurlow Twp., on 28 Dec 1916, d/o Robert & Isabella (Hall) Duncan. They were first cousins, their mothers being sisters. George was a school teacher and taught school in Roslin, Ruthven, and Essex, with most of the years spent at Roslin. George's grandson, Henry D. Wightman wrote, "My father used to wonder at their ability to get along on an income of something over $400 a year in 1904. Grandfather used to say that it was because this wife always got $1.05 in goods for the expenditure of $1.00." George had a limp which was caused by poliomyelitis that he contacted at the age of five. He once planted a bag of walnuts at a nephew's farm. In a couple of generations, this grew into a valuable grove of walnut trees. George was a member of the Independent Order of Oddfellows. His grandson, Henry D. Wightman, has his fifty-year medallion. George spent the last years of his life with his daughter, Janet McNeely at 2736 Regina Ave., Regina, Sask., Canada. He was living there when on 20 Oct 1932, at age eighty-three, he wrote the following letter:

My Dear Alma:

I was very pleased to receive your letter and to learn how you are getting along. This is my birthday. I completed my 83rd year and of course start on my 84th.

I am feeling all right. Have spent abut two hours in the afternoons of this week turning (part of) the world upside down. There was none of the garden spaded and I tackled the job. Yesterday the ground had quite a frozen crust but today the frost was mostly all out. It is quite mild tonight. We have had some pretty cold nights. They say it was down to 12 above zero, twenty degrees of frost. The garden helps out pretty well. We have a nice supply of beats, carrots, and parsnips. Have to buy potatoes. We pay about 75 cents a bushel of 60 lbs. 25 cents a pound for butter and 10 cents a quart for milk, of which we use 3 or 4 quarts a day. The rest of the folks here are in usual health. The twins are not so bad with that eczema but they have an asthmatic cough which bothers them a good deal. I am quite busy all the day helping Janet with house work. I darn socks, run the sewing machine, peel potatoes, wash or wipe the dishes. All the time I keep busy and there are magazines or papers to take up time.

Ross is attending the Normal School and seems to be getting along all right though he doesn't say very much about it. It is hard for a young man or woman either to get into work of any kind these times. We thought Ross might get a start by teaching as there will always be a certain number needed. If he can it will give him a start and he may be able to write off some teaching for their board and taking notes for salary but dear knows when said notes will be redeemed.

I spent about three months with Ada so far this year. It is better for me in the city during the winter. The house is warmer and I get out easier as the walks are kept cleaner.

I see by the paper they have been having a heavy storm in Manitoba—rain, sleet, and snow. It would have been a good thing in Sask. if it had come here. The ground is quite dry down 10 to 12 inches. It seems to take a lot of water to wet the subsoil.

Billy has built a greenhouse so as to get flowers and garden plants started early in the spring. The sun is shining brightly today and Janet and Mrs. Dixon went into the G.H. and they were sweating in a short time. I guess they came out soon for fear they might start growing. They each think they do not need to grow any more.

Margaret and George are getting on a school very well. M. in grade IV. G. grad II. Ada and family are keeping well. The family is quite small now just Don and Arthur. Don is taking up grade XII. Arthur was operated on for appendicitis in August so he did not start school when it opened in Sept. but he was only out about 2 weeks.

I got a letter from Isabella this week and she told me you were wanting to know about your grandmother. She was Elizabeth Ann Duncan. Her parents were both born in Scotland. Her mother was a baby when her parents came to Canada. Her father, Robert Duncan, came to Canada about 1832 or 3. when the Cholera was raging. He had the disease and when he got over it he found his trunk or chest had been broken open and all his clothes were stolen. The only thing left was his bible. Their family was four boys and seven girls. My wife was the fourth child. The oldest, Alex, taught school three or four years and quit at summer holidays intending to study for medicine but he had been home a short time when he took typhoid and died James was a farmer, had two boys and two girls. The boys both died of membranous croup when quite small. George was a miller and his family, a boy and a girl both died when quite young. Robert was married but they had no family. The boys are all dead and the male line is extinct. Of the girls, Isabella the eldest had 2 boys and 2 girls. She is dead and one of the girls also. My wife was next. Maggie had 3 boys and 1 girl. They live in Connecticut. Ada lives in Corbyville near Belleville, had 2 boys, one died when a child. Charlotte, now Mrs. Montgomery, is living in Sterling. She has 2 boys and one girl, who is married, living. One child died

This is some account of your grandmother's family.

I hope you are keeping in good health and also all the family. Am glad your father has a shop of his own and so has work. It sure is a tough time for many in this country. With kindest love and best wishes.

Your Grandfather

> The news on Saturday that Mrs. Gordon C. Townsend, of this village, had passed away at Hotel Dieu while undergoing an operation that morning, came as a shock to the entire community, as very few were even aware that she was seriously ill. Giving birth to a child on Wednesday night, deceased was believed to be getting along nicely until Friday, when it was found that she was afflicted with an obstruction in the bowels and she was hurried to the hospital at Windsor on the early train on Saturday and Dr. Cullen, of Detroit, called to operate. The physicians found not only the obstruction in the bowel, but that the gall bladder was gangrenous and had evidently been so for some time. She passed away without coming out of the anaesthetic. The body was taken to Kingsville on Saturday afternoon to the home of Mr. Townsend's sister, and the funeral held on Monday afternoon, with internment in Greenhill cemetery... Her parents also survive, besides three brothers: Walter, of Ellsworth, Neb.; Stanley, of Blenheim; Duncan, of Kingston; and two sisters, Ada (Mrs. R. W. Dick) of Assiniboia, Sask. Deceased was highly esteemed by all who knew her, was a good worker in the Methodist church.

"A man inherits his father's name, but by his deeds he makes his own reputation. Sons, and daughters too, add luster--or tarnish--to their family's name. So, when all is said and done, what's in a name? A rose by another name would smell as sweet. (And a skunk by any other name would smell no better.) One finds the fruit of a tree on the branches--not in the roots."

THE TREE THAT ATE ROGER WILLIAMS

"The body of the great 17th Century religious emancipator, Roger Williams, was eaten by a tree. Williams died in 1683 and was buried in a poorly marked grave in the backyard of his home. Fifty-six years later, a workman accidentally broke into the emancipator's coffin while excavating a nearby grave, exposing the bones. In 1860, a descendant of Williams, Stephen Randall, ordered workmen to exhume the remains from the Providence, Rhode Island plot and transfer them to a more suitable tomb. But the excavation yielded only a few badly rusted coffin nails and scraps of rotten wood. Not a bone was found.

However, the workmen did find something extraordinary: The ramifying root of a nearby apple tree lay exactly where the remains should have been, and it had taken the shape of Williams' body, from head to heels. As it grew, the root apparently had encountered Williams' skull and head, backbone, hips and legs, molding itself closely to the contours of his body. The corpse itself was gone - absorbed into the tree through the roots. The tree had eaten Roger Williams.

The human-shaped root was removed for safekeeping and today is on display at the Rhode Island Historical Society in Providence."

A WHALE OF A TALE!

"At the time of Christ, Joseph of Armethea protected Christians in 36 A. D. Being a wealthy man he had considerable clout. The Roman authorities cast him and his followers adrift in a boat without food or water. The drifters included Mary Magdelen and Mary, mother of Christ. The current brought them to Marseilles. Joseph then took a ship around Spain to England and landed in the Cornwall area where he had investments in tin mines. The British made the party welcome and gave them land on the Isle of Avon ... thence to an area called Whitmore (meadow). While in France the name was Buetrel, but then in England it was changed to Whitmore; Wightman; Whitman and various other spellings."

"This was told to me by a Jean Morgan, a certified genealogist who freelances, but every day will be found at the Mormon Church library. Ms. Morgan tells me the source of her information came from the Vatican Archives. The Whitmore line traces back to the oldest house ever continuously occupied anywhere in England (35 generations). The Whitmore name came about because in a breach between two brothers the one brother chose not to be called Wightman — or whatever! Ms. Morgan said, "our Christian heritage was founded in England, not Rome." Now isn't that a whale of a tale? It sounds very much that way to me. Also it reaffirms to me that we could all be a little Jewish! Certainly all children of God." Dorothy Conner.

EXPERTS MAY CLONE LINCOLN'S TISSUE FOR HISTORICAL ANSWERS

The New York Times

WASHINGTON - DEC 1992 — A government museum is considering an effort to clone tissue samples from Abraham Lincoln in an attempt to answer persistent questions about his health and how it might have affected his performance as president.

The work could set a precedent for examining the genetic material of other historical figures whose tissue has been preserved.

A number of museums, special libraries, hospitals and research institutions hold tissue samples from scores of historical figures, including several U. S. presidents, military leaders and politicians.

Examples include locks of hair and tissues removed in surgery or autopsy.

After a symposium yesterday on Lincoln's health, the National Museum of Health and Medicine announced the appointment of an expert committee to study the technical and ethical feasibility of examining samples of hair, bone and blood from Lincoln to see if any genetic material remains 126 years after the president's assassination.

Testing would require destruction of tiny amounts of the samples to recover the genetic substance DNA, which could then be cloned to produce quantities sufficient for research.

There are questions about how well the samples were preserved in their early years and whether the DNA was destroyed.

The museum's collection of Lincoln's tissue, obtained at his autopsy, included blood stains from the shirt cuffs of a doctor, two locks of hair totaling about 180 strands less than 2 inches long and seven bone fragments weighing a total of more than 10 grams from the fatal head wound.

Genetic material could disclose whether Lincoln was afflicted with an inherited disease called Marfan syndrome, as some experts suspect from indirect evidence, which could have taken his life at any time, even if John Wilkes Booth had not assassinated him at Ford's Theater on April 14, 1865.

People with Marfan syndrome are at risk of sudden death from exertion, which can cause the aorta, the main artery from the heart, to burst.

Some scientists suggest that genetic evidence also might one day show whether lincoln suffered from chronic depression, as several biographers suspect.

 All Wightmans/Whitmans that have Valentine[2] Wightman for an ancestor are a cousin to Abraham Lincoln, our sixteenth president of the United States of America.*

This Thomas Chase Family of Chesham, Buckinghamshire, England, parents of Elizabeth Case, was reportedly involved with the Lawrence and Townley families of Chesham and County Bucks., in a very large unclaimed fortune in the Bank of England,-(supposedly of several million pounds value in 1830-35). The Solicitor-General of England, abt 1830, reportedly advised the families of this vast unclaimed fortune being held for distribution to descendants of the three families who could establish proof of descent and ancestry from certain named great-grandparents. The Bank later repudiated any such statements, (1860-1890), and disclaimed any such estate being held for the Chase-Lawrence-Townley families. (Payment of this large claim, with interest, as of abt 1900, would supposedly have almost broken the Bank of England. i. Thomas[4] Grover, bpt 26 Nov 1615 at Chesham, England and died 28 Oct 1661 at Malden, Massachusetts. He was emigrant ancestor of the Grover name.

THOMAS[4] GROVER

Thomas[4] Grover was our immigrant ancestor. He was christened 26 Nov 1615 at Chesham, Buckinghamshire, England. He married about 1640 Elizabeth (last name unknown). Thomas died 28 Oct 1661 at Malden, MA. He came from England in 1637 or 1638 and is on record in Charlestown, MA from 1638 to 1850. He is also on record in Malden for the year 1640. The National Cyclopedia of American Biography, Vol. VIII, p. 5 says that he may have accompanied Governor Winthrop's Colony from England in 1630. He was evidently in the Boston-Charlestown area in 1637-1738 before settling at Charlestown and Malden according to early land holdings. His home in Charlestown was located where the present streets of Bow, Main, and Prescott adjoin in the old Charlestown section (near the Navy Yard).

Elizabeth, his wife, was born in England about 1618 and died in Malden, MA in October 1676. She survived her husband Thomas, and married (2) on the 7 Apr 1675 Philip Atwood of Malden--a "planter" and constable of

IMMIGRANT

Malden. Elizabeth was a member of the Church in Charlestown.

There is no record of Thomas' membership in the same church. However, everyone was then compelled by law to attend church services at least each Sabbath day. He was a "planter", or farmer, in this large Charlestown-Malden area. He died 28 Oct 1661. His widow, Elizabeth, and eldest son, Lazarus, were appointed joint administrators of the father's estate. Later, in April of 1675, when Elizabeth remarried, Lazarus was made the sole administrator and also "guardian of his minor brothers", to assure their receiving their full and just shares of the father's estate which had not yet been settled in that fourteen year period. This was evidently due to there being several minor children involved.

viii. John[5] Grover, b. abt. 1656-57 at Malden, MA, d. "ae 17 yrs" 19 Feb 1674 Malden.

ix.. Stephen[5] Grover, b. abt. 1658-59, of Boston-Malden, MA, m. Sarah _____.

A local epidemic took the lives of Andrew, Elizabeth, and John during early 1674.

Thomas[4] Grover named several of his children in his will: Lazarus, Thomas, Andrew, Elizabeth, and John. He did not name Simon, Mathew, or Stephen. These latter are, however, believed to be the children of Thomas Grover and wife Elizabeth as these names were found in his own father's and grandfather's family in England. Also, Thomas seems to be the only possible father of these three young boys, according to their apparent ages.

Upon Thomas's death, the inventory of his estate showed a dwelling house and 45 acres of land then valued at about £157 after all debts were paid. This was broken up or divided into shares of about 5 acres for each child. The exception was that Lazarus, who was the eldest, received a double portion as was the common practice. The widow received the dwelling house with all furnishings and household goods. Grace died in 1658--before her father's death. Andrew, Elizabeth, and John died in 1674. The inventories of their estates each showed a 5 acre parcel of property:- evidently from their father's estate. Thus, it appears that the father's estate was divided into nine shares and distributed one share to each child except Lazarus who received his double portion.

Mathew was not named in Thomas's will, but there is a deed in early probate records of Middlesex County, MA showing that Mathew Grover of Charlestown and Malden, sold a small piece of land in late May 1675. This deed bears the signature of Mathew and also the signature (by mark) of Lazarus Grover, though Lazarus is not mentioned within the document itself.

A portion of that deed is given on the next page:

"I, Mathew Grover, of Boston, in the County of Suffolk, in the Massachusetts Colony of New England, planter, for nd in consideration of the summe of £1, well and truly payd by John Greenland Jr, of Mauldon, in the County of Middlesex, in the Colony aforesaid, and receite whereof I do hereby acknowledge and therefore do fully clearly and absolutely acquitt exonerate and discharge him the said John Greenland, his executors and administrators, . . . I the said Mathew Grover have given granted bargained sold aliened enfoffed and confirmed . . . unto him the said John Greenland a certain parcel of land fifty fyve pole long and one pole broad, scituate lying and being in Mauldon aforesaid, and is butting and bounded southwesterly by John Greenland Sr, noreasterly by the highway, soeasterly by the widow Mudge, norwesterly by Thomas Grover, deceased; To have, Hold, . . .

"In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seale this twenty-ninth day of May, in the yeare of our Lord one thousand six hundred and seaventy five. (29 May 1675) and "Lazarus Grover, (his mark)".

"Signed-

"Signed, sealed and delivered

Lazarus[5] Grover was born 5 Apr 1642 in Charlestown or Boston, MA. He died "abt 75 yrs" in 1715 in Malden, MA. Lazarus married about 1663 Ruth Adams (b. 3 Jun 1642, Weymouth, MA, d. 27 Sep 1674), the d/o Richard & Mary (?) Adams of Weymouth and Malden. Lazarus married (2) abt. 1676 Elizabeth, d. Feb 1688 (?) (3) abt. 1689-90 Mercy [Mudge] (?) who survived him.

Typical of our other ancestors that lived in that time period, Lazarus, his family, and relatives were actively involved in the King Phillip's War. When the war began, he and his brothers, along with Philip Atwood (his father-in-law in 1675) were attempting a settlement of the Worcester-Grafton area in 1674-75. The Indians drove them out of this area at the beginning of this uprising. They settled at Malden and he was a "planter" for a farmer there. He appears to have been a man of substance and considerable ability, as his name is found on many court and probate records of early Malden as a witness. He also assisted in settling the estates of many others in addition to being the administrator of his father's estate and "guardian of his minor brothers".

Lazarus died in late 1715 at Malden,MA. His will of 7 Nov 1715 (probated 4 Jan 1716) ordered that the family take care of his son Lazarus, Jr.: "he not being capable of taking care of himself", the father stated. This will left the estate to his wife Mercy, and to his afflicted son Lazarus, and to "sons Thomas, Andrew, and Ephraim, and to my daughters: Ruth Paine, Elizabeth Baldwin, Rebecca Tollman (or "Tottman"), and Mary Upham". Mary and Ebenezer appear certain to be children of Mercy, his third wife, who died subsequent to July 18, 1725 when the estate of Ebenezer was administered by his brother-in-law Samuel Upham.

THOMAS[6] GROVER

Thomas Grover was born in June 1671, Malden, MA. He died in Nov 1748 at Norton, MA. Thomas was married on 29 Jul 1697 (by Rev. Wigglesworth) to Mary Cox. She born about 1675 in Malden and survived her husband. Mary was named in his will of 22 Oct 1747 (probated 20 Nov 1752, Norton, MA).

Thomas, with his brothers, Andrew and Ephraim, purchased lands in the Norton, MA area about 1701-02 and made their homes there. Their farms were in the "West Purchase" of Norton. Their homes on adjoining properties in the form of large equilateral triangle were in the "north Parish" of Norton. Norton later became Mansfield, MA.

Thomas's will of 22 Oct 1747 names his wife and surviving children. This will shows some variance with other early probate records.

"I, Thomas Grover of Norton, in ye County of Bristol in ye Province of ye Maffachuffets Bay in New England, being near about ye Seventy fifth yeare :-

"A man inherits his father's name, but by his deeds he makes his own reputation. Sons, and daughters too, add luster--or tarnish--to their family's name. So, when all is said and done, what's in a name? A rose by another name would smell as sweet. (And a skunk by any other name would smell no better.) One finds the fruit of a tree on the branches--not in the roots."

75 Years Ago: Fr. Syoen's Historic Venture

Belgium was invaded on August 4, 1914. Recent Belgian immigrants in Detroit, included parents who had left their children over there until employment and living quarters could be secured in the U. S. Tales of war horrors in occupied Belgium caused great anxiety here. While the U. S. was not at war with Germany, some children might be brought over. For this purpose Father Henry Syoen, pastor of our Lady of Sorrows, volunteered to make the voyage, leaving March 3, 1915 armed with a letter of recommendation from a German businessman in Detroit, and a paper with the signatures of 200 Detroit Belgians stamped by the Wayne County clerk.

Fr. Syoen walked from town to town along the Belgian frontline, looking for children, until his feet were blistered. He was able to gather 116 people, most of them children and a few women to accompany them on the way to America. As they left the harbor of neutral Holland, the German submarines received orders to give them safe passage. About 12 days later they arrived in New York, then traveled by train to Detroit. "Thousands of citizens of all nationalities gathered at the Bush Street depot on Saturday (August 7) to be a joyful welcome to Father Syoen... From the Grand Trunk depot all were driven to the church where solemn Thanksgiving services were held and a right jolly time was enjoyed." (The Michigan Catholic, Aug. 12, 1915).

We have one parishioner of Lady of Sorrows, Mrs. Paula Weisse, who made this historic voyage. We invite you to join her on Sunday, August 12, 1990, at the Father Syoen Memorial Mass. Bulletin of church news printed for memorial mass.

Of all the fears that haunt us, there is nothing to compare to the fear that we may have wasted our lives with nothing to show for it.

PEMBERTON

The mother of Roger Williams was Alice (Pemberton) Williams. She was the daughter of Robert Pemberton and Catherine (Stokes) Pemberton of St. Albans, Hertfordshire, England.

Robert Pemberton was born 1523±2 and died 16 Jul 1578. He was probably the son of Geoffrey Pemberton. He undoubtedly descended from the ancient and knightly house of Pemberton of Pemberton, Co. Lansc. The funeral certificate of his son Roger states that his ancestors came out of Chesire. Taxed in the Subsidies of 1565-66 and 1575-76 at St. Albans. He was probably a mercer or clothier. He, apparently, owned a "capital messuage" in the parish of St. Mary-le-Bow, London. Administration on his estate was granted on 30 Sep 1578 to his widow, Katherine. Married about 1550, Katherine, sister of Roger Stokes, mercer of St. Albans of the ancient family of St. Albans, burgesses of that name.

Children:

ALICE PEMBERTON

Alice Pemberton (Robert[1]) was baptized 18 Feb 1564/5. She died between 1 Aug 1634 and 26 Jan 1634/5. She married about 1597, James Williams, citizen and Merchant Taylor of London, They lived in Cow Lane in St. Sephulchres - without - Newgate Parish, London. He was admitted to the Freedom of the Merchant Taylors Company on 7 Apr 1587. In 1599 he was "feoffee" of his brother-in-law, Roger Pemberton, to the use of his will, and in 1610 he was one of Rogers "feoffees" in settling property upon Rogers' son John and Catherine Angell, his bride. James Williams' will, dated 7 Sep 1620, was proved 19 Nov 1621. James Williams was probably a near kinsman of the Rev. Roger Williams, Vicar of St. Peters Parish in St. Albans, who died shortly before 2 Jan 1626/7. [Register, vol 43, p. 295]

Children:

1. Catherine Williams, b. abt. 1598, m.prior to 7 Sep 1620 Ralph Wightman [his 2nd wife], Citizen and Merchant Taylor of London who died between 8 Dec 1628 and 9 Feb 1628/9. Catherine married the 2nd time prior to 1 Aug 1634 the Rev. John Davies. She had children by both husbands.

UPDYKE - The following excerpt is from THE MUSKET AND THE CROSS; The Struggle of France and England for North America by Walter D. Edmonds, pp. 284-9.

"Captain John Underhill, who had shared command with Captain Mason in the liquidation of the Pequots, had found the restrictions of life under a Puritan society year after year a little more than he could stomach. He had a try at it in the New Hamphire neighborhood to which his fellow Antinomian followers of Ann Hutchinson had migrated from Boston; but there he had found little scope for his pub-haunting instincts any more than his fellow Antinomians found pleasure in his swaggering demeanor; and his own Antinomian convictions were probably founded more in a rebellion against Puritanism than in inner personal belief. He tried living for a term in Stamford, but gave that up also in favor of the freer atmosphere of New Netherland.

"But even there it was evident almost from the beginning that John Underhill would not always be an easy man to have around. In an early appearance at New Amsterdam he had turned up at the City Tavern, built by Kieft in 1642 so visitors would not necessarily expect to be entertained by the director but could wine and dine at their own expense. Underhill arrived in the taproom accompanied by two other Englishmen: one the secretary for the English settlements on Long Island and the other another Plymouth captain, Thomas Willett, whose great-grandson, Marinus Willett, was to the defender of the Mohawk Valley during the Revolution.

"The English party had been sampling freely the alcoholic resources of New Amsterdam for some time before arriving at the City Tavern and had brought along a drummer to beat out the call to arms or any other tattoos or alarms that might seem necessary. Their entry to the taproom naturally created a slight commotion, and when Captain Underhill inquired for the host and was told that he was celebrating his lease of the tavern by giving a dinner for his friends in a private room, Underhill did not wait for an invitation but stormed the door and bursting in on the mixed company, who were seated round a table of fine food and the best wines in New Amsterdam and who included two very pretty and new young brides, instantly in roaring good humor invited himself to the feast.

"To the polite, civilized little dinner party where, just before, the women had been singing old-county songs in their bright young voices, the apparition of the flushed captain, complete with clanking sword and now reinforced by his two companions -- not to mention the drummer who was playing his part in the riotous nature of the occasion--was a shattering experience and the very idea of admitting such hot-blooded men of war to the party an outrage. Some appreciation of this may have permeated Underhill's mind, for he suggested as a compromise that Gysbert Opdyck, the newest of the bridegrooms, should come out to the tap with him and his friends to celebrate their meeting. Opdyck, not unnaturally opposed to leaving his bride or for that matter good Rhenish wine in favor of beer, declined the proposal and tried to eject Underhill and his companions. It was a mistake.

"The English drew their swords and immediately with battle shouts fell upon the pewter and glass lining the taproom shelves and slashed great splinters from the door frames. In the uproar other English came storming to their rescue. Gerritsen, the host, sent for the fiscal and the watch; but Underhill would do no business with anyone less than the director, declaring that he would rather not speak to a fool; and the members of the watch wanted no part in a forcible ejectment of the bloody Englishmen. It was only when the members of the Dutch dinner party slipped away through back doors that Underhill, without feminine eyes to stimulate him further, quieted down and eventually took his leave.

"Deplorable as the episode might be, it at once stamped Underhill as a mettlesome and forceful character, even in a community which under pressures of the Indian menace and overcrowding by refugees had become rough and lawless. The situation became so unmanageable that martial law was declared and all able-bodied colonists placed under arms. The "army" thus formed consisted of fifty regular soldiers belonging to the garrison; two hundred settlers of Dutch, Flemish, or Huguenot extraction; and a contingent of fifty Englishmen from Long Island. Underhill was immediately offered command of the latter. He accepted, and though his command was relatively small he proved the leading force in the two expeditions that broke the Indians.

"During the winter of 1644 there had been some reason to believe that the tribes might be losing interest in the war. In January de la Montagne, Kieft's lone councilor, with forty volunteers and a handful of English under Lieutenant George Baxter sallied down the bay to Staten Island to attack the Indians supposedly still there and seize any corn they could find. They unearthed caches of nearly five hundred bushels -- but the Indians themselves had gone; the huts looked long deserted.

"Later a second expedition was sent against a supposedly large number of Indians near Greenwich; but the encampment could not be found, if in fact it had existed at all. The only sign of Indians was a tiny group of bark huts, and after killing about twenty warriors the Dutch returned to New Amsterdam. Then sixty-five men under Lieutenant Baxter were sent into the Weckquaesgeck country. Baxter, unlike Ensign Van Dyck, seems not to have been troubled by the dark, for he stayed in the Sawmill Valley until he had discovered all three of the Weckquaesgeck castles. These, too, had been deserted; there was something ominous in their emptiness in the soundless valley, and they were like no Indian castles any of the men had seen. Unlike the usual ramshackle palisade, the defending wall was built of planks five inches thick, closely fitted, heavily braced, nine feet high, and studded with loopholes. In any one of them "thirty Indians could have stood against Two Hundred soldiers," but the arrogant, contentious tribe had vanished. Even when they had gone on almost thirty miles they found nothing more than one or two huts where they killed two or three men more or less haphazardly and brought back a few women and children to be sold as slaves. On the way home they burned two of the castles but left the third standing for possible Dutch use.

"This disappearance of the Indians from the immediate neighborhood of Manhattan Island was mysterious; frightening to some, reassuring to others. Then toward spring the colonists learned that Pennewitz, senior sachem of the Canarsees, was circulating among the tribes with advice to give up all idea of war until Dutch suspicions had been lulled and the Indians would be once more accepted as friends in Dutch houses. Then at a given moment they could attack. It was to be an almost exact replay of Opechancanough's Good Friday massacre along the James in 1622; and as a matter of fact in this same year Opechancanough, again almost on Good Friday, staged another unexpected attack against the westerly Virginia settlements, in which more than three hundred whites were massacred before, for some unexplained reason, the Indians lost heart and drifted back to their own towns.

"This was of course coincidence. It would be assuming too much to suppose that any communication existed between the Powhatan and Canarsee tribes however remarkable and swift the passage of news across the Indian wilderness might be. This swiftness of communication applied especially to the Iroquois world, where waterways made natural roads to the centers of the Long House. Along the Atlantic coast, however, the main rivers, running north and south, were barriers more than highways, and contact of the Virginia Indians with northern tribes, inimical or otherwise, led to the western Delawares or Susquehannas, sometimes called the Conestogas, an Iroquoian people as warlike as any Senecas or Mohawks and their deadly enemies.

"The Canarsees were thinking on their own and the ancient Pennewitz was merely a more subtle schemer than Pacham of the Haverstraws; but the rumor of what he was up to inflamed the Dutch to a point of near insanity, and a simple incident, based on a false premise, led to a scene which would have been more appropriate to the torture platforms of the Iroquois than the tumble-down fort at New Amsterdam.

"In April at Hempstead three pigs belonging to the English settlers were killed and Indians were blamed. It was the custom to turn stock loose upon the so-called Hempstead plains, a tract of nearly seventeen thousand acres of open grassland, as a kind of super common, and admittedly the Indians were continually finding the temptation of strayed animals too much for them. A brave in need of a new powder horn coming on an ox with a fine long pair well beyond sight of the houses would bring him down, hack them off, and leave the carcass. There was also a brisk trade with New Amsterdam in "venison" from Long Island. But in the present instance three hogs had been slaughtered and the presumption was that seven Indians seen in the vicinity must have done the rustling. They were arrested and cast into the cellar of one of the houses while the foreman of the settlement, the Reverend Fordham, reported the arrest to Director Kieft.

"Kieft lost no time in dispatching a party of sixteen soldiers, led by Ensign Opdyck and Captain Underhill, who must by then have composed their differences, with orders to bring the malefactors in at once to New Amsterdam. The two officers seem to have taken a liberal view of their orders, for they shot down the first three Indians to emerge from the cellar and then on their return journey threw two of the remaining four overboard and towed them behind their yacht by the neck until they had drowned. The two survivors, however, were delivered to Kieft and cast into cells in the guardhouse where they were kept until Kieft decided that the colony could no longer afford to feed them and turned them over to the soldiers to dispose of as they saw fit.

"The soldiers killed them with their "bowelling" knives, weapons with eighteen- to twenty-inch blades which Kieft had designed especially for hand-to-hand fighting inside Indian huts where sword blades had proved to be too long for efficient work. The first Indian was so savagely set upon that he died at once, but the second took a long time, for the soldiers began skinning him, "beginning at the calves, up the back, over the shoulders and down to the knees" in narrow strips, while he chanted his death song. According to the report, which was undoubtedly biased, Kieft watched the whole proceeding with amusement with his councilor and friends, "laughing heartily, and rubbing his right arm," until at long last the wretched Indian was led to a millstone and decapitated.

"The summer passed uneasily, though without serious incident, but by fall the conviction grew that time was running out and that the Indians must be dealt with at once. In November came the first move, against the Canarsees in two of their villages east of Hempstead. Underhill with fourteen Englishmen attacked the smaller village, and eighty Dutch under de la Montagne surrounded the main town called Matsepe. Both places were destroyed. One hundred and twenty braves were killed for only one Dutchman. It was accounted a great success. But rumors persisted of a large concourse of Indians settled somewhere in the neighborhood of Greenwich or Stamford, in search of which the abortive expedition of the preceding January had been undertaken.

"John Underhill went along to Stamford to investigate. No one knew the location of the Indian stronghold, though all accepted the fact of its existence. Underhill found that the Indian who had unsuccessfully guided the January expedition was living in Stamford and interviewed him. The Indian said he dared not go alone beyond the outskirts of the settlement. But he reported that there were over five hundred Indians in the town and he swore that given a second chance he would lead the Dutch to it. Underhill accepted his good faith; here was a man with compound motives for making good. He reported to New Amsterdam and was given command of a force of one hundred and fifty men with Ensign Van Dyck as his lieutenant. They sailed for Greenwich as the year was ending, and landed there in a driving blizzard.

"The violence of the storm held them in Greenwich that night, but in the morning they started northwest behind their Indian guide, "up over Stony Hills," laboriously breaking trail through the drifts. At eight that night they were still three miles from the spot in which the guide and the Indians had their town. But they decided to wait there for two hours. Underhill did not want to attack till nearly midnight. There were two rivers to be forded, and to wait in soaked clothes in the bitter cold was impossible. The men would have to attack the moment they reached the town.

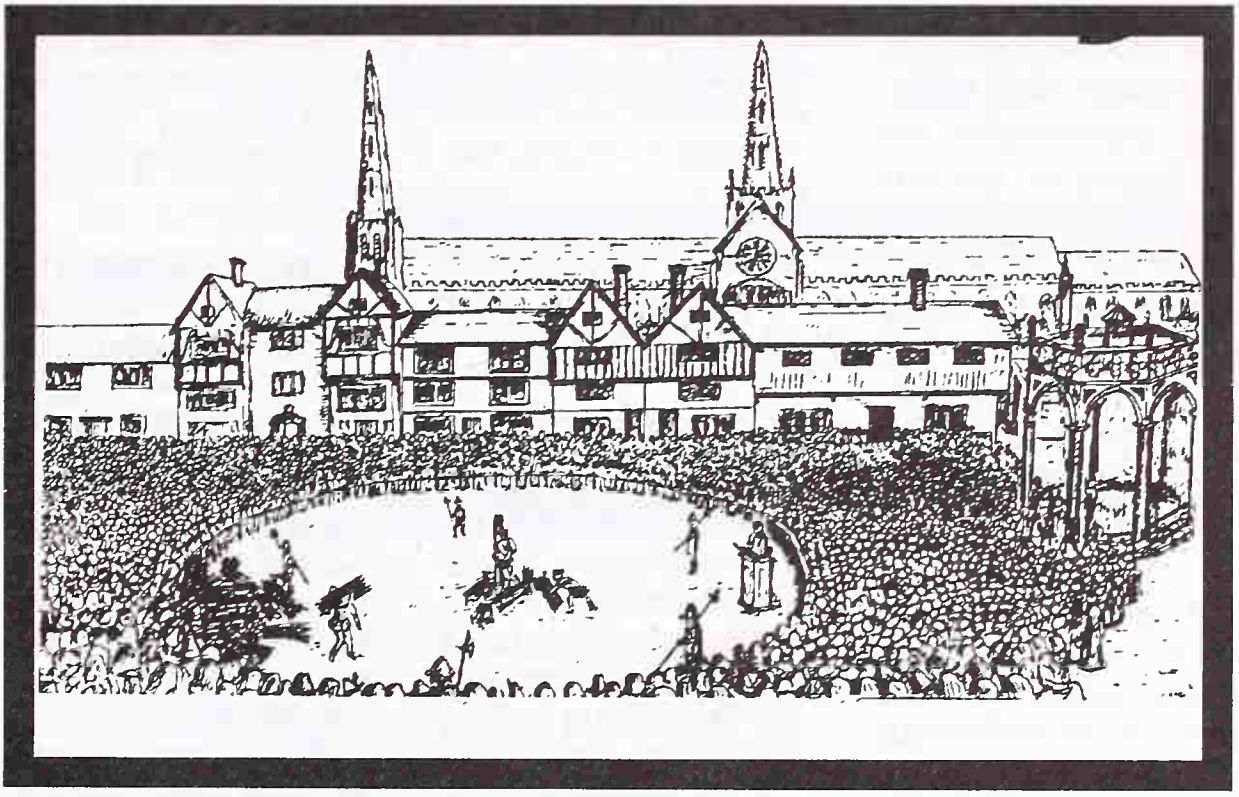
"At ten o'clock they took up the march again. The sky was now clear as polished steel. A full moon, with the deep mantle of snow, turned the night as bright as day. Toward midnight they came into a narrow valley in the hills, a small amphitheater with steeply rising sides, about a hundred yards across, making perfect shelter from the northwest wind. The bark huts were built close together, in three orderly rows, like streets, and in the moonlight the Dutch saw that there had been no surprise. The braves were waiting for them as they made their charge. In a moment the Dutch were taking casualties, one man killed and twelve more wounded on the ground. But the Indians had no avenue of retreat; there were no palisades; their only refuge was the shelter of their huts where their women and children and the old people crouched. In the first few minutes nearly two hundred braves were killed with sword or musket; then with mysterious abruptness the rest had disappeared into the huts. The town lay in front of the soldiers as completely silent in the moonlight as when they had first approached; the only sign of life was an occasional arrow whistling from a hole in the bark wall or from the doorway of a hut. The Dutch, themselves silent, did not feel strong enough to attack the houses, so, "seeing nothing else was to be done," Underhill ordered the town burned.

"Almost in moments the first fires leaped from one close-packed house to another and the same sort of firestorm that had swept the Pequot stronghold raged in the narrow valley. For a brief time the Indians tried to escape, but they could not evade the swords and muskets of the Dutch; with dreadful resignation they returned to their blazing huts, "preferring to perish by fire than to die by our hands," according to the Dutch report. "What was most wonderful is, that among this vast collection of Men, Women, and Children, not one was heard to cry or to scream."

"If this statement is true the massacre was the most ghastly in the long history of red or white atrocities. It is difficult to credit. According to Indian sources more than five hundred souls died in the flaming huts. The faculty of the Indian mind that led to mass hysteria may well have seized them here in a mass acceptance of death in the silence with which other creatures of the forest meet their own."

HORRIFIC SCENES IN MARKET SQUARE AS EX-MERCER IS PUBLICLY BURNED

'Heretic' Wightman dies at the Stake



AN ARTIST'S IMPRESSION OF THE SCENE IN MARKET SQUARE WHEN EDWARD WIGHTMAN WAS BURNED AT THE STAKE

APRIL 1612*

HUGE crowds watched in horrified silence as convicted heretic Edward Wightman was burned at the stake in Lichfield's Market Place yesterday.

And according to Richard Neile, Bishop of Lichfield, Wightman "died blaspheming".

Yet only two weeks earlier, on April 11, Wightman was dragged from the flames at his first 'burning', after crying out that he would recant. But after a few days in the cells at Guidhall, the former Burton businessman turned preacher "blasphemed more audaciously than before", thus condemning himself to a second, fatal, return to the stake.

Wightman's story is a strange and tragic one, particularly for the family he has left behind. For many years he ran a successful mercer's business in Burton-on-Trent, and lived happily with his wife and small son.

EXTREME

But all this was to change once he began attending Puritan meetings in and around Burton. Soon he became a preacher himself, and attracted attention as his views became more and more extreme.

The authorities began to take an interest in the outspoken Wightman, particularly when he denounced the Trinity as false, and claimed he was the Messiah. Yet he continued to preach unmolested—until, foolishly, he presented a petition to King James I last year, in which he expounded his belief.

The King, angered by Wightman's outrageous claims, took immediate action. He ordered the Bishop of Lichfield to carry out an examination of "the preacher who claims he is the Messiah."

Within weeks Wightman was brought before the Consistory Court at Lichfield, accused of heresy. After a sensational trial lasting several days, he was found guilty and handed over to the civil authorities to be executed by burning.

When the sentence was publically announced in the Cathedral just eleven days before Christmas, Bishop Neile preached a long and moving sermon in which he confuted Wightman's heresies.

The convicted man remained in prison for the next three months until, on March 9, the King signed his writ to the Sheriff of Lichfield, George Collins, commanding him to execute the sentence of burning "in some public place within the city of Lichfield".

Wightman's fate was sealed—the day before Easter—in the Market Place at Lichfield. Hundreds of onlookers saw the condemned man chained to the stake, and the fire lit. In the hush that followed, Wightman — already scorched by the flames — was clearly heard to cry out that he would recant. Some of those nearest the fire rushed forward and pulled away the burning faggots, scorching themselves in the process.

A form of recantation was taken to the still-chained Wightman, who read it and professed. His chains were removed and he was taken back to prison below Guidhall.

That should have been the end of the case of Edward Wightman, convicted heretic who recanted at the stake.

'BLASPHEMED'

After a fortnight in the cells, Wightman was again taken before the Consistory Court to make a formal recantation. But by this time the outspoken preacher had recovered from his fright at the stake, and, in the words of Bishop Neile, "blasphemed more audaciously than before".

The writ was renewed, and once more Wightman was taken to the Market Place and chained to the stake. The flames were lit . . . but this time there was no recantation from the doomed man.

As the flames engulfed him, Edward Wightman, the ex-Mercer who claimed to be the Messiah, died as he had lived — blaspheming and unrepentant.

THREE MEN HANGED AT LICHFIELD

JUNE 1 1810

HUNDREDS of people from the Lichfield area watched the gruesome public execution of three convicted forgers yesterday, Friday.

The three were hanged at about 10 a. m. on a scaffold erected just outside the city, which was ringed by immense crowds.

The trial of William Wightman, John Neve and James Richard Jackson had been a long and emotive affair. And the sentence of death, passed on April 18 was greeted with horror by their family and friends.

But repeated pleas for clemency were turned down, and yesterday the trio met their fate on the Lichfield scaffold.

Wightman, aged 26, and Neve 25, were convicted of uttering forged Bank of England notes. Jackson 39, was found guilty of forging and uttering bills of exchange.

Until three years ago Neve as a woolen draper in Birmingham, until his business began to fail. It was then that he met Wightman, who employed him as shopman in his linen and woolen drapery store, also in Birmingham. Both were 'pillars of respectability', according to prosecution evidence at their trial. But they used their position to pass on forged bank notes to unsuspecting victims.

Jackson, a native of Cheshire, was a miner for many years until, said the prosecution, he "connected himself with certain individuals who made it their business to draw and negotiate bills of exchange upon fictitious houses, with intent to defraud the honest tradesmen".

Since their conviction the three had waited in some hope of a reprieve, but just a few days ago the sentences were finally confirmed.

Death by execution, say the authorities, is the only punishment for forgery — and yesterday we witnessed the awful result of that decree.

MAP OF LITCHFIELD TODAY:—In the Heritage Centre you will discover the very essence of life in Lichfield down through the centuries told through its people. There is a whole galaxy of famous people associated with Lichfield: Kings and Queens, Edward Wightman, Dr. Johnson, Erasmus Darwin, David Garrick and a host of others. The goldsmiths' and silversmiths' crafts down the ages are shown in the treasury. Goblets and plates, chalices and patens made for Church, City and Regiment. In the Market Square you will see the Placque that indicates where Edward Wightman was to be the last man to be burned at the stake in England for heresy. There are statues which pay tribute to Dr. Johnson and his friend and biographer James Boswell. GUILDHALL was rebuilt in 1846 over the medieval city dungeons. A man was imprisoned here for 12 years for forging sixpence and it was from here that prisoners were led out to be burned at the stake in the Market Square.

WIGHTMAN BURIAL GROUNDS Groton, CT

"The first Baptist Church in Connecticut was established in the Town of Groton in 1705 — First preacher was Valentine Wightman. The church was located on Cold Spring Road, a mile or so west of Old Mystic. The cemetery was called Wightman Burying Ground and the Wightman Burying Ground Association was established in 1882 to see to the care of the cemetery. The Association was incorporated in 1915. I was President from 1970 to 1990. Harold Thompson followed as President and lives in the woods across Cold Spring Road from the cemetery. The Treasurer is Daniel Wightman Lamb, 305 South Road, Groton, CT 06340. Membership in the association is by majority vote and dues are $2.00 per year—life membership is $50.00. Present member ship is about 60. Annual meeting is on the third Sunday in September. There are members who live in Milwaukee, WI and Covina, CA. If you wish to join, just send $2.00 to Dan Lamb and you can be voted in at the September meeting.

Courie's Inc., who are about two miles away on Sandy Hollow Road, keep the cemetery mowed (about $300/yr.) and take care of a very occasional burial. We had one member for a few years, John Wightman of Wilmington, DE, who left an Insurance Policy of $1000.00 to the association. This and other occasional gifts supplement the dues of $2.00 which are not enough to cover expenses.

I'm sure you are still having an interesting life and commend you on your progress in preserving the Wightman name. My wife Gertrude was a teacher for 28 years. We have been married for 68 years. She is 88. I am 86. We both have birthdays next month. Also sincerely, Lew Chapman" [Letter dated 15 Aug 1992 from Jesse Lewis Wightman Chapman who was born on 18 Sep 1905. Note appended to his letter: "As soon as I was old enough to write my name, I started cutting it down and have been J. Lewis Chapman all my life. I was told Jesse was a friend of my mother's and my father's grandmother was a Wightman."]

FREELOVE BLISS, according to several secondary sources, married Peter Barker. However, David Wyss Rudge, 3284 Dawson St., 3rd Fl., Pittsburgh, PA 15213, has presented the following source material from New England Marriages prior to 1700 by Clarence Almon Torrey [pub. by Genealogical Publishing Co., Inc. of Baltimore, which includes a record of a marriage between "Jeremiah[3] Meacham (1673-12 Apr 1715) and Freelove [Bliss]? (1672-22 Mar 1715) dau John; b. 1701?, b. 1699?, ca 1690; Newport, RI." Freelove's birth date was 17 Nov 1672. Knowing what we do about Major Bliss' will, if the question mark refers only to her maiden name, the suggested connection between Jeremiah and Freelove seems fairly well substantiated. The following material was also sent to me by David Wyss Rudge that was printed in the New York Genealogical and Biographical Record under the title, The Correct Ancestry of Jemima Meacham, by Mary Lovering Holman.

Jeremiah[1] Meacham, born in England about 1613, aged eighty-one in 1694, died in Salem, Mass., 11 Nov 1695, aged eighty-three years. He married first, probably in England, Margaret _____ , who died after 1679. He married.....

Jeremiah[2] Meacham

Jeremiah[3] Meacham, born in Salem, Mass., 21 Dec 1673, was executed in Newport, R.I., 12 Apr 1715. He married about 1698, Freelove Bliss, born there, 17 Nov 1672, killed by her husband about 1715, daughter of Major John and Damaris (Arnold) Bliss. [Damaris Arnold was daughter of Gov. Benedict and Damaris (Westcott) Arnold, and granddaughter of William Arnold and of Stukeley Westcott].

Little is known of the life of Jeremiah Meacham but he apparently left Salem and went to Newport, whether before he met Freelove Bliss or on account of his meeting her there is nothing to show. Newport records are so poor that there is little chance of anything being learned of him before he evidently became insane. [At this period, insanity was looked upon as being inspired by the Devil. Today this unfortunate man's sanity would be tested—but then they hanged him].

An interleaved Almanac kept by Rev. William Cooper of the Brattle Street Church in Boston, MA tells of this tragedy:

1715, 23 Mar. "A melancholy Relation of a barbarous murder committed at Rhoad Island, by one Jeremiah Meacham, a man of abt 40 years of age, born at Salem Village, but had liv'd in yt colony abt twenty years: who one evening kill'd his wife with whom he had liv'd well and had children; and also his wif's sister; both without any known reason or provocation, but by a diabolical impulse. He first cut them with his hatchet, and then his wife's throat with a penknife. A man coming to them he also dangerously wounded; and then set fire to his house, and cut his own throat; but the fire being extinguished, and his wound not mortal, he was apprehended & committed." (New England Historical and Genealogical Register, 30:435).

He was executed 12 Apr 1715 in Newport and the Rev. Nathaniel Clap preached a sermon to him and was present at his execution.

"Whereas, sundry accounts of charges (that happened by the late unhappy action of Jeremiah Meecum) hath been presented to this Assembly, by which accounts considerable is due from Said Meecum's estate . . .

Therefore it is enacted . . .that Mr Nicholas Land, the present vendue master of Newport, do expose the estate of the said Meecum to sale at Public venue, and with the sales thereof to pay the said accounts . . . and if any overplus remain, the same to render to Major Bliss, for the support of the said Meecum's children." 5 July 1715. (Rhode Island Colonial Records, 4:196.)

Major Bliss only survived Jeremiah Meacham but two years; a copy of the Major's will follows:

"In the Name of God Amen the third Day of February in the year of our Lord one thousand Seven Hundred and Sixteen or Seventeen I John Bliss of Newport on Rhoad Island in the Colony of Rhoad Island & providence plantations in New England Yeoman being very Sick and weak in body but of perfect mind & memory, thanks be Given unto God therefore Calling to Mind the Mortality of My body and Knowing that it is appointed for men once to Dye Do make and order this my last will and testament that is to Say principally and first of all I Give and Recommend my Soul into the hands of God that Gave it Hopeing through the Merits Death & passion of my Saviour Jesus Christ to have full and free pardon & forgiveness of all my Sins and to Inheritt Everlasting life and my body I committ to the Earth to be Decently

The personal estate was appraised by Joseph James and Jonathan Weeden and filed on the same date, the items listed amounting to £212-01-8, and among them may be noted "1 Cane" "3 Silver Cups" "2 Dutch wheels" etc. Administration was confirmed the same day to Josiah Bliss (Newport Records, 3:95, 96, 120, 121, 122) *

It is probable that the children remained with their bereaved grandparents until after Major Bliss died and then returned to Massachusetts and made their home with their uncle James Meacham in Beverly. The daughter, Patience, had died before her grandfather made his will, and at that time, Jemima was about seventeen and John about seven.

In 1726, the following record was filed in Essex County Court:

"To the Hon^{ble} John Appleton Esq^{r} Judge of the Probate of Wills &c in the County of Essex.

These may Certifie your Hon^{r}, that I John Meacham a minor of About Sixteen years of Age Son of Jeremiah Meacham Late of y^{e} Goverm^{t} of Road Island Do make Choice of Benarg^{s} Rayment of Beverly in y^{e} County of Essex to be my lawful Guardian to do and act for me in all things according to Law as Witness my Hand this 4th Day July 1726

The guardianship of John Meacham a minor about sixteen, son of "John" Meacham, late of Rhode Island, deceased, was granted to Benerges Raymond of Beverly, Essex County, Mass., 5 July 1726; Jonathan Raymond and James Meacham of Beverly were sureties on the bond.

 The error of the scribe in repeating the name of the son as that of the father is fairly common but one that is very annoying as, if no other records occur, it can not be explained. It is fortunate that the files still contain the original petition in which such an error is not so apt to happen.

1637± KINGS TOWN. At about this time he came to the Narragansett country from Taunton (where he had tarried a while), and established a trading house, giving free entertainment to travelers passing through that section. He became a very large proprietor in lands in that region. Testimony as to him was given by Roger Williams years later (1679, Jul.24) as follows: "Being now near to four score years of age, yet (by God's mercy) of sound understanding and memory, do humbly and faithfully declare that Richard Smith, Sen., deceased, who for his conscience toward God, left a fair possession in Gloucesershire and adventured with his relatives and estates to New England, and was a most acceptedable and prime leading man in Taunton in Plymouth Colony, for his conscience sake (many differences arising) he left Taunton and came to the Nanhigansick country, where (by the Mercy of God and the favor of the Nanhigansick sachems) he broke the ice (at his great charge and hazard) and put up, in the thickest of the barbarians, the first English house amongst them." Mr. Williams further says: "I humbly testify that about forty-two years from this date he kept possession, coming and going, himself, children and servants; and he had quiet possession of his housing, land and meadows, and there in his own housing, land and meadows, and there in his own house, with much serenity of soul and comfort, he yielded up his spirit to God (the Father of spirits) in peace."

A petition of the inhabitants of Narragansett to the King (dated 1679, Jul. 29) states very much the same matter as the testimony of Mr. Williams.

Updike's Rhode Island

"In 1664, Charles II awarded a patent for all New Netherland to his brother the Duke of York, and the Duke's ships plus Connecticut troops compelled the unpopular government of Peter Stuyvesant to surrender. Dutch rule on the North American continent ended. "After the English capture, nothing further is found on the records concerning Gysbert . . . The tradition is doubtless correct that he went with his children to Narragansett, after the death of Richard Smith Sr. in 1666, to take possession of the lands about Wickford bequeathed to the children of Gysbert's deceased wife Catherine."

Thus began the notable, even glamorous line of Rhode Island Updikes. Gysbert, whose name became Anglicized to Gilbert Updike, was called "Doctor," though he was probably not a physician. "He was well educated; his associations, official positions, reports, even his signature, show this. He must have spoken German from his birth, Dutch from his emigration, and English from his marriage.'

The eldest son of that marriage, Lodowick (b. 1646), laid out the town of Wickford, once called "Updike's New Town"; his son Daniel (b.1694) was tutored at home, visited Barbados and mingled in "the first circles of society on the Island," studied law, married the daughter of Benedict Arnold, and was repeatedly elected Attorney General of the colony.

His son Lodowick (b. 1725) was "regarded in his time as one of the most eminent citizens of Rhode Island. His qualifications were such as fitted him to shine either at the Bar, in political, or in military career. But he preferred the dignity and scholarly leisure of the private life of a large landed proprietor."

The thirty thousand acres of wilderness John Smith had purchased from the Narragansett Sachems in 1639 had become , augmented by marriage and subdued to cultivation, the basis of a plantation society akin to that of the South and like nothing else in the North.

. . . When, a few years ago, I visited Wickford, or North Kingstown as it can be called, the only Updike in the telephone book was an "Updike Laundry" on Route 1; the young woman behind the counter told me that "Updike" was an old name for Wickford, and that nobody of that name worked in the laundry.

Even before the turn of the century, when Charles Wilson Opdyke visited the vicinity of Richard Smth's fabulous holdings, he found the family all but vanished: "A hundred years ago, Wickford contained so many of the names that it was often called 'Updike Town.' Very few of the blood and none of the name now reside there."

The Wightman Bible

The first mention of the Bible was in the will of George[1] Wightman of Quidnessett that was dated 1716 and probated in 1722 in North Kingstown, Rhode Island. It read as follows:

"Item: I give and bequeath to my Grandson George[3] Wightman, the son of my son Daniel Wightman, £10 in money, my silver hat band, gun, and all my wearing clothes, both woolen and linen, my chest also which I bought out of England and my great Bible. "

The remaining custodians of this Bible, in order, were as follows:

COL. GEORGE[4] WIGHTMAN; BORN 1726, DIED 1820.

GEORGE[5] WIGHTMAN (SON); BORN 1756, DIED 1834.

GEORGE[6] WIGHTMAN (SON); BORN 1784, DIED 1841.

ALBERT EMERSON[7] WIGHTMAN (SON); BORN 1810, DIED 1882.

WILLIAM HENRY[7] WIGHTMAN (BROTHER); BORN 1814, DIED 1889.

HORACE SUMNER[8] WIGHTMAN (NEPHEW); BORN 1855, DIED 1929.

JOAN DYER[11] (WIGHTMAN) STRONG (DAUGHTER); BORN 1939.

GEORGE H.[11] WIGHTMAN (cousin); b. 1953.

Horace said, "It came into my possession from my Uncle Henry, who found it hidden under the floor of a house owned by his older brother, Albert, who was a worrying disposition and had the habit of leaving things in various places."

George Henry[9] Wightman (second cousin), 1890-1937, restoring the Bible to the possession of a descendant in the same line bearing the ancestral name of George, wrote in 1948: "Whoever receives my tangible personal property must be very sure to see that my son, George Wightman, receives the old Wightman family Bible."

George[10] Wightman (son), 1912-1978.

Joan Dyer11 Strong (daughter), 1939- ; believing that the Bible should be in the possession of a direct descendant by the name of George, passed the custodianship to George H.[11] Wightman, 1953-

I located the marriage record of Emerson Wolcott, Jr. to Hannah Morse in Barnet, VT 12 Mar 1810. In the Vermont Vital records are listed the births to Emerson and Hannah Wolcott at Charleston, VT the seven oldest brothers and sisters of Melissa Wolcott. The death record for Emerson and Hannah could not be found in the Vermont Vital Records but their cemetery stone in the Bly Hill cemetery near East Charleston, VT has the inscription "Emerson Wolcott Died March 17 1861Æ 83 yrs, 8 mon, 9 day. Hannah, wife of Emerson Wolcott Died Mar 19 1861 Æ 68 yrs, 10 mon 17 day". Therefore the wrong name was given for Mellisa's Mother." Marion M. Glatiotis, 1581 S. Hazel Ct., Denver, CO 80219

Every once in a while Mrs. Ethyln Wightman Whittier of Minneapolis looks through an old calfskin notebook and decides that food rationing, Hitler and even World War II are as transient and fleeting as the butterfly that lives only a summer.

That notebook, tobacco-brown with age and equipped with an archaic clasp, was old when Mrs. Whittier was a babe . . . old when Mrs. Whittier's grandfather was a babe.

IT GOES BACK IN TIME AND OWNERSHIP TO A REMOTE ANCESTOR, JOHN WIGHTMAN, WHO IN 1636 WROTE OUT HIS ACCOUNTS CONCERNING "THREE POUND OF WOOLL, ONE POUND OF TOBAKE, TWO GEES" IN A CRABBED HANDWRITING FULL OF FISHHOOKS, LIKE SHAKESPEARE'S.

Old John must have been a devout man, for on the first page he inscribes the Biblical quotation:

"Come unto me saith Christ all ye that labour and I will give you rest."

He must also have had a taste for spirits, for on the same page is something that looks like a recipe:

4 gallons and a half of mullasas
Two quarts of prunes
3 pounds of shugar
3 gallons of Rum

A century intervenes between John Wightman and a descendant, Timothy Wightman, who in 1743 inscribes his ownership with a flourishing hand, records the marriages in the family, and just as a "filler" throws in some statistics about Spanish possessions in America.

The Wightmans eventually migrated to America, and another century passes. In 1834 Cyrus D. Wightman records that the gift of the book from his father makes him the fifth generation to possess it.

Allen Wightman pens a short-lived journal of his "trip to the West"—and in 1868 a later Wightman, politically minded, pastes into the book a now-yellowed newspaper clipping showing returns in the '68 presidential election. Grant won.

Now more than three centuries old, the notebook gets an occasional notation from the living Wightmans, just to keep the record unbroken.

MRS. WHITTIER fingers through its brown-stained pages, reflects that while individuals die a family is immortal, that 100 years hence a Wightman now unborn, in a strange, crisp handwriting which will make our own look old-fashioned, may be recording the happenings of a Wightman household in 2043 A. D.

Occasionally, too, she looks at the copy of a document signed by James I and ponders the grim fate that overtook one of the earliest Wightmans of record.

In 1611, Edward Wightman was designated as a "blasphemous and condemned heretick" in a royal warrant which commanded the sheriff of Litchfield to "cause the said Edward Wightman to be committed to fire in some public and open place."

Three centuries don't alleviate the cold unforgiving harshness of that decree, and even now Mrs. Whittier experiences a pinprick of horror as she read over that long-forgotten sentence.

There are no heretics among the Wightmans now. And history rolls on for the Wightmans and the rest of our human race. Hitler so far hasn't been mentioned in the Wightman chronicle—probably won't be.

A century from now he will be less remembered, as far as the Wightmans are concerned, than the "oats for my mare" purchased a Landlord Horton's by Allen Wightman on Dec 10, 1771.

INDEX

The first 432 pages of the book were indexed by Mary Ross Whitman. She listed all persons of Wightman, Whitman, Weightman, Whiteman, Whytman, Whightman, or Witeman under the name Wightman. The balance of the names in the book were indexed under the actual spelling and merge into her list. An attempt has been made to distinguish between individuals of the same given name by the use of the father's name in parentheses, and, where necessary, by the addition of generation numbers. No similar attempt has been made to distinguish individuals in the remainder of the index. The married name of females is often clarified by adding the maiden name or father in parentheses. The Wightmal females will have the generation number and married name [usually without the Wightman name added] when they are married.

In a small hollow on the edge of town, a parched oblong wooden grave marker stands as a symbol of the emptiness that only a forgotten life can produce. The oblong piece of wood, an eroded unreadable sandstone marker, or perhaps a sod covered grave indicates where some forgotten person, possibly your ancestor, is laid. That forgotten person could also be you in two or three generations if you don't do something about it. There is nothing worse than being buried in a neglected grave. You might as well be dumped into New York's Potter's Field.

By submitting your name, along with the names of your children, parents, and grandparents, YOUR FAMILY HISTORY will be published in volume two of THE WIGHTMAN ANCESTRY. It will be placed in all of the important libraries in the U.S. The book will be printed on acid free paper that will last for centuries. YOU WILL BE REMEMBERED AND YOUR FAMILY WILL BECOME PART OF HISTORY FOR ETERNITY. Your descendants and relatives will be able to connect their lives to you by just looking into this book at any genealogical research library.

THERE IS NO CHARGE. THE ONLY SACRIFICE IS IN YOUR TIME TO RECORD YOUR FAMILY FOR THE HEREAFTER. THE FACT THAT YOU HAVE READ THIS FAR IS PROOF THAT YOU HAVE THE INTEREST--SO LET'S GET THIS STARTED.

DEATHS

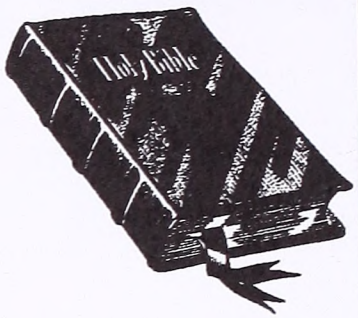
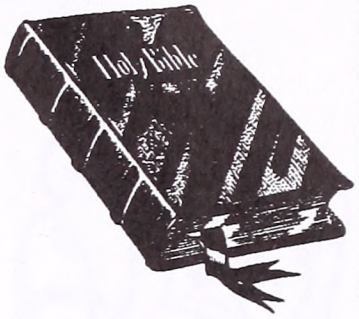
Marcus Antoninus (A.D. 121-180)

DEATHS



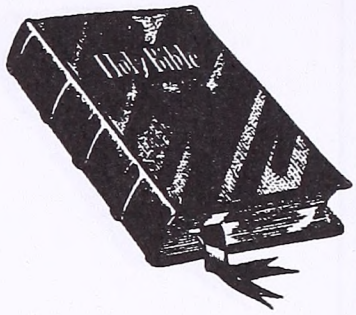
"Never any weary traveller complained that he came too soon to his journey's end."
Thomas Fuller

DEATHS



Make me content
With fading light,
Give me a glorious sunset.
And a peaceful night.
Norman B. Hall

DEATHS



Death's but a path that must be trod,
If man would ever pass to God.
--Thomas Parnell

BIRTHS

The most important thing a father can do for his children is to love their mother.
Rev. Hesburgh, president, Notre Dame Univ., 1963

BIRTHS

"A man is not completely born until he be dead."
--Benjamin Franklin

KEEP UP THE RECORD!

These four words may be more properly placed at the beginning of this family history. As this is read throughout the years, may every reader pause at these words: KEEP UP THE RECORD!

All that is written in this book or elsewhere concerning this truly wonderful family will be forever lost to that person or to that family permitting a link to be broken in the chain of proof, so carefully forged, which connects with the original stock. As the years pass, members of our family will become too numerous, perhaps to be included in two or three volumes; but, it is to be hoped that in each branch some one will embrace the task of keeping a complete record within that branch with an unbroken line of descent.

I have contacted people bearing the name, Wightman, who know nothing of their ancestry beyond their grandparents and my own efforts to connect them with the family have been in vain.

Personally I knew little more of my own family, until just before my retirement in 1981, when I ran across the correspondence and records of my mother who had written down a few family ancestors and their births and deaths.

Generally all have been very generous in lending aid in gathering data. I have received many kind letters for which grateful acknowledgment is made here.

If the work has been hard it has been equally fascinating and truly a labor of love. Many imperfections, no doubt, may be found but I shall have the sweet satisfaction in the knowledge that I have worked unselfishly and without profit other than that afforded by the work itself with its pleasant associations, new kinships and friendships.

Many pleasant contacts, in person or by letter, have been made and these I accept as my compensation. Now that the manuscript is ready for the printer my remaining desire is that it may be so inexpensive that young and old may have a copy. But let me say these last words to the purchaser: for a trifling sum you have bought a priceless souvenir; that which many men of wealth may not buy with all their gold, with all their lands or with all their worldly goods.

After reading a book of this character, one is immediately impressed with the thought that life is short, and in a few years at the most we must draw to a close that great opportunity it has been our privilege to enjoy, the opportunity of doing good to others and leaving this wonderful old world just a little better than we found it.
